NEW DEAL'S OWN WAR HAS SAPPED US, SAYS DEWEY

Hysteria Is Result, He Charges.

Winston Salem, N. C., June 8 [Special].—America's inadequate defense was blamed by Thomas E. Dewey tonight upon the Roosevelt administration's seven year domestic war against the productive forces of the nation.

Thomas E. Dewey.

While the Nazis were regimenting Germany for world conquest, he declared, the New Deal was dividing this country with a war at home. Now, in a state of hysteria and without plan or direction, it is trying to make up in a few months for the mistakes of seven years, Dewey charged.

The candidate for the Republican nomination for President spoke at a mass meeting sponsored by the Young Republicans of North Carolina. His address was broadcast over a radio network.

"Big Stick" Policy.

In meeting the present crisis, President Roosevelt could well have taken a lesson from his illustrious predecessor, Theodore Roosevelt, whose policy was to "speak softly but carry a big stick," Dewey said.

"I wish that advice were being followed in this country today," he declared. "Instead, the present administration appears to have as its motto: 'Speak loudly and often, especially when you are wholly unprepared to back it up'."

Dewey accused President Roosevelt of not being frank with the people of the country when he failed to distinguish in his "fireside chat" the difference between this nation's armaments on hand and those on order. He also declared the President lacked the courage to face the fact of where the money for national defense is coming from.

"If the Democratic party can't be frank with the people, the Republican party can," he said. "The cost of rearmament is going to come out of the pockets of every man, woman, and child in the nation. No nation can live on borrowed money forever."

A Platform of Incompetency.

It is becoming increasingly clear, Dewey charged, that the New Deal intends to use the unfortunate condition to which it has brought the country as an argument for keeping itself in office.

"The American people," he said, "are about to be asked to continue an administration which thrives on internal dissension, which has no regard for government solvency, which promotes incompetents to high office, and which consistently seeks to postpone and conceal the hard realities we must face.

"We see our sister democracies, England and France, desperately struggling for life because their people kept in power for many years governments which, like our own, were ineffective and incompetent. I am confident the American people will not let that happen here."

FOOD PACKAGES NOW MAY GO IN MAIL TO POLAND

BERLIN, June 8.—Food packages weighing up to 44 pounds now can be sent parcel post to individuals in German Poland, John Hartigan, Berlin representative of Herbert Hoover's Polish relief commission, announced today. Hartigan recently returned from a trip to Warsaw where he reached an agreement with officials on the distribution of the supplies of food for Poland's needy.

Distribution already has started in Warsaw and in the districts of Rodom and Lublin. The German Red Cross is helping in the deliveries, which are made to the Polish central committee composed of five Poles, one Jew and one Ukrainian.

TRIBUNE POLLS PUT ROOSEVELT, DEWEY IN LEAD

McNutt and Willkie in Second Places.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

THE TRIBUNE announces today the first Indiana results of a preconvention presidential straw vote now being taken among Republican and Democratic voters in Indiana, Iowa, Michigan, and Minnesota.

The sole purpose of the poll is to ascertain before the national conventions open whom the voters of these four nearby midwest states favor for nomination by the two great parties. Illinois and Wisconsin are not included in the poll because in April they held primaries at which the voters expressed their preferences at the polls.

"Who Is Your Choice?"

"Who is your choice for nomination for President?" is the question on the straws. Eight names are on the Republican ballot, eight on the Democratic. They embrace leading candidates and darkhorses.

The most interesting feature of the early straws was the strength shown by Thomas E. Dewey, New York's gang busting prosecutor, and the vote rolled up in Indiana by Wendell L. Willkie, a native Hoosier. Both are candidates for the Republican nomination.

Tabulate Indiana Straws.

Indiana straws totaling 11,302 were tabulated last night. They were gathered in 36 cities reaching from Gary to Evansville.

In the first tabulation of returns Dewey has 61 per cent of the Republican straw vote in Indiana. Willkie, last man to enter the ring, is in second place with nearly 14 per cent. Willkie is outrunning Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio and Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan. Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio, keynoter at the state convention at Indianapolis May 24 and regarded as a likely darkhorse, has less than 1 per cent.

Other Far Behind.

Others on the ballot, Senator Styles Bridges of New Hampshire, Representative Joseph W. Martin of Massachusetts, Hanford MacNider of Iowa, have less than a handful. The tally:

REPUBLICANS.

Dewey	3,036	61.12%
Willkie	689	13.87%
Taft	680	13.69%
Vandenberg	473	9.52%
Bricker	44	.89%
Bridges	10	.20%
Martin	11	.22%
MacNider	4	.08%
Scattering	20	.41%
	4,967

On the Democratic side, President Roosevelt has 80 per cent of the straws. Paul V. McNutt, ex-governor and federal security administrator, as a "favorite son" draws only a shade under 10 per cent. His name was on top of the ballot. Secretary Cordell Hull has somewhat less than 5 per cent; Vice President Garner a trifle less than 3 per cent. Others on the ballot, Postmaster General James A. Farley, Senator Burton K. Wheeler [Mont.], Senator Bennett Champ Clark [Mo.], and Al Smith got a few straws.

The President's portion of the Democratic straws—80 per cent—is somewhat less than his share in the Illinois preferential primaries in April.

Ahead In Illinois.

In all Illinois in the presidential advisory primary, Roosevelt had 86 per cent of the Democratic vote, and Garner 14 per cent. In downstate Illinois alone, which is a good deal like Indiana, Roosevelt had 83.6 per cent; Garner 16.4. The tally:

DEMOCRATS.

Roosevelt	5,066	79.97%
McNutt	613	9.68%
Hull	304	4.80%
Garner	186	2.94%
Farley	88	1.39%
Wheeler	36	.57%
Clark	14	.22%
	6,335

The Republican vote rolled up for Willkie compared with the Democratic poll for McNutt is interesting. The two Hoosier boys were college mates at Indiana university. On the campus at Bloomington, Willkie got more straw votes than McNutt, former dean of the law school. In Franklin, McNutt's birthplace, Willkie Led. In the 36 cities, Willkie's vote was larger than McNutt's.

Vote $24 Levy on Unionists to Aid 2 Sluggers

Five hundred members of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters' union, No. 638, are being assessed $24 each—a total of $12,000—to provide a defense fund for two business agents who have been found guilty of a slugging and sentenced to 1 to 14 years in prison.

And one of the convicted agents, Harry Hlavacek, 46 years old, is still taking a leading part in running the union. In addition to being a direct beneficiary of the fund, he is also the official in charge of its collection.

Members Protest Levy.

When John J. Pobuda, nominal president of the organization, was asked whether members who have protested the levy could keep from paying, he said he couldn't talk, and "any information about union affairs would have to come from Henry at Berwyn [illegible]08-W."

Henry, it developed, was Hlavacek. Asked last night whether members of the union would get to vote to approve or cut the assessment, Hlavacek, one of the convicted sluggers, replied:

"Don't you know who you are talking to? Do you take me for a chump?"

Father of 6 Beaten.

Joseph Kopke, 37, of 1845 23d place, was the other business agent convicted. The two men are now at liberty on bonds of $7,500 each while an appeal is being carried on. Testimony at their trial in April showed they had beaten Czeslaw Mikolajczyk, 51, a former union member who is the father of six children.

At the time of the assault he was working as a porter in a butcher shop at 3710 West 26th street. He testified that the pair found him in a back room, and that both kicked and slugged him after Kopke threatened him with a pistol. Other witnesses testified to seeing the porter hurled head first out of the back room.

Both business agents testified they had only acted in self-defense when Mikolajczyk threatened them with a shovel. The porter denied this. He has sued Hlavacek and Kopke along with four other union officials, including Pobuda, for $30,000 damages as a result of the attack.

A PROPHET'S WHISKER ON A ROOFTOP BEARDS MR. BABBITT'S BEES

The thousands of bees that descended Wednesday on the home of Robert Babbitt at 2501 Elm avenue, Evanston, were gone last night. For this Babbitt gave thanks to Robert Stewart, who is a divinity student in the Evanston Collegiate institute and a clerk in a hardware store.

Babbitt told Stewart of his predicament while buying some new screens. He told how the swarm had settled in his chimney and how he had to keep a fire burning in 92 degree heat to prevent the bees from taking over his living room. Stewart, who learned about beekeeping in Ripley, N. Y., volunteered to straighten things out.

He took a whiskbroom, a paper funnel, and a gunny sack to the Babbitt roof. With the broom he swept the bees thru the funnel and into the sack. It was that easy. "Bees like me," Stewart explained.

BRITAIN TO WARN PEOPLE HOW TO ACT IF INVADED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 8.—Leaflets shortly will be issued by the government to every householder in Britain telling him how to behave if he hears over the radio that Britain has been invaded.

Lessons learned in Flanders when refugees blocked the roads during the German advance and seriously impeded allied military operations have been studied and plans drawn up to prevent a similar disorganization in Britain.

A wholesale ban on sign boards all over the country is being considered as a further measure against parachutists. It may be decided to remove even shop names, boards in churchyards, and tavern signs where the tavern takes the name of the village in which it is situated.

Army Recruiting Lagging in Center of War Agitation

New York, June 8 [Special].—Enlistment figures for the 2d corps area [New York, New Jersey, and Delaware] revealed today that less than one-quarter of the recruiting quota has been filled in this area, which is the center of agitation for entry into the European war. The recruiting drive is at the halfway mark.

Join the Army! Reliefers Told by New Jersey

Trenton, N. J., June 8 [Special].—Arthur Mudd, state director of relief, today issued an order directing that New Jersey deny relief assistance to single men who are eligible for military service.

In a surprise bulletin outlining his plan, which is one of the most drastic yet broached in the east, Mudd instructed all subordinate state relief officers to make a state-wide survey of such possible army recruits. The order was viewed as one likely to become the subject of study and controversy far beyond the boundaries of New Jersey.

"A Patriotic Duty."

"We know," Mudd said in his bulletin, "that there are today ample opportunities for citizens to enlist in the armed forces of our country, and it is a patriotic duty, particularly for those receiving assistance, to enlist. Relief directors should be advised to refuse relief to single persons eligible for military service and to require unmarried persons in relief families to enlist."

Mudd wrote that the practice of requiring military service of relief clients would be consistent with the principle requiring able bodied persons to accept "whatever employment is available."

Mudd said tonight that he had not intended the memorandum for publication, but only as an interoffice communication. However, he said he did not regret that it had been made public.

Explains His Reasons.

"I issued the memorandum only after thinking the matter over for a long time," he explained. "It certainly seems to me that it isn't asking too much of single relief clients to serve their country. It isn't as if we are asking them to go to Europe.

"As long as they are living on the public bounty, it is my belief that they should do something for the state."

Mudd said, incidentally, that he was a strong believer in compulsory military training for the youth of the nation. "There is no question but that the discipline would do them good," he said, "and that such training would aid in their development and in the protection of their country. I have three sons of my own and I would favor it just as much for them as for any one else."

3,500 TANKS USED IN PUSH; FOE 48 MILES FROM PARIS

TELL HOW CHUTE TROOPS HELP TO RIP ENEMY LINE

BY GUY MURCHIE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 8.—Germany's use of parachute and air transport troops is now recognized as one of the serious problems with which defense authorities must cope. French and British military authorities have already organized large numbers of first class troops to back up their newly trained "parashooters" and are taking up steps to meet this method of attack in the rear.

I have obtained new facts concerning Germany's use of parachute and air transport troops and the manner in which she protects her aviation from enemy bombers by building underground hangars. The operations of parachute troops were discussed by an observer who was in Berlin before the war. He received from the Germans an explanation of their tactics and saw their pictures of the new offensive arm. In addition, the German army magazine, Die Wehrmacht, in its issue of January-February, 1939, published drawings and descriptions illustrating an attack problem. From a witness who saw them built come the facts about the Nazis' underground hangars.

Planes Open Parachutes.

In operations since the war was opened the Germans are reported to have dropped from low altitudes, using a quick opening device to snap open their parachutes. This is made possible by the use of a cord some 20 feet long connected to the inside roof of the plane. When a man jumps this cord is paid out and its end pulls out the top of the parachute, finally snapping off when the man is actually dangling from the open chute. This eliminates the need of the jumper pulling a ripcord and practically guarantees the immediate opening of the parachute. In enables men to be dropped within 400 feet of the ground and makes it more certain they will land on the desired spot. The time from plane to the ground is less than 10 seconds, making it difficult for foes to shoot the men descending.

Aid Attack on Foes' Line.

Apart from using this method to drop spies, saboteurs, islands of resistance, and troops to occupy fields on which transport troops planes can be landed later, parachute troops have a place in an attack on entrenched or well fortified positions. How this may be done was told by Die Wehrmacht as follows:

The Germans are facing the enemy in a position beyond a small river, with the enemy entrenched in a sloping hillside beyond the bank, of a stream. Enemy howitzers are placed behind a ridge of hills, with ammunition and supply depots farther back protected by antiaircraft guns on fairly level ground. Because the

BY ALEX SMALL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, June 8.—The French army retreated tonight along a 60 mile front under the pounding of 1,000,000 of Adolf Hitler's finest foot soldiers and 3,500 of his most powerful tanks.

The struggle now raging to the south of the Somme and the Aisne rivers was described by a French spokesman as "the greatest battle in history in regard to the number of combatants and the quantity of the material involved." It made even the vast operations in the battle of Flanders appear insignificant in comparison.

The German onslaught reached its greatest ferocity in the center of the front, where reserves were brought up in the Oise river valley—the route to Paris—and hurled into the battle in the region of Roye and Noyon. This sector is only 48 miles from the French capital.

Line of Withdrawal.

The French retreat, started last night with the withdrawal of advance units, continued today from Aumale on the west to Noyon in the center. A French military spokesman called it a "retirement maneuver." The Germans were suffering "tremendous losses," he said, and the main French line was declared unbroken.

The Germans hurled 20 absolutely fresh infantry divisions and seven fresh armored divisions into the struggle. Their attack in the center was accompanied by a powerful assault on the eastern end of the front, where the Germans succeeded in gaining a foothold on the heights south of the Aisne. The French immediately counterattacked.

On the western end of the front, an armada of between 200 and 300 tanks drove across the Bresle river and reached Forges-les-Eaux. These tanks, however, were reported being pounded to pieces by French artillery and cannon fired from fast flying pursuit planes.

Extremely Dented Line.

The war office spokesman made no effort to conceal the seriousness of the situation. He described the present aspect of the line as "extremely dented." At the same time he pointed out that it is wrong to think of this battle in terms of the last war. Today there is no "front" in the same sense as there was then, he said.

"The battle continued, lasting all day on the entire front between the sea and the Chemin-des-Dames. West of the Oise the enemy, diminishing their pressure on the lower Bresle, concentrated their effort on a vast front between Aumale and Noyon.

Powerful Artillery Fire.

"Their infantry divisions formerly in the rear entered the line, reënforced by powerful artillery. They added their fire to that of armored divisions engaged in the preceding days. More than 20 fresh divisions entered the struggle besides seven armored divisions engaged the day before.

"Our divisions could not limit the progress of this effort, out of proportion to their own effectives, except by maneuvering in retreat in a prescribed direction. All reports agree that they inflicted on the enemy considerable losses.

"East of the Oise the battle also was accentuated. They [the Germans] threw new divisions into the battle and sent in armored machines. These new forces were permitted to take foot widely on the heights south of the Aisne.

Resist Foot by Foot.

One battery of this group, commanded by Capt. Candelle, destroyed alone 19. Another artillery group, commanded by Commandant Gunen, attacked at a distance of 100 meters by tanks, destroyed 17.

"Intense activity of our aviation, which during the day continued with the greatest vigor harassing the enemy. Armored machines were attacked anew with cannon, more airfields were bombed, convoys on roads hit and dispersed.

"Early this afternoon more than 150 planes, protected by French and British pursuit planes, launched an enormous tonnage of bombs on enemy columns and concentrations. A squadron of the naval air force during the night of June 7 bombed certain factories in suburbs of Berlin. All our planes returned to their base."

In the central sector alone the Germans were estimated to have used half a million men. Starting at dawn, after dive bombers, artillery, and tanks had opened the way, the Nazi infantry charged, each man holding the shoulder of the man before him. The French were outnumbered in infantry.

Use Many More Tanks.

The battle raged with varying intensity all along the new, shortened 110 mile front from the sea to the Aisne. The number of tanks used was far larger than those employed in the battle of the Meuse, when the Germans broke thru to the sea early in their western drive.

But still ahead of the Germans and their rolling fortresses stretched a field of barriers all the way to Paris.

The action nearest the capital was in Gen. Weygand's thick and heavy center line. The fighting raged on both banks of the Oise. It was especially frightful in the deep shadow of the Ourscamp forest south of Noyon.

The bulk of the French infantry and world famous artillery still stood intact against the pounding of German tanks and dive bombers. Too, it was disclosed for the first time that Polish artillery had joined the defenders.

An air ministry communique announced German pontoon bridges over the Somme were destroyed last night and that German reënforcements were dispersed. One pursuit squadron was reported to have attacked a German tank park and to have destroyed a "considerable number" of machines.

British Bomb German Troops.

LONDON, June 8 (AP).—The British air force bombed German troop concentrations at Abbeville thruout yesterday and last night and attacked "military objectives" in northwest Germany, the air ministry announced tonight.

The ministry said the railhead at Hirson and the air field at Abbeville were damaged. Seventeen German planes were reported destroyed by royal air force fighters yesterday. Thirteen British planes were said to be missing.

A supplementary statement by the ministry said German troop concentrations and mechanized columns to the immediate rear of the battlefront between Le Treport and Amiens "were subjected to repeated attacks at short intervals" by waves of aircraft.

Drop 800 Bombs in 3 Minutes.

It added that "road and rail communications in the back area were systematically bombed and towns and villages in which troops were massing were wrecked and set ablaze. At Araines, which the enemy converted into a vast military encampment, over 800 high explosive and incendiary bombs were dropped within a period of three minutes."

The statement said direct hits were registered in the center of Vismes and that houses were demolished by bombs to block strategic roads near Miannay.

Canada Keeps Close Watch on Italian Communities

OTTAWA, Ont., June 8 [Special].—Expecting the immediate entry of Italy into the war as German's ally, Canadian authorities are keeping a vigilant watch upon Italian communities. There is said to exist in Montreal an active Fascist group backed by wealthy resident Italians. Their leaders are presumed to be in constant communication with Rome.

Washington, D. C., June 8 (AP).—The civil service commission said today that government employment increased 13,300 in April largely as a result of defense activity. Employés in the executive branch numbered 959,146 at the end of that month.

PARIS IS RAIDED AGAIN; REPORT BERLIN BOMBED

Factories Attacked, Say French.

PARIS, June 8 (AP).—Antiaircraft guns thundered into action in the Paris area tonight for the third sucsuccessive night. No raid alarms were rounded, however, and the firing soon died out.

The guns were heard shortly before midnight, with the firing much heavier than on the two previous nights. Bombings were reported near Paris last night and the night before.

Bombed Berlin, Say French.

Berlin, repeatedly scouted by allied planes and showered with propaganda leaflets since the start of the war, suffered its first bombardment last night, when a squadron of naval bombers attacked factories in the suburbs of the German capital, the French ministry of marine announced.

The French communique said:

"A squadron of navy aviation bombarded on the night of June 7 certain factories in the outskirts of Berlin. All planes returned to their bases."

A ministry spokesman said he did not believe American made bombers were used.

Doubts Use of American Planes.

A ministry spokesman said he did not believe American made bombers were used.

French reprisal raids already had been made on Frankfort and Munich since the German bombing that caused almost 1,000 casualties in Paris last Monday.

The French denied officially German reports that the French channel ports of Cherbourg and Le Havre had been destroyed by German bombers. They said only a few bombs were dropped.

BERLIN DENIES BOMBING

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, June 8.—Correspondents who have the German government's permission to listen to foreign radio stations were surprised to hear the allies announce today that French naval planes bombed Berlin suburbs last night.

No sign of such a raid could be detected in Berlin, and correspondents were unable to find any one who had heard bombs exploding or defense guns shooting.

An official Nazi spokesman declared there was no truth in the French report of the bombing.

Bombs Kill 10 Civilians.

A communique said air raids on Germany by allied planes caused little material damage last night. In one city the residential section was hit and 10 civilians killed. Allied air losses for yesterday were put at 71.

German bombers carried out attacks in the Narvik, Norway, area, where gasoline tanks were set afire and two bomb hits scored upon an allied cruiser.

Dover and a number of British air fields were raided by German bombers, the communique said.

Plane Raids English Coast.

A SOUTHEAST ENGLISH TOWN, June 8 (AP).—A German raiding plane and a British ground crew engaged in a spectacular duel in the glare of searchlights late tonight while thousands of townspeople looked on. The plane escaped seaward.

Marines' Limit

Philadelphia, Pa., June 8 [Special].—A member of the United States Marine corps may not wear a shoe larger than a No. 12, F last. In order to impress this regulation visually on prospective recruits, Recruiting Sergeant William Black posed today, wearing 12-F shoes. "If you wear this size or a smaller shoe and would like to see the world, step right into the recruiting station," said the sergeant. When you get inside, tho, you'll learn that there are other requirements.

DEMANDS PEPPER TALK BE BANNED AT FLAG DAY FETE

Capt. William J. Grace, past Illinois department commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, demanded yesterday that the Chicago Committee for Flag Day Celebration, which plans a huge celebration in Grant Park Wednesday night, withdraw its invitation to Senator Claude S. Pepper [D., Fla.] to be the principal speaker.

In a letter addressed to Judge Oscar S. Caplan, committee chairman, Grace said, "Senator Pepper's speeches and actions in the senate stamp him as one of the leading sixth column internationalists in the United States. His war-mongering attitude is entirely misrepresentative of American public opinion.

"American holidays should be occasions for a denunciation of subversive activities, not only of the unfortunate groups that compose the fifth column, but also of the pseudo-intellectuals and Anglophiles who compose the more dangerous sixth column. We must deny places of honor on patriotic programs to the sixth columnists, as typified by Senator Pepper, who are working to reenact the crucifixion of new thousands of American soldiers."

CARINTHIA, ONCE CRUISE LINER, SUNK BY U-BOAT

Four Killed as British Ship Is Torpedoed.

LONDON, June 8 (AP).—The sinking of the armed merchant cruiser Carinthia, a 20,277 ton former Cunard-White Star liner popular with Americans as a world cruise ship before the war, was announced tonight by the admiralty.

Two officers and two seamen were killed when the ship, one of 50 merchant cruisers in the British fleet, was torpedoed by a U-boat. Other officers and the crew were saved. In peacetime the crew was 405.

200 of Crew Landed.

More than 200 of the crew were landed at a British port by a warship. One hundred more were expected on a second rescue ship. The crew said the Carinthia remained afloat for some time, but that two warships failed in an attempt to tow her to port.

The admiralty did not say where the Carinthia, a twin-screw vessel built in 1925 and long in trans-Atlantic service, had been attacked.

The Germans announced a few hours earlier that a "14,000 ton auxiliary cruiser" had been sunk off the northwest coast of Ireland.

Second of Type Sunk.

The Carinthia was the second and largest British armed merchant cruiser sunk in the war. The Rawalpindi, 16,697 tons, was lost last Nov. 23 with 280 of her personnel after an attack by the German pocket battleship Deutschland off Ireland.

A sister ship of the Samaria, the Carinthia was 600 feet long, had a 73 foot beam. Her captain was J. F. B. Barrett.

The Carinthia was in the New York to England passenger service before the war started. She left New York on Sept. 3, the day the war began.

During a world cruise in 1926, the liner, 10,000 miles distant in New Zealand, exchanged New Year's greetings with the Associated Press at New York City by radio. This was considered an extraordinary communications feat.

The British navy press section reported that a U-boat commander and his crew, after torpedoing a British merchant vessel on May 27, watched the crew of 36 struggling in the water for half an hour before leaving the helpless seamen to their fate. The press statement said all but five perished before a neutral steamer arrived 24 hours later.

The U-boat commander, the statement charged, drove his craft among the men struggling in the water "to ask survivors the name of their ship and to give members of his crew an opportunity to take photographs of his unfortunate victims."

ALLIED FAILURE BLAMED ON USE OF 1918 TECHNIC

Lessons of War in Poland Go Unheeded.

BY E. R. NODERER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, June 8.—The failure of the British and French to offer serious resistance to the German drive to the English channel may be attributed in a large measure to the continued use of world war technique by the allied armies, according to neutral military observers in Berlin.

This was the impression also gained by the Tribunte correspondent in a week's swing thru Belgium and northern France as far west as Calais, Boulogne and Dunkirk.

Fundamentally, the allies appear to lack sufficient weapons powerful enough to withstand assault by German tanks, Stukas [dive bombers], and mechanized infantry. But from Liege to the French coast there was evidence everywhere that the allies also had failed to grasp the principles of the new blitzkrieg sufficiently to form a defense against it.

Dig Trenches in Fields.

In many sections the allies attempted to hold the Germans by digging trenches in open fields after the world war fashion. These had dugouts protected by a foot of earth over a piece of sheet iron and proved no defense against German bombers and artillery.

The allies appear to have learned little from the German air war in Poland. Time after time I saw scores —even hundreds—of demolished British and French trucks and motor cars parked in squares in open fields where they fell easy prey to German bombing attacks.

Tanks and ammunition likewise were exposed. The German technique in this respect was demonstrated by the drivers of the six cars in the correspondents' caravan. Every time we halted the caravan broke up and each car was parked in the shadow of a tree or building where it would be difficult to spot from the air. German vehicles in use near the front were usually camouflaged with branches of trees.

Go Around Road Junctions.

As a defense against the invader's tanks, the French had mined their highways and placed antitank guns in position at important road junctions. But the German tanks did not use the highways. They took to the fields and many times encircle villages to surprise the French from the rear.

One of the most effective techniques employed by the Germans was the use of dive bombers in conjunction with tank and infantry attacks. This strategy was ignored by the British to a large extent, judging from conversations I had with British prisoners.

A minor but perhaps significant indication of the degree of British unpreparedness may be seen in some papers I picked up in Bergues, a town six miles from Dunkirk.

They were "general routine orders" issued by Viscount Gort, commander in chief of the British expeditionary force. Folded inside one of the orders was a typewritten slip which read: "General routine orders issued 65, 66, 68, and 71 to 79 inclusive are temporarily out of print. Copies will be forwarded as soon as available."

Like a Deadly Grasshopper.

The blitzkrieg, altho it struck with shattering thoroness, did not devastate the entire countryside as did the world war battles. It hopped over the country like a deadly grasshopper, smashing down now on a crossroads and again on a railroad station or village shelled by the enemy.

For the most part the war has been fought on the roads and in the towns and cities. Few roads have been destroyed by German bombs. I was told by a German officer that there were two reasons for this. The first was that the Germans needed the roads themselves for their advance and did not want them full of such obstacles as bomb craters.

The second was that experience had shown them that a bomb dropped beside a read would scatter death and destruction over a greater area than one dropped directly on the middle of a column where the shock would largely be absorbed by a few vehicles at the point of impact.

German planes used their machine guns on enemy truck caravans with great effectiveness, judging by the number of such vehicles which had run off the roads and crashed into trees, many of them bearing dozens of bullet holes.

From the thousands of British and French trucks, automobiles, armored cars, and tanks wrecked and abandoned undamaged along the road, I gained the impression that while mechanization may be a great asset to an advancing army, it is likely to be a severe handicap to a retreating force. Instead of speeding the retreat, it may well make retreat almost impossible.

This was obviously the case in northern France where the Germans, by attacking the heads of columns from the air, blocked the roads with wreckage and forced the allies to abandon their vehicles.

Many of these abandoned allied trucks now are being used by the Germans to transport their own troops and supplies.

No Evidence of Oil Shortage.

If the Germans are facing a gasoline shortage there is no evidence of it at present in France or Belgium. I was far to the front before I saw any infantry on foot. Trucks with trailers of moving van size jammed the roads hour after hour in an unceasing flow bearing troops and supplies. Guns are pulled by tractors carrying their crews, and motorcycle troops are everywhere to be seen.

Transports and other types of planes roar overhead and tanks and armored cars rattle by constantly, consuming daily what must be an enormous amount of gasoline and oil.

German Trade—Pro and Con

[Copyright: 1940: By the New York Times.]

VIENNA, June 8.—Germany's commercial position in southeast Europe, is much stronger than when Britain and France went to war with her last September, the newspaper Neuigkeits Weltblatt said in an article today. The newspaper summarized the situation as follows:

Jugo-Slavia only a few days ago renewed a trade and payment agreement that has been satisfactory to both parties for years. German-Greek negotiations are now under way and promise well. In Sofia a Bulgarian-German government committee has held its first meeting and removed payment difficulties that tended to hamper trade.

Turkey has finally decided she cannot sacrifice German markets and therefore has permitted exporters to effect compensation arrangements with Germany. Despite British efforts Rumania continues to deliver to Germany goods covered in prewar agreements, and hence trade in both directions functions normally.

LONDON, June 8 (AP).—Dr. Hugh Dalton, minister of economic warfare, told the British people in a broadcast tonight that "streaks of shortage are spreading like welts across the economic body of Germany." Britain's economic warfare, Dr. Dalton said, is forcing Germans to live on accumulated stocks and "in this colossal effort she is expending them, eating into them at a tremendous rate.

"She can never replace them now and stocks that Hitler has stolen by his marauding expeditions in Denmark, Norway, and the Low Countries are very small compared with his vast needs."

Hitler "may plunder enough from the enslaved little countries to feed his hungry people during this summer," Dr. Dalton said, "but as summer turns into autumn he begins to lose many of the normal exports from these countries into Germany."

The allies have virtually cut off the Germans from rubber, ferro-alloys, oilseeds, cotton and wool, all key war supplies, Dr. Dalton said.

Sentries Foil Argentina Arsenal Raid; 4 Seized

BUENOS AIRES, June 8 (AP).—Four persons were arrested after sentinels foiled an attempt to loot the powder magazine of the 1st infantry regiment on the outskirts of Buenos Aires, a war department communique disclosed tonight.

GERMANS MAKE NEW ADVANCES IN PUSH ON PARIS

Reach Key Point on West End of Front.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, June 8.—On the fourth day of the German drive to Paris, one tong of a German pincer is reaching out for the French capital to encircle it from the west.

The laconic German war communique merely stated that "the operations south of the Somme and the Oise-Aisne canal are proceeding successfully. South of the lower Somme the enemy also was pushed back." The French themselves admit that a German tank force penetrated to Forges-les-Eaux, 55 miles northwest of Paris.

Forges-les-Eaux, an important crossways, lies 25 miles northwest of Rouen and 60 miles east of the French naval base at Le Havre. To reach it the German forces starting their drive from the Somme had to cover 35 miles of hotly contested ground. They had to cross two formidable barriers on their way, the Bresle and Bethune rivers, both of which flow into the English channel.

Dive Bombers Active.

Since the Germans have not yet officially confirmed the capture of Forges-les-Eaux, it may be assumed that the "speed divisions" which follow in the wake of the German tanks have not yet arrived there to secure it against counterattacks.

Stukas [dive bombers] coöperated again with the German land forces in the battle for France. A number of French 32 ton tanks are said to have been destroyed by Stuka bombs.

French troop concentrations, supply columns, artillery and infantry positions also were bombed by the Germans.

Hard fighting is proceeding on both sides of the Oise river and along the Aisne. According to an unconfirmed report, Soissons fell into German hands.

The number of prisoners taken at Dunkirk has risen to 88,000, according to today's communique. This brings the total of French and British prisoners taken in the Flanders pocket to 418,000. This figure does not include the Belgian army.

Strong allied forces captured at Dunkirk proved, according to the German view, that the allies intended to hold Dunkirk as a bridgehead for future operations.

In their advance on the French capital, the German troops have long since passed Crepy, to the west of Laon, where Big Berthas started to fire on Paris in March, 1918. The emplacements for those monster guns still are in the woods of Crepy.

Ahead of Schedule.

Germans declare the Nazi juggernaut is breaking the French line at will and pushing down upon Paris ahead of schedule.

Gains were claimed for four big thrusts, supported by plunging dive bombers and great arrays of tanks.

Adolph Hitler's own newspaper, Volkischer Beobachter, listed the drives and their objectives as:

Southwest from Abbeville over the Bresle river toward Le Havre, extending Germany's grip on the northwestern coast of Europe from the Arctic Circle in Norway to south of the mouth of the Somme.

South from Amiens.

South from Perrone.

South from the Oise-Aisne canal.

The last three drives are designed to merge into one smashing punch at Paris.

6,000 OF EGYPT'S CHILDREN, AGED MOVED INLAND

Get Ready to Ration Food and Oil.

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt, June 8 (AP)—The Egyptian government today suddenly sent 6,000 children and aged men and women from Alexandria to the interior as a widespread war move in the Mediterranean was believed imminent.

Soldiers and police visited hundreds of homes here shortly after dawn and ordered an immediate evacuation by special trains.

Earlier, the government announced that 10,000,000 food ration cards had been ordered and that it was preparing to ration petroleum in the near future.

Study Food Supplies.

Special committees, it was disclosed, already are determining what food supplies may be rationed. Many thousands of sacks of flour already are stored here for emergency use.

Egypt already has made extensive military preparations to meet any contingency. Measures have been taken to strengthen the nation's armed forces and blackouts have been practiced in major population centers.

Round Up 5th Column.

Plans already are complete for the evacuation of other civilian populations from coastal areas, and hundreds of "fifth column" suspects have been rounded up by police and marched off to concentration camps.

A great British-French battle fleet, the largest allied naval force ever concentrated in the eastern Mediterranean, has been based here for several weeks.

French Call on Motorcycle Racers to Chase 'Chutists'

PARIS, June 8 (AP).—Paris appealed today to motorcyclists with racing experience to join a special corps of crack parachutist chasers. The city's 110 motorcycle police will serve as a basis for the corps, which will be armed with regulation automatics firing 32 rounds in 10 seconds.

Moslems Pledge Aid to Allies in War; Leader Sees Victory

BY B. NOON.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BEIRUT, Syria, May 26th [By air mail].—Widespread speculation on the attitude of the Moslems of Lebanon and Syria toward the allies in the war was ended here recently when the Mufti, religious head of Islam, said the Moslems were wholeheartedly for Britain and France and believed they will triumph.

The Mufti said, "The Moslem community cannot but wish from all our hearts the success of the allies, those who have proved during the period of mandate in Syria and Lebanon their respect for the various religious traditions and feelings of Islam.

Giving All Possible Help.

"The attitude of the Moslems towards the allies has been expressed by me in my capacity of supreme religious chief of the Islamic community to both M. Gabriel Puaux, French high commissioner, and Gen. Maxime Weygand [then commander in-chief of the French army in the middle east].

"I made it clear to the representatives of the French government that the Arabs, who have been on the side of the allies during the great war of 1914-'18, now also put themselves at the disposal of the French authorities for every possible assistance they can give the allies in their struggle against the aggressors."

Predicts Victory for Allies.

Asked whether he thought this war would last long, the Mufti replied: "Whether it will last long or not, I cannot tell, but what I am sure of is that every particular Moslem and Arab wishes from all his heart that the allies will be victorious."

The Mufti concluded with a further prediction of an allied victory. "Wars are usually won by money, high morale, and harmony among the army, and the allies are famous for all these qualifications, while the Germans are short of such privileges," he said.

Nazi Submarine Rescues 3 Flyers Downed Off Britain

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, June 8.—Three members of the crew of a German Dornier hydroplane, shot down at seat near England last Thursday, were rescued by a German submarine "despite the danger of attack from the air," it was announced today. The commanding officer of the plane had been killed. One of the survivors taken aboard the submarine was wounded.

SEA POWER OVER GERMANY GROWS, BRITAIN BOASTS

Claim Navy Still Holds Edge Against Planes.

BY JOSEPH CERUTTI.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 8.—An official British reply was issued today to German claims of huge losses alleged to have been inflicted upon Britain's navy by the German air force, submarines and mines since the war broke out.

The balance of naval strength in favor of the allies is now greater than at the outbreak of the war, it was declared, while the German navy has suffered destruction of a high proportion of its effectives. The German air force, the statement adds, "has signally failed to annul the decisive advantages conferred" by allied sea power.

The statement said:

"Since the beginning of the war, in addition to reënforcements of warships in all classes except battleships, the navy has been strengthened by more than 50 armed marchant cruisers and more than 1,500 minor war vessels and auxiliary craft, of which 58 have been lost.

"The French navy is a powerful and rapidly growing force.

"The allied fleets have been reënforced by active coöperation of Polish, Norwegian, and Dutch naval forces.

More Reënforcements Ahead.

"During the next few months the royal navy will receive a further large increase in strength, comprising every category of warship from battleships to motor torpedo boats, and a large number of auxiliary craft."

The statement listed the following losses: One of 15 capital ships; one of seven aircraft carriers; two of 62 cruisers; 20 of 185 destroyers; eight of 58 submarines, and six of 108 minesweepers, sloops, patrol vessels, and gunboats.

The statement said nearly a million tons of warships are being built in British shipyards, and "the contrast between German naval weakness and the great and growing strength of the allied navies has apparently alarmed the German high command."

Charges Navy Still Rules.

"This anxiety is shown by German efforts to convince neutral opinion, by constant issue of groundless claims of naval sinkings, that German air power has achieved spectacular ascendancy over British naval power," the statement said.

"Concentrated air power in close proximity to its own airdromes can inflict losses on the less strongly armored naval units. It has signally failed, however, to annul the decisive advantages conferred by sea power."

LEAP DEATH HELD SUICIDE.

ITALIANS WARN: BOMB US, WE'LL ANSWER 5 FOR 1

Predict Entrance Into War Next Week.

ROME, June 8 (AP).—A pointed warning that five English cities would be bombed for every Italian city attacked by allied bombers in the event Italy enters the war was published today by the Rome newspaper Il Giornale d'Italia while foreign observers were expressing belief Italy would enter the conflict next week.

To reports that the British and French plan to bombard Italian centers if this nation entered the war against them, the newspaper said:

Rome May Be Open City.

Bombardment of Rome would be the signal for "similar but greater bombardment of London," the newspaper added.

However, Rome was considered here to be fairly safe from attack, with the Italians prepared to make it an open city by removing government offices, troops, and aircraft.

Some observers heard that an Italian attack on their first secret objective would come in the early hours next Monday but a source considered reliable indicated it probably would be later, possibly Thursday or Friday night.

Altho only Mussolini and possibly his axis partner, Adolf Hitler, are supposed to know the date of the expected entry into the war, confidence that Italy has closed her last week as a nonbelligerent nation in this war was based on impressions in Italian circles as well as war preparations which appear to be complete.

Cut Ocean Air Service.

Italian air service to South America was placed on a basis of one round trip each month instead of each week, presumably as a war precaution. Departures are to be secret.

Italians took great notice of what newspapers described as "the growing agitation for American intervention" in the war. But Fascists in government circles as well as newspapers continued to scout the idea that the United States would be able to give Britain and France effective aid in time.

One Fascist authority volunteered the belief that the Germans would crack the Weygand line in France within a few days and then would be ready to attack London.

After the European continent came under the control of Germany and Italy, he said, there would be no place for American troops to land.

In the midst of the war talk, Vatican authorities said Vatican City would be closed to the public as a precaution except for Pope Pius' audiences on Wednesdays.

100,000 BELGIAN REFUGEES PUT TO WORK IN FRANCE

Take Over Jobs on Farms and in Factories.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, June 8.—France is organizing the multitude of Belgian refugees who fled over the border during the German invasion and is putting them to work. It is hoped that instead of proving a burden the refugees soon will represent an important asset on the economic war front.

M. Balthazar, Belgian minister of labor, said today that more than 100,000 Belgian refugees already are working in French factories and on farms. Most of them are skilled workers and are fully qualified to replace Frenchmen now in the army.

Subject to Labor Laws.

The Belgians are subject to French labor laws and will work the same hours and draw the same pay as French workers.

Balthazar said he hoped it would be possible to "make an arrangement with the United States to insure food supplies for the Belgians in France as well as for those in need in occupied Belgium."

Sent to Southern Section.

The entire department of Ardeche in south central France has been transformed into a vast camp for the refugees.

More than 50,000 men, women and children have been distributed in towns and villages of this district which has only 200,000 inhabitants.

The inhabitants praised the refugees, who they reported are willing and eager to work. They contrasted the Belgians with Spanish Republican refugees who also were quartered in the Ardeche department. The Spaniards, they said, did nothing but loaf, eat and drink.

Prepare Gray Book.

[Copyright: 1940: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, June 8.—A "gray book" consisting of diplomatic documents relating to events preceding the invasion of Belgium and telling the full story of King Leopold's capitulation to the Germans has been prepared by the refugee Belgian government, it was learned today. The government, headed by Premier Hubert Pierlot, today held its first regular session at Poitiers.

It was not revealed when the "gray book" will be published.

King Leopold is said to have formed a cabinet including Gen. Van Overstraeten and M. De Man, former Socialist leader. He has issued a proclamation, it was said, denouncing the Pierlot government as a "cabinet of fugitives."

Gen. Van Overstraeten, who is known officially as the king's military counsellor, has been branded by Belgians here as "traitor in chief." It is charged he engineered the capitulation.

Rally Today to Raise Funds for Wounded Czech Soldiers

A rally to raise funds for refugees and to buy medical supplies for wounded Czech soldiers will be held this afternoon in Pilsen park, 26th street and Albany avenue, by the Czech American National alliance. John A. Cervenka, honorary president, will be chairman. The central executive committee of the organization yesterday urged all possible aid for the allies short of armed intervention.

CHINESE GENERAL SLAIN IN BATTLE, JAPANESE CLAIM

HONGKONG, June 8 (AP).—Japanese military dispatches reported today that Chinese Gen. Sun Cheng had been killed in action in Hupeh province, where a battle is progressing for possession of the Yangtze river treaty ports of Ichang and Shasi.

The Japanese also reported that another Chinese general, Liu Ching-min, had been seriously wounded.

Japanese reports said yesterday they had captured all points forming the outer ring of defenses for Ichang and Shasi.

TELL HOW CHUTE TROOPS HELP TO RIP FOE'S FRONT

Underground Hangars of Nazis Described.

bridge over the river has been destroyed by the enemy and because the enemy howitzers command the river area, it is almost hopeless to try to send armored lorries [trucks] to the river with materials to build a bridge to enable a crossing and rushing the enemy defenses.

Waves of Bombers Attack.

Therefore, the Germans attack first with sudden intense dive bombing raids on the enemy antiaircraft guns behind the enemy lines. Within a few minutes waves of bombers drop hundreds of bombs around the guns. The bombs are fused to explode at varying times, some on contact and some at intervals for the next 15 minutes. As the gunners are not protected by gunshields or turrets, they must duck to shelter. While the bombs still are exploding other aircraft dive in low, raking the positions with machine gun fire, thereby stealing the initiative from the defenders of the back area.

Transport troop planes then swoop down and the parachutists land by the time the bombs have stopped exploding. The parachuters get out of their parachutes by unsnapping a quick release gear as soon as they feel the touch of the ground, and immediately use automatic rifles and machine guns landed in cylinders from other parachutes, furiously attacking the antiaircraft guns and the howitzers, too, if possible.

Planes Land More Troops.

While this is happening, troop carrier planes land along the roads or fields and 30 or 40 fully equipped soldiers pile out of each. They attack the entrenchments on the ridge from the rear, creating a diversion among the first line defenders, whose artillery by now is greatly weakened. At this moment amphibian tanks and bridge building troops cross the river and the enemy's front is attacked before he can command the situation in his rear.

The tactics illustrated by this problem make it necessary for all military positions to provide both front and rear defenses, as in the present battle in France.

A Russian Idea Improved.

The Germans took a Russian idea and with Teutonic thoroness perfected tactics and trained thousands of specially selected, daring, athletic, and fervent Nazis who now form the spearhead of this new air arm, making necessary the organization of many times their number by the allies to act as a defense in case they are used. Because the Nazis use high grade and daring fighters as parachutists and air transport troops, and have armed the men in most modern manner, with automatic rifles, machine guns and light mortars, as well as all manner of disguises, the allies must use first class troops as a defense against them.

Because the allies did not forsee the value of these special German troops and did not provide themselves with similar units, Germany does not have this menace to combat.

The Germans are far advanced in the practice of camouflage. After studying color and designing patterns to blend into the surrounding landscape, they have planted their flying fields with grasses of various colors in patterns resembling farmlands. Air force quarters are disguised as villages, often with streets leading from real village nearby.

Many Hangars Underground.

Many German air fields are built with large hangars underground for protection and concealment. This is well known now, but until recently allied engineers scoffed at the idea of building vast hangars underground because of cave-in problems. The manner of construction still is not generally known, but a witness who saw these underground hangars being built in Germany before the war has described their details for the London Times, and enabled me to make the accompanying sketches of two specific instances.

Hillsides are cut away to provide space for these hangars in some instances, and in some the earth removed is dumped into the valley between hills to make flying fields. In other cases the fields above the reinforced concrete hangars are used as airports, while nearby the Nazis build what appears to be antique villages to house the air force personnel.

One reported reason why English airfields are not on hilltops is that the hilltops are high priced hunting country. The army has bought cheap land not used for farming because of its swampiness.

Complaints are often made that the German airplane pilots refuse combat. That is another German idea of officiency in not risking personnel. As in the last war, when Baron Manfred Richthofen took command of the German forces, the Nazis have been trained to refuse combat if possible because the plane's first value is to carry out its duties of scouting, directing artillery fire, bombing, photographing enemy posts, or preventing enemy penetration of certain zones.

Unless they are flying to protect bombers or an area threatened by approaching enemy planes, the German pilots avoid combat. When protecting convoys and areas they attack.

Owing to their plentitude of antiaircraft guns, the Germans rely usually on their ground defenses to protect targets such as munitions dumps, bridges, and industrial plants.

Underground Nazi Hangars

The sketches below, drawn by Tribune Staff Correspondent Guy Murchie from information made available to him in London and radioed to America, show how Germans are able to build huge underground hangars and adjoining air fields.

——the hilltop was leveled off to cover the hangar and make a flying field.

——and cut away parts of each hill to build the hangars, dumping the excavated dirt into the valley, forming an air field. Then—— ——they cut down the hills even further to cover the hangars, and built what looked like farming communities on the hillsides. These villages house air force personnel, which use tunnel thru hill on left (dotted lines) to get from quarters to hangar.

Color Map of Battle Fronts

The color map of France and adjoining territories which appears on page 1 of part 8 of this issue bears a red line to show where the allied-German battle front is at this time and a broken blue line to show where the front was in 1914, in a corresponding number of days after the German invasion of Belgium.

It will be noted that the broken blue line ends slightly above Paris and does not extend to the coast. In other words, it is shown as a line with a loose end. This is exactly what it was. The German army, in its pivot down thru Belgium and into France in 1914, was moving so swiftly that there was no time for it to extend itself to the sea and no troops were then available for this purpose if the Germans had so desired. On the extreme right wing of the German line was Von Kluck's First army—the loose end of the German front.

The forward movement of the Germans was halted in the battle of the Marne, fought from Sept. 6 to 9, and after that the Germans fell back to the Aisne river.

The battle line, after the German defeat on the Marne, gradually was extended to the North sea, beginning with the battle of the Aisne, Sept. 13 to 21. It was not until after the battle of Artois, Oct. 1 to 15, however, that it finally was consolidated all the way to the coast, which it touched west of Ostend.

Chile Limits Radio War Reports to Published News

SANTIAGO, Chile, June 8 (AP).—Broadcasting of war reports "which have the object of inciting the populace to acts against public order, or which contain incorrect information," was prohibited today. The director of electrical services asked radio stations to transmit only the news published in newspapers or distributed by news services.

LAST DITCH FIGHT OR NOT? THAT IS DILEMMA IN PARIS

Capital Drawn Closer to Battlefield Each Day.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, June 8.—The French tonight are talking about defending Paris to the last ditch. However, the population is completely calm. It has been a usual Saturday afternoon, with sweltering heat [25 words censored].

It is not clear tonight whether the Germans, if they succeed in penetrating [three words censored] will make a frontal smash on Paris or attempt to encircle it on the east and west, and finally close in from the south. The situation, anyway, is that Paris is getting closer and closer to the edge of the battle.

Steadily Losing Ground.

Such a condition poses a multitude of problems for the government of Premier Paul Reynaud, which was in conference for two hours today. No announcement was made after the meeting.

The chief problem, it is hinted in the press, is to decide whether to make a strategic retreat or to defend Paris to the end and let the huge city stand as an obstacle to the advancing German tanks and infantry.

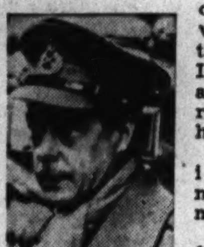
Henri De Kerillis, writing in the newspaper L'Epoque, says there must be no hesitation about using Paris as a defense center and fighting to save it until the last ditch.

Refugees Reach City.

"Everything that can delay the enemy, everything that can stop him, if only for a month, must be done, for every delay is a gauge of final victory for us," he writes.

Refugees from the region around Rouen and other points nearer the battlefield continued to flock into Paris this afternoon. They were handled with order and dispatched to places in the south. They did not have the harassed looks that some of the Belgians had three weeks ago.

DUKE OF WINDSOR VISITS TROOPS ON THE ITALIAN BORDER



Duke of Windsor.

LONDON, June 8 (AP).—The war office announced today that the duke of Windsor is visiting French troops on the Italian border and will shortly return "to his headquarters."

A press notice issued by the ministry of information said:

"There is no foundation for the report that the duke of Windsor has resigned his military appointment. He is paying a visit to French troops on the Italian border and will shortly return to the headquarters of the mission to which he is attached."

The announcement was taken to mean that the former king had exchanged his former job of liaison officer between the French and British forces for another "mission," the nature of which is not being announced. Authoritative sources had said previously that the duke no longer was liaison officer, and had gone to the south of France. The duchess is there, too, at their villa at Cap d'Antibes.

French Withdraw for Second Successive Day—Artillery and Planes Blast German Tanks That Broke Thru

The German censor who passed this caption said it is a scene of Dunkirk as the German invaders found it after the last of the allied armies had escaped to England from the encircling fire of advancing enemy forces. Dunkirk was the last port of embarkation open to allied armies fleeing Flanders.

The most important developments of yesterday in the war in northern France are told in captions on the map. While the Germans asserted they are breaking the Weygand line at will, the French declared their two-day withdrawal is a "retirement maneuver" and their main front remains intact.

SWISS FIGHTERS DOWN 2 GERMAN PLANES, LOSE ONE

Fear Nazis Are Planning New Flanking Drive.

BY CAPT. M. M. CORPENING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BASEL, Switzerland, June 8.—A new wave of war apprehension was manifested in this section of Switzerland today. Information from Berlin trickling across to Switzerland indicates that the German high command is considering a flanking movement thru Switzerland east of the Maginot line. Informed sources advise that German forces are again being concentrated opposite the Swiss frontier.

Two Nazi Planes Downed.

BERNE, Switzerland, June 8 (AP).—Little Switzerland, caught between two powerful neighbors already fighting and a third ready to enter the conflict, downed two German planes violating her territory today in demonstrating a new firm determination to preserve her neutrality.

Swiss army patrol planes brought to nine the number of German planes forced to earth in the last month when a Messerschmitt fighter was shot down in Lucerne canton, deep in Switzerland, and a Nazi bomber was forced to land in Solothurn canton, northwest of Berne near the French frontier.

The Swiss themselves lost one fighter which was shot down, killing its two lieutenant pilots, in a battle with a flight of Nazi bombers over the Jura mountains across the Doubs river from France. The fate of crews of the downed German planes was not immediately determined.

Army Ready on Frontiers.

With Switzerland already on the anxious seat because of the fighting between neighboring France and Germany, the prospective entry of Italy into the war brought forebodings that Switzerland might suffer the same fate as the German-conquered Netherlands.

The Swiss army, mobilized along the frontiers to its full strength of a half million men when the Germans invaded the Low Countries, now perhaps is down to 300,000 troops. Those on leave, however, carry guns and orders on how to crush any rear guard action or parachutists.

Some sources explained the release of part of the troops from frontier duty simply was the high command's method of reenforcing interior defenses.

Ready to Blast Tunnel.

By order of the army, no civilians except inhabitants of the region are allowed to enter the southern Valais department which covers the French Savoy and Italian Piedmont frontier.

There the great Simplon tunnel and mountain passes are chock full of dynamite ready to go off at the push of a button. The army command is silent on the number of troops in that region, but it is no secret that Swiss ski troops and mountaineer forces are in the Alps, which Italy must cross to join hands with Germany on the French border.

Few military preparations have been undertaken in Switzerland's Italian speaking Ticino canton on the frontier. It is ringed by the Alps on the north but open on the south, leaving its famous resort cities of Locarno and Lugano like ripe plums for an invader's grab.

Strong Defenses in North.

On the northern frontier, where no mountains stand in the way of invasion, the Swiss for years have done everything their topheavy war budget and their citizen army could do to strengthen defenses.

The Rhine line of forts has been revised completely and strengthened from the fortress city of Basel to Lake Constance. Behind these fortifications stand the strongest defenses of all, the "Winkelried line."

That line is honeycombed with tank pits, antitank "asparagus fields" of rails protruding from the ground, huge coils of barbed wire entanglements, trenches and forts extending from the French frontier at the northern end of the Jura mountains across the entrance of Middleland to Zurich. From there to the east the lakes and the Alps on the Austrian frontier form natural defenses.

FASCIST PARTY CHIEFS CALLED FOR ARMY DUTY

ROME, June 8 (AP).—Ettore Muti, Fascist party secretary, received a call to arms tonight and turned the party command over to Pietro Capoferri, party organizer and member of the Fascist chamber.

Similar arrangements were announced for substitutes for six other party directors off to join the colors.

They were Micatle Pascolato, labor head; Fernando Mezzasoma, party director of cultural activities; Natale Cerruti, party disciplinarian; Guido Pallotta, head of the students organization; Mario Mazzetti, director of womens organizations; and Rino Parenti, president of the Italian Olympics committee.

CANADA MOVES TO IRON OUT NEW U. S. VISA RULES

Seeks Arrangements for Border Residents.

OTTAWA, Ont., June 8 [Special].—The Canadian department of external affairs is discussing with the United States state department the new regulation under which Canadian residents entering the United States will be required to present passports and visas after July 1.

Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King told the house of commons today that the aim is to iron out complications that will arise, especially for border residents. It is hoped to achieve reciprocity in these matters, he said.

Problem of Thru Trains.

The premier's statement was made in answer to a request by R. B. Hanson, leader of the opposition, who expressed the hope that satisfactory arrangements could be made to cover train transit thru United States territory from one Canadian point to another. Hanson cited the case of passengers who, taking a train from Montreal to a point in New Brunswick, have to pass thru the state of Maine.

Consideration of the new regulation from the Canadian viewpoint shows that its rigid enforcement will entail many complications, entirely apart from the cases of Canadians who go to work daily in the automobile factories of Detroit and Buffalo.

Canadian railroad lines dip into United States territory and come back into Canada at many points along the border. Similarly, United States railroads, notably the Michigan Central, a subsidiary of the New York Central, cross into Canadian territory. Every train between New York and Chicago over the Michigan Central passes thru western Ontario.

Line Runs Thru Minnesota.

Between Winnipeg and Port Arthur, Canada, the Canadian National railway passes thru Minnesota for 50 miles.

From the maritime provinces, the Canadian Pacific, to reach Boston, crosses the line at Abercorn, Quebec, passes thru three stations in Vermont, and returns thru two Canadian stations.

NO PASSPORTS FOR AMERICANS.

Canadian travel authorities in Chicago yesterday said that so far as they knew no passports were to be required of American tourists going into Canada or returning home from there. They added that the present rate of exchange was favorable for American money and that there are few restrictions on travel thru the dominion.

Engineer Brings in Train; Steps from Cab; Falls Dead

CALGARY, Alta., June 8 (AP).—A locomotive engineer, David B. Wilson, brought his freight train into Innisfail yesterday, stepped from the cab and fell dead. Dr. G. C. Wagner said death was due to a heart attack. Wilson was 53 years old.

BRITISH MARINE SWIMS 8 MILES TOWARD ENGLAND

LONDON, June 8 (AP).—How a British marine swam 8 of the 21 miles between Calais, France, and Dover, England, and was just "getting into my stride" when he was picked up by a small ship ferrying soldiers home from Flanders was told today by Gilbert Rowe of the Queen Victoria Rifles, one of the few surviving defenders of Calais.

Rowe said the marine seemed quite fresh when pulled aboard the ship. Rowe added, "His first remark was 'Sure you have enough room for me?'"

Factory Close-Out Sale

LYON & HEALY Liquidates $100,000 Stock of Fine Vertical and Grand Pianos by HADDORFF PIANO COMPANY and GEO. A. VOSE—

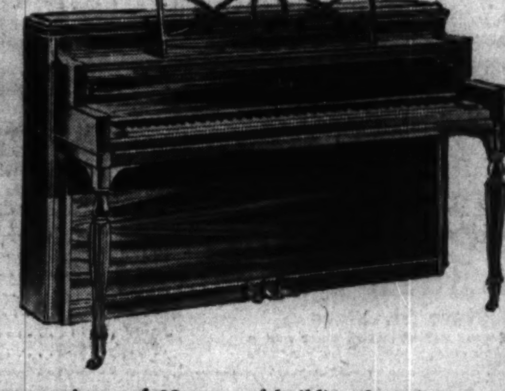
Savings up to 40%

"THE price of excellence is continuous effort" said Charles Haddorff. Upon this sound, earthy logic the Haddorff Piano Co. has advanced to its eminent position among manufacturers of high grade pianos. . . . It has kept abreast of new trends. . . . Pioneered in 1935 in re-styling new piano forms. . . . Brought members of the famous old Vose & Sons firm into the Haddorff fold and is now building the stunning new George A. Vose pianos.

During the recent reorganization of the Haddorff Piano Co., Lyon & Healy purchased and will liquidate the entire stock of Haddorff and George A. Vose pianos—only enough, however, to supply a small fraction of Chicago's piano-less homes. . . . Tomorrow they go on sale. Verticals (Sheraton, Traditional, Regency, Colonial styles) at the phenomenally low prices of $255, $275 and $295. . . . Grands from $395. Values and savings which we—and certainly no one else—can duplicate when these are gone.

Lyon & Healy and the Haddorff Piano Co. Guarantee these instruments against any defect of material or workmanship

The GEO. A. VOSE Traditional
Formerly Was $395



MAHOGANY $275 YOU SAVE $120

The experience of 89 years of building fine pianos enriches the styling, tone and action of this daintily designed George A. Vose vertical. 88-note standard keyboard with full-length ivory keys. The "Traditional" model is particularly popular today. (In walnut finish, $20 additional.)

Lyon & Healy, Inc.
243 S. Wabash Avenue
Chicago, Illinois

Gentlemen:

Mr. Carl Haddorff joins me in expressing our appreciation for the large order of Haddorff and George A. Vose Pianos - verticals and grands - to be shipped at once to your stores in Chicago and Oak Park. You are assured that each piano will leave our factory in perfect condition, in keeping with the high standards with which Haddorff pianos have been associated for forty years.

We believe this to be the largest single piano purchase that has been made in the United States during the last ten years. . . This in itself shows the confidence which your company places in Haddorff-built instruments . . . Furthermore, it is evidence of the great buying power - yes, and selling power, too - of Lyon & Healy.

Again we congratulate you on this great stock clearance sale - but above all, we congratulate Chicago's wise citizens who will have the opportunity to possess a truly fine piano for so little.

Yours very truly,
HADDORFF PIANO COMPANY

NEW DEAL'S OWN WAR HAS SAPPED US, SAYS DEWEY

We Are a House Divided, He Warns.

Winston Salem, N. C., June 8 [Special].—Following is the text of a speech by Thomas E. Dewey as prepared for delivery tonight before a big Republican massmeeting here:

"Tonight I want to discuss with you some of the cold realities of the position of the United States in the world. I want to talk with you as a citizen of a great nation which is the trustee of human freedom and of individual rights in the world of today.

"Three weeks ago President Roosevelt delivered a message to congress painting a vivid picture of the dangers of possible air raids upon the United States. Ten days later the President delivered a 'fireside chat' seeking to reassure us about the condition of our armed forces. He told us of the armaments we have 'on hand and on order'. The dangerous difference between armaments 'on hand' and armaments 'on order' has already been exposed.

"It is even more disturbing that the leader of a nation, in a speech to his country, is so lacking in frankness that he does not distinguish between guns on hand and guns on paper. And when that lack of frankness is present in every element of the administration, then the time has come for the people to demand the truth. With the world in flames it is no time to hand out soothing syrup to a nation concerned about its national defense. It is time to speak the plain truth.

A "Different World."

"Events are moving with shattering rapidity in the world today. No man is wise enough to foresee the immediate outcome of the war in Europe. Certainly no man can foresee all the long-range consequences of that war. But we must recognize that we may have to live our lives in a world which is greatly different from the world we have known in the past.

"What does America face in the future?

"The shape of some of the problems is already visible thru the flame and smoke of the horizon. To realize the promise of American life in the unknown world ahead of us will subject our people to new tests of their unity, their strength, and their fortitude.

"Our position in this hemisphere may be gravely complicated by developments in Europe. Our neighbor to the north, Canada, is actually engaged in the European war. It may become a more central participant in that war. It is not difficult to imagine the British fleet actually based on Canadian ports. With or without these events, the war might be carried to Canadian territory by her enemies.

"That alone would be sufficient to put the United States in an entirely different world.

Further Dangers.

"There are European possessions in this hemisphere which dictator nations may attempt to occupy. That would be a violation of the principle of the Monroe Doctrine.

"The republics to the south of us may face new menaces. And these also would be our concern. With the possibility of an effort at military invasion by non-American powers, we must recognize that we are not now prepared to meet such a challenge to our traditional policies.

"Moreover, we must remember that our South American neighbors produce foodstuffs and raw materials which we also produce. And we produce enough of many of these for our needs. Many South American products are, therefore, more readily sold to Europe than to us. We would find it difficult to prevent a steady increase in the barter of these products for totalitarian goods. There is already an invasion of totalitarian ideas wholly opposed to the ideals of this hemisphere. The development of commercial aviation may extend the system of airports which, overnight, can become military bases threatening our security.

"Any one of these things, alone, would be sufficient to put the United States in an entirely different world.

"The future might see Europe, Africa, and even Asia dominated by totalitarian government. That means a totalitarian system of trade.

"This again would seriously affect the position of the United States in the world.

"The present struggle in Europe might result in the transfer to Germany of billions of dollars of American investments now held by various allied nations. Demands for the liquidation and repayment of these holdings could be used to put severe economic pressure upon the United States.

"These are only a few examples of the sort of problems we may well have to face. Perhaps none of them will come to pass. But if not, there will be others of equal gravity if there should be either a totalitarian or a bankrupt world. Profound change is inevitable. We cannot prevent it. But we can be honest with ourselves. We can recognize the nature of our problems. We can prepare to meet them.

"If these questions do arise, our answers must carry conviction. We must see that they are respected in a world which has no respect for right or justice unless justice carries a sword, unless right is backed by might.

"Theodore Roosevelt gave good advice when he said we should speak softly but carry a big stick. I wish that advice were being followed in this country today. Instead, the present administration appears to have the motto: Speak loudly and often, especially when you are wholly unprepared to back it up.

Question of Strength.

"The first question which we will face in any case is whether we are sufficiently strong to meet the challenge of aggression, military or economic.

"We must leave no doubt of the answer to that question. We must face the world, a strong and a united nation.

"Are we a united nation today?

"We should not have to ask that question. But for seven years we have been divided by a war at home. The policies of our present administration have been conceived in terms of domestic warfare. It has been a war by the New Deal against the business and productive forces of this nation.

"As Americans, we have a right to insist upon an end to this warfare at home. We have a right to insist that the administration devote its remaining seven months in office to the welfare of this country. We have a right to insist that the President put an end to the war at home and dismiss from his councils those who waged that war. A house divided against itself cannot stand.

Its "Four Walls."

"Let us examine our national defense. It has four walls—our armed forces, our national finances, our national production, and our national administration. If there is a breach in any one of these walls, our country is vulnerable.

"What is the condition of the front wall—our armed forces?

"Let us look back to seven years ago when the Nazis secured control of one of the great nations of Europe. They made no secret of either their aims or their methods. Treaties, pledges, and promises were scrapped the moment they had ceased to serve the Nazi purpose. The German people were regimented for war. They gave up butter for guns. They were forced to work long hours for little pay. Every ounce of the national effort was concentrated upon military preparation. Their progress to power was proclaimed from the housetops.

"During those same seven years the New Deal administration has been in charge of the destiny of the United States. It has known of the progress of militarism in the dictator countries. It has known of the failure of the democratic nations to make adequate preparations against the inevitable war.

"Yet it shut its eyes and its ears and occupied itself with emergencies of its own creation. Meanwhile it spent nearly sixty billion dollars of the people's money. Of this total, 6¼ billion dollars was spent for national defense. Today we know how badly that job was done. Now, in a state of hysteria, without plan or direction, the New Deal is trying to make up in a few months for the mistakes of seven years.

The Grim Facts.

"You know the facts. Our army has no more combat planes than are destroyed in a week's fighting in Europe. And even those planes carry no armor or self-sealing fuel tanks and no adequate firing armament. The navy is big enough to defend only one coast at a time.

"Our regular army has modern rifles for only one soldier in six, and the National Guard has no modern rifles at all. The ammunition shortage is incredible, and even today there are no means to make ammunition in quantities. If the army suddenly had to be enlarged, we would not even have the cloth to make uniforms. And so it goes. We have a military establishment, but it has no relation to the world in which we live. The front wall of our defense is woefully weak.

"Now, how about the second wall, the wall of national finance? Federal expenditures have more than doubled under the New Deal. Even without the new appropriations for national defense, the present annual deficit is as great as the whole cost of the government seven years ago. This year the national debt will reach an all-time high at the staggering figure of 45 billion dollars. Boondoggling is coming home to roost.

Pleads for Frankness.

"And despite these conditions the President in his two speeches to the nation on national defense has not had the courage to face the fundamental issue of where the money is coming from. If the Democratic party can't be frank with the people, the Republican party can. The cost of rearmament is going to come out of the pockets of every man, woman, and child in the nation. No nation can live on borrowed money forever. It is time we realized the truth and buckled down to the sacrifices necessary to make this nation secure. Every American is ready and willing to do his part. But the times cry out for an administration which has the honesty to ask it.

"What about our third wall, the industrial system?

"A strong nation must be based on a strong economy. Yet we find industry has slipped steadily backward during the seven year war on business—the war that the New Deal refuses to bring to an end. That war was without reason or excuse in a world at peace. To continue it in a world at war is criminal folly.

"To face the future with confidence in our own strength, we must have a strong industrial system—a system capable of producing all of the things we need for our daily lives. And on top of that, it must be able to produce in quantity the military equipment and supplies we need. Only thus can we maintain our peace.

How It Can Be Done.

"Happily we have not lost the ability and the enterprise to handle this greatest of all jobs. We have the administrative skill to run our plants at top efficiency. We have the engineering skill to build new plants of even greater efficiency. Our industry is capable of doing the job.

"But it must be given the chance to do the job. It can not make its contribution to the national defense when it is loaded down with the chains of government restrictions.

"Now, what of the fourth wall of our national defense? What is the condition of our national administration? Is it giving the country unselfish leadership? Is it manned with competent personnel, equal to the task before it?

"I do not have to tell you the answer. The cabinet officers who personify the war on business and the White House clique who have been conducting that war still retain their power and influence in Washington. That is a national tragedy. The administration has abandoned its leadership, shrinking from the truth, refusing to meet the burdens of expense and keeping in office those who have already bungled the job.

Assails Woodring and Hopkins.

"Specifically, there is still in office the secretary of war under whose guidance our military preparedness has been shockingly inadequate. There is still in office the closest adviser to the President, the secretary of commerce, our totally noncommercial Harry Hopkins—a man who never ran a business and never so much as made a shoelace in his life.

"As secretary of labor there is still in office the individual during whose tenure labor has been split asunder to the gravest injury of the nation as a whole and to the great advantage of racketeers and communists in the labor movement.

"These cabinet officers, among others, are symbols of incompetence, disunity, and class hatred. Until they are removed from public office, there can be no national unity. We will start forward when real leaders of public life are put in their place. This is not the whole solution of our national problems, but it would make an excellent beginning.

"Will this administration give us the evidence of good faith we need? I regret to say that it shows no signs whatever of doing so.

The Signs It Does Show.

"Instead, it is becoming increasingly clear that the New Deal actually intends to use the unfortunate condition to which it has brought the country as an argument for keeping itself in office. The American people are about to be asked to continue an administration which thrives on internal dissension, which has no regard for government solvency, which promotes incompetents to high office, and which consistently seeks to postpone and conceal the hard realities we must face.

"We see our sister democracies, England and France, desperately struggling for life because their people kept in power for many years governments which, like our own, were ineffective and incompetent. I am confident the American people will not let that happen here.

"The problems of this country are greater than any man alive in either the Democratic or Republican party. I do not believe any one man can solve our problems. They can be solved only by bringing to the government the ablest men in this country.

"We must have an administration which puts the welfare of the country above any partisan advantage. We must have an administration whose first concern is America.

"Effective action is imperative. History must not say of our defense: it was too little and too late.

"Our people demand that they be told the plain unsweetened truth. We are no nation of weaklings who must be coddled and fed on sugar buns. America was built by toil and sacrifice. It was not made great by dodging hardships. It was made great by overcoming them.

"There was no coddling New Dealers among those who carved our homes out of the wilderness. There were no communists or Socialists among those who made this country great. While we were achieving greatness, there was no communist-led Youth Congress acting under the hospitality and the sponsorship of the White House. There was no White House money-raising for communists who publicly opposed the defense of the United States.

"Let us have a government consistent only with American ideals. Let us have the truth from our leader. Let us see clearly what America faces. Then we will know what we have to do and we will do it. No test is too severe when our national safety is at stake.

"The four walls of our national defense must be made impregnable to assault from any quarter. Our armed forces, our national finance, our national production must be reënforced without delay. The national administration must be held to its task by the power of public opinion until a new wall can be built next January. Then America in quiet confidence will stand four-square against the forces of aggression."

Dorothy Lamour Loses Long Hair

Vacation from Sarong

Hollywood, Cal., June 8 (AP).—Dorothy Lamour has won a vacation from her sarong—but it cost her her long, coal-black hair. The actress wept a little as a studio makeup man snipped off her locks in response to an order from executives that the actress try a new style of hair-dress. Miss Lamour submitted to the shears only after being assured she would wear sports clothes and evening gowns, but no sarong in her next picture.

CRITICS BLAST ARMY REPORT ON RIFLE TEST

Demand Mud, Sand Trials for Garand Weapon.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 8.—The war department today submitted to the senate military affairs committee a detailed report of the recent tests of the Garand and Johnson semiautomatic rifles and the Thompson submachine gun.

The tests were made as a result of the controversy over the relative merits of the weapons and criticism of the Garand—which the army has adopted—as defective and inaccurate. It was predicted by some observers that the report will revive rather than end the controversy.

The rifles and submachine gun were fired May 8 before a group of senators and representatives at Fort Belvoir, near Washington. After the firing the members of congress gave the army's Garand rifle a vote of confidence, altho they acknowledged the Johnson rifle to be a good weapon.

Fail to Satisfy Experts.

The tests, however, failed to satisfy rifle experts outside the army. They held that the tests were not conclusive and that the two weapons should have been subjected to mud and sand tests, slow fire, timed rapid fire, slow fire continuously without cleaning and rapid fire continuously. Such a course of tests, they held, would simulate war conditions.

The rifles were fired on 300 and 600 yard ranges in the Fort Belvoir trials. The Garand had a slightly higher score than the Johnson. In its report the army submitted the scores along with information that the Johnson rifle developed six malfunctions to none for the Garand. It then claimed superiority for its weapon.

The report was written by Capt. R. H. Brown of the 29th infantry, instructor in rifle firing at the infantry school at Fort Benning Ga., who fired the Garand in the tests. The report was submitted by Brig. Gen. George P. Tyner, assistant chief of staff in charge of supplies.

Data from the report are as follows:

FIRST DEMONSTRATION.

Range 300 yards, target "B." Forty-eight rounds in not to exceed three minutes. The target was not pulled and marked until all 48 shorts had been fired.

The report is expected to rekindle the controversy over the semiautomatic rifle, since the report states that two Garands were fired against two Johnson rifles and one Thompson submachine gun. Observers of the tests insist that a new Garand was used for each test and, in all, eight new weapons were fired against two new Johnsons.

Sights Are Elevated.

In the firing, expert army shots, trained to handle the Garand rifles, elevated the sights on them as the weapons grew hot to compensate for their tendency to fire below the target when heated, according to impartial observers. The National Rifle association charged that the drop will be as much as six feet at 600 yards after 130 rounds of firing.

Observers were puzzled by the malfunctions of the Johnson rifle. A particle of metal was found in the reloading mechanism—a fault which had never been encountered before, according to the rifle's maker, Melvin M. Johnson Jr. Impartial experts said they were amazed that the rifle fired with this obstruction in its mechanism. The fault did not interfere with the weapon's accuracy, as it outshot the Garand in the test in which the malfunctions developed, but its fire time was slowed down.

In one of the tests the submachine gun outshot the two semiautomatic rifles at 300 yards. The second of the submachine guns in the same test almost failed to hit the target, but this was due to faulty correction for zero and not any deficiency in the weapon.

Imparial observers insist that if the two semiautomatic rifles are subjected to a thoro test the Johnson will be shown superior to the Garand because, they claim, it can stand harder usage and give a better performance.

Critics of the Garand would not do away with that rifle completely, but would supplement it with other semiautomatics, the Johnson and the military semiautomatics developed by such sporting arms companies as Remington and Winchester which have had more than 20 years of experience in making repeating rifles.

CONGRESS FACES TWO WEEKS OF FRENZIED ACTION

Move Grows to Stop Arms Resale to Allies.

BY WILLIAM EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 8.—Congress rested today in preparation for two weeks of frenzied activity in which momentous problems affecting the nation will be settled.

In this short period the legislators will be asked to whip into shape the vast military preparedness program aggregating 5 billion dollars in appropriations and authorizations and send it to the White House.

They must decide whether President Roosevelt shall be given authority to furnish military equipment to the allies. They must settle the question of adjourning for the year, subject to a call for a special session from Mr. Roosevelt; or recessing for the national conventions and returning to cope with problems as they arise.

They must consider and pass a tax of a billion dollars upon the taxpayer bill putting an additional burden if the desires of the Democratic leadership are to be achieved.

Important measures will be lost in this legislative maelstrom if the administration compels adjournment by June 22. Amendments to the Wagner labor act, approved by a 2 to 1 vote in the house yesterday, will die in the senate. The Hatch clean-politics bill, passed by the senate, may founder in the house.

The Republican minority and a sizable group of Democrats see no necessity for this mad rush to adjourn. The adjournment resolution, to be introduced in the house around June 17 by Majority Leader Sam Rayburn, faces possible defeat in that body. But the huge Democratic majority in the senate is expected to approve the resolution. And in case of a disagreement between the two houses, the President has the power to send them both home. There is little doubt that Mr. Roosevelt would exercise that authority if the need arises.

Tax Bill Goes Forward.

The house ways and means committee today approved a $1,006,000,000 defense tax bill, boosting individual, corporation and excise taxes and increasing the number of small income tax payers by more than 2,000,000.

Thru his secretary, Stephen T. Early, the President today announced that the five billion dollars for defense, which he has requested thus far, represents all that he expects to ask of congress at this time.

Early discussed reports that Mr. Roosevelt planned to ask for another billion dollars in contract authorizations to enable laying out of a two year expansion in the airplane industry.

"I know nothing about that report and neither does the President," Early declared. "I want to say very definitely that the President will not at this time ask the congress for additional funds for defense."

Move to Block Resales.

Noninterventianists in the senate laid plans to block the President's proposal to turn back to manufacturers about 340 warplanes and great stocks of guns and ammunition. The manufacturers will resell them to the allies and credit a trade-in price to future United States purchases of more modern, up-to-date materials. The President says he has authority to trade in planes and ammunition, but further legislation is needed to apply the system to guns.

The campaign against such legislation is not expected, however, to make much headway. Senator D. Worth Clark [D., Idaho] said he will call a meeting of senate and house noninterventionists on Monday to organize opposition.

House Minority Leader Joseph W. Martin Jr. of Massachusetts in a radio address tonight called upon congress to stay in session.

"Republicans want to stay here and discharge their constitutional responsibilities, instead of delegating those powers to others," he declared.

"The fact that we are faced by a need for the rapid creation of a national defense on a scale vastly greater than ever before required in peacetime is no reason for us to throw caution to the winds; to toss economy out the window; to embark on a wild, hysterical effort to overcome by sheer spending of money the neglect which has brought us to our present state of inadequate national preparedness."

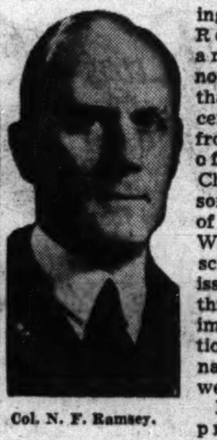
One hundred Northrop attack planes are to be turned back to the manufacturer by the war department. The maker then will be free to sell them to Great Britain and France. The American army relegated them to noncombatant use because of their limited range, but airmen said they were suitable for the relatively short distances of Europe.

ARSENAL WILL RUN ON 6 DAY BASIS IN PRODUCTION SECTION

Rock Island, Ill., June 8 [Special].—Col. Norman F. Ramsey, commanding officer at the Rock Island arsenal, announced today that he had received orders from the office of Maj. Gen. Charles M. Wesson, army chief of ordnance in Washington, rescinding orders issued earlier this week for the immediate operation of the arsenal on a six day week basis.



Col. N. F. Ramsey.

In lieu of this program Col. Ramsey was instructed to make plans for operation on a six day basis in the production department and for operation eventually on a seven day basis. Employés are to work a maximum of 40 hours a week, or eight hours a day, the work week now in effect.

The new program will mean that as many more skilled workmen as can be obtained will be required.

Three shifts are employed under the present plan of operation, about 3,500 persons working from 7 a. m. to 3:45 p. m., 700 from 3 p. m. to 11 p. m., and 400 from 11 p. m. to 7 a. m.

100 ARMY PLANES EARMARKED FOR SALE TO ALLIES

Washington, D. C., June 8 (AP).—Approximately 100 heavily armed attack planes, especially designed to harass enemy troops from low altitudes, were earmarked by the war department for possible fighting in France, under the administration's "trade in" arrangement for army and navy planes.

The craft are Northrop single motor attack planes, which the army air corps relegated to noncombatant utility rôles last year primarily because of their limited range of action. They will be turned back to the manufacturer who, in turn, will be free to sell them to Britain and France.

Viewpoint of Experts.

Airmen said the planes were well adapted to the relatively short distances in Europe and expressed confidence they were at least the equal of similar craft employed by the Germans to "strafe" the allies in Flanders.

The Northrops are among some 500 army and navy planes which the Roosevelt administration plans to release. Fifty navy planes already have been disposed of.

The Northrops are single motor monoplanes armed with five machine guns. Each carries 20 small or 4 large bombs, or alternatively a load of chemicals for smoke screens.

In addition to the pilot the crew includes a gunner to operate the rear machine guns and aim bombs.

The army ordered scores of the type, but after congress voted a $300,000,000 expansion of the air corps last year it was decided to substitute light bombers with longer range, and the attack planes recently have been used merely as transport craft, scattered among a number of fields.

The planes under normal conditions can fly 1,000 or more miles without refueling. Airmen figure their operating radius, including the return flight, at about 400 miles. This limited them to operations close to their base, the air corps decided, whereas longer range light bombers could be dispatched to meet any threat before an attack reached American shores.

During the day additional opposition was expressed in congress to the release of the army and navy planes.

La Follette's Stand.

Senator Robert M. La Follette [Prog., Wis.] said he thought the trade-in method of furnishing planes to the allies constituted a "casus belli," altho he said he did not wish to give the impression that it would be seized upon as such by any of the belligerents.

"I have never believed," La Follette said, "that there were effective measures short of war. I am opposed to our entering this war as a belligerent and I am convinced that there would be nothing worse for this country than to be half in and half out of the catastrophic conflict which is taking place in Europe."

TAXICAB OFFICIAL DIES.

DOCTORS agree that babies digest food more easily when lying at a slight downward angle. They also point out that children who have "common colds" can be made more comfortable by tilting the head and body upward. This prevents nasal discharges from dropping into the throat, where they may aggravate the condition and create coughing spasms. CLAMOR TO GET NATION IN WAR GROWS IN EAST

Rises to Feverish Pitch Over Wide Area.

New York, June 8 [Special].—With the national alarm bell being rung daily in Washington while consideration of the defense program veers back and forth from the field of sound production planning to the airy battlefield of rhetoric, the "Get-America-into-the-war" clamor along this susceptible seaboard has assumed a more feverish pitch in recent days.

President Roosevelt's request to congress for authority to order out the National Guard to fight with the regular army "in event of a national emergency" seems to have been the latest spark inspiring loftier crescendoes of war words.

Spurred to Wordy Efforts.

Recurrent talk in congress of the possibilities or probabilities of continental invasion likewise has spurred well-meaning zealots in wordy efforts to take the United States to the war before there is any likelihood the war will come to the United States.

The tom-tom beating, a survey here shows, takes in a wide field of armchair military strategists, college presidents and faculty members, public officials, foreign diplomats, retired soldiers, private citizens of prominence, and some veteran publicity seekers.

Thru most of these soundings of alarm, many of them widely published here and expounded on the air, runs a consistent theme. It is that the United States immediately should give to the empires every tangible aid "short of actual war participation."

Proposals Cover Wide Range.

The proposals in fact cover the territory between actual demands that congress vote a war declaration and start sending planes and pilots, to less intemperate urgings that United States aid be rushed in all forms, except men.

Particular reference to the militant utterances of educators was made this week by Judge Edwin O. Lewis of Philadelphia in addressing a graduation class there.

"Why," asked Judge Lewis, "should college commencements be made the forum for advocacy of war? The present warmongering of college presidents and teachers is quite inconsistent with their 'liberal' or 'left wing' tendencies exhibited for the past decade. We should make every resolve to keep out of the war, but if we desire, aid the allies in other ways and spend freely to build up our own defenses."

Fresh Samples Listed.

Following are a few fresh samples of the flood of war items served up recently by the eastern "clamor boys," as one commentator has labeled the spokesmen:

Major General John F. O'Ryan, retired commander of the 27th division in the world war—Approved active United States participation in the war and urged immediate sending of 1,000 bombing and pursuit planes and trained pilots to supplement allied forces.

Dr. Charles Seymour, president of Yale university—Proposed the United States should give aid to France and Britain as far as its resources permitted by sending greater numbers of planes, and by repealing the Johnson act to allow extensions of credits; also free subsidies to the empires, refusal to let exports go to "aggressor" countries, and permission for Americans to enlist in British and French armies. A Hitler victory, he asserted, will shatter the first line of America's defense.

Mrs. Morrow Disputes Lindbergh.

Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow, acting president of Smith college, widow of former Senator Morrow and mother in law of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh—Urged in radio address that the United States send to the empires immediately "munitions and supplies, food, money, airplanes, ships and everything that could help them win in their struggle against Germany. . . . Short of actually declaring war." Without mentioning Col. Lindbergh's name or his recent radio address assailing "hysterical chatter of calamity and invasion," she disputed point by point his major assertions, advising against meddling in European affairs.

Dr. James Conant, president of Harvard university—In radio address sponsored by the committee to defend America by aiding the allies, advocated "immediate aid." He urged release of army and navy planes to the empires, repeal of laws barring American citizens' enlistment in foreign armies, control of exports to avert leaks to Germany, and coöperation thru the maritime commission to expedite the transport of supplies and munitions.

Dickinson Head Urges Action.

Dr. Fred P. Corson, president of Dickinson college, and 25 members of faculty—Endrosed Dr. Conant's proposal and sent telegrams to congress and Dickinson graduates, asking support.

Swarthmore college [Pa.] faculty [30 members]—Urged President Roosevelt to ask immediate congressional action for repeal of the Johnson act to make available "instantly" at least 2,000 planes and all United States technical advances and "military secrets."

Smith college [94 members, about half of faculty]—Petitioned President Roosevelt to give Britain and France "such aid as is within our powers, short of sending armed forces across the Atlantic."

Dartmouth college [200 faculty members, including President Ernest M. Hopkins] sent a letter to President Roosevelt urging greatly increased governmental aid to allies, pledging support for any measure to make United States aid effective on a scale as large as permitted by resources.

Hobart and William Smith colleges, Geneva, N. Y. [more than half the faculties]—Announced in open letter their conviction the United States should donate to the allies "at once and free of charge airplanes, material and funds."

College of the City of New York, acting president Nelson P. Mead, and 150 faculty members sent petition to President Roosevelt and congress urging "immediate and practical aid in the form of airplanes and other implements of war" to Britain and France.

Envoy Sounds Warning.

Lord Lothian, British ambassador—Warned that Hitler's aim is to get control of the British fleet "this year," and if plan succeeds there would be no armed power left to prevent the Nazi machine from "thundering on your doorstep"; pleaded for immediate help to Britain—"Any help you can give us, and without delay."

James W. Gerard, ambassador to Germany until United States entered world war—Urged immediate intervention in the war, with query, "If eventually, why not now? We ought to be in this war. If not, we're cooked."

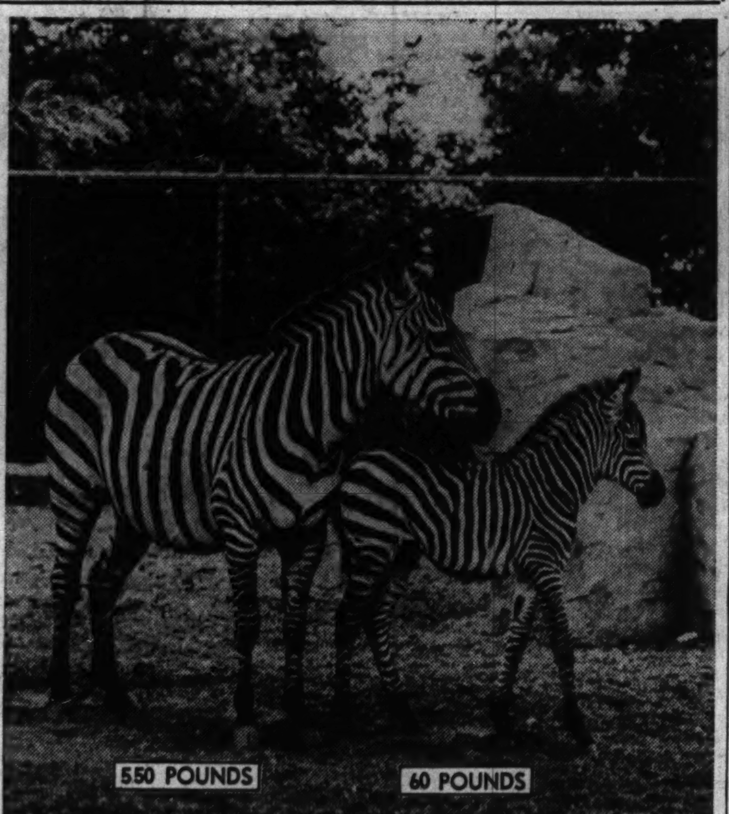
Herbert H. Lehman, governor of New York—Appealed to President to do everything possible to help Britain and France by supplying them with most modern planes as well as with cannon, rifles and other surplus material left from last war; warned many sacrifices may have to be made, "sacrifices of time and effort and money and possibly lives."

Dean G. Acheson, former undersecretary of the treasury—Called on United States to give all possible aid to the allies, including planes, guns, ships and food, saying that to continue America's present policy would mean to risk the lives of hundreds of thousands of Americans.

Radio Waves Crackling.

Keeping the radio waves crackling—on purchased time and free time—a parade of speakers has kept up a daily barrage of opinion bearing on the war, and bridging the extremes between 100 per cent "get into the war" militancy to temperate discussions of national defense preparation.

Newborn Zebra Romps at Zoo



[TRIBUNE Photo.]

A baby zebra, born Friday night at the Chicago Zoological park (Brookfield zoo), looked to be surprisingly near the size of his mother yesterday. The scales, however, proved there was quite a difference.

East African Species

A day old baby zebra was the center of attraction yesterday for visitors at the Chicago Zoölogical park at Brookfield. It was born Friday night to Jennie, a British East African zebra, a charter member of the zoo.

The new arrival weighs 60 pounds, but looks almost half as large as Jennie, who weighs 550. Zoo officials explained this was because the baby zebra is "almost all legs."

For the time being the zoo workers are calling the baby zebra Pat, but admitted that later they might have to rename it Patricia.

CATHOLIC PRESS TAKES MILITANT STAND FOR PEACE

Condemn War Mongers as Traitors to Nation.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

A survey of statements and editorials of official spokesmen for the country's 21 million Catholics shows an almost unanimous view that the neutrality of the United States should be strictly continued and that small heed should be given to propagandists and hysterical jingoists.

The views are in strict accord with those expressed by Cardinal Mundelein in one of his final messages to the clergy of the archdiocese of Chicago shortly before his death. The cardinal predicted that propaganda for the United States entry into the war would soon reach the blitzkrieg stage.

The New World, official journal of the Chicago archdiocese, made the cardinal's message public. The current issue makes public a statement by Archbishop Francis J. Beckman of Dubuque, Ia., and announces that Cardinal Dennis Dougherty of Philadelphia, Pa., will mark his golden jubilee as a priest this week by having votive masses in every church "that the United States may be averted from war."

Calls Talk Hysterical.

"Once again," Archbishop Beckman said, "the propagandists tell us we must make the supreme sacrifice, this time in defense of Christianity itself. In some quarters the hysteria for American intervention has arisen to alarming proportions.

"To most of us in the midwest it seems incredible that the 'new Europe' for which we gave our blood and treasure 20 years ago, has turned out to be the old Europe all over again in a Roman carnival of destruction. We are shocked and bitterly disillusioned at what we see there. We cannot afford to be duped again. Our people should demand that with one voice we rise up and brand the propagandists as traitors."

The Catholic Union and Echo, Buffalo, N. Y., asserts that Hitler and Hitlerism cannot be removed by waging an exhaustive war.

"Hitler and Hitlerism," the journal asserts, "will be replaced by far greater evils. Even if the allies were victorious with our help, the exhaustion in the war torn countries can only lead to social upheaval and God hating chaos that will rule over the western world for a generation or more."

Keep War in Europe.

The Tablet, Brooklyn, N. Y., while denouncing the crimes of the Hitler régime, declares that the American people should realize that the present war belongs in Europe and is a phase of battles for power which have been going on for centuries. It added that our entry would require forfeit of our democracy.

The Northwest Progress, Seattle, Wash., condemns Senator James F. Byrnes [Dem., S. C.] for his attack on Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's nationwide radio address. It says Senator Byrne's attack was "a low, mean, vicious tirade that completely evaded the issue and descended to personalities and cowardly insinuations."

"The Inland Catholic, Spokane, Wash., in a front page editorial attributed to Pope Pius XII. "War Settles Nothing," declares:

"Again the hysteria of 'war jitters' is beginning to sweep America. Everywhere are the voices of blatant Paul Reveres, crying out: 'To arms, to arms, the Nazis are coming!' Disciples of doom are groaning: 'We're next!' Professional jingoes take up with: 'If we don't go over and get them, they'll come over and get us.'

"In the midst of this madness one calm voice is heard. It is the voice of the Catholic press of America, which speaks as a single throat against the danger of repeating the tragic error of a generation ago."

Assail Editor White.

The current issue of the New World, in an editorial called Blarney Brigade, condemns President James Conant of Harvard university for "taking up the torch of William Allen White, erstwhile sage of Emporia, Kas., who has organized in his dotage the Committee to Aid America by Aiding the Allies.

"Mincing on in loose logic, Conant said, 'I am advocating immediate aid to the allies. I shall mince no words. The actions we propose might eventuate in war, but fear of war is no basis of national policy.'

"And on that truculent defy, we take issue with the bold little man. We heard his kind during the hectic years of 1914 to 1917. We listened and burned our fingers."

Sixty leading Protestant leaders of the nation, including several bishops, have issued a statement advocating immediate aid to the allies. The statement does not explain whether these leaders wish America actually to become a belligerent nation.

THIS IS HOW FRENCH GUNNERS SCORE HITS ON GERMAN TANKS

PARIS, June 8.—"Our gunners are becoming expert in tackling German tanks. One battery of 75s bagged no fewer than 25 yesterday."

This announcement was made today by an officer of the general staff just returned from the front. Because a French battery consists of four guns, and that when dealing with tanks the closest possible range is recommended, this bag of 25 tanks is regarded as an achievement. It calls for great coolness by officers and gunners alike, for they must allow the tanks to lurch toward them until they are virtually certain of a point-blank hit.

The German medium tanks cover 100 yards in about 30 seconds. When well handled, and when the angle of impact is well calculated, the four artillery pieces can hold a tank under fire for two minutes with an aggregate discharge of 200 pounds of high explosive.

PICK KEY WOMEN IN ROLL CALL TO KEEP OUT OF WAR

Organization in All 48 States Planned.

Nationwide organization of the Roll Call of American Women, the new movement to prevent armed American intervention in the European war, was begun yesterday with the selection of key women in each of the 48 states.

The group, organized in Chicago a week ago, already has felt a tremendous national response, according to Miss Harriet Vittum, head resident of Northwestern university settlement, who yesterday accepted the permanent presidency of the movement. Its headquartrs at 310 South Michigan avenue has been flooded with letters from Texas, Michigan, Indiana, Wisconsin, and Illinois.

Favor Sound Defense.

The Roll Call, Miss Vittum stressed, opposes pacifism in any form and advocates sound national defense, but will work vigilantly to counteract propaganda to get the United States into war. Other permanent officers are Margaret Ayer Barnes, author, secretary treasurer, and Miss Jessamine Hoaglund, organizer of women's groups, executive vice president.

In a letter sent to key women over the nation the Roll Call plan was outlined as a threefold course of action: [1] To organize committees and groups in state and community; [2] to counteract propaganda; [3] to enroll all members possible and present their names to national political candidates as a gigantic petition against American intervention.

"We've had almost a procession of people coming in to offer their services," Miss Vittum said. "One man came in and said his wife wanted 12 pledge cards. She and her friends wanted to sign up.

What They Waited For.

"A woman wrote me from Decatur. 'This is what the women of America have been waiting for. Send us some cards and some one to help organize.'

"I think it is something people have been waiting for. I think thousands and thousands of women do not want to send our men to war. The individual woman can say she doesn't want it, but her voice would not register. If we can get 500,000 women who feel the same way, it will mean something.

"I think it is a tremendous opportunity for women who are interested to do something very valuable."

The Roll Call has been incorporated, not for profit. Those enrolling will be asked to give a membership fee of whatever they can afford, 10 cents or more.

Among the prominent Chicago women serving on its executive committee are Mrs. Frank J. Lewis, president of the Illinois Club for Catholic Women; Mrs. Ben W. Swift of the Gold Star Mothers; Mrs. Ora Snyder, candy manufacturer, and Miss Jane A. Magan, plumbing contractor and former president of the Illinois Federation of Business and Professional Women.

Marines Hold Reunion

Wayland Brooks (left), Republican nominee for United States senator, conversing with Maj. Robert W. Voeth, retired, at marines' reunion in the La Salle hotel. Maj. Voeth was commander of the company in which Brooks served in the world war.

BARRIERS DOWN AT U. S. MARINE CORPS STATION

Recruits Get a Quick Start on Training.

BY MARCIA WINN.

The door to Room 706 of the United States courthouse is wide open these days. It reveals a scarlet and white pennant hanging within, on which the motto, "Semper Fidelis" [Always Faithful], surmounts an eagle perched on a world bisected by an anchor.

The motto and the emblem are those of the United States marine corps. The door leads to the marine recruiting station for the Chicago district. Out of that door 17 young men marched in May to become a part of the nation's international police force which guards American possessions and nationals thruout the world. Out of that door this month will march an unlimited number of recruits.

Any healthy young bachelor between the ages of 18 and 25 who has 20 good teeth, feet with arches, and eyes that can distinguish red from green is welcome there now. Twenty-four hours after his enlistment, he will be on his way to the recruit depot at San Diego, Cal., to begin training.

In a wartorn world, the strength of the marine corps has become of vital importance, for it is a protective, rather than a warrior force. If the United States army lands on foreign soil, it is considered a prelude to a declaration of war, but the marines may land with impunity and without dire consequences. Possibly for this reason the corps' strength has been ordered increased from 25,000 to 34,000.

In slack times, it took six or eight weeks before a young man enlisting in Chicago could get into action or training. The barriers have been let down now, so that in 24 hours he is on his way to California at the government's expense. There he dons his new uniforms and settles down for six weeks' training.

He learns to wash his own clothes and to drill. He spends two weeks at the rifle range, learning how to handle the Springfield rifle, pistol, automatic rifle, 30 and 50 caliber machine guns [the latter for antiaircraft defense] 5 inch guns, hand grenades, and other weapons.

If he shows aptitude, he may be assigned to special duty in such branches as the air service, the intelligence division, or communications [radio, telephone, and signal]. If possible, he is placed in the division he wishes. Some 50 per cent prefer Asiatic duty [Peiping, Tientsin, Shanghai, or Manila], 30 per cent prefer sea duty [all battleships and heavy cruisers carry marine detachments], and 10 per cent prefer aviation.

His service, in conjunction with his duty of guarding navy property, may carry him all over the world.

No matter where he may be, however, he has a chance for study and advancement by means of the Marine institute, the corps' educational system. Thru the institute he may study, by correspondence, such varied subjects as civil engineering and aeromechanics. All courses are free.

The average young man who joins the marines is 19. If he is taller than 6 feet 2 inches, or shorter than 5 feet 4 inches, he might as well not enter Room 706. He'll never become a big, bronzed guardian of his country. He'll be rejected, as will be all his countrymen who have flat feet or otherwise fall below marine corps requirements.

400 Attend Banquet

Four hundred marines, including former and active members of the corps, gathered at a banquet in the La Salle hotel last night for their 10th annual reunion. Quite by coincidence, the union fell two days after the 22d anniversary of the battle of Chateau-Thierry in which the marines helped stem the German advance toward Paris.

Arthur J. Murphy, an ex-marine who was wounded at Chateau-Thierry and in the Argonne and now is a Chicago attorney, was toastmaster. "The marines are always faithful," he told the 400. "We think that is something to be proud of now more than ever before."

RESERVES STUDY MOBILIZATION AT FOUR ARMY FORTS

Intensive Training Given 200 Officers.

About 200 reserve officers from Illinois, Michigan and Wisconsin are on active duty taking training in mobilization, headquarters of the 6th corps area revealed yesterday. The reservists have been in training for one week and will continue for another week, the announcement said.

Most of the group is concentrated at Fort Sheridan. Others are at Fort Wayne and Fort Brady, in Michigan, and at Camp McCoy, Wis. They are studying the operation of so-called "reception centers" for newly enlisted men in the event of a national emergency.

All Branches Represented.

Lieut. Gen. Stanley H. Ford, corps area commander, explained that these reserve officers would be among the first called in the event of a general mobilization, so each is being given special peace-time training to qualify for a definite position in the army's mobilization plan. All branches of the service are represented among the men now under training.

War department plans contemplate three "reception centers" in the corps area—Fort Sheridan, Camp Grant, and Fort Wayne in Detroit. From these centers, troops would be sent immediately to any threatened front, after enlisting, processing, classifying, and equipping had been accomplished.

Reception Center Practice.

During the coming week operations at Fort Sheridan will be carried out in the "reception center" as tho the army were receiving its initial wartime recruits. About 150 enlisted men will play the rôles of the recruits. They will be taken by the reserve officers thru each step in the processing program, with careful classification for distribution in the shortest time the goal.

The "recruits" will be received, given equipment, housed, fed, and then directed, on paper, to their new station. With 150 "recruits" on hand, the operation can be repeated 150 times to familiarize the reserve officers in the process. They will be aided by 100 enlisted clerks who have had specialized training in mobilization procedure.

VIENNA BIRTH RATE SOARS; CLINICS AND HOSPITALS CROWDED

VIENNA, June 8.—The birth rate of this former Austrian capital city has risen so fast that hospitals and sanitariums are unable to accommodate all the mothers and expectant mothers. This was revealed in an announcement saying that the city adminstration had established a special section of the health department to assure the expectant mothers of careful attention before, during, and after childbirth if they are unable to obtain accommodation in the already overcrowded maternity clinics.

PLAN FOR HEAVY WAR PURCHASES IN CHICAGO TOLD

500 Concerns Surveyed in Ordnance Study.

BY WAYNE THOMIS.

The war department is prepared to order 650 million dollars worth of ordnance material in the Chicago area on the day the United States declares war on any nation. This was disclosed here yesterday by Col. Donald Armstrong, executive officer of the Chicago ordnance district. The orders, he said, probably would be distributed among 500 concerns.

The majority of these companies, Col. Armstrong said, are within the Chicagoland industrial area, but others are in northern Indiana, Wisconsin, Minnesota, and Iowa. Over a period of years many of these manufacturers have received educational orders from the war department to acquaint them with problems involved in producing fuses, bomb cases, shell cases, cannon, arms, and other ordnance goods needed in quantity by an army in wartime.

Peacetime Buying Competitive.

While the "M-day" or moblization day program is definitely drawn up, there is no way to determine just what proportion of the current 1,100 million dollar rearmament appropriation may be spent here, Col. Armstrong said. Legal restrictions demand that army buying in peacetime be conducted by competitive bidding. Orders for ordnance goods under the President's program will go to the low bidders, he said.

"The Chicago district is one of the most important in the entire country," said Col. Armstrong, "because it is in a protected location between the eastern coastal mountain ranges and the Rockies. In my opinion the greatest possible concentration of war orders ought to go into this protected area.

"Unless the requirement for placing orders by bid is waived for the current program there may develop an unfortunate concentration of orders in a particular area, should a number of bids be obtained by the same manufacturer.

Wide Distribution Best.

"This well might cause a loss of equilibrium in raw materials, labor supply, and transport, and subsequently in the production facilities themselves. If you have a large program it obviously is advantageous for military as well as economic reasons to distribute the load as widely as possible."

Col. Armstrong said that for years the Chicago ordnance office, in accordance with army efforts to stay abreast of industrial developments, has studied the Chicago area in an effort to keep posted on its possibilities as a center for war material production. Officers stationed here, he added, have made personal surveys of more than 500 factories within the ordnance district, and a new and up-to-date report on the district is just being completed.

The survey was not exhaustive, because of lack of personnel, Col. Armstrong said. He said the war department is anxious to have manufacturers whose plants have not been visited and surveyed for ordnance production to report at once. Col. Armstrong's office is at 309 West Jackson boulevard.

The Chicago Association of Commerce and many business men here have appealed to Washington to use this city's industrial facilities in the current rearmament program.

BOY, 6, BRUISED BY 45 FOOT FALL IN SUBWAY HOLE

A boy, 6 years old, was bruised last night when he fell into a subway excavation 45 feet deep at the intersection of North and Clybourn avenues and Dayton street. The boy, Frederick Lawrence Polo, 1581 Clybourn avenue, was taken to the Alexian Brothers hospital, where physicians were amazed that he had escaped more serious hurts.

He was playing near the excavation with his brother, Colman, 5, when he slipped and fell to the bottom. David Williams, colored doorman at the Golden Ox restaurant, 1578 Clybourn avenue, climbed down a ladder into the excavation and carried the boy out.

Neighborhood residents said the excavation is only partly covered and barricaded loosely by saw horses instead of fences.

Pets in Park Show

The things that children admire most about their pets and boast about to the "other kids on the block" determined winners at the third annual children's pet show yesterday in Lincoln park.

Prizes were given for the dog with the longest tail, the largest ears and the longest hair. The homeliest dog, the best groomed, the oldest, the longest, and the smallest were also winners. Ribbons were given for the most beautiful cat, the oldest, and the prettiest, as well as for other pets which the judges considered.

Pets entered by boys and girls from 6 to 16 years old included dogs, cats, squirrels, rabbits, white rats, chickens, birds, and turtles. The show was sponsored by the park district and the Orphans of the Storm, a north shore animal haven.

U. I. Senior Is Awarded $1,000 Architecture Prize

Urbana, Ill., June 8 [Special].—Charles W. Sanders of Boulder, Colo., who will be graduated Monday from the University of Illinois, won first prize of $1,000 given by the Edward L. Ryerson fellowship committee for the design of "a town hall in Massachusetts," the university announced today. Two undergraduate students of architecture from the Universities of Illinois, Michigan, Minnesota, and Cincinnati, and from Ohio State, Iowa State, and Armour institute compete for the award. Illinois undergraduates have won the award in eight of the fourteen years it has been given.

BILL TO COMPEL ARMY TRAINING BEING PREPARED

Calls for Registration of Men 18 to 65.

New York, June 8 [Special].—A bill to require compulsory military training in the United States now is being prepared and soon will be ready for presentation to congress, it was announced tonight. The proposed legislation is being sponsored by the Military Training Camps association.

The bill will call for:

1. Registration of all male citizens between the ages of 18 and 65, and registration of male aliens of that age group who have taken out first citizenship papers.

2. Peace time liability of all male citizens between the ages of 21 and 45 for military training at the call of the President.

Provides Home Defense Training.

3. War time liability of all male citizens from 21 to 45 for regular military training.

4. War time liability of all male citizens from 18 to 21 and from 45 to 65 for military training for purposes of home defense.

In announcing that the military training bill is being drafted, Col. Julius Ochs Adler, a member of the MTCA, said that between 70 and 80 per cent of those between the ages of 21 and 32 would be taken for military training as well as 10 to 15 per cent of those between 32 and 38, and 3 to 7 per cent of those between 38 and 45.

Col. Adler made his announcement before about 250 Princeton university alumni at a meeting held in Princeton, N. J., in conjunction with the annual campus program for returning graduates. The alumni adopted a resolution approving universal compulsory military training.

Adler Urges Full Support.

Full support of the proposed legislation was urged by Col. Adler. He warned that the United States is in danger, and that the present system of voluntary recruiting for the army has proved inadequate for times of stress.

Col. Adler declared that if France and England were to fall, Germany would be in a position to build a fleet sufficient to make possible an invasion of this country.

"I don't say that Hitler is coming tomorrow," he said, "but in two years he could build a fleet with which we could not cope. The Nazi ideology is a threat to our institutions."

Warn Boats to Clear Fort During Big Gun Practice

Officials at Fort Sheridan warned Lake Michigan shippers yesterday that the water offshore from the fort would be a danger zone from noon to 4 p. m. tomorrow, Tuesday, Thursday, Friday, and a week from tomorrow, when the 61st coast artillery will be firing anti-aircraft and machine guns.

REPUDIATE PLAN FOR DRAFTING OF WEALTH IN WAR

New Dealers Prefer British Scheme.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Senator Josh Lee.

Washington, D. C., June 8.—President Roosevelt has turned thumbs down on the scheme of Senator Josh Lee [D., Okla.] to draft wealth in time of war, it was authoritatively learned today.

The senator introduced a bill calling for forced loans in the event of war early in 1939. Under the bill the government would be empowered to issue 50 year bonds which would bear interest at the rate of 1 per cent a year.

How They'd Be Sold.

Individuals would be required to purchase bonds on a basis of a percentage of their wealth. A person with a net wealth of $1,000 to $10,000 would be required to spend 5 per cent of his wealth in bond purchases. The percentage would rise to 75 per cent for persons with a net wealth of over 100 million dollars.

Lee conferred during the week with Jerome Frank, chairman of the Securities and Exchange commission, and Lauchlin Currie, administrative assistant on fiscal matters to the President, in a reported effort to enlist administration support of his measure.

Both expressed disfavor of the senator's plan and are said to have told him that if forced loans should be necessary they prefer the plan of J. M. Keynes, British economist, who would force loans on a percentage basis and rebate only a part of the loans at the end of the war and wipe out the rest as taxes.

New Measure Refused.

Lee called upon Frank and Currie to draft a measure which would embody their view on raising funds in wartime. They refused to do so, it was reported, unless they are called upon to act by the President.

The administration officials opposed the Lee plan on the ground that it would destroy rather than create wealth. The scheme was developed in congress at a time when the country believed that munitions makers constituted the only cause which might lead the nation into war, and the measure was introduced in the hope that its stringent provisions would frighten them off war mongering.

Now that the war danger of American envolvement of war has shifted to politicians as a class, the Lee measure, it was said, has lost what utility it had, if any.

Called Inflationary.

Frank and Currie also opposed the measure on the ground that it would bring about inflation.

The Lee bill has been approved by the senate military affairs committee. However, without the administration support, which was denied, the bill cannot hope to be brought to the floor of the senate at this session of congress.

KIRK TO CONFER WITH PRESIDENT ON RIVER CRUISE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Alexander Kirk.

Washington, D. C., June 8.—President Roosevelt arranged a conference on the presidential yacht Potomac today with Alexander C. Kirk, American charge d'affairés at Berlin, who returned to Washington this week to report on the European scene as viewed from Germany's capital.

Kirk has been the senior American diplomat in Berlin since the President recalled Ambassador Hugh Wilson nearly two years ago in protest against persecution of Jews by Nazis.

Another cruise guest is Associate Justice William O. Douglas of the Supreme court. His presence is expected to provoke a flood of stories that he was picked during the voyage to be Mr. Roosevelt's running mate in the latter's campaign for a third term.

Other guests are Mrs. Douglas, Secretary of Commerce Harry Hopkins, Mrs. Betsy Roosevelt, divorced wife of the President's eldest son, James, and Miss Marguerite Lehand, the President's personal secretary. The party will return Sunday afternoon.

Argentine Sailors Attend Funeral of U. S. Soldier

HONOLULU, June 8 (AP).—The Argentine training cruiser La Argentina delayed sailing for Yokohama for five hours yesterday while the ship's captain, officers, cadets and part of her crew attended the funeral of an American army private, Jack E. Burke, 20 years old, of Masontown, Pa. Burke was shot accidentally at a shooting gallery Thursday night by Nicols Fusari, 22, a marine aboard the cruiser.

SLUGGED AND ROBBED OF $70.

Martin Milo, 721 South Western avenue, reported to police yesterday that he was slugged and robbed of $70 by three men in an alley near the elevated station near Western avenue and Van Buren street.

SPAIN NEUTRAL, BUT SOLDIERS IN DROVES BELIE IT

Rationed Populace Fights Hunger and War.

BY MAURICE ENGLISH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, May 20 [By Mail].—When you cross the frontier from Hendaye to Irun and wind thru the foothills of the Pyrenees along a road lined with machine gun pillboxes, to San Sebastian the idea that you are going from a belligerent to a neutral country fades away. Spain is neutral and wants to remain so, altho there are as many soldiers and officers on the street in San Sebastian and Madrid as were to be seen in Paris. A walk in the outskirts of the capital will take you past barracks filled with soldiers and there is no city in Spain without its quota of troops.

GREAT BRITAIN
Paris
Bay of Biscay
FRANCE SPAIN

Map locates border towns in Pyrenees.

The checkup on foreigners, as you discover when a policeman wakes you in your hotel room early in the morning to look at your papers, is just as rigorous as it is in France.

Populace Has Suffered.

In a few days you realize that the neutrality of Spain is less important than the fact that it is a postwar nation—the only one left in Europe—trying to avoid the economic strangulation threatened by the European war. Until the invasion of the Low Countries, at least, the current war was harder on the population of Spain than on either of the allied peoples.

Both France and Spain have rationing systems. But in Spain food is not always easy to get even if a ration card entitles you to it. Meat, sugar, coffee, and many vegetables are rare. When supplies are available it is announced in the newspapers so that lines can form outside the stores. White bread had just reappeared on Spanish tables when the current war began. It disappeared again in a few months and can't be had now even in the most expensive restaurants.

Wheat Harvest Declines.

With a harvest of 4,400,000 tons in normal times, Spain does not need to import wheat. But last year's wheat crop was short 1,100,000 tons. About 800,000 tons must be imported before Sept. 1, 1940. This year's harvest also may prove inadequate, since all the land in the former "Red zone" has not yet been put back into cultivation and the government has been unable to import necessary nitroglycerine fertilizers from Germany and England, which are guarding their supplies.

It has been impossible also to get all the wheat needed from abroad. Despite a trade agreement with France, that country became reluctant to part with its reserves, and very little wheat has come across the Pyrenees. Cargoes earmarked for Spain in Argentine and other South American ports have been held up for months by lack of transport.

Brown Bread Unappetizing.

An unappetizing brown bread is plentiful in restaurants, but is rationed for the populace as a whole. Meat, not lacking in parts of the country where live stock is raised, is harder to get in central Spain. Veal costs twice as much in Madrid than in Galicia.

Thanks to strict government supervision nobody starves in Spain, but the victory has been won at the price of severe restrictions. In order to guard food supplies, a ban has been put on the opening of new restaurants, cafés and bars. Extra rations of bread are given to the working classes, and there are 119 centers run by the social auxiliary of the Falangist party in Madrid alone, where the poorest elements of the population can be sure of obtaining food as well as adequate clothing, and care for children.

People who can afford to eat in restaurants are not affected by the shortage so much, but not many can pay the price. Meals cost twice as much as in New York or in prewar London. Foreign liquors are hard to obtain and sherry is sold for 75 cents a glass. French cognac, rarely obtainable, costs $1.50 a glass. Foreign brands of cigarets are hard to get and cost two to four times their normal price.

RED CROSS SEEKS TO TOP MILLION MARK IN CHICAGO

Red Cross officials here said yesterday that they hoped to raise more than $1,000,000 of the national quota of $20,000,000 for war refugees. The total raised in Chicago to date is $697,081, with the largest gift yesterday being $7,027 from the William Wrigley Jr. company and employés. Other large contributions were $2,387 from officers and employés of Wilson & Co. and an additional $3,500 from the firm itself; $5,000 from the Visking corporation and $1,308 from employés, and $1,000 from Halsey Stuart & Co. and its employés.

BRITAIN'S ENVOY ACTS TO SMOOTH TIES WITH SPAIN

Presents Credentials to Gen. Franco.

BY MAURICE ENGLISH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, Spain, June 8.—Sir Samuel Hoare, Britain's special ambassador to Spain, today formally began the task of smoothing relations between Madrid and London. He presented his credentials to Generalissimo Francisco Franco at Oriente palace as his first official act. The new French envoy, Renom de la Baume, presented his credentials later in the day.

The Spanish genius for pomp was at its best in the elaborate ceremony for Sir Samuel who did not have his regular ambassador's uniform due to his speedy trip from England. He was attired in the uniform of an Elder Brother of Trinity, which is usually worn publicly only by the British prime minister and king.

Salute Envoy.

White capped, red coated Moorish lancers on horseback escorted Sir Samuel to the palace where Hussars [household guards] were drawn up. Thousands lined the way from the British embassy, some giving the Falangist [Fascist] salute from the sidewalks and apartment windows.

The sprightly envoy, whose Spanish is not the most fluent, made a brief speech in English in which he assured Generalissimo Franco that Britain wishes to see "Spain strong, powerful, and exercising in Europe the influence that is due her historic position."

Generalissimo Franco replied in Spanish. He promised the "collaboration of my government and new Spain" in harmonious relations with Britain and expressed satisfaction with Hoare's pro-Nationalist stand during the Spanish civil war. Afterward, the two chatted a few moments in French.

Students Shout for "Gibraltar."

What offers Sir Samuel will make to checkmate the Falangists who have been encouraged by Italian and German sources in their demand for Gibraltar is a closed secret. It was indicated that they are more substantial than just good will.

Sir Samuel is reported dissatisfied with the activities of the embassy and propaganda services, as compared with the high powered Italian and German machines. He is reported to have put the British staff on its toes in an attempt to counteract pessimism, which is outspoken even in pro-allied circles here.

980 Japanese Immgirate to Philippines in 4 Months

MANILA, P. I., June 8 (AP).—While the national assembly was considering the immigration quota bill the first four months of this year, 980 Japanese entered the Philippines, official figures disclosed today. The bill, vigorously protested by the Japanese, was passed April 12 and awaits presidential action. It reduces annual quotas from 1,000 to 500.

GEN. PERSHING URGES 'UNLIMITED' MILITARY SUPPLIES FOR ALLIES

Washington, D. C., June 8 (AP)—Gen. John J. Pershing today urged the United States to send the allies "unlimited quantities" of airplanes, artillery, small arms, and ammunition, as well as food, clothing and medical supplies.

Gen. Pershing.
[A. P. Wirephoto.]

Appealing for contributions to the Red Cross, the commander of the American world war army declared the allies are fighting "a war for civilization" and are "holding our front line."

"We have a vital concern in the outcome," he said.

Pershing said he is heartily in favor of compulsory military service in this country. He added that if such a plan were adopted, an immediate expansion of the army would be possible in case of a threatened invasion. He recalled that the training of recruits for world war duty required many months. Asserting that "there is no time to lose," Pershing continued: "The allies need every encouragement it is possible for us to give."

MARKET-FRESH!—five or six days, even longer, after you place your foods into your Westinghouse Refrigerator they are still tasty, flavorful, nutritious, as though bought that day.

MONEY SAVED!—because you can buy in low-priced quantities, take advantage of specials, actually use and enjoy your leftovers. There's less shrinkage, too.

TIME SAVED!—fewer trips to market, and fewer telephoned orders.

HEALTHY APPETITES!—because proper cold and humidity for each kind of food is a help in serving tempting meals—always!

DIAL THE COLD YOU WANT WITH True-Temp Control

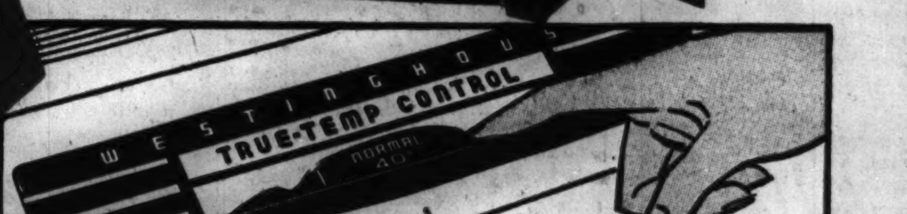
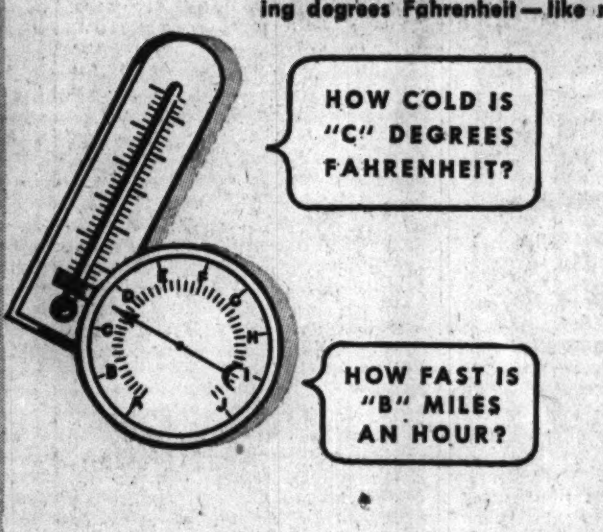
LS-6-40 WITH CONVENTIONAL TEMPERATURE CONTROL

Compare the VALUE ONLY $114.75 WITH ANY OTHER!

Just imagine it! A big, NEW 1940 Westinghouse Refrigerator priced with the lowest! Not a small, low-capacity model, but a generous size to hold all your food safely—more than 6 CUBIC FEET of useful storage space! Model LS-6-40 has the newest cabinet design, finished in gleaming white DULUX on heavy BONDERIZED steel. It has the new, moisture-proof FIBERGLAS insulation, which saves you money by cutting heat losses as much as 10% over previous insulation. The SANALLOY Super Freezer gives you all the ice you can use, plus extra space for frozen storage. And this model, like all others, is powered with the Westinghouse ECONOMIZER hermetically-sealed mechanism—the ONLY mechanism that has been KITCHEN-PROVED to use current only 2 hours out of 12! For a genuine bargain-seeking thrill, see the Westinghouse Special Model LS-6-40 at dealers listed at the right.



You can read the temperature you are getting in plain figures indicating degrees Fahrenheit—like mileage figures on your speedometer.



HOW COLD IS "C" DEGREES FAHRENHEIT?
HOW FAST IS "B" MILES AN HOUR?

When you have selected the temperature you want by plain figures (indicating degrees Fahrenheit) you know that True-Temp control will maintain that temperature steadily, regardless of ups and downs in the temperature outside the refrigerator.

THE A. F. OF L. AND THE GANGSTERS.

The International Ladies' Garment Workers has voted to rejoin the American Federation of Labor. Its convention did so after receiving intimations that its delegates to the coming A. F. of L. convention will receive support in a campaign to drive gangsters from control of unions.

It is not entirely clear in what form these intimations reached the garment workers' delegates. Certain they didn't get them from reading the daily papers during the last week.

They didn't get any such intimation, for instance, from the account of the appearance of President Green of the A. F. of L. before the convention at Louisville of the Stage Hands and Motion Picture Operators' union. Mr. Green praised that union and noted the fact that the A. F. of L. has no "super-government" at the top with power to remove officials of an autonomous international union.

The following day George Browne of Chicago, president of the international, gave the convention an extended defense of his pal, Willie Bioff, international representative of the union. Willie is doing time for pandering in the Chicago Bridewell. When he gets out he faces federal income tax prosecution. The federal charges include one that he took $100,000 from Joseph Schenck, motion picture producer who employs some of the people Bioff is supposed to represent.

Browne noted that John P. Nick of St. Louis had resigned as first vice president of the international, but failed to mention that a St. Louis court has found that Nick sold out the members of his union in a wage negotiation for a $10,000 bribe. Among the other leaders of the union of which Mr. Green said the A. F. of L. is proud are Nick Circella, alias Nick Dean, who is Browne's personal representative in Chicago and is a Capone gunman with a prison record, and Sam Kaplan of New York, who is back in union office after serving a prison term for coercion of union members.

The garment workers' delegates might also have seen in the papers the charges made in Chicago courts that Frank Nitti, Louis Romano, Murray Humphreys, and other members of the Capone gang have muscled into control of the bartenders' union in this city, with its income of nearly $200,000 a year. They would not have seen in those stories any demand by Mr. Green or any other A. F. of L. leader that the authorities act to take these vermin off the backs of working members of the A. F. of L., but they might have seen the statement of Edward Flore, international president of the union, that sought to portray the exposure of the Capone gangsters as a mere factional quarrel in the Chicago union.

The delegates probably noted that while their convention was in session George Scalise, the white slaver who was recently ousted as international president of the building service employés' union, was indicted on the charge of stealing $60,087 of the dues he collected from scrubwomen and janitors. It may have come to their attention that some time ago Mr. Green was one of those who sought a presidential pardon to restore to Scalise the civil rights he lost by reason of his white slavery conviction.

Mr. Dubinsky and his delegates may have read statements by some A. F. of L. leaders denouncing indictment of labor leaders for violation of the antitrust laws. Did they also read, by chance, that one subject of an antitrust investigation in Chicago is the disposition of an estimated $2,500,000 in graft collected by Mike Carrozzo, the gangster boss of the street laborers' union?

The American Federation of Labor has benefited immensely during the last three years from favorable public opinion arising in large part from its more orderly methods of organizing labor and bargaining with employers, as contrasted with the revolutionary tactics of the C. I. O. It is in danger of losing that advantage unless it does something effective to drive hoodlums from its ranks. Between a communist and a gangster there is no choice. They are equally bad for labor unions and equally dangerous to the communities in which they operate.

AN ILLIBERAL COURT.

The Supreme court has upheld the validity of an order of the school board of Minersville, Pa., requiring teachers and children to salute the flag. The regulation had been attacked on behalf of two children, members of the religious sect known as Jehovah's Witnesses. To persons of this faith the salute is forbidden as a form of idolatry. The contention that the regulation violated the religious liberty guaranteed by the constitution was upheld by the United States District court and the Circuit Court of Appeals. The Supreme court thought otherwise. Mr. Justice Frankfurter in the majority opinion held that freedom of belief is not an absolute right as against the conflicting claim of national unity.

The decision offers additional evidence that the court as it is now constituted does not deserve to be called liberal. In a close case like this one the liberal will decide for the individual and against the government. He will resolve his doubts on the side of liberty. Mr. Roosevelt has created a court which resolves doubts against the citizen and for the coercive state. It is a Supreme court which believes that the burocrats are almost always right and the individual is almost always wrong. That kind of court can be called socialist, but it should never be called liberal.

THE GREATER DANGER.

The country may soon feel the consequences of eight years of financial mismanagement at Washington. Thoughtful men have repeatedly warned Mr. Roosevelt that he was gambling with national security when he spent billions of borrowed money on boondoggling, because if the credit was badly strained in peacetime, we would be unable to withstand wild and disastrous inflation if some unforeseen international emergency should arise.

Mr. Roosevelt replied to these warnings that some bankers told him in 1933 that the national debt could be raised to 55 billion dollars or even to 70 billion dollars without serious danger to the national credit. The President then was taken severely to task by economists and bankers, and he was asked to name his authorities, but he has never done so. The national debt now is approaching the 45 billion dollar mark, the present legal limit. A proposal to lift the maximum to 49 billions will be approved shortly. But even this is not a stopping place.

Mr. Roosevelt's lower danger limit of 55 billion dollars even in peace would certainly be penetrated early in a third Roosevelt term, and the upper limit of 70 billions exceeded before the term was finished. It is difficult to see how financial disaster is to be averted if the country has either war or Roosevelt to reckon with, not to speak of what might happen if it has both.

Last week a house subcommittee approved further boosts in income taxes. Single persons earning over $800 and married persons over $2,000 are now to be taxed. Surtax rates are boosted on incomes below $100,000, being severely drastic in the $4,000 to $50,000 range. The all round 10 per cent raise in tax bills already voted is in addition.

The proposed increases will make worse a bad situation. John W. Hanes, who was until recently undersecretary of the treasury, and left office on the best of terms with Mr. Roosevelt, said in a speech last week in Chicago that a reduction of taxes on the higher incomes was a necessary step in preparedness. He pointed out that the 1935 law advancing the rate on the highest incomes to 79 per cent was adopted not for revenue but to soak the rich. Its effect, he said, was to make it impossible for our wealthier citizens to invest their money in enterprises which are in need of capital.

As a result of the deterrent to the flow of money into private enterprise, the plant equipment of industrial companies has declined from 41 billion dollars to 32 billion dollars; whereas at the past rate of growth it would have risen to 48 billion dollars by this time. Soaking the rich meant keeping 17 billion dollars from going to work. Mr. Roosevelt's latest tax plan is to make the deterrent still greater by raising the maximum rate to nearly 87 per cent. In the panel of new advisers Mr. Roosevelt recently appointed there was none charged with telling him how to put the finances of the country in order.

The new tax bill, hastily improvised, will, it is estimated, produce a billion dollars against the many extra billions that are being voted. Members of congress have become aware of the financial danger which confronts the country. Millard E. Tydings, the Democratic senator from Maryland, declared Monday that congress ought to provide 3 billion dollars in taxes to pay for the military and naval spending bill. He said that "unless immediate action is taken to finance the defense programs, the savings, the life insurance, and all that men have struggled for will be in jeopardy." And he added, "We are more in danger of financial collapse than we are of being attacked by a foreign power."

CONGRESSIONAL ADJOURNMENT.

Normally, in a campaign year, congress seeks an early adjournment. The members want to get home to devote all their time and attention to the political campaign. As a rule there is no objection to this course.

This year an exception should be made. Events are moving with great rapidity in Europe and the outcome of the fighting there may call for decisions of the greatest importance in this country. In such circumstances it is desirable that congress remain in session if only to call for explanations of executive acts and thus require reasoned justification for any steps which are taken.

The summers are hot in Washington, but congressmen who are aware of their responsibilities will not hesitate to sacrifice their own comfort to the national good. They may succeed in saving a good many thousands of American lives by so doing.

THE LEGION'S LEADER TALKS ON WAR.

Raymond J. Kelly, national commander of the American Legion, urged before a Chicago audience that the foreign policy of the United States be made one of practical measures. Since this country is not half prepared to defend itself, our entry into the war would not only be an error but a futile gesture, he said.

Mr. Kelly is the spokesman for the men in this country who know best what war is. The Legionnaires are one group that not even the most rabid war monger can accuse of quailing before the danger of battle. They have faced it. Few of their number, and none of their responsible leaders, can be found among those who are bawling for war.

Both personally and as the commander of the Legion, Mr. Kelly deserves a respectful hearing when he talks of our entry into the war. He knows what he is talking about.

Editorial of the Day

NEW GENERALS.

[Baltimore Evening Sun.]

Gen. Sir Edmund Ironside has been placed in command of the British home forces in this hour of imminent invasion of England. On April 5, 1940, Ironside said:

"The German army is a wonderful machine, but it lacks commanding officers. No German commander now was above the rank of captain in the world war, whereas Britain and France have many more experienced commanders, colonels, and generals galore. There may be genius in Germany, but I do not know of it."

But in France Weygand has just got rid of 15 generals and filled their places with younger men, few of whom were above the rank of captain in the world war—and that, surely, is a hopeful note. It means that in the minds of these new generals the concept of war has not crystalized; they will not be thinking in terms of warfare as it was conducted a quarter of a century ago. They can see genius in Germany and thus may be able to understand, solve, and overcome the German attack. Gamelin, whom Weygand displaced, probably had a more thoro grasp of the classic concept of war than any man alive. Supreme within that classic frame, he might well have been the allied hero at this moment if only the Germans had fought this second world war along the old lines which he understood so well. For it seems plain that he visualized no essential changes, aside from technical improvements in weapons and materials. The German innovations caught him unprepared and unable to make quick mental adjustments. Weygand, though of Gamelin's generation, apparently possesses a more flexible mind—and he now has 15 young generals to aid him.

For the sake of England, menaced as never before, it is to be hoped that Ironside is now able to see how far from the mark was his speech of a month ago; that he will admit that there is genius in Germany and that he will not hesitate to call upon the younger members of his staff to cope with it.

IF AMERICA GOES INTO WAR OUR YOUTH MUST GO TO FIGHT

BY P. F. GAULT.

It is generally recognized that the people in this country are resolved that American boys shall not again be sent abroad to perish on the often fought over battlefields of Europe, and the President is understood to be on record accordingly.

There is nevertheless in circulation a most deceptive and insidious form of propaganda to the effect that we can participate in this war for the avowed purpose of influencing its course and outcome without committing our youth to foreign battlefields.

Some proponents of foreign involvement are frank enough to admit that they propose what are recognized as acts of war, but they seem to believe that it is possible actively to participate in the war without being required to furnish troops. Others, either thru self-deception or for the purpose of deceiving others, advocate what are called "measures short of war," but these measures are universally recognized as acts of war.

Advocates of intervention either assert or endeavor to create the impression that the empires do not need men and consequently we could become belligerents in fact without calling upon our youth to fight on foreign fields. Their argument, as will be shown, is based upon a false premise, and in addition overlooks the vital circumstance that once we become a belligerent the fateful decision is irrevocably made and the supplying of troops will follow as a matter of necessity.

Some of us still remember that when our entrance into the world war was being discussed it was asserted repeatedly that the allies had ample resources in men and the contribution of this country to the allies' cause would be confined to unlimited credit, cash, equipment, and supplies. Next there was talk of a small "token army" to demonstrate solidarity, and finally, at great expense, we raised a vast military force, a large part of which became the A. E. F. That is the history of the trend of events in the world war when the allies were supposed not to be in need of man power. There is a similarity between the situation existing during the world war and that now presented. That is to say, there is discernible no reasonable prospect that the empires can win a short war. It is true that this war may be a short one, but the available indications are that if it is concluded at a reasonably early date it will result in the defeat of the allies. It seems equally clear, therefore, that our country to become a belligerent would amount either to backing a lost cause or to the furnishing of troops for a long war.

When the course of the world war is compared with available evidence now presented the conclusion is impelling that the need of the allies for men is far greater and more urgent than during the world war, as indicated by the following, among other circumstances:

1. During the world war there was an eastern front, held in some measure by the vast Russian hordes until the disorganization created by the Red revolution.

2. Italy supported the allies during the world war and that country now appears on the verge of entering the war on the other side.

3. Belgium remained with the allies thruout the world war.

4. The forces of Great Britain and France had not suffered such a complete debacle and consequent loss of men and material as the recent battle of Flanders.

5. Germany and Austria in this war are understood to be under a single political and military control.

6. Newspaper accounts indicate that Great Britain deems it necessary to maintain a large army for the defense of the British Isles, composed of first class troops as distinguished from militia or home guards.

7. During the world war a substantial number of colonial troops were used in France by the allies. There are no indications of the presence of an Indian army in France at this time, and there are indications, confirmed by recent newspaper accounts, that all forces raised in India must be retained there for the defense of that part of the empire. There are references to African troops in France, but it is hard to believe that natives snared from the sands of the Sahara and the jungles of darkest Africa, while perhaps efficient with bayonet and native knife, could be of much immediate value in mechanized warfare.

8. Another aspect of the point just mentioned is that in this country the use of the gasoline engine and of gasoline propelled motor vehicles is so common and widespread on the farm, on the highways, and in connection with normal home life, that it would seem a safe assumption that a far larger proportion of our man power has some knowledge at least of such machinery and its operation than have the men of military age of France and Great Britain.

The belief is compelling that once we were committed to the allied cause the larger part of our forces, with their equipment, shortly would be in Europe and there would be few survivors from those corps of splendid young men.

There is still another circumstance not to be lost sight of, and that is that during the world war Gen. Pershing, with great determination, took the stand that the youth of this country would not be used as replacements for the French and British armies, and in this he was supported, with perhaps some appearance of reluctance, by President Wilson. There is no assurance that once we were to become involved this time we should have a military leader of equal foresight and determination, and even less assurance of presidential support. There are still some who well remember how drafted men, with only the rudiments of training in the school of the soldier and of the squad, were sent to France as replacements for American organizations. This suggests the possibility of our young men being sent abroad as replacements for French and British armies after only a few weeks of preliminary training.

There are other considerations which might be mentioned, demonstrating that participation in this war means eventually supplying of American youth for foreign battlefields, among which, for example, is the impossibility of maintaining the morale of the French and British peoples should they be required to be witnesses to the destruction of their youth while ours should remain in safety.

In closing permit me to congratulate you and your paper on your great and patriotic stand against our country's being entangled in European ventures and participation in another foreign war.

WHEN HEART DISEASE ISN'T.

MANY of us fail to realize that the pumping organ is delicately adjusted to the state of the emotions. It will act up or occasion symptoms that may be misunderstood or interpreted as serious. In such a situation we call the show which it puts on "functional"—meaning that there is some interference with performance without the slightest change in the structure itself or in any of its parts. A large number of those who seek medical advice because of such manifestations—which they are convinced come from the heart—will be found to be perfectly normal.

The problem that faces the physician does not lie in treating the cardiac apparatus—because it is neither ill nor diseased—but in so managing the body as a whole that emotional upsets shall be reduced to the minimum. For example, an unstable nervous system may be blamed directly for such complaints as breathlessness, palpitation, sweating, dizziness, or pain in the chest on ordinary exertion. Now these characteristics are so clear cut that after they recur a few times the individual may become heart conscious and demand a careful examination.

Then comes the ticklish part of the whole matter, as the medical man must decide whether anxiety or disease is the explanation. Sometimes the difference may be spotted quickly as the spurious signs will be obvious—the patient exhibiting cold hands and feet, tremors, lack of confidence, and weakness. Occasionally it is well to have a metabolic test in order to rule out a thyroid gland disorder. If the rate is normal, rest in bed for what was supposed to be a failing heart would be useless. Naturally, the history will be taken and if an attack of rheumatic fever has been experienced—far greater care will be exercised.

It is probably not too much to say that persistent worrying about one's heart may lead to symptoms. If we wish for or anticipate trouble it will often oblige us by appearing. This in turn may be responsible for palpitation. The patient will assert that the organ pounds or leaps or he may observe that on placing the hand over the abdomen he can feel pulsations. Thin persons can always do this and what they detect is merely the natural throbbing of the abdominal aorta. But this has no more relation to heart disease than a cinder in the eye.

Other nervous sensations will include the feeling that the lump is rising in the throat, turning somersaults, or stopping and then starting again with a great rush of contractions. Once a skipped beat is discovered the victim may feel his pulse—as a matter of habit—for weeks thereafter. Ninety-nine times out of 100 none of these episodes indicates disease. They are merely reflex phenomena which come from other areas of the body.

While pain in the chest should never be disregarded—as it may signify angina or coronary derangement—nevertheless a dull ache or a sharp twinge is rarely of moment. If the chest wall is tender we may be certain that a heart malady is not the cause. There is such a thing as neuralgia or muscle discomfort which may affect the thorax just as readily as the hand. Many cases of breathlessness are relieved by exercise and some will mistake persistent sighing for the inability to inspire deeply. Such men and women are likely to faint easily and frequently a modest meal is all that is necessary—plus a little more exertion.

We may look upon the heart as a great clown altho its activities may prove most disturbing. But it does its work along with its play acting. It will settle down to its aforetime steady behavior just as soon as fear is banished. In some instances a mild sedative—one that will dull the edge of apprehension—will prove a useful aid. While true heart disease is all too common, no one should accept the dictum that he has a weak structure or that it will fail him in time of need—at least until some organic difficulty has been proved conclusively.

ITCHING LIDS.

H. W. S. writes: What causes the very edges of my eyelids to itch?

REPLY.

Your trouble is known as blepharitis. In some forms the lids will be glued together in the morning. For general health a tonic is indicated — one that contains iron. Cod-liver oil is often helpful. The parts should be cleansed several times daily with boric acid solution or hydrogen peroxide. Apply the cleansing fluid by means of a wisp of clean cotton wound about the end of a toothpick. Yellow oxide of mercury ointment is frequently prescribed. Consult an eye specialist if the malady does not clear up promptly.

STOPPED SMOKING.

R. writes: You say that when a person stops smoking he is usually nervous—at least for a time. I quit and I wasn't. How about it?

REPLY.

You are the exception. From many years of observation, I would say that 95 per cent or more of those who give up the habit abruptly become jittery. Not long ago a friend—who was using tobacco excessively—stopped the weed peremptorily. After a month his wife begged him to resume smoking. It was either that or a divorce. Gradual withdrawal is preferable—three cigars instead of 10, and, later, one instead of three.

BABY CAN'T WALK.

T. C. writes: Is it unusual for a boy 22 months old not to be able to walk?

REPLY.

Not inconsistent with good health, but slower than usual. It may be advisable to ask the family doctor to check development and make certain that all is well.

TODAY IN HISTORY

June 9, 1780

The American frigate Protector, with 200 men commanded by Capt. Williams, engaged the British ship Admiral Duff on the Newfoundland banks. The Duff was a large ship, laden with sugar and tobacco from Jamaica for London. The Protector opened the battle with a broadside. Most of the fighting was at close range, and at one point the two ships were locked together. Heavy action lasted for three hours, at the end of which the Duff caught fire and blew up. The American ship lost only one killed and five wounded, but later a large part of the crew suffered from tropical fever, brought aboard by rescued prisoners.

DON QUIXOTE'S TACTICS.

Chicago, June 4.—More than 335 years ago Cervantes wrote of war, in his "Don Quixote":

"Diligence is the mother of success; and we have found the greatest success in war still to depend on expedition and dispatch, by preventing the enemy's design, and forcing a victory before an assault is expected. My inference from this . . . is, that our residence in the castle appears nothing conducive to our designs, but may prove dangerous; for we may reasonably suppose that our enemy the Giant may learn by spies, or some other secret intelligence, the secret of our intentions and consequently fortify himself in some inexpugnable fortress against the power of our utmost endeavors. . . . Let us therefore, by our diligence and sudden departure hence, prevent any such his designs, and force our good fortune, by missing no opportunity that we may lay hold of."

Of war today—'nuff said.

SPOTLIGHT.

WHAT SOFT AMERICA NEEDS.

Iowa City, Ia., June 5.—In his address to congress last month President Roosevelt urged a "toughness of moral and physical fiber" in the American people. I wish he had included intellectual toughness as well, since without it the other two will not take us far. For well over a generation now the schools, on which wealth has been lavished by the millions, have taught children and adolescents play instead of study, to choose easy subjects in the curriculum instead of harder ones, to seek enjoyment instead of work, to be self-willed instead of disciplined to the responsibilities of a normal life.

This system is now producing letter perfect candidates for the PWA, and has been installed by highly paid experts in education. More recently a militant faction within this group has been trying to use the schools to instill a distrust of the American way of life and government and an admiration for foreign isms. This is the form of fifth column activities which, as most deadly in its ultimate results, is more to be feared than any other brand.

What America most needs today is self-discipline. In default of that history shows that a military dictatorship will supply the lack. God spare us that development!

ROY C. FLICKINGER.

GEN. CLINNIN'S WARNING.

Chicago, June 4.—The war situation has created a frenzied mind condition among some groups of our American citizens and this tends to disturb great numbers of our people and spreads seeds of dissension at a time when we should be united to preserve peace and good will thruout the nation.

Some groups advocate the formation of civilian G. P. U.s to spy on their neighbors to ascertain whether they are allied with any fifth column movement. Our experience in 1917 and 1918 teaches us that great harm and much injustice is done by arraying friends and neighbors against each other under the guise of counter-espionage.

The inquiry and gathering of evidence against enemies from within should be handled by skilled agents of the government and the police of the city and state, not by amateur civilian spies whose desire to be classed as sleuths leads to the injury of the good name of many law abiding citizens by half baked conclusions based upon idle gossip and hearsay evidence.

Other groups would organize civilian snipers from rifle and shotgun experts to cope with parachute jumpers from enemy planes. These groups would be duly executed as noncombatant snipers by any of the enemy's combat troops. If our experts are desirous of exercising their skill as marksmen let them join the army, navy, or National Guard, wear the uniform and submit to discipline, carry out the orders of their superior officers, who will direct when to shoot, and thus relieve them of the burden of individual judgment as to whom they shall kill.

Our united efforts are needed to keep these United States out of war, protect our liberty and constitutional government, and fight, if necessary, when these rights are assailed or endangered.

JOHN V. CLINNIN.

MAKE SCREENS SECURE!

Chicago, June 5.—Please start a movement for greater safety for our little ones. I noted the accident to little Charles Yanca.

It is so simple to make screens secure by hooking them to window frames. Use two inch hooks with screw eye. Where there are small children one can reënforce screen with strips of wire securely fastened to screen frame.

The janitors' union might take this up as a safety measure.

Please put this before the mothers.

FOR AMERICA.

Chicago, June 4.—Ye Gods! We have the Bund, the White Eagles, the English Speaking union, the Friends of France, but where are the Friends of America? Everybody seems to be going about gnashing teeth and talking about the terrible times in Europe. Okay, but what about the times and people here?

If we have to fight all these guys we might as well move back to Europe and leave our peaceful continent to the Indians.

FINDS IT'S HIS HABIT.

Chicago, June 6.—As a stockholder in the world's largest corporation, I listened to my President, as is his habit, slinging mud at business men. They must not be allowed to "grow rich and fat," but now can they when the politicians are growing so rich and fat that there are no leavings?

A President of a private corporation who shows continuous inefficiency over the years, lack of vision, and runs his company hopelessly into debt is asked to resign or else.

WILLIAM RAPP.

FROM A SOCIAL WORKER.

Chicago, June 5.—As one of the 6,000 registrants at the National Conference of Social Workers I consider myself in a position to respond to Stuart P. Williamson's unfair attack. Only one of the 55 associated groups was responsible for the action he described. I agree that the behavior of those persons who joined the strikers in Grand Rapids was disgusting and they had no business doing so.

Only representatives of the Joint Committee of Trade Unions in Social Work, a small independent group, accepted the invitation of Reuben Peters, regional director of the United Automobile Workers, C. I. O. Unfortunately their presence in the picket line puts all the rest of us in a bad light.

Those actions were not the sentiments of the general conference, but of a mere handful of social workers. If I had felt that the national conference had any "pink" tinge in its program I would certainly have withdrawn. True, many of the theories and practices proposed seemed radical, because they were new and different, but within a few years all will agree that they are progressive moves.

And even Miss Perkins should not be reprimanded for her participation in the conference program. At the join luncheon she gave an excellent talk on the rôle of religion in the life of a child and stressed the great need for more moral training. And if that is communism I miss my guess. She made no comment publicly on the existing strike.

HAITCH ZEE.

DEWEY'S AGE NO HANDICAP.

Oak Park, Ill., June 3.—All objections voiced against Thomas E. Dewey's candidacy for President, on the claim that he is too young and lacks experience, come altogether from New Dealers who fear him. They fear his demonstrated ability as a vote getter; fear his concise, comprehensive plan announced for recovering our national welfare; fear his ability as an organizer, shown in organizing and directing his large force of assistants for the successful campaign he is waging against well organized criminals; fear that if he becomes President he will appoint a capable attorney general to direct the prosecution of some New Dealers guilty of misappropriating funds and buying elections.

In my opinion genius and ability are inherent qualities rather than the products of age or training only. For example, Alexander Hamilton was about 22 when he served capably as an aide on Gen. Washington's staff. He organized our monetary system and became the first secretary of the United States treasury before reaching the age of 30. And when Col. Lindbergh laid out the world's principal airways now in use he was much younger than Dewey's present age.

TRAFFIC TIEUPS ON WEST SIDE VEX MOTORISTS

Need for Superhighway Is Called Desperate.

BY HAL FOUST.

West side motorists are complaining that traffic congestion east of Union park to the loop has become intolerable. In the morning rush hours a heavy flow of four lanes east bound in one way Warren boulevard is jammed into two lanes of Washington boulevard to move only intermittently.

Shoppers and loop workers are caught in this daily blockade. Drivers mutter. Passengers glance at wrist watches. All they see ahead is automobiles, packed bumper to bumper, stalled or jogging slowly forward.

It Works Both Ways.

In the evening there's a similar drama of exasperation at this same location, west bound at this time of the day. An occasional north or south bound truck will force its way thru the parade. An occasional reckless driver will swing to the left side of the boulevard, jeopardizing east bound traffic, and then crowd back into his own side of the pavement by threatening the fenders of his fellow sufferers. After passing Union park, the one-way control in Washington boulevard to Garfield park eases the strain.

Traffic speed studies and police accident records agree that the west side is most desperately in need of a thorofare, at least something of the character of the outer drives that lead north and south from the central business district.

"Necessity dictates a west side superhighway as a certain eventuality," Charles M. Hayes, president of the Chicago Motor club, said yesterday. "Federal, state, county, and city officials cannot forever deny the city this improvement."

A Bungled Political Stew.

The Illinois legislature last June passed bills authorizing Chicago and Cook county to finance superhighway construction by obligating future gas tax revenue. The preliminary engineering was a bungled political stew. The legislation was unconstitutional, said the Illinois Supreme court.

So the advocates of superhighway construction were left where they were 10 years ago when this promotion was in its infancy—except that a definite public acceptance and public demand have grown to full maturity in the last decade. Construction now awaits a new financial plan and real engineering for a city-wide system.

"For prompt relief from this Washington boulevard congestion," Mr. Hayes continued, "the east bound traffic from Warren boulevard could be given the exclusive use of Washington east of Union park to Michigan avenue. West bound traffic from the outer drive to Union park could use Randolph street. This improvement in the use of existing pavements could be inaugurated at a nominal cost."

Otto K. Jelinek, traffic engineer for the Chicago park district, a couple of years ago prepared a plan for this pair of one-way streets between Union park and Michigan avenue. His cost estimate, including resurfacing, rearranging car tracks, and a connecting drive thru Union park between Randolph and Washington, was $1,115,946.

"The traffic capacity on this eastern end of Washington boulevard would be doubled by this one-way plan," said Mr. Jelinek. "Minutes would be saved by thousands of motorists daily. The accident hazard is less on a one-way than on a two-way street."

Several aldermen in the city council objected to relinquishing Randolph street to the jurisdiction of the park district. A few commission merchants in the Randolph street market protested. A few downtown retailers and realty owners thought one-way traffic control would be detrimental to their business interests. Mr. Jelinek's plan to facilitate motor travel to and from the loop thru the near west side was dropped into a pigeon hole of a council committee.

Internal Revenue Collector Quits to Run for Governor

Washington, D. C., June 8 (AP).—The resignation of W. H. PLAN FLAG DAY SERVICE AT G. O. P. STATE CONCLAVE

The Illinois Republican state convention in Springfield next Friday falls on Flag day and the convention program will include recognition of the patriotic observance. Dr. Elroy F. Cigrand of Aurora, son of the late Dr. B. J. Cigrand, original sponsor of Flag day and one of the founders of the American Flag Day association, will take part in the proceedings.

Dr. Elroy F. Cigrand.

The elder Cigrand, who was a trustee of the Chicago public library under three mayors, originally proposed observance of the anniversary of the adoption on June 14, 1777, of the Stars and Stripes by the Continental congress. He pressed the proposal before patriotic organizations year after year until the Flag Day association was formed in the old Grand Pacific hotel in Chicago in 1894. It was not until 1916 that President Wilson issued the first Flag day proclamation.

New North Side Relief Office Opens Tomorrow

Leo M. Lyons, relief commissioner, announced yesterday that the Chicago Relief administration will open a second intake office for relief applications tomorrow. It will be at 2544 North avenue and will receive applications from eligible persons who live north of the North Western railway tracks and north of the Chicago river.

POLITICIANS RUSH TO CASH IN ON BIG DEFENSE OUTLAY

Washington, D. C., June 8 (AP).—Hoping to use "national defense" as a magic password thru usual restrictions, hundreds of state, county, and municipal officials are storming relief headquarters with a wide assortment of projects.

Normally states and local governments are required to pay 25 per cent or more of the cost of WPA projects, but the $1,073,584,916 relief bill now pending in the senate would cut away this and other usual restrictions when projects qualify for national defense.

Consequently, officials anxious to get a slice of the funds have been quick to push projects they hope can qualify.

Col. F. C. Harrington, army officer who bosses WPA, told senator about this when the senate appropriations committee wrote these provisions into the annual relief measure.

Harrington said some local delegations were saying "you ought to build a courthouse in the county seat from the national defense standpoint."

Sen. Richard B. Russell [D., Ga.] observed that "every airfield in the country that embraces more than 50 acres will be here with a proposal for a defense project."

DEMOCRATS FEAR ROOSEVELT WILL AID LA FOLLETTE

Wisconsin Parley Bares Party Uncertainty.

BY THORNTON SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Green Bay, Wis., June 8.—The Democratic state convention met here today in an atmosphere of fear that President Roosevelt again would leave the Democrats out on a limb by giving his support, secretly or openly, to Robert M. La Follette, Progressive, for reëlection to the United States senate. The convention recommended an assortment of possible candidates for the primary.

The fear of presidential support for La Follette was expressed by Willis Donley of Menominie, an attorney, who was recommended by the convention nominating committee as a candidate for nomination for attorney general.

"I refuse to have my name submitted for any office until and unless I have the assurance from the candidate for President that he intends to support every candidate chosen by the Democrats of Wisconsin," Donley asserted from the platform in declining to be a candidate.

Charges Tieup with La Follettes.

That there was some sort of an agreement between the New Deal and Senator La Follette was hinted publicly and charged privately by James T. Cavanaugh of Antigo. He fathered a resolution, which was adopted, to compel candidates supported by the convention and the party to demonstrate that they are and have been Democrats. He said in an interview the resolution was directed at La Follette "whether the President likes it or not."

"I feared," he said, "an agreement by party higher-ups to try to swing Democratic votes to La Follette."

A resolutions committee recommendation for an open primary was adopted, but it seemed to be nullified in part when a selection of candidates for state office was submitted. The committee tried unsuccessfully to avoid recommendation of candidates for the United States senate or congressional offices, its resolution declaring that endorsement for these offices might be made later.

Candidates recommended by the nominating committee and approved by the convention were: For governor, Dr. J. H. Wallis of Rice Lake, W. B. Rubin of Milwaukee, and W. E. O'Brien of Kenosha.

State treasurer, John Ringle Jr. of Wausau, John Flanigan of La Crosse, and Dr. B. B. Krygier of Milwaukee.

Attorney general, Willis Donley of Menomonie and Leo Bruemner of Kewaunee.

Callahan's Name Offered.

The name of William R. Callahan for nomination for governor was offered from the floor and accepted by the convention. So were the names of Harvey R. Habeck and James A. Finnegan of Milwaukee for attorney general.

Finnegan later withdrew his name as did Dr. Krygier for treasurer, and Donley for attorney general.

There were six nominations from the floor for the United States senate. Those named were Chairman Carroll, Thomas O'Malley, lame duck congressman from the fifth district, now serving as regional wage and hour law director; John M. Cudahy, United States ambassador to Belgium; Gerald Clifford, Green Bay attorney; Daniel H. Grady, Portage attorney and former university regent, and James J. Kerwin of Milwaukee, chairman of the state conservative coalition movement.

12th District G. O. P. Delegates

This is the first in a series of sketches of downstate district delegates to the Republican national convention who will share the task of picking the G. O. P. candidate for President. The delegates from the 12th district are the subjects of today's sketches.

Ernest H. Pool.

Ernest E. Smith.

Ernest H. Pool has lived in Ottawa ever since his birth there June 5, 1894. He was graduated from the University of Illinois and has practiced law for 20 years.

Soon after the start of the world war he attended the officers' training camp at Fort Sheridan and was sent overseas with the 26th infantry regiment. In France he won the Croix de Guerre and the American Silver Star. He was a captain at the time of his discharge.

From 1920 to 1924 Pool was assistant state's attorney of La Salle county. Later he entered private practice with William I. Hibbs, with whom he still is associated.

Pool is married and has two children, a son and a daughter. He lives at 428 Pearl street, Ottawa.

Ernst E. Smith is not a politician. He is president of the Rockford Symphony orchestra and past president of the Rockford Boys' club. He also formerly was president of the Rockford Rotary club and was a director of the Rockford Chamber of Commerce, which now is headed by his son, Stanton K. Smith.

His only previous political experience was six years service as a member of the Rockford city council before he retired 15 years ago.

Smith is head of the oil company founded by his father, C. G. Smith. He heads two building corporations.

He was born in Freeport 64 years ago. During the world war he led the Rockford organization that raised funds for service work among American soldiers and sailors abroad. He is married and has two children. His home is at 1525 National avenue, Rockford.

DEWEY AND TAFT RATED LEADERS FOR NOMINATION

G. O. P. Foreign Policy Big Convention Issue.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 8.—Two weeks from next Monday the Republican party will meet at Philadelphia in a national convention that will be one of the most momentous in its history.

It will nominate a candidate for president to lead the opposition to the reëlection of President Roosevelt to a third term.

It will adopt a platform which in general will do these things:

1. Outline the foreign policy the Republican party, if returned to power, would pursue to safeguard the United States from involvement in foreign war.
2. Propose a program to overcome the deficiencies in our national defense, particularly with reference to the mobilization of industry for mass production on a gigantic scale of the aircraft, arms, ammunition and other army and navy equipment essential to impregnable defenses.
3. Chart a course designed to restore an economy of abundance based on a system of free private enterprise.

At Work for Two Years.

Ordinarily a national political convention fashions its platform in the space of 48 hours. The Republicans started more than two years ago to build their 1940 platform when they formed the Frank committee, representing all groups of their party, all sections of the country, labor, agriculture and industry to formulate a program.

The committee a few weeks ago reported its conclusions which will be laid before the convention's resolutions committee for consideration in the framing of the platform.

Another unusual step was Republican National Chairman John Hamilton's call to the prospective members of the resolutions committee to meet at Philadelphia a week ahead of the convention to begin the work of platform making.

Candidates of Ability.

The group of Republican leaders from which the party will choose its candidates for president and vice president is distinguished for outstanding ability.

There will be 1,000 delegates in the convention and 501 votes will be necessary to a choice. On the eve of the convention it does not appear likely that there will be a nomination on the first ballot.

The leading contenders are District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey of New York and Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio. The Dewey managers claim they will have from 400 to 450 votes on the first ballot. If their expectations should be realized it would be exceedingly difficult for the combined opposition to prevent the nomination of Mr. Dewey.

The indications, however, are that the Dewey strength will fall considerably below his managers' estimates on the first ballot and that the contest will become a free for all battle on succeeding roll calls.

Dark Horses on Sidelines.

The Taft managers are claiming 350 votes for their candidate on the first ballot and are unwilling to concede Dewey as many as 300. Whether the Taft claims are exaggerated or not the balloting is going to start as a fight between Dewey and Taft with the other avowed aspirants and dark horses on the sidelines.

Third in point of initial strength will be Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan. His managers are confident that neither Dewey nor Taft can win and that Vandenberg's chances are gilt edged. They calculate that Taft and Dewey will fight each other to a standstill and that in the ensuing deadlock the convention will turn to Vandenberg for the nominee.

Dewey has made a spectacular race for the nomination. He swept the presidential primaries and attained the stature of an outstanding popular choice. He took a strong stand against involvement in the European war which enhanced his popularity west of the Alleghenies but at the same time impaired his strength along the interventionist Atlantic seaboard.

At the same time Dewey is engaged in a fierce struggle in his own state with Republican National Committeeman Kenneth Simpson, who opposed Dewey's candidacy almost from the start. Simpson declared Dewey unfitted for the office of President.

Willkie in Limelight.

If none of the three leading contenders should make the grade the convention will turn to the dark horse field. There is increasing talk of the nomination of Herbert Hoover, particularly among opponents of Dewey. But Wendell Willkie is the dark horse enjoying the full glare of the limelight at the moment.

Willkie draws his strength mainly from the Atlantic seaboard where in addition to his penetrating and forceful analysis of the depressing effect of the New Deal on private enterprise his attitude on the war has appealed strongly to interventionists. On that issue he may have drawn some convention votes away from Dewey in the east. Willkie might have 30 or 40 votes on the first ballot.

End Benton's Responsibility for Housing Federal Court

Washington, D. C., June 8 (AP).—President Roosevelt today sighed a bill relieving the local authorities of Benton, Ill., from the responsibility of providing facilities for federal District court there, without cost to the United States. Federal judge Fred. L. Wham of the eastern Illinois district had recommended to the house judiciary committee the acquisition of more adequate accommodations for the federal court.

FIVE INJURED IN AUTO WRECK.

Taylorville, Ill., June 8 [Special].—The automobile of A. A. Edwards of St. Louis, Mo., crashed into a concrete abutment on state route 48 near here last night during a rainstorm, sending five persons to a hospital.

CARLTON G. MOREHOUSE, 2000 LINCOLN PARK WEST, tells how he found a bargain in a late model used car

"AS an independent insurance broker, I drive a car about 15,000 miles a year in business. In addition, my wife and I take a couple of long trips every year. Last year we went to both Florida and California.

"We had a 1937 Cadillac convertible coupe, model 60. It still ran fine, but it had 45,000 miles on it and I thought it was about time to trade it in.

"I always read the Tribune want ads. The Lost and Found, the Machinery and Equipment and the Real Estate columns interest me particularly, even tho I may not be in the market at the moment. So I glanced at the used car columns and saw that the Cadillac people had a 1938 Standard coupe for sale.

"I called at their store at 2258 S. Michigan Ave., and talked to Mr. Frank J. Cullerton, used car sales manager.

"When he learned that I use a car for both business and occasional long trips, he called my attention to this 1938 Cadillac 60 Special 4-door sedan.

"I was sold on it at first sight and so was my wife. It was light gray in color, and clean as a whistle. It had gone only 17,000 miles. They made us an allowance of $505 on the old car, leaving a cash difference of $595. As far as I am concerned it was a very swell deal, and thanks to Tribune want ads for helping us to find it."

GET A LATE MODEL!

• BEFORE YOU DECIDE to spend anything on repairs, tires, batteries, or any of the other things your present car may need, find out how little money will buy you one of the smart looking late model used cars now on the market at attractive prices.

New car sales in Cook county during April beat all April figures on record. This came right on the heels of a sales record for the first three months of 1940 which was up 22% over 1929.

With a correspondingly larger number of late-model used cars taken in trade, dealers are pricing the trade-ins to keep them moving. As a result, your opportunity to get a bargain in the make and model you prefer is the best in years.

USED CAR DEALERS: Thru Tribune want ads you can reach practically every motor car owner and prospect in Chicago and suburbs.

"The response to our Tribune want advertising has been gratifying."

"We want you to know how highly pleased we are with the results we have been getting from our Tribune want ads during the last several months.

"Thru the use of your paper we have succeeded in convincing a great many prospects that cars reconditioned by Cadillac represent the very best value on the market.

"The response to our Tribune want advertising has been gratifying from the standpoint of both quality and quantity."

Very truly yours,

If Your Ankles Swell You Can't Feel Well

Do your ankles swell, or are you tired and worn out a lot of the time with dark circles under your eyes? If so, the cause may be functional rather than organic or systemic Kidney trouble. The Kidneys work night and day cleaning and filtering excess acids, poisons and wastes from your blood. Because they never get a real rest it's easy to see that as you grow older the Kidneys may get tired functionally and slow down. Then excess acids and wastes may accumulate and poison your system. So if your ankles swell or you have to get up nights or suffer burning, scanty or frequent passages, backache or nervousness, due to non-organic or non-systemic Kidney or Bladder troubles, you'll make no mistake in trying the prescription called Cystex. Because it has been so successful in so high a percentage of such cases, Cystex is sold under a positive guarantee of money back on return of empty package unless completely satisfactory to you. Cystex now costs only 35c at druggists and the guarantee protects you.

MR. CROMWELL HAS A POLITICAL POT SIMMERING

His Foes Are Preparing Some Hot Water.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Trenton, N. J., June 8.—Already the Jersey political pot is starting to simmer over the Democratic nominee for United States senator, James H. R. Cromwell, one of the nation's leading playboys and former short term minister to Canada.

New Jersey Democrats, prodded slightly by Boss Frank Hague of Jersey City, went to the polls in May and called upon Cromwell to be their nominee for the senate. He accepted and resigned his diplomatic post. President Roosevelt sent him a "Dear Jim" letter wishing him success.

A Diplomatic Buildup.

By way of a swift buildup for the senatorial race, Mr. Roosevelt dispatched Cromwell to Canada in January. Similarly, Charles Edison was made secretary of the navy and is now Democratic nominee for governor of New Jersey, and Cromwell's running mate. Cromwell trailed Edison by 13,400 votes in the primary.

Upon his arrival in Ottawa, Cromwell requested the assembled press of the Dominion capital to refrain from calling him "Mr. Doris Duke" and "to forget all this richest-girl-in-the-world stuff." A high water mark in Cromwell's career was his marriage to Doris Duke, the tobacco heiress, in 1935.

Minister Cromwell stayed in Canada long enough to let fly a violent pro-British speech in which he roasted the isolationists in his own country. The state department rebuked him. The White House denied reports the chief executive knew what Cromwell was going to say.

"Dollar Diplomacy."

Senator W. Warren Barbour, Cromwell's doughty Republican opponent, probably will have something to say about "dollar diplomacy" during the campaign. It is recalled that Doris Duke Cromwell shelled out $50,000 to the Roosevelt election campaign of 1936 and made other contributions to the Democratic party in New Jersey.

Dollars might not have been everything, however, because Cromwell and his chief see eye to eye on a number of things. Their monetary theories coincide in spots and both are gutta percha dollar enthusiasts. Both went into business with highly negative results. Both profess to be in politics for the benefit of the common man. Neither one has much use for the constitution.

The President and the aspirant for the Jersey senate seat both had fashionable educations and enjoy impeccable social ratings. Cromwell is renowned as a thrower of parties where "hot dogs" are served, a folksy touch one finds at Roosevelt shindigs.

Among other things, Cromwell is an amateur economist, and the Jersey electorate may find his views expressed in several published works. The most outstanding are his books, "Voice of Young America" and "In Defense of Capitalism." An engineer named Hugo E. Czerwonky was his co-author in this latter.

Senator Barbour will not let the voters forget that his rival on page 13 of "The Voice of Young America" referred to the United States constitution as "sacrosanct, outworn, and demoralizing, a millstone around the necks of the people." This country could not recover from its ills, Cromwell set forth, until this "fundamental cancer" [the constitution] was removed.

Cromwell proposed that this country copy British governmental institutions and advocated a "commercial and military alliance with the British empire."

"Negative Interest" Plain.

His principal economy theory is that of synchronizing the flow of dollars with the flow of finished consumer goods. He panicked a congressional hearing one day by proposing a "negative interest" plan wherein the federal reserve board would pay 6 per cent for the privilege of lending money.

Cromwell is 44 years old and the stepson of E. T. Stotesbury, Philadelphia financier. He attended the swanky Fay school of Southboro, Mass.; Lawrenceville, and the Wharton school of Economics at the University of Pennsylvania. In college he made a name for himself as champion amateur boxer and once at Palm Beach went three rounds with Tommy Loughran when the latter was light heavyweight champ.

From 1920 to 1930 Cromwell was married to Delphine Dodge, automotive heiress, and for a time was a partner in Drexel & Co., investment bankers of Philadelphia.

Then Cromwell became president of the American Improvement company, which promted the Floranada club, a "second Biarritz" on the Florida coast below Palm Beach. The names of foreign royalty as well as the Dodges and Stotesburys were used to attract buyers. The scheme collapsed in 1926 with losses of six million dollars to the stockholders.

During the last year, possibly with the run for the senate in prospect, Cromwell has paid up approximately $300,000 in various judgments obtained against him in New York City. Another real estate project that went sour was the Cromwell Arms apartment building which he erected in New York City. Cromwell was vice president of the Peerless Motor Car corporation, which folded during the stock market decline ten years ago.

Cromwell was divorced in 1930. After his marriage to Doris Duke they spent an 11 months' honeymoon traveling about the world.

Between them the Cromwells have a number of residences. Their main abodes are the 2,400 acre Somerville, N. J., estate stuffed with dogs, horses, lakes, and woods filled with wild game, and Shangri-La, their elaborate hideaway in Hawaii. They commute by air between Shangri-La and Somerville.

TEST YOUR HORSE SENSE

BY DR. GEORGE W. CRANE.

Select the answer which you consider best. The last problem counts 5 points. Then look for the correct answers in part 2, page 10.

1. An artist painted a pastoral scene. Did it depict a group of clergymen trees airplanes skyscrapers
2. Which of the following can change its color? Gnu chamois tortoise chameleon
3. The Bible character who had a wrestling match with an angel was Shem Jonah Jacob Elijah
4. Which of the following is a coniferous tree? Oak pine willow poplar
5. The world record in the pole vault is approximately 11 feet 13 feet 15 feet 17 feet
6. Here is another game of "Stepping Stones." If I asked you to go from dog to cat in three steps, you could do so by this method: "Dog-cog-cot-cat," in which you are allowed to change only one letter per step. In the problems below, you are entitled to one point for the first, 2 points for the second, and 2 for the third.
   - [a] Go from pot to pan in 2 steps.
   - [b] Go from boy to man in 3 steps.
   - [c] Go from sick to well in 4 steps.

Score yourself as follows: 0-2, poor; 3-6, average; 7-8, superior; 9-10, very superior. [Note—The last question counts five points.]

Editor Drowns in River When Boat Overturns

Evansville, Ind., June 8 [Special].—Guy Bowsher, 35 years old, telegraph editor of the Evansville Courier, drowned in the Ohio river here today when a small boat capsized. Richard Frawley, owner of the boat, and Robert Renneisen, Courier sports writer, reached shore safely. Bowsher's father, Guy Sr., was for many years chief of police at Terre Taute, Ind. Other survivors include his widow and a daughter.

CORRECTION

In our Sunday Diamond Advertisement in Part 1, Section 2, Page 2, we advertised a 1½ carat diamond solitaire at $279.50.

This was a typographical error and should have been described as a 1⅓ carat diamond at $279.50, which is a money-saving value.

BURNED IN TRAILER BLAST.

Peoria, Ill., June 8 (AP).—Dr. Atley Frampton, a Philadelphia dentist, was burned seriously today when an exploding gasoline stove demolished his automobile trailer. His wife, who was preparing breakfast, escaped, but was trapped while fighting the blaze.

COUNCIL MOVES TO FINISH 1919 LAKE FRONT PLAN

Many Terms of Ordinance Still Not Met.

The 1919 lake front ordinance which gave the city, south park district, and the Illinois Central railroad certain rights along the downtown lake front is again to come up for discussion before the aldermanic committee.

City engineers were assigned recently to study the ordinance and its present status. On Tuesday, a council subcommittee headed by Ald. William T. Murphy [17th] will receive from the engineers a chronological report of the ordinance.

The ordinance originally cited certain important steps the railroad was to take, including the construction of a new passenger terminal and certain viaducts and electrification of parts of the system. The ordinance also specified that the railroad relinquish riparian rights.

Many Clauses Slighted.

With the advent of the depression many clauses of the ordinance were slighted because of lack of funds. Recently the question of fulfilling terms of the ordinance was revived by Ald. James J. Kovarik [15th], chairman of the council railway terminals committee.

Work accomplished under terms of the ordinance by the railroad includes: Electrification of all suburban operations; partial electrification of freight lines and operation of the rest with Diesel-electric locomotives; construction of the Randolph street suburban station; construction of an approach to the 22d street viaduct; depression of certain tracks; surrender to the Park district of certain lands and riparian rights, and dedication to the city of a strip of land across the railroad tracks at 87th street for the opening of 87th street.

Work Still to Be Done.

Work yet to be completed by the railroad includes electrification of thru passenger service and construction of a new Roosevelt road passenger station. The report says, "The railroad contends it is impossible to design a station until it knows the number of tenant companies which might call upon it for accommodation in the station."

Murphy said the subcommittee will hold public hearings on the question and will endeavor to determine what tenant railroads might use a consolidated lake front terminal if the terms of the ordinance are carried out.

Major work to be completed by the city in conformity with the ordinance is the construction of the proposed Wacked drive viaduct, along the south bank of the Chicago river from Michigan avenue to the Outer drive bridge, and the Roosevelt road viaduct across the Illinois Central tracks. The report points out that the Roosevelt road viaduct construction hinges upon completion of a new passenger terminal either at Roosevelt road or at Randolph street.

JAIL 4 IN REVEL AT WPA PROJECT; SEIZE MANAGER

Bottle Smashes Sheriff's Windshield at Scene.

Hanaford, Ill., June 8 [Special].—Hanaford's WPA recreational project, recently condemned as a public nuisance and a waste of taxpayers' money, was the center of a new community storm today following a dance last night which irate citizens termed a carousal.

The WPA frolic was climaxed by a beer bottle being hurled thru the windshield of Sheriff Ed Powell's automobile when he responded to a call to stop the disturbance. Officers arrested five men, including Roscoe Anthony, manager of the project.

Village trustees formally demanded three months ago that federal aid be withdrawn from the government youth center, which they charged was a place where drinking, gambling, and other immoralities were permitted.

Their protests were overridden, however, by government investigators who conducted an inquiry and gave the project a clean bill of health.

Hillbilly Band on Hand.

Last night the center's monthly dance was held, with a hillbilly orchestra banging away far into the night. Village President C. J. Cairel said residents, aroused from sleep, complained to him to take some action to stop the disturbance.

Cairel sent for Sheriff Powell at nearby Benton, the county seat. As the sheriff drove up to the scene of the revelry, a beer bottle hit his windshield. The officer, a man of temperance, was more than indignant. He promptly arrested four of the merrymakers and took them to Benton where they were locked in the county jail. The noise was replaced by the customary quiet of the village of 300.

Three of those arrested were released today after the fourth, Joseph Ciepley, 21 years old, admitted he tossed the bottle. He said he hadn't intended to hit the sheriff's car; that he had been drinking beer and tossed the bottle away just as the officer approached.

Manager Posts Bail.

A warrant for the arrest of Anthony, charging him with operating a dance hall without a village license, was obtained today by Cairel. The village passed the ordinance in an effort to curb revelry at the youth center after the failure of efforts to induce the sponsoring WPA to take some action.

Anthony was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Theodore Neunlist in Hanaford, where he posted bond of $200 to guarantee his appearance in court next Friday.

The recreational center has been in operation about two and a half years at a cost to the government of approximately $500 a month. Seven persons are employed steadily at the project.

It is considered an unnecessary luxury for the residents of Hanaford. The village, formerly called Logan, once was a thriving mining town of about 1,500 inhabitants, but it virtually has been abandoned since the mines were closed several years ago.

DIES OF INJURIES SUFFERED IN ROW OVER EX-WIFE

Edward Caske, 37 years old, a truck driver, died last night in Alexian Brothers hospital of injuries which police said were suffered in a fight over his ex-wife. Helmuth Jagdman, 45, of 3221 North Leavitt street, a machinist, accused as Caske's assailant, is under arrest. According to Detectives Frank Raia and Fred Susebach of the Sheffield avenue station, Caske, his former wife, Mrs. Anna Caske, 2705 Bosworth avenue, and Jagdman attended a party on May 26. After the party all three started for Caske's home at 2506 Southport avenue. Caske and Jagdman got into a fight over Mrs. Caske, police said, and Jagdman hit Caske. The latter fell, fracturing his skull on the pavement.

FIX CASE JUROR BACKS UP WIRE TAPPING CHARGE

Mrs. Martha Aumond.

Mrs. Martha Aumond, 36 years old, a defendant with Attorney George Crane and four others in the so-called jury fix case, testified yesterday in support of the defense contention that the state obtained its evidence illegally thru wire tapping.

Judge James F. Fardy then continued until tomorrow the hearing on the defense motion to suppress the evidence. Attorney William Scott Stewart said he would bring in telephone company records and more witnesses to testify they saw investigators tapping wires.

The defendants were indicted on charges of bribery and conspiracy after Sam Orlando and Joseph Vinci, 11th ward Democratic workers, were acquitted of election fraud last Dec. 20. Mrs. Aumond, a member of the jury, was accused of taking a $100 bribe.

Yesterday Mrs. Aumond testified, to back up the tapping charge, that police in the state's attorney's office later had "kidded" her about phone conversations she had with her sister in Flemish. Mrs. Aumond lives at 6234½ Blackstone avenue.

Boy, 9, Slips and Falls to His Death in the River

Salvatore Gonzales, 9 years old, 260 West 24th street, drowned yesterday at 24th and Canal streets when he slipped and fell into the river while playing. Coast guardsmen recovered the body.

A BANDIT EMPLOYS STRATEGY TO ESCAPE, BUT IT'S WRONG KIND

The robber who forced L. G. Robbins, manager of a cigar store at 201 South Wabash avenue, to surrender $28 yesterday afternoon thought it would be easy to escape in a taxicab. This was a mistake.

He stopped a cab driven by A. C. Jacobsen, 2135 Michigan avenue. But as he was stepping in a newspaper boy shouted that the would-be passenger was a holdup man. Jacobsen tried to hold the passenger, but he leaped out and fled to another taxi. Jacobsen pursued, picked up Policeman Walter Karlblom at State and Randolph streets, and the pair of them caught the fugitive a block farther west.

At the central station the robber said he was John Karvelis of 10717 Michigan avenue. He was recently discharged from the United States army.

ERIE MERCHANT'S WIDOW DIES.

Erie, Ill., June 8 [Special].—Mrs. Fannie Swederus, 71 years old, died this morning. She was the widow of S. A. Swederus, former Erie business man.

ELDER DAUGHTER OF VANDERBILT GETS A DIVORCE

New York, June 8 [Special].—Cathleen Vanderbilt Cushing Lowman, half sister of Gloria L. Vanderbilt, 16 years old, surprised family and friends today with a divorce, obtained yesterday in Havana, Cuba.

The decree, her second, severed her marriage to Lawrence W. Lowman, a radio executive with whom she generally was believed to be living in Connecticut. The proceedings were conducted with as much secrecy as surrounded her marriage in August, 1932, to Lowman. Mrs. Lowman, now 36, became a bride for the second time a week after she divorced Harry C. Cushing III.

Her father was the late Reginald C. Vanderbilt, who was divorced and in 1923, at 42, married Gloria Morgan Vanderbilt, then 17. Cathleen, then 19, became the bride of Cushing a few months later. Vanderbilt died in 1925, Cathleen sharing his estate with her half sister, Gloria, pawn in the court battle between her mother and her aunt.

SLUGGED AND ROBBED OF $32.

Stewart Herst, 1236 Madison Park street, was slugged and robbed of $32 yesterday by a colored gunman at 58th street and the Outer drive.

HELLO, AMERICA! MEET CITIZENS OF TOMORROW!

Group to Be Tribune Guest at W-G-N Program.

BY PHILIP MAXWELL.

Do you sometimes wonder what is going to become of America? If you have fears for the country's future read every word of this story. For here are reported the accomplishments of 50 brilliant young folk — Citizens of Tomorrow. Forty-seven of them will be guests of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE Wednesday night at the half-hour radio program heard on W-G-N from 7 to 7:30 o'clock.

They are leaders in their schools and communities. They are presidents of high school student bodies, valedictorians, and athletes. They will come to this last of the first series of 11 broadcasts dedicated to the youth of America from more than 40 cities, towns, and villages of Chicagoland—Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Iowa, and Wisconsin.

Students from Broad Field.

Some are sons and daughters of widowed mothers; some come from rich, some from poor families. Many are working their way thru high school. Every one expects to go on to higher education.

The education of several of them was delayed by serious illness; one of them, 35 years old, is being graduated from high school this year.

On Wednesday they will be fêted by two Chicago organizations and will see Chicago from the sky aboard a huge airliner before appearing on W-G-N during the Citizens of Tomorrow broadcast. There each will give his or her name, home town, and ambition. Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE TRIBUNE, will speak to them and to 600 other guests in the audience studio, students from Wright Junior college in Chicago.

Here Are Their Accomplishments.

CHICAGO.

Homes of Tomorrow's Citizens

Stars locate the cities in the Chicagoland area from which 50 brilliant young folk—Citizens of Tomorrow—were invited to Chicago as guests of The Chicago Tribune at a half hour W-G-N broadcast Wednesday evening. Where more than one represent a city the number is in the center of the star.

Federal Agents Raid 2 Firms Owing Social Security Taxes

Agents of the bureau of internal revenue made two raids Friday, it was learned yesterday, on Chicago concerns which allegedly had failed to pay social security taxes. At the Gay Paree, a night club at 7919 Cottage Grove avenue, furniture and bar equipment was tagged preparatory to selling. At the restaurant and bar owned by the Roula J. Annes corporation, 57 East Adams street, a stock of liquor was seized.

GREEN QUESTIONS EX-PROSECUTOR'S MINE UNION POST

Selection 'Very Strange,' Says A. F. of L. Chief.

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, said here yesterday that the appointment of Welly K. Hopkins as assistant general counsel for the United Mine Workers of America was "a very strange thing."

Hopkins took his new post June 1 after resigning as special assistant to the United States attorney general and chief of the trial section of the criminal division of the department of justice.

In 1937 Hopkins was chief prosecutor at the trial of 36 members and sympathizers of the Progressive Miners of Illinois in the federal court in Springfield.

Convicted in Train Bombings.

The defendants were convicted on charges of conspiring to obstruct the mails and of interfering with interstate commerce thru train bombings in the civil war in the Illinois coal fields from 1932 to 1935. The Progressives, an A. F. of L. affiliate, were a rebellious offshoot of the United Mine Workers, one of the components of John L. Lewis' Congress of Industrial Organizations.

"Hopkins' new appointment speaks for itself," Green said. "It's very strange that he should now be employed by the United Mine Workers."

Hopkins, a native of Texas, had been a special assistant to the attorney general since 1936.

During the Springfield trial the defendants asserted their prosecution was inspired by Lewis and the United Mine Workers. They charged that the United Mine Workers had flung the first stone in the coal field violence.

The verdict was returned by a jury before Judge Charles G. Briggle on Dec. 18, 1937. On Dec. 28 the judge imposed the maximum penalty of four years' imprisonment and a $20,000 fine on each of the defendants.

Early in 1939 the United States Circuit Court of Appeals in Chicago dismissed two of the defendants and reduced the sentences of the others to two years' imprisonment and a $10,000 fine each. The United States Supreme court refused to hear a further appeal by the defendants, and they are serving their sentences.

FORMER MAYOR HOLT LOSES IN BATTLE TO ESCAPE PRISON TERM

Indianapolis, Ind., June 8 (AP).—Olin R. Holt, former Kokomo mayor, lost in federal court today his last legal move to escape serving a prison term on charges of defrauding the Work Projects administration.

Special Judge J. Leroy Adair of Springfield, Ill., denied Holt's petition for probation from a 15 month prison term and a $5,000 fine. The ex-mayor was turned over at once to a United States marshal to be taken to Leavenworth penitentiary.

He is one of six Kokomo city and WPA officials convicted in May, 1939, of diversion of WPA money to private profit. Sentence of one was suspended. The other four now are serving time. On an appeal, Holt lost, and the United States Supreme court subsequently refused a review of his case.

Baby About 8 Days Old Is Left in Church Pew

The Rev. Henry M. Oenning, pastor of St. Michael's church, 1366 Cleveland avenue, found a baby girl about 8 days old in a pew at the church yesterday morning after an anonymous woman telephone caller had asked that it be baptized and placed in a Catholic home. The baby was taken to St. Vincent's orphanage.

UNIFIED TRACTION SETUP TO RETURN CONTROL TO CITY

3 Man Board Will Replace Commerce Body's Rule.

BY LAURENCE BURD.

The city of Chicago will have complete home rule over its local transportation system for the first time since 1913 under the proposed unified traction ordinance, city traction attorneys said yesterday.

This rule will be in the hands of a three man local transit commission to be appointed by the mayor with the approval of the city council. Its first major problem, attorneys predicted, will be to decide what rates of fare will be charged Chicago's car riders under the transit unification.

Franchise Being Drafted.

The commission's powers and its place in the unification setup were explained by William H. Sexton, city traction counsel. Sexton and other city attorneys are now drafting the proposed unified franchise on which the city and the transit lines reached agreement May 25. The franchise in its final form must be approved by the city council, securities holders of the companies, and by public referendum before it becomes effective.

Chicago's transit lines were regulated locally by city ordinances until 1913 when the state public utilities commission was set up. Subsequently the courts held that the commission had regulatory authority over the lines.

"Chicago's new local transit commission," Sexton said, "will have the power to decide rates of fare, transfer privileges; the value of the transit properties, extensions, and bus substitutions to be made; kinds of equipment to be bought, and all other service aspects of the city's transportation system.

Replaces State Rule.

"On all local transportation matters, it will replace the Illinois Commerce commission, which now has jurisdiction. Orders of the new commission, like those of the commerce commission, will be subject to review by the courts."

Provision for a local transit commission in Chicago was made by the state assembly in 1929. It passed legislation authorizing Chicago to grant a terminable, or indefinitely long, franchise, to a unified system, which would be regulated by a local three man commission. The legislation was held constitutional by the Illinois Supreme court in 1932.

Under the law the merger of the present lines must be approved by the Illinois Commerce commission, but once this has been done and the new company set up, the local commission takes over full jurisdiction. If the proposed ordinance is approved at a referendum vote this summer, the new company probably would be formed sometime next year, officials estimate.

Fare Increases Urged.

The question of fares to be charged is expected to be brought before the commission at once, because transit officials thruout the franchise dispute have contended that a 1 cent increase in street car fares to 8 cents is needed to support the new company.

The companies agreed after months of argument to keep the present fares until Jan. 1, 1942. The unified system, observers predict, will file its request for an 8 cent fare with the new commission as soon as the unification becomes effective. This would be done so that the commission could proceed with a rate investigation before 1942 and be ready to make its decision early in that year.

In such a rate investigation the commission first would determine the capital value of the company's properties and then fix rates of fare to bring a fair rate of return on the valuation, attorneys said.

Has Authority on Extensions.

The new commission also will have authority over about 500 miles of bus extensions and bus substitutions for street cars to be made by the new company as part of a 102 million dollar transit improvement program. It will determine the priority of these additions and changes and have power to modify them if conditions warrant.

The need for the present board of supervising engineers set up under the surface lines ordinances of 1907 will be eliminated. Its duties will be taken over largely by the new commission, officials said. The engineers' board, a three man body named jointly by the city and the lines, supervises expenditures and accounts of the surface lines. The cost of maintaining the board and its staff averages $144,000 a year and is paid by the lines. Salaries of the members of the new transit commission to be determined by the city council, will be paid from the city traction fund.

EMILY L. HILLS DIES; CLASSMATE OF TAD LINCOLN

Mrs. Emily L. Hills, who often recalled having been a classmate of Tad Lincoln, son of President Lincoln, died yesterday in her home at 2256 North Halsted street. She was 87 years old. She had lived in Chicago 85 years and in her Halsted street home for more than 50 years.

Mrs. Hills was brought to Chicago from her birthplace in Banbury, England, in 1855. She lived in the loop area during the civil war period and after the war attended school with Lincoln's son. Mrs. Hills was the widow of James M. Hills, a civil war veteran who for many years was an official of Ogden, Sheldon & Co., a real estate firm. She was a life member of the Art institute, the Lake View Woman's club, and the Woman's City club.

Surviving is a daughter, Miss Grace Boyer Hills. Services will be held at 2:30 p. m. tomorrow in the Church of Our Saviour, 530 Fullerton parkway. Burial will be in Graceland cemetery.

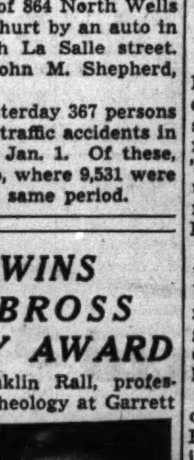
HUNT FOR CAUSE OF CRASH KILLING ONE, INJURING 8

Police yesterday were investigating the circumstances surrounding an accident Friday night in which one man was killed and eight persons injured when their car struck a viaduct at Oakley boulevard and Kinzie street. The dead man was Konstanty Przybylowski, 3453 West 38th street, a WPA worker. The injured are his wife, Mary; John Wanec, 1328 Thomas street, the driver; his wife, Theresa, who is a daughter of Przybylowski, and five children of both families.

Olaf Jansen, 77, of 864 North Wells street, was fatally hurt by an auto in front of 861 North La Salle street. The driver was John M. Shepherd, 122 Locust street.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 367 persons had been killed in traffic accidents in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these, 287 died in Chicago, where 9,531 were injured during the same period.

DR. RALL WINS $15,000 BROSS LITERARY AWARD



Dr. H. F. Rall. [Moffett Photo.]

Dr. Harris Franklin Rall, professor of systematic theology at Garrett Biblical institute in Evanston, received the $15,000 Bross literary award at the Lake Forest college commencement yesterday.

The award, believed to be the largest literary prize offered for a single book, was given for Dr. Rall's 400,000 word book, "Christianity; an Inquiry into Its Nature and Truth." The thesis of the book is the consistency and harmony between science and the Christian religion. It was selected from among 212 books, all bearing on the relation of the humanities and practical sciences to Christianity. The book will be published in the fall under the auspices of the Bross foundation.

The award is from a trust established in 1890 by William Bross, pioneer Chicagoan and one of the early owners of THE TRIBUNE, who also was president of Lake Forest college. Three other Bross awards, of $10,000 each, have been granted in the last 50 years.

Dr. Rall has been professor of systematic theology at Garrett institute since 1915.

BURDETT HEATH, FIRE FAN, DIES OF HEART ATTACK

Burdett Heath, one of Chicago's foremost fire fans, died of a heart attack yesterday in his home at 1919 Winnemac avenue. He was 63 years old.

Heath was known to firemen thruout the city as Burt. He carried an honorary fireman's badge for more than 35 years and often was host to many of the chiefs and marshals. Anthony Mullaney, chief deputy marshal, said Heath knew more about the department than most firemen.

Heath retired last year after 50 years with the Railway Express agency. Because of illness he had remained closed to his home neighborhood in recent months, spending much time at headquarters of Hook and Ladder company 22, across the street from his home.

A fire department inhalator squad headed by Lieut. William Bielie was summoned by Heath's wife, Jessie, when he suffered the attack and worked over him for 40 minutes without success.

ADMIRAL RODMAN DEAD; HIGH NAVAL TRIBUTE PLANNED

He Was Hero of 2 Wars; Served for 43 Years.

Washington, D. C., June 8 (AP).—The navy today arranged extraordinary honors for the funeral of Admiral Hugh Rodman, hero of the Spanish-American and world wars, who died here at the age of 81.

Admiral Hugh Rodman.

A company of bluejackets, a regiment of marines, and the navy band will stand at attention as he is buried in Arlington National cemetery on Monday. A navy detachment will fire volleys and a bugler will sound taps.

Admiral Rodman died at the Naval hospital last night after a long illness. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Elizabeth Sayre Rodman.

A Kentucky Sea Dog.

Admiral Rodman was a native of the Blue Grass region of Kentucky. Thirty-one of his 43 years in the navy were spent afloat. He saw the navy evolve from the "tin clads" of the early '80s to the floating steel fortresses of today. Once he helped sail an old navy square rigger around Cape Horn.

He served in two wars and four times was called upon to represent the United States navy on special diplomatic missions. He wore the distinguished service medal of his own government and decorations bestowed by half a dozen foreign powers.

Rodman was born at Frankfort, capital of Kentucky, on Jan. 6, 1859. His parents came from pioneer families and he was named for his father. He obtained an appointment to the Naval academy in 1875, was graduated in 1880 and was commissioned an ensign in 1884.

Served at Manila.

He served with Admiral Dewey in the Spanish-American war battle of Manila bay on May 1, 1898. He was a lieutenant on the Raleigh, which reputedly fired the first shot from the American fleet when Dewey's squadron was discovered steaming past the Spanish batteries at the entrance of the bay the night before the battle.

Later he helped subdue Moro tribesmen in the Philippines. His tours ashore included a year and a half in 1914-'15 as superintendent of transportation of the Panama canal.

Then he was made a member of the general board of the navy. He was on that duty, helping prepare the United States fleet for active service, when America declared war on April 6, 1917.

Commands Whole Fleet.

A month later he was afloat again. He went abroad as commander of a division of the Atlantic fleet with the rank of rear admiral. Later in 1917 he was made commander of division No. 9 of the battleship force which joined the British grand fleet. In May, 1918, he was given command of the entire American battleship force. He saw the German high seas fleet surrendered to the British on Nov. 21, 1918.

After the war Rodman advanced to the rank of admiral and was made commander in chief of the reorganized Pacific fleet. He took 175 vessels and 35,000 men thru the Panama canal in a notable passage of ten hours, piloted the fleet personally thru the Golden Gate into San Francisco bay and assembled it at Seattle, Wash., for a review by President Wilson when the chief executive made his last transcontinental trip in September, 1919.

Rodman finished his service as commandant of the Fifth naval district with headquarters at Hampton Roads, Va. He was retired automatically when he became 64 years old on Jan. 6, 1922.

His diplomatic assignments started with appointment as naval representative on the mission which attended the centennial of Peru's independence in 1921. After his retirement he was thrice summoned back to duty. In 1923 he accompanied President Harding on his trip to Alaska. In 1925 he was assigned to go with the Pacific fleet on a visit to Australia, and in 1937 he was designated representative of the navy on the special mission sent to the coronation of George VI. of Great Britain.

NEW FIRE TRUCKS TO ROAR FORTH AT THRILL SHOW

City Orders Ten Big and Speedy Machines.

BY WILLIAM MOORE.

New fire department squad trucks, the most modern possessed by any city in the world, will be demonstrated July 14 at the third annual Chicago Police and Fire Thrill show in Soldiers' field.

Ten of the big trucks were ordered yesterday by the city. They are streamlined for greater speed and they have closed riding quarters for the firemen.

Purchase of the trucks, at a total cost of $45,320, was announced by Michael J. Corrigan, fire commissioner, and Anthony J. Mullaney, first deputy chief fire marshal. The order specified that some of the trucks must be delivered in time for the thrill show, which is sponsored by the Chicago police and fire departments and the Chicago Park district, in coöperation with THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

The trucks will have a maximum speed of 75 miles an hour. They will have a 12 foot wheel base and an over all length of 20 feet, 9 inches. Their height will be 7½ feet.

The trucks, red with black tops, will be similar in design and appearance to the streamlined enclosed pumper trucks which recently were added to the department's equipment.

They will be manufactured by the Mack Manufacturing corporation. The trucks were designed at the fire department's shops, as are all the department's fire fighting vehicles, by Corrigan, Mullaney, and James M. Gleason, automotive engineer who is superintendent of all the department's equipment.

Safety One Factor.

Safety is one reason why the firemen will ride inside the new trucks. But there is another reason.

The fire department squads have many and varied duties which require them to go to more fires than any other branch of the department. Rarely do they escape a drenching. And whereas the firemen of other branches of the service ordinarily are sent relatively short distances from their stations, the squads may travel as much as 10 miles to a fire, since they are utility firemen who may be called to duty far outside the district in which they are stationed.

Returning drenched and weary to their stations, clinging to the outside of a truck in winter weather, is a real hardship to them. And so the commanding officers ordered closed compartments.

The firemen of the squads may be called upon to throw streams of water on stubborn blazes. For that reason, the rear of their new trucks will be equipped with a stationary turret nozzle, capable of playing a stream of water of a pressure too high for a hose operated by hand.

Pumpers Supply Water.

The new trucks also will have outlets for hose lines of lower pressure which can be used when the turret nozzle stream is not needed. The water used in squad trucks is supplied by pumpers to which the squad trucks are joined at fires.

Squads also may be called upon to revive drowning or asphyxiation victims, to make rescues in smoke filled buildings, and to do dozens of other tasks requiring daring and expert training. Their trucks, therefore, must carry fire axes, pike poles, acetylene cutters, ropes, shovels, gas masks, inhalators for reviving those whose breathing has stopped, extension ladders, hand pumps, and electric lanterns.

The new squad trucks will have far greater storage space than do those now in use.

Trucks to Carry Eight Men.

The new trucks will also have capacity for more men. The present squad trucks carry seven. The new ones will carry eight—the driver and commanding officer in the cab and six in the passenger compartment.

But the new trucks will have rails and platforms on the outside, for fine days when the firemen want the air.

The fire department gave another order yesterday—for two more of the sedan pumpers which now are replacing the old open pumpers. They will be built by the Peter Pirsch company of Kenosha, Wis.

Police Plan Show Acts.

The fire department may seem to be dominating the scene today, but don't think the police are idle.

Harry O'Rourke, executive secretary of the committee in charge of the show, has discovered that the police motorcycle daredevils are adding comedy acts to their breath-taking riding this year.

Chief Roger Shanahan's park police have some additions to the program which they are about ready to announce. Commissioner James P. Allman, Chief John Prendergast of the city's uniformed police, and Chief John H. Sullivan of the detective bureau are working with Chief Shanahan on the crime fight in which the police will track down bandits thru a two-way radio system.

Fire Department Orders New Type of Truck

LOW PRESSURE OUTLETS FOR HOSE LINES
HIGH PRESSURE NOZZLE
INTAKE FOR WATER AT HIGH PRESSURE FROM PUMPERS
7½ FEET
OFFICER AND DRIVER IN FRONT, ROOM FOR SIX MEN IN REAR
20¾ FEET
RESCUE AND FIRE FIGHTING EQUIPMENT; TRUCK CARRIES NO HOSE

Ten squad trucks of the type shown here have ben ordered by the fire department. At least some of them will be demonstrated at the Chicago Police and Fire Thrill show on July 14. Since one of the functions of the squads is rescue and resuscitation work, their trucks are equipped for it. The trucks were designed in the fire department shops and are called the most modern in the world.

CHORAL GROUPS TO SING AGAIN IN COUNTY FORESTS

Series Begins Sunday, June 16.

BY PHILIP MAXWELL.

For the third consecutive summer the Cook county board and THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE will present a series of choral concerts in three forest preserves on Sunday afternoons. A total of 21 choruses will be heard, three each Sunday, beginning next Sunday, June 16. The preserves are Dan Ryan woods, Western avenue and 87th street; Thatcher woods in River Forest, and Caldwell woods, Milwaukee avenue at Devon avenue.

The time of the concerts has been changed from 4 to 5 o'clock to avoid the intense heat of the afternoon. Clayton F. Smith, president of the board, said canopies will be erected over the platforms for the comfort of the singers. THE TRIBUNE will supply programs for all 21 concerts.

Program for Seven Sundays.

The name of the chorus, the director, and the date and place for each concert are:

June 16—St. Sebastian's choir, the Rev. Joseph O. O'Donnell, at Caldwell woods; Metropolitan Community chorus, Prof. J. Wesley Jones, at Dan Ryan; Grieg Male chorus, Peter Olson, at Thatcher.

July 7—Century Male chorus, Orian Galitz, at Caldwell; Girls' chorus of the Immanuel Lutheran church, Theodore F. Gose, at Dan Ryan; Austin Methodist choir, Frank Bennett, at Thatcher.

July 28—Royal League Women's chorus, Sylvia Brydine, at Caldwell; Embury Mixed choir, J. W. Johnstone, at Dan Ryan; Chicago Concert chorus, Lucy Atkinson, at Thatcher.

Heard by 100,000 Last Year.

It was estimated that 100,000 persons attended these open air programs last summer. Benches for hundreds of listeners again will be provided by the preserve district management, but it was noticed in the previous entertainments that the majority of folks sat on the ground, relaxing and listening to the music.

MISS STILLWELL MAKES DEBUT IN WASHINGTON

Presented to Society in Argentine Embassy.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 8.—Senora Felipe de Espil, nee Letts, of Chicago, wife of the Argentine ambassador, gave a debut reception this afternoon for her daughter, Miss Courtney Louise Stillwell.

Miss Stillwell.
[Hessler Photo.]

Standing in the circular hall at the head of the grand stairway of the embassy, the Argentine ambassador, Senora de Espil, and the latter's daughter received practically all of diplomatic and official Washington in addition to members of Washington's changing society, as well as the old "cave dweller" residential set.

Dress Ordered from Paris.

Miss Stillwell, already one of Washington's most popular buds, had especially ordered from Paris a dress of ciel blue chiffon with a wide, floor-length skirt and the bodice drapery crossed in front to form a deep V.

Embassy attachés, present in all of the several drawing rooms opened to welcome more than 1,000 guests, aided in receiving. Assisting Senora de Espil in pouring were Mrs. Sumner Welles, Mrs. Hamilton Fish, Mrs. James Clement Dunn, nee Armour, of Chicago [who presented her daughter Cynthia to Washington society yesterday], Mrs. Robert Woods Bliss, Mrs. James Lawrence Houghteling formerly of Chicago, Mrs. Warren Delano Robbins, Mrs. Frank Letts, grandmother of Miss Stillwell, Mrs. Arthur Krock, and numerous others.

Others in Assistance.

Younger women assisting included Miss Isabel Paul, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Drexel Paul of Philadelphia, Pa., a guest of Miss Stillwell in the embassy; Miss Cynthia Dunn, Miss Margaret Houghteling of Chicago, Miss Zeva Fish, Miss Elysabeth Barbour, daughter of the senator from New Jersey and Mrs. W. Warren Barbour, and many others.

There was dancing in the embassy's spacious ballroom. Later Miss Stillwell and the other members of the younger set went on to the Larz Anderson mansion for the debut dance given by Senator and Mrs. Barbour.

DIANA HUEBERT BOLD, PROFOUND IN DANCE RECITAL AT N. U. HALL

Diana Huebert, resident dancer, gave a recital in Thorne hall last night under the joint auspices of the university college of Northwestern university and the Daughters of the British Empire in Illinois.

The program, except for one or two light episodes, was profoundly serious. There were expressions in dance form of three aspects of the spirit of Spain—romantic, tragic, vigilant. There was an American ode, "To the People," and three "Nostalgic Songs of Earth."

To the interpretations of such subjects Miss Huebert brought a boldness and bigness of design and execution which accorded well with their character. She dealt in great, vigorous, space filling motion figures. In general, her ideas were at an opposite pole from the over subtle, almost precious effects with which so many modern dancers overload their work.

WHEN KIDNEY TROUBLE CAUSES YOU TO GET UP NIGHTS

When Bladder is Irritated
When Passage is Difficult
When Backache Results

Flush Poisonous Waste and Acid From Kidneys

GAIN IN HEALTH

Through the delicate filters of the kidneys, acid and poisonous waste are drawn from the blood and discharged from the body thru the bladder—sometimes these filters are less active than they should be because of excess poisonous waste and kidneys do not function properly—they need harmless stimulation.

One reliable medicine, highly efficient and inexpensive is GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules. This grand medicine has been helping people for 50 years—to relieve aches and pains by helping conditions caused or aggravated by excess uric acid or other circulating poisons such as is so often the case with sciatica, neuralgia, lumbago and rheumatism.

So if you have such symptoms of kidney trouble as backache, nervousness, getting up two or three times during the night—scanty or smarting passage—leg cramps—moist palms or puffy eyes get a 35 cent package of this grand and harmless diuretic at any drugstore—it starts the first day on its errand of helpfulness.

Don't be an EASY MARK and accept a substitute—Get Gold Medal Haarlem Oil Capsules—the original and genuine. Look for the Gold Medal on the box—35 cents.

"How Do I Profit by the Ford Way of Doing Business?"

THAT advertisement we ran recently, called "The Ford Way of Doing Business," was well received and widely discussed.* It told how Ford pioneered in high wages, a shorter working day and week, better industrial conditions, and the Ford policy of lower prices and lower profit.

But the advertisement was not complete. It did not answer the question which may be in your mind! . . . "How does the Ford way benefit me?"

It is a natural question to ask how high wages, short hours and splendid shop conditions affect the price you pay for a car. You can see that the car may be better, but why should it cost less?

The answer lies in the vast number of cars made. In efficient methods. In improved machinery which increases the output and value of man's work.

Compare the Ford V-8 of 1940 with even the highest priced car of 10 years ago and you can see how that principle works. Every year you get more automobile for your money. Every year, as the average wage to automobile workers has increased, the over-all cost to you of owning and running a car has grown less. The major influence in keeping quality up and keeping prices down today is the Ford policy in these matters.

It is now generally conceded that the Ford high-wage policy (the minimum wage in Ford plants is $6 per day and skilled workers receive much more) has been of immense benefit to all industry. Other manufacturers in many lines now pay better wages, too, and the result has been to create buying power, provide volume markets and greatly increase the value which a dollar will buy.

Then there is the question of profit. Can it be shown that Ford profit per car is lower—and that the buyer gets the benefit?

On this let us refer you to the Federal Trade Commission's recent report on the Automobile Industry by direction of the United States Congress.

Analyzing the government figures compiled in this report, a leading financial publication says, "In the four years 1934 to 1937, inclusive, a fairly prosperous period for the motor industry, the Ford Motor Company extracted a profit averaging less than $6 per car." The news story then compares this figure with the $48 and $46 profit averages on other leading low-price cars.

These are direct benefits to you of the Ford way of doing business. This explains why your Ford car can have more cylinders, more equipment, more costly design and construction in chassis and body—and still cost you no more than other cars in the same price field.

Henry Ford says:
"Good and lasting business must produce profit to the buyer as well as to the seller. And of the two, the buyer's profit must be, comparatively, the larger one. It pays us to sell the Ford V-8 because it pays you to buy it."

Announce New Program to Make Chicago Agricultural Center of United States

PROPOSE HUGE FARM MART ON SITE NEAR LOOP

Would House Exhibits of All States.

BY AL CHASE.
[Real Estate Editor.]

Chicago, farm center of the United States, is to have a huge Agricultural Mart, costing several millions of dollars, and to be a center for all branches of agriculture thruout the country, if present tentative plans are carried out. Holabird & Root has drawn preliminary sketches of a big 16 story structure, and a real estate firm is working on three tentative sites.

The exact location and the interests identified with the big project are to be announced later. According to A. A. McKinley, attorney for the group back of the project, whose identity will be disclosed later, a commitment has been made for insurance company financing, and no stock will be sold.

Will Be Near the Loop.

According to John William Wood, who has offices in the Field building, and who is negotiating for the site, the mart probably will be erected on land not far from the loop. Special provision would be made for ample parking space, he said.

"It is expected that the new building, to be a unique structure of its kind, will help to make Chicago the agricultural capital," Wood said. "There long has been need in the United States for a building in which all national activities and conventions relating to agriculture can be centralized."

"It will house permanent agricultural exhibits from all states, and probably several Canadian provinces, as well as be the headquarters for conventions of state and national agricultural groups. It also will have office space for associations and companies related directly and indirectly to American agriculture."

Permanent Exhibits Invited.

The preliminary plans by Holabird & Root are for a 16 story building with extensive space in the lower floors for the proposed permanent agricultural exhibits which will be invited from the agricultural departments of all states and Canadian provinces. There will be a large convention hall.

"The permanent plans and height of the building, of course, will be modified by the exact ground location selected," said Wood. "An area of from 600,000 to 1,000,000 square feet, however, will be required. The estimated cost of the building will be from $8,000,000 to $10,000,000.

Preliminary Sketch of Proposed National Farm Center

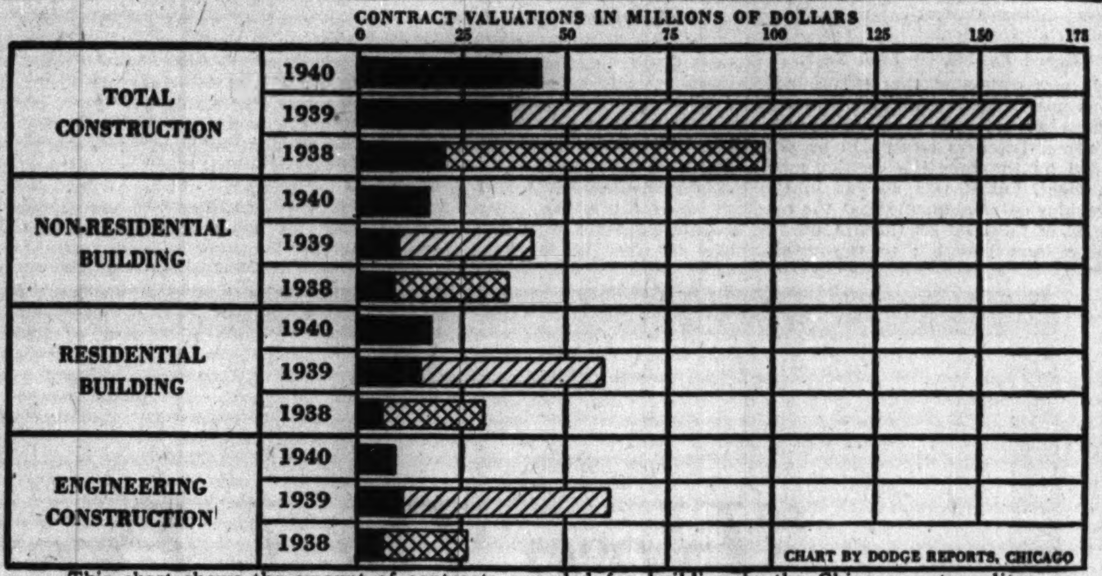
Holabird & Root designed the above building as the home for a proposed agricultural mart to make Chicago the farm capital of North America. Three sites are under consideration. A feature of this contemplated project will be permanent agricultural exhibits from various states and Canadian provinces.

Building Activities in the Metropolitan Area



This chart shows the amount of contracts awarded for building in the Chicago metropolitan area (Cook, Du Page, and Lake counties, Ill., and Lake, Porter, and La Porte counties, Ind.) during 1938 and 1939, designated by crosshatch and diagonal lines. The black sections indicate January, February, March, and April of 1938, 1939, and 1940.

ROE MADE HEAD OF APPRAISAL REALTY GROUP

Stanley Roe, secretary of the Mark Levy Realty company, has been appointed new chairman of the appraisal committee of the Chicago Real Estate board. He succeeds John R. Magill, who resigned due to pressure of business. Announcement of Roe's appointment was made at the dinner meeting of the board last Wednesday evening by President Morgan L. Fitch. Roe is a nationally known lecturer on appraisal problems for the American Institute of Real Estate Appraisers and is secretary of the Illinois chapter of that organization.

Firm Moves Sales Offices from St. Louis to Chicago

The Titanium Pigment corporation has moved its western sales offices from St. Louis to Chicago. Approximately 800 square feet have been leased in the Monroe building, 104 South Michigan, thru Aldis & Co.

TWO PUBLISHERS LEASE SPACE IN IGOE BUILDING

Two textbook publishers have leased for 10 years approximately 25,000 square feet of space in the 10 story Igoe building at the northwest corner of Van Buren and Jefferson streets, at a total term rental of $187,750. The lessees are Laidlaw Brothers, Inc., located on the near south side for the last 20 years, and Frederick J. Drake & Co., on Michigan avenue for 34 years. Lang, Weise & Cella, recently appointed renting agents, negotiated the leases.

SEARS LEASES 100,000 SQ. FT. FOR WAREHOUSE

Sears, Roebuck & Co. has leased the building at 3214-64 South Kedzie avenue, owned by Cook County Paper, Inc., for five years beginning July 1 at a term rental of $90,000, according to W. C. Hardy of the Sturm-Bickel corporation, representing the lessor. The building, to be used as a warehouse, contains more than 100,000 square feet.

South State Street Group Moves to Michigan Avenue

The South State Street Improvement association, which has had headquarters at 140 South Dearborn street for several years, has moved to 30 North Michigan avenue. Henry G. Miller is president and Leo Heller is executive secretary.

LEASE SPACE IN ROOKERY.

BUYS DEARBORN-GOETHE CORNER FOR $20,000 CASH

Mrs. Dorothy Patterson Santini yesterday sold the northeast corner of Dearborn and Goethe streets to David Provus for a reported $20,000 cash. The property, fronting 50 feet on Dearborn and 130 feet on Goethe, is improved with five residences, joined together and leased to one party. Albert H. Wetten & Co. represented the seller. William Kapsis was broker for the buyer. Provus recently acquired the 52½ feet adjoining on the north.

BANK SELLS 13 FLATS.

The 13 flats at 878 North Mozart street were sold by the Liberty National bank to Peter Chamik for $20,250, subject to a $14,000 mortgage, according to I. Deemar, broker for the seller.

OCCUPANCY TOPS LOOP AVERAGE IN WHOLESALE AREA

Study Shows Less Space Used for Parking.

Chicago's wholesale district, comprising 21 city blocks bounded by Madison, Wells, and Harrison streets and the river, has a higher percentage of occupancy than the central business district, according to a study of the area prepared by the Chicago Wholesale District Property Owners Committee, Inc., of which Ward Farnsworth of the Marshall Field estate is chairman. This record was established despite a small loss in occupancy as compared with a year ago.

Ward Farnsworth.

The study, made by Irving Parsons, managing director of the property owners' committee, shows 9,051,000 square feet of net floor space in 131 buildings in the wholesale district. Of this total 7,621,934 square feet are occupied, or an occupancy of 84.4 per cent.

Rises to 89.2 Per Cent.

"Omitting space of doubtful rentability in its present condition, as cited by competent real estate authority, the percentage of occupancy in the Chicago Wholesale district rises to 89.2 per cent," the report states.

"The average occupancy of office buildings in the Chicago central business district [bounded by the river on the north and west, the lake on the east, and Roosevelt road on the south] as reliably reported, is 80 per cent."

The percentage of land used for parking is less in the wholesale district than in the central business area as a whole, the study states. At present 14.9 per cent of the total net ground area in the wholesale district is used for storing cars. In the central business district the percentage is 15.12 per cent.

Gross Income Is Better.

The gross income of buildings of the better type in the wholesale district is better than that of buildings of comparable class in the central area, it was stated.

"The largest unit vacancies since Jan. 1, 1939, occurred thru the removal of firms in the printing, publishing, and allied trades and in men's hats," the report stated.

"New prospects for leases should be sought outside the district and outside Chicago," it was suggested.

"Where practical, rehabilitations should be considered immediately and these should be planned specifically to accommodate adequately and in a modern manner, the types of businesses most indigenous to the district," the report suggests to owners.

The Chicago Wholesale District Property Owners committee has for its vice chairman Graham Aldis of Aldis & Co. William H. Doughty, also of Aldis & Co., is secretary. Keith J. Scheckler of the Northern Trust company is treasurer.

Loebl Named to Head Unit of Architects

Jerrold Loebl of the architectural firm of Loebl & Schlossman has been nominated for president of the Chicago chapter of the American Institute of Architects. The election will be held next Tuesday evening, June 11, at the Windermere East hotel. The chapter by-laws permit nominations from the floor but never in the history of the organization has this been done, and Loebl's election seems assured. He will succeed Elmer C. Roberts, who has been president for two terms.

Other candidates announced by the nominating committee, which consisted of Robert DeGolyer, chairman, John Holabird, and John Fugard, are: First vice president, Nathaniel Owings; second vice president, Philip B. Maher; secretary, W. Lindsay Suter; treasurer, Lawrence Perkins; director for one year, Elmer C. Roberts; for four years, Paul Schweikher. Arthur Shaw and John Merrill will continue their terms as directors.

PHYSICIAN BUYS BANK BUILDING IN RAVENSWOOD

The two story former Ravenswood National Bank building at the northwest corner of Ravenswood and Wilson avenues, 47 by 147 feet, was sold yesterday by Harry Joseph, national bank receiver, to Dr. Marshall Field, physician and surgeon, and Clara Field.

The purchase was for investment. The price was not disclosed, but it is understood that it was all cash and no mortgages figured in the transaction. Elmer E. Stults of the E. E. Stults Realty company represented the buyers and will manage the property.

Pays $90,000 for Hotel at Kenmore and Hollywood

Morris Schimkat bought from the 5653 Building corporation the apartment hotel at the southeast corner of Kenmore and Hollywood avenues for $90,000, according to Sam L. Hoffenberg of Frankenstein & Co., the only broker.

At the Realty Boards

Arthur Kruggel, former president of the Chicago Real Estate board, will speak on "Present Trends in Real Estate" before the North Side Real Estate board next Tuesday noon at the New Lawrence hotel. This will be the first meeting of the board presided over by the new president, Harold V. Glos. New committees will be announced.

The annual golf tournament of the North Side Real Estate board will be held at the Bunker Hill Country club on Tuesday, July 16. According to H. N. Lustig of Ross, Browne & Fleming, chairman in charge of the event, the attendance usually is so heavy that reservations have to be closed at an early date. Assisting Lustig are: Michael J. Long, co-chairman; Charles Kruggel, Harry Chinberg, Carl Wolf, William Mortell, and Hugh Mortenson.

Set Goal of Thirty Residences in Morton Grove Project

SEVEN HOMES COMPLETED; 2 OF THEM SOLD

Property Replatted Into Larger Lots.

Thirty residences this year is the goal set by the Morton Grove Syndicate, of which Glenn O. Sensiba is trustee and manager for the Forest View Manor development in the suburb of Morton Grove. The project occupies four square blocks bounded by Church street on the north, by Harms road on the west, Lake street on the south, and by Linder avenue [the boundary between Morton Grove and Niles Center] on the east.

Seven homes already have been completed, two of which have been sold. In addition two, to cost $9,500 each, have been sold and are to be built to order.

Property Is Replatted.

The property, originally subdivided into 158 lots with 25 and 30 feet frontages, has been replatted into 100 lots with frontages ranging from 45 to 60 feet, with depths of 117 to 125 feet.

Harms road and Church street are paved. Luna avenue, which crosses the development from north to south, and Davis street, which runs east and west thru the center, will be given a black top pavement at once, Sensiba said. Linder avenue, the eastern boundary, will be paved in the summer, he said.

Other improvements—water, gas, sewers, electricity, and sidewalks—already are in and paid for, according to Sensiba.

Financed with FHA Loans.

The price range of the seven homes completed is from $6,250 to $8,650. These prices include the lots which are priced at about $20 per front foot.

All of the homes are being financed with FHA insured loans, negotiated thru the Percy Wilson Mortgage and Finance corporation.

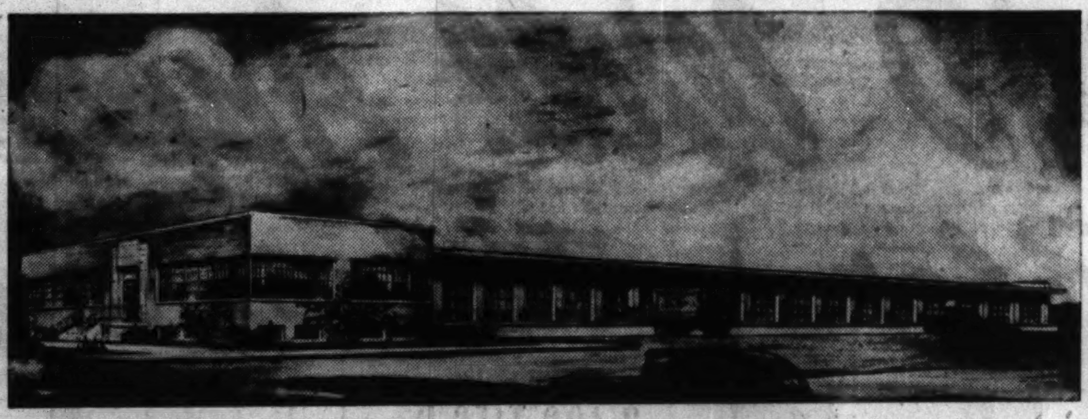
Emphasizing Chicago's Lead as Trucking Center



Chicago, already America's biggest trucking center, is to have another motor terminal. Designed by Koenigsberg & Weisfeld, it will be built at the northeast corner of Armour and Kinzie streets by the Cushman Motor Delivery company.

New Suburban Residences

These five houses, designed by Robert Martin, were built by the Morton Grove syndicate on the east side of Luna avenue, between Davis and Church streets, in Morton Grove. The Martin Construction company had the general contract. Two of this group have been sold. The five room house on the right is owned by Ronald B. Walker of R. B. Walker & Co., marine surveyors, and cost $6,950 (which includes a $900 lot). It is financed with an FHA insured $5,250 loan thru the Percy Wilson Mortgage and Finance corporation with monthly payments of $42.

BUY WEST SIDE SITE FOR LARGE TRUCK STATION

The Cushman Motor Delivery company has purchased the vacant northeast corner of Armour and Kinzie streets for a reported all cash consideration and will at once erect a large truck terminal at an estimated cost of $75,000.

The property acquired contains over 55,000 square feet of area, with frontages of 266 feet on Kinzie, 125 feet on Armour, with a property depth of 318 feet thru to Hubbard street.

According to Barney Cushman, president, his concern is one of Chicago's pioneer motor freight companies, having commenced operations in 1917. It operates 175 trucking units and employs 180 persons. It serves points from Chicago to Wisconsin, Indiana, Ohio, and Michigan.

J. J. Harrington & Co. was broker for the purchaser and William Kaplan represented the owner. The Cushman Motor Delivery company is now at 315 North Ada street. It will move to the new terminal about Aug. 1.

WEDDING BELLS AND WAR BOOST HOME BUILDING

Wedding bells and war are responsible for an increase in home building and real estate buying, according to Thomas J. Fleming of Ross, Browne & Fleming and vice president of the Chicago Real Estate board. A survey just completed by him to determine effects of the European war on Chicago property values shows a current upswing and discloses factors which point to a considerable increase within the next few years.

Thomas J. Fleming.

"Since the beginning of the war and its blitzkrieg on stock and commodity values, investors are beginning to decrease their holdings of variable stocks and bonds in favor of more stable investments," Fleming said. "Since real estate is one of the most secure of all investment properties, this has been reflected in an increase of sales. For April this year, sales in Chicago were up more than 30 per cent over last year and higher than at any time in the last 10 years with the exception of 1937.

"Investment experts already have begun to check activity during the last war, during which Chicago's building was higher than during any previous years. During 1914, 1915, and 1916 the city's building was greater than during any previous comparable period in its history.

"One of the most important factors contributing to the current upswing in property values is the number of young couples getting married. Marriage licenses have been issued at the rate of more than one hundred a day for the first five months of 1940, an increase of more than 14 per cent over last year's figures."

72 APARTMENT BUILDING SOLD FOR $250,000

The four story apartment building at 2322-30 Lincoln Park West was sold yesterday by the Metropolitan Life Insurance company to the Pomeroy Investment corporation for a reported $250,000. Of this amount $225,000 was a purchase money mortgage negotiated by the Metropolitan. Byron Cain, vice president of Curran & Cain, Inc., negotiated the sale. The building contains 72 apartments of two and three rooms. It occupies a 110 by 170 foot site and was built fifteen years ago.

James Norris Buys Florida Land for Tung Oil Project

James Norris, Chicago grain dealer, who some time ago bought the 5,000 acre Muclan farms in the Ocklawaha river valley, southeast of Ocala, Fla., has purchased 15,000 acres in Citrus county in the same state for a tung grove project, according to B. F. Jaquith of the Associated Brokers Farm Sales company, Chicago, which was broker in the Muclan farm purchase.

TWO WOODLAWN LEASES.

The Chic Dress Shops leased the store at 907 East 63d street and the Lido Dress Shops leased space at 1003 East 63d street. Arthur J. Freer was broker.

Woman Buys 26 Apartment Building for $65,000

Ruth Gold bought the 26 flat building at the northwest corner of Claremont and Arthur avenues, on a 99x124 foot lot, for an indicated $65,000. The seller was the American National Bank and Trust company of Chicago, trustee. The property was then conveyed to the Liberty National Bank and Trust company, as trustee.

BANK SELLS APARTMENTS.

The 18 flats at the northwest corner of Kedzie boulevard and Fullerton avenue were sold by the First National Bank of Chicago to Edward Hansen and others for $30,000, according to the Realty and Mortgage company, broker.

Eighteen Flat Building Purchased for $29,000

Milton S. Yondorf, trustee, sold the 18 apartment building at the northeast corner of Vincennes avenue and Oakwood boulevard to Paul Ramm and others for a reported $29,000.

SARAZEN'S 287 TIES LITTLE FOR OPEN CROWN

PREP OARSMEN RACE FOR TITLES IN REGATTA TODAY

TEN SCHOOLBOY CREWS BID FOR TWO TROPHIES

22 Events Slated in Lincoln Park.

Regatta Facts

TIME—2 p. m. to 4 p. m. today.

EVENT—Second annual Chicago Interscholastic Regatta, sponsored by The Chicago Tribune and Lincoln Park Boat club, in cooperation with the Chicago park district.

COURSE—Lincoln park lagoon, foot of Webster avenue, ust off the lake.

CONTESTANTS—Junior and varsity eight oar crews composed of Lane Tech, Lake View, Schurz, Waller and Amundsen High school boys; other shell and canoe championship events between members of Lincoln Park Boat club and Chicago Sea Scouts.

SPECTATORS—Boat club reached by bus, Clark street and Broadway street cars. Natural grandstand on east side of lagoon; Fullerton avenue bridge over lagoon and ample space near boat club other vantage points. Free to public.

BY EDWARD PRELL.

Tribune's Senior Division Trophy.

A rowing dynasty built up these past three years by a succession of skilful water athletes from Lane Tech is at stake this afternoon in the second annual Chicago interscholastic regatta.

The lads from Lane find their path to continued domination in this rapidly growing sport barred by four opponents each in the senior and junior divisions. The thousands who will line the Lincoln park lagoon course are certain to see the two crews from Lane inaugurate the two hour free program, but whether they will close it is something else again. The Lane seniors and juniors are in the opening events of the program against youngsters from Schurz, competing on the water for the first time.

This intense schoolboy competition revolves around the premise of whether the Techmen can continue their sway. Among the crowd will be rowing officials from almost a dozen cities, invited to the regatta by the Lincoln Park Boat club, pioneers in the schoolboy movement in Chicago. It is entirely possible that earlier in the day a Central States Schoolboy Rowing association will have been formed. Out of town representatives, Chicago high school athletic directors and officials of the boat club will meet at 10 o'clock this morning to discuss formation of such an organization. Their aim is for a middle western prep championship regatta in Chicago each summer.

Expect Favorable Weather.

The regatta, as in 1939, is sponsored by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE and the Lincoln Park Boat club, in cooperation with the Chicago park district. Cold weather marred last year's event, held on the Chicago river, but a favorable temperature reading is indicated for this afternoon.

Spacious areas around the lagoon and adjacent to the club's boathouse will afford a ringside view of the proceedings to thousands of spectators.

The youngsters from Amundsen were remarkably lucky in the draw, getting byes in both the senior and junior divisions. The starting line will be at the Diversey beach. The shells, racing two at a time, will come skimming under the Fullerton avenue bridge and finish the half mile sprint in front of the flag bedecked boathouse.

Races Start at 2 o'Clock.

Charles R. Miner, member of the Lincoln Park Boat club and an official of the National Association of Amateur Oarsmen, will be the referee. A stroke by stroke account of the races will be given by David Zimmerman over the Tribune's public address system. Dr. William Rothman will be in charge of physical examination for all contestants. They will report at the boat club at 11:30 a. m. The regatta will start at 2 p. m.

The boys from Lane will be battling to win a second leg on the 22-inch and 17 inch Tribune gold trophies, which must be won three times by the same crew for permanent possession. In addition, individual gold medals will be awarded members of the winning crews, while those in the runner-up shells will be given silver medals. Each shell is manned by a crew of eight and a coxswain.

The Waller contestants, who finished a close second to Tech in the senior schoolboy finals last year, are hoping to have another crack at the champions. To make this possible the oarsmen from Waller must eliminate a strong opponent, Lake View, which would put them into the finals

Olsen Pitches, Bats Cubs to 5th in Row, 3-1

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Vern Olsen, the kid southpaw, was added to Manager Gabby Hartnett's current Cub ensemble yesterday, and the combination of Boy Scouts and old timers refused to be troubled by Boston's eighth place Bees. The strange mixture of athletes, even tho doing no marked violence with their bats, accomplished enough to triumph, 3 to 1, and extend the winning streak to five games, the first three of which were against the Phillies.

Freshman Olsen, now the possessor of three victories, started as if he wasn't going to last, and finished as if he had enough stamina for nine more innings. In the first two sessions he was jolted for no fewer than five hits, one of them a home run into a strong head wind by Chet Ross. With that shaky start out of the way the yearling left hander really went to work, limiting the Bees to one single in the fifth and two in the eighth.

It took the Cubs more than half the battle to make any sort of an impression on Lou Fette, the 33 year old artist who has been known to trouble them considerably. They sparred with him for five innings and collected only four hits, but no runs. In the sixth they were fortunate enough to tie the count on one hit and in the seventh none other than Olsen in person decided to take charge of run production. With two mates on base, the kid plunked a very sound double into the outfield and produced his own winning margin.

Olsen Gets Scare in First.

The Bees came very close to giving Olsen a jolt in the first inning. Warstler was tossed out to start the matineé, but Cooney followed with a single to right. Miller also singled. West poked a low looper into short left and it appeared to be a hit until Mattick, after a mad dash, caught up with the ball. Cooney was so sure it was going to drop safe that he started for home and was rounding third when the catch was made. It was an easy matter to double him at second.

The Cubs also started off with two hits, but a double play wasn't needed to keep them from scoring. Cavarretta lined safely down the right field line with one out, then made the mistake of thinking it was a double. West nailed him by yards with a perfect throw. Then Gleeson beat out a hit to Warstler and Nicholson grounded to Hassett.

For a few moments in the second, the Cubs had reason to believe they were going to have no trouble getting back into at least a tie. There was a single by Herman and a pitched ball plunked Dallessandro on the foot before anybody was retired. Collins followed orders to bunt, but the bunt was a pop foul to Lopez. Then Mattick rolled to Miller, who started a double play.

That Fruitful Seventh.

The Cubs were kept pretty quiet after the second, not a man getting to base until Collins walked with one out in the fifth. Mattick followed with a double to right, but just prior to this contribution Collins had been cut down trying to steal. Then Hack drew a pass from Fette to open the sixth. This proved to be the finish of the Bee's one run lead. Hack was bunted to second and stayed there while Gleeson was being tossed out by Warstler. The next item was a fly ball single into short right by Nicholson, scoring Hack.

The Cub's seventh, which netted them two runs, began with Dallessandro's single to left. Collins slapped a bounder to short and there might

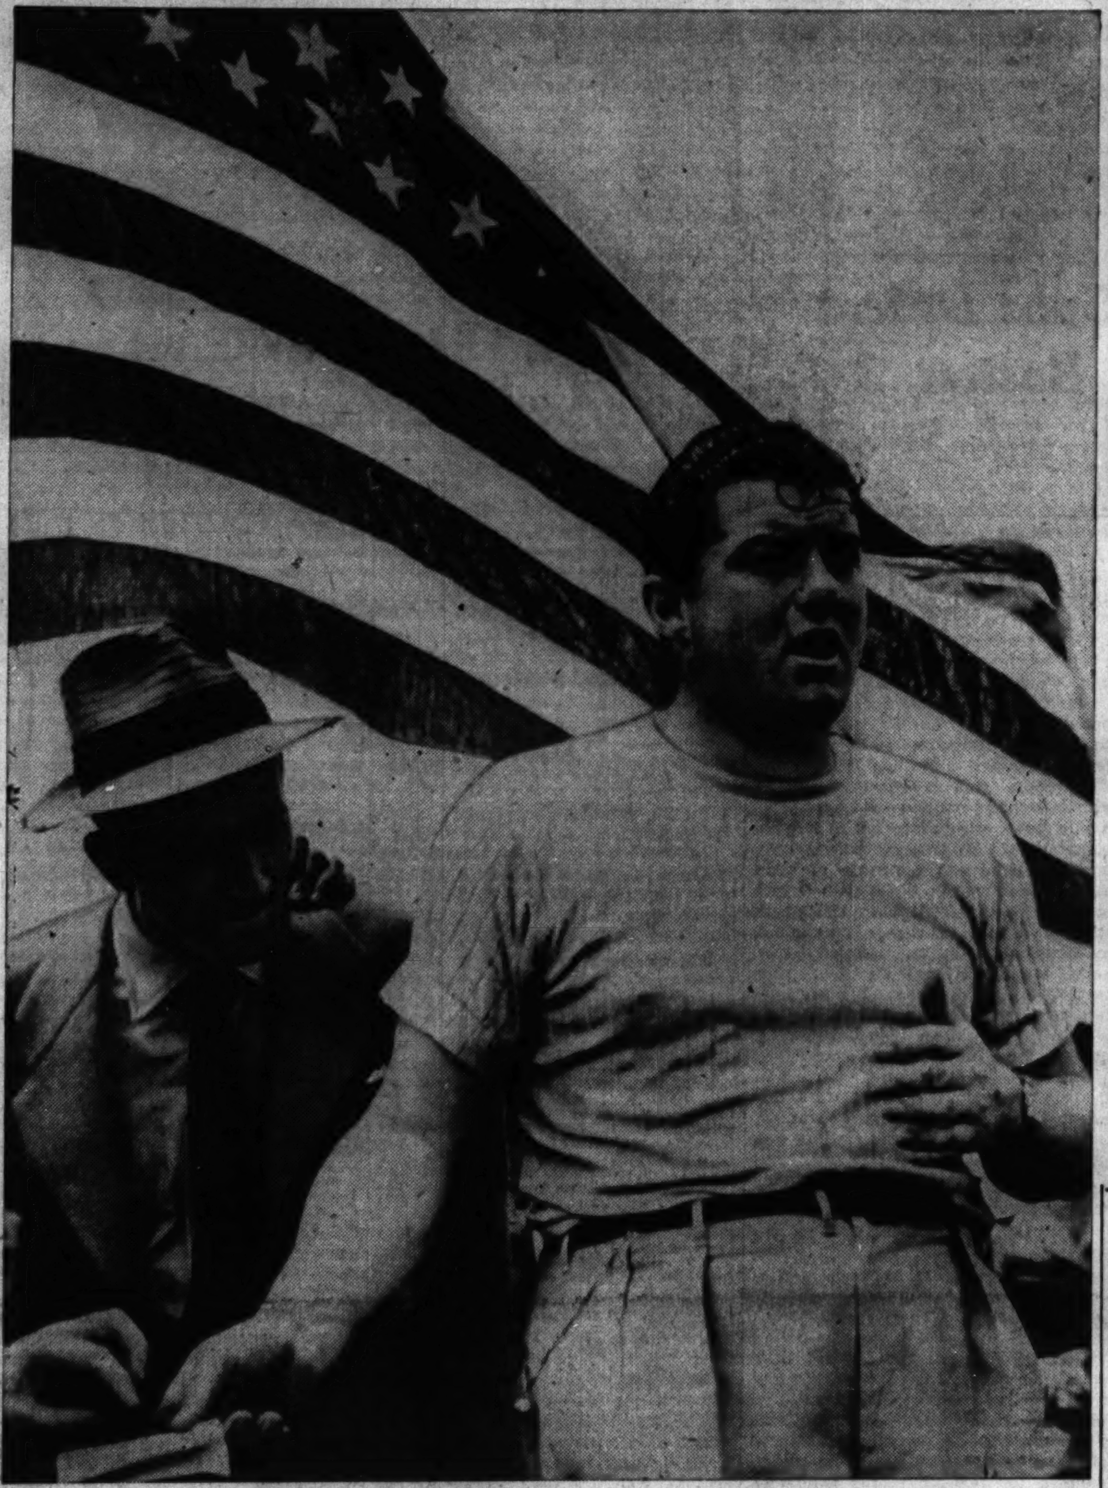
ONE OF THESE WILL BE 1940 OPEN CHAMPION



At the finish of the United States open tournament trail late yesterday Lawson Little hands his scorecard to an official—a 287. Later he learned it wasn't good enough to win, but sufficient for a tie with veteran Gene Sarazen. Little's qualifying score at Medinah in Chicago for the open was 134, best in the nation.

White Sox Beat Senators, 12-6; 3d for Dietrich

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 8.—The White Sox threw off the threat of the Senators and Philadelphia Athletics this afternoon to strengthen their hold on fifth place in the American league by whipping the Senators, 12 to 6, while the A's were taking a thrashing from the St. Louis Browns.

Bill Dietrich gained credit for his third victory of the trip and season, against no defeats, tho he collapsed from exhaustion in the seventh, in a manner similar to his seventh inning swoon in Boston his last previous time out. Clint Brown made one of what jocularly has become known as a "relief appearance." He had practically nothing on the ball and the Senators made four of their runs after he "rescued" Dietrich in the seventh.

Chase Routed in Third.

The Sox made six hits off Ken Chase in 2⅓ innings and seven off Rene Monteagudo the rest of the way. Luke Appling set the pace with singles his first three times up and also had a walk. Mike Kreevich, Taft Wright, and Eric McNair each made two hits.

The Senators made seven hits off Dietrich and were helped by three of the Sox's four errors before they made their first run. While Brown was in there the Senators knocked a triple, a double, and three singles, and one run scored on a wild pitch.

The game was a routine affair only thru the Sox's first inning, in which the Chicagoans scored a run on singles by Kreevich, Wright, and Appling after two were out.

The Foolishness Begins.

Unusual things began to happen in Washington's half of the inning. With one out, Buddy Lewis was safe on Bob Kennedy's fumble. Buddy stole second and went on to third when Mike Tresh threw the ball into center field. Somebody put on the squeeze play, apparently without letting the batter, John Welaj, know about it. At any rate, Welaj did not offer at the pitch, so here came Lewis charging homeward in the silliest looking of all awry maneuvers, a squeeze play with no squeezer. He was tagged by the waiting Tresh. Welaj followed with a single to left and stole second,

Wrigley Settles $50 Weekly on Ailing Bryant

Mrs. Opal Bryant, wife of Clay Bryant, suspended indefinitely because of inability to pitch, yesterday was placed on the Cubs' payroll at a modest salary. Thus another chapter was completed in the case, which has been bouncing between Commissioner K. M. Landis, P. K. Wrigley, Cub owner, and Bryant, since last Tuesday when the athlete was notified his salary had been stopped.

Mrs. Bryant will be paid $50 per week for four weeks, with the possibility that an extension will be considered at the end of that time.

The compromise, a concession made by Wrigley despite his aim to discipline Bryant because of a suspicion the athlete's inability to pitch is more of a mental hazard than a serious arm ailment, was agreed upon late yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. Bryant, after accepting Wrigley's financial assistance, declared she would leave tomorrow, accompanied by her husband, for Los Angeles. It is Bryant's idea that his arm trouble can be solved there by Dr. Eugene O'Meara. The Bryants will bear the expense of the experiment.

Belmont Park Feature Won by Bimelech

New York, June 8 (AP).—Bimelech, Col. E. R. Bradley's colt, overcame the handicap of a not-too-heady ride by Freddie Smith today to drive in with victory in the 72d running of the Belmont stakes and thereby became king of the 3 year olds.

Beaten in the Kentucky Derby and overtaken in the Withers, the Preakness winner whipped both of his conquerors as well as three other candidates in the mile and a half grind, before a crowd of 26,501. He proved his right to ranking as champion of the year by winning strictly on his own. He was tired in the end, but he was half a length in front.

George D. Widener's Your Chance came up from last place with a terrific rush to take second by a length over Andy K. Century Note, one half of Mrs. Payne Whitney's entry, wound up fourth, eight lengths back of Andy K, who comes from the Millsdale stable of Tony Pelleteri and Mel Emerich of Chicago.

Gallahadion Far Back.

Trailing the rest of the field, far back of the others, were the only two horses ever to beat Bimelech—Mrs. Ethel V. Mars' Derby winner, Gallahadion, and Mrs. Whitney's Corydon.

Bimelech's time of 2:29 3-5, just 1 1-5 seconds off the track record, was remarkable in that the early pace was slow. Bimelech, Andy K, who showed one thing today—that he's finally cured of his crooked running habits—and Gallahadion broke in front and Andy K and Bimelech fought it out for the advantage at the first turn. Then they slowed down as they turned into the backstretch and Smith wisely took Bimelech back of the pace set by Andy K and Gallahadion.

Bimelech Pays $4.70.

Had he been content to wait until nearing the stretch, and then sending the son of Flying Ebony up, it would have been better. But Smith apparently became anxious and pushed the Bradley colt up to challenge Andy K just after the mile mark. Andy, running straight this time, fought him head and head, and so tired Bimelech that if Your Chance had started moving earlier, the Widener horse might have taken the pot.

The ifs don't count, however, and

TEXANS STAR AS RECORDS TOPPLE IN PRINCETON INVITATIONAL MEET

Princeton, N. J., June 8 (AP).—Athletes from Texas won three of the seven events in the seventh annual Princeton invitational track meet today, with Fred Wolcott of Rice accounting for two of the victories, one with a world record performance.

Wolcott skimmed the 220 yard low hurdles in 22.5 seconds, bettering the recognized world record of :22.6 set by Jesse Owens of Ohio State in 1935. He also was timed in 22.3 at the 200 meter mark, surpassing Owens' 22.6 record.

In the 120 highs Wolcott was timed at :13.9. This bettered the meet record of :14.3 set by Sam Allen of Oklahoma Baptist in 1935, and also the recognized American record of 14 seconds established by Bob Osgood of Michigan in 1937.

Munski Wins Mile.

As the select field of performers scattered old meet marks the feature event of past programs—the mile run—went in the good but not sensational time of 4:11. It was won by a dark horse, John Munski of the University of Missouri.

Munski remained hidden far back in the field until the start of the last lap, then shot to the front. He put on a fine sprint for the last 200 yards to beat Walter Mehl, ex-Wisconsin star, to the tape by nearly 10 yards.

The University of Texas shuttle hurdle relay team of Douglas Jaques, Coleman Pack, Ralph Baggett, and Boyce Gatewood turned in a fast performance. Matched against a classy Yale team, the Texans were timed in :58.6, which bettered any known time for the event. The best previous record was :59.8, set by California in 1935.

Orr Runs 440 in :46.8.

Lee Orr of Washington State came thru with a :46.8 performance in the 440 yard run, which bettered the meet record. The old mark of :47.1 was set by J. E. Luvalle of U. C. L. A. in 1936.

Turning on the most remarkable sprint of the day, Greg Rice of the South Bend A. A. won the two mile run in 9:02.4. This betters his own collegiate mark of 9:02.6. For the last 220 he ran like a dash man, leaving Don Lash 15 yards in the rear.

Edward Burrowes Jr. upheld the home guard by winning the half mile in 1:49.8 to tie the meet record set by Ben Eastman of the Olympic club in 1934. The Princeton star outlasted Campbell Kane of Indiana in a great stretch duel to win by three yards.

Summaries:

120 YARD HIGH HURDLES—Won by Fred Wolcott, Rice; Boyce Gatewood, Texas, second; Marsh Farmer, Shore A. C., third; Frank Fuller, Virginia, fourth. Time, :13.9. [Betters meet record of :14.3 set by Sam Allen, Oklahoma Baptist, in 1935; also, recognized American record of :14 set by R. D. Osgood, Michigan, in 1937.]

440 YARD RUN—Won by Lee Orr, Washington State; Grover Klemmer, California, second; Warren Breidenbach, Michigan, third; Charles Belcher, Georgia Tech, fourth; James Herbert, N. Y. U., fifth. Time, 46.8. [Betters meet record of :47.1 set by J. E. Luvalle of U. C. L. A. in 1936.]

TWO MILE RUN—Won by Greg Rice, South Bend A. C.; Don Lash, Indiana State police, second; Wayne Rideout, Shore A. C., third; Forest Efaw, Oklahoma A. and M., fourth; Dixon Garner, Washington State, fifth. Time, 9:02.4.

SHUTTLE HURDLE RELAY—Won by Texas [Douglas Jacques, Coleman Pack, Ralph Baggett, Boyce Gatewood]; Yale, second [only two entries]. Time, 58.6. [Betters best American track mark of :59.8, set by Southern California in 1935.]

HALF MILE RUN—Won by Edward Burrowes Jr., Princeton; Campbell Kane, Indiana, second; James Kehoe, Maryland, third; Edward Buxton, Wisconsin, fourth; William Dale, Washington State, fifth. Time, 1:49.8. [Ties meet record set by B. B. Eastman, Olympic club, in 1934.]

220 YARD LOW HURDLES—Won by Fred Wolcott, Rice; Edward Dugger, Tufts, second; Marsh Farmer, Shore A. C., third; Earl Vickery, Olympic club, fourth; Lee Orr, Washington State, fifth. Time, :22.5. [Betters worlds record of :22.6 set by Jesse Owens of Ohio State in 1935.]

MILE RUN—Won by John Munski, Missouri; Walter Mehl, Wisconsin, second; Les MacMitchell, New York U., third; Louis Zamperini, U. S. C., fourth; Blaine Rideout, Shore A. C., fifth. Time, 4:11.

AL BLOZIS PUTS SHOT 55' 3" FOR N. Y. A. C. RECORD

Blozis smashed a second meet record in the discus with a heave of 164 feet 3½ inches, bettering by nearly 2 feet the mark of 162 feet 9½ inches made by John Anderson in 1933. Bernard Wolf of California was second with 159 feet 1¼ inches.

GENE SHOOTS 5 STRAIGHT PARS TO MATCH RIVAL

Oliver Also Scores 287; Disqualified.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cleveland, O., June 8.—Lawson Little, a young man who climaxed a spectacular amateur golf career in this state of Ohio five years ago, and Gene Sarazen, a middle aged gent of 38 years who began an equally sensational round of professional work here 20 years ago, tomorrow morning will play 18 holes at 9:30 o'clock [Chicago time] for the 44th National Open golf championship.

Little and Sarazen are involved in the 15th playoff in the history of golf's greatest show as a result of their final 72 hole scores of 287, one under par, for the heat-and-rain ridden leas of the Canterbury Golf club. They were not the only players, however, to turn in that figure for the regulation distance. In one of the strangest finishes the Open ever has seen, 23 year old Ed Oliver of Hornell, N. Y., also turned in 287, but it was unofficial, for he was disqualified by the first paragraph of the second-stroke rule in the United States Golf association's code for having started ahead of time. Along with him in this erasure from the official scoreboard were five other professionals, all of whom thought they were merely hastening the speed of the tournament.

It's a Closed Book.

The decision of the U. S. G. A. on Oliver became an official closed book with the announcement of Harold Pierce, president of the organization, that Oliver and the other five pros who started out with him had violated an obvious rule and that was all there was to it. Oliver, himself, had given his caddy $25, packed up his luggage, and left for his home club.

The fact still remains, however, that Little and Sarazen, probably two of the most overlooked swingers ever to come up to an Open, have to go to work tomorrow morning without Oliver. Both Little and Sarazen made pleas to the U. S. G. A. to skip the rule and allow Oliver to play, but their efforts were disallowed.

Play Under Heavy Pressure.

Probably no two National Open competitors had the pressure on them today that Little and Sarazen encountered. Little went into the final round after getting a morning 70 for a 54 hole total of 214, one shot back of Frank Walsh, Chicago-born pro from Rumson, N. J., who led at the three-quarters mark with a 213. The unruly gallery promptly pursued the husky Californian, who completed his little slam as an amateur in 1935 only five miles from Canterbury at the Country Club of Cleveland. He had his biggest chance at the 441 yard 18th but almost caught a trap there, and then settled for a bogey five from the fringe. The youngster who now registers as a professional from Bretton Woods, N. H., made a brave try, but the man he will meet in tomorrow's playoff turned in one of the grandest jobs the Open ever has seen.

Perhaps that is going a bit far, for Sarazen did rather well in his final round at Fresh Meadow in 1932 when he won his second Open since his victory at Chicago's Skokie course in 1922, but today the outspoken Italian squire had all the pressure on him.

In 21st National Open.

Sarazen, who is playing his 21st National Open golf tournament after his debut at Toledo's Inverness course, was one of the last men to go out today into an afternoon which saw the winds of Canterbury bring up for chums a series of showers which stopped most of the field. Sarazen was aware at the eleventh hole that he had to go to work to catch Little, who had just finished with his second 73 of the day for a 287.

Sarazen also knew that Oliver had

SARAZEN'S 287 TIES LITTLE FOR OPEN CROWN

TEN SCHOOLBOY CREWS BID FOR TWO TROPHIES

22 Events Slated in Lincoln Park.

Regatta Facts

TIME—2 p. m. to 4 p. m. today.

EVENT—Second annual Chicago Interscholastic Regatta, sponsored by The Chicago Tribune and Lincoln Park Boat club, in cooperation with the Chicago park district.

COURSE—Lincoln park lagoon, foot of Webster avenue, ust off the lake.

CONTESTANTS—Junior and varsity eight oar crews composed of Lane Tech, Lake View, Schurz, Waller and Amundsen High school boys; other shell and canoe championship events between members of Lincoln Park Boat club and Chicago Sea Scouts.

SPECTATORS—Boat club reached by bus, Clark street and Broadway street cars. Natural grandstand on east side of lagoon; Fullerton avenue bridge over lagoon and ample space near boat club other vantage points. Free to public.

BY EDWARD PRELL.

A rowing dynasty built up these past three years by a succession of skilful water athletes from Lane Tech is at stake this afternoon in the second annual Chicago interscholastic regatta.

Tribune's Senior Division Trophy.

The lads from Lane find their path to continued domination in this rapidly growing sport barred by four opponents each in the senior and junior divisions. The thousands who will line the Lincoln park lagoon course are certain to see the two crews from Lane inaugurate the two hour free program, but whether they will close it is something else again. The Lane seniors and juniors are in the opening events of the program against youngsters from Schurz, competing on the water for the first time.

This intense schoolboy competition revolves around the premise of whether the Techmen can continue their sway. Among the crowd will be rowing officials from almost a dozen cities, invited to the regatta by the Lincoln Park Boat club, pioneers in the schoolboy movement in Chicago. It is entirely possible that earlier in the day a Central States Schoolboy Rowing association will have been formed. Out of town representatives, Chicago high school athletic directors and officials of the boat club will meet at 10 o'clock this morning to discuss formation of such an organization. Their aim is for a middle western prep championship regatta in Chicago each summer.

Expect Favorable Weather.

The regatta, as in 1939, is sponsored by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE and the Lincoln Park Boat club, in cooperation with the Chicago park district. Cold weather marred last year's event, held on the Chicago river, but a favorable temperature reading is indicated for this afternoon.

Spacious areas around the lagoon and adjacent to the club's boathouse will afford a ringside view of the proceedings to thousands of spectators.

The youngsters from Amundsen were remarkably lucky in the draw, getting byes in both the senior and junior divisions. The starting line will be at the Diversey beach. The shells, racing two at a time, will come skimming under the Fullerton avenue bridge and finish the half mile sprint in front of the flag bedecked boathouse.

Races Start at 2 o'Clock.

Charles R. Miner, member of the Lincoln Park Boat club and an official of the National Association of Amateur Oarsmen, will be the referee. A stroke by stroke account of the races will be given by David Zimmerman over the Tribune's public address system. Dr. William Rothman will be in charge of physical examination for all contestants. They will report at the boat club at 11:30 a. m. The regatta will start at 2 p. m.

The boys from Lane will be battling to win a second leg on the 22-inch and 17 inch Tribune gold trophies, which must be won three times by the same crew for permanent possession. In addition, individual gold medals will be awarded members of the winning crews, while those in the runner-up shells will be given silver medals. Each shell is manned by a crew of eight and a coxswain.

The Waller contestants, who finished a close second to Tech in the senior schoolboy finals last year, are hoping to have another crack at the champions. To make this possible the oarsmen from Waller must eliminate a strong opponent, Lake View, which would put them into the finals

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Vern Olsen, the kid southpaw, was added to Manager Gabby Hartnett's current Cub ensemble yesterday, and the combination of Boy Scouts and old timers refused to be troubled by Boston's eighth place Bees. The strange mixture of athletes, even tho doing no marked violence with their bats, accomplished enough to triumph, 3 to 1, and extend the winning streak to five games, the first three of which were against the Phillies.

Freshman Olsen, now the possessor of three victories, started as if he wasn't going to last, and finished as if he had enough stamina for nine more innings. In the first two sessions he was jolted for no fewer than five hits, one of them a home run into a strong head wind by Chet Ross. With that shaky start out of the way the yearling left hander really went to work, limiting the Bees to one single in the fifth and two in the eighth.

It took the Cubs more than half the battle to make any sort of an impression on Lou Fette, the 33 year old artist who has been known to trouble them considerably. They sparred with him for five innings and collected only four hits, but no runs. In the sixth they were fortunate enough to tie the count on one hit and in the seventh none other than Olsen in person decided to take charge of run production. With two mates on base, the kid plunked a very sound double into the outfield and produced his own winning margin.

Olsen Gets Scare in First.

The Bees came very close to giving Olsen a jolt in the first inning. Warstler was tossed out to start the matineé, but Cooney followed with a single to right. Miller also singled. West poked a low looper into short left and it appeared to be a hit until Mattick, after a mad dash, caught up with the ball. Cooney was so sure it was going to drop safe that he started for home and was rounding third when the catch was made. It was an easy matter to double him at second.

The Cubs also started off with two hits, but a double play wasn't needed to keep them from scoring. Cavarretta lined safely down the right field line with one out, then made the mistake of thinking it was a double. West nailed him by yards with a perfect throw. Then Gleeson beat out a hit to Warstler and Nicholson grounded to Hassett.

For a few moments in the second, the Cubs had reason to believe they were going to have no trouble getting back into at least a tie. There was a single by Herman and a pitched ball plunked Dallessandro on the foot before anybody was retired. Collins followed orders to bunt, but the bunt was a pop foul to Lopez. Then Mattick rolled to Miller, who started a double play.

That Fruitful Seventh.

The Cubs were kept pretty quiet after the second, not a man getting to base until Collins walked with one out in the fifth. Mattick followed with a double to right, but just prior to this contribution Collins had been cut down trying to steal. Then Hack drew a pass from Fette to open the sixth. This proved to be the finish of the Bee's one run lead. Hack was bunted to second and stayed there while Gleeson was being tossed out by Warstler. The next item was a fly ball single into short right by Nicholson, scoring Hack.

The Cub's seventh, which netted them two runs, began with Dallessandro's single to left. Collins slapped a bounder to short and there might

ONE OF THESE WILL BE 1940 OPEN CHAMPION

At the finish of the United States open tournament trail late yesterday Lawson Little hands his scorecard to an official—a 287. Later he learned it wasn't good enough to win, but sufficient for a tie with veteran Gene Sarazen. Little's qualifying score at Medinah in Chicago for the open was 134, best in the nation.

White Sox Beat Senators, 12-6; 3d for Dietrich

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 8.—The White Sox threw off the threat of the Senators and Philadelphia Athletics this afternoon to strengthen their hold on fifth place in the American league by whipping the Senators, 12 to 6, while the A's were taking a thrashing from the St. Louis Browns.

Bill Dietrich gained credit for his third victory of the trip and season, against no defeats, tho he collapsed from exhaustion in the seventh, in a manner similar to his seventh inning swoon in Boston his last previous time out. Clint Brown made one of what jocularly has become known as a "relief appearance." He had practically nothing on the ball and the Senators made four of their runs after he "rescued" Dietrich in the seventh.

Chase Routed in Third.

The Sox made six hits off Ken Chase in 2⅔ innings and seven off Rene Monteagudo the rest of the way. Luke Appling set the pace with singles his first three times up and also had a walk. Mike Kreevich, Taft Wright, and Eric McNair each made two hits.

The Senators made seven hits off Dietrich and were helped by three of the Sox's four errors before they made their first run. While Brown was in there the Senators knocked a triple, a double, and three singles, and one run scored on a wild pitch.

The game was a routine affair only thru the Sox's first inning, in which the Chicagoans scored a run on singles by Kreevich, Wright, and Appling after two were out.

The Foolishness Begins.

Unusual things began to happen in Washington's half of the inning. With one out, Buddy Lewis was safe on Bob Kennedy's fumble. Buddy stole second and went on to third when Mike Tresh threw the ball into center field. Somebody put on the squeeze play, apparently without letting the batter, John Welaj, know about it. At any rate, Welaj did not offer at the pitch, so here came Lewis charging homeward in the silliest looking of all awry maneuvers, a squeeze play with no squeezer. He was tagged by the waiting Tresh. Welaj followed with a single to left and stole second,

Mrs. Opal Bryant, wife of Clay Bryant, suspended indefinitely because of inability to pitch, yesterday was placed on the Cubs' payroll at a modest salary. Thus another chapter was completed in the case, which has been bouncing between Commissioner K. M. Landis, P. K. Wrigley, Cub owner, and Bryant, since last Tuesday when the athlete was notified his salary had been stopped.

Mrs. Bryant will be paid $50 per week for four weeks, with the possibility that an extension will be considered at the end of that time.

The compromise, a concession made by Wrigley despite his aim to discipline Bryant because of a suspicion the athlete's inability to pitch is more of a mental hazard than a serious arm ailment, was agreed upon late yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. Bryant, after accepting Wrigley's financial assistance, declared she would leave tomorrow, accompanied by her husband, for Los Angeles. It is Bryant's idea that his arm trouble can be solved there by Dr. Eugene O'Meara. The Bryants will bear the expense of the experiment,

New York, June 8 (AP).—Bimelech, Col. E. R. Bradley's colt, overcame the handicap of a not-too-heady ride by Freddie Smith today to drive in with victory in the 72d running of the Belmont stakes and thereby became king of the 3 year olds.

Beaten in the Kentucky Derby and overtaken in the Withers, the Preakness winner whipped both of his conquerors as well as three other candidates in the mile and a half grind, before a crowd of 26,501. He proved his right to ranking as champion of the year by winning strictly on his own. He was tired in the end, but he was half a length in front.

George D. Widener's Your Chance came up from last place with a terrific rush to take second by a length over Andy K. Century Note, one half of Mrs. Payne Whitney's entry, wound up fourth, eight lengths back of Andy K, who comes from the Millsdale stable of Tony Pelleteri and Mel Emerich of Chicago.

Gallahadion Far Back.

Trailing the rest of the field, far back of the others, were the only two horses ever to beat Bimelech—Mrs. Ethel V. Mars' Derby winner, Gallahadion, and Mrs. Whitney's Corydon.

Bimelech's time of 2:29 3-5, just 1 1-5 seconds off the track record, was remarkable in that the early pace was slow. Bimelech, Andy K, who showed one thing today—that he's finally cured of his crooked running habits—and Gallahadion broke in front and Andy K and Bimelech fought it out for the advantage at the first turn. Then they slowed down as they turned into the backstretch and Smith wisely took Bimelech back of the pace set by Andy K and Gallahadion.

Bimelech Pays $4.70.

Had he been content to wait until nearing the stretch, and then sending the son of Flying Ebony up, it would have been better. But Smith apparently became anxious and pushed the Bradley colt up to challenge Andy K just after the mile mark. Andy, running straight this time, fought him head and head, and so tired Bimelech that if Your Chance had started moving earlier, the Widener horse might have taken the pot.

The ifs don't count, however, and

Princeton, N. J., June 8 (AP).—Athletes from Texas won three of the seven events in the seventh annual Princeton invitational track meet today, with Fred Wolcott of Rice accounting for two of the victories, one with a world record performance.

Wolcott skimmed the 220 yard low hurdles in 22.5 seconds, bettering the recognized world record of :22.6 set by Jesse Owens of Ohio State in 1935. He also was timed in 22.3 at the 200 meter mark, surpassing Owens' 22.6 record.

In the 120 highs Wolcott was timed at :13.9. This bettered the meet record of :14.3 set by Sam Allen of Oklahoma Baptist in 1935, and also the recognized American record of 14 seconds established by Bob Osgood of Michigan in 1937.

Munski Wins Mile.

As the select field of performers scattered old meet marks the feature event of past programs—the mile run—went in the good but not sensational time of 4:11. It was won by a dark horse, John Munski of the University of Missouri.

Munski remained hidden far back in the field until the start of the last lap, then shot to the front. He put on a fine sprint for the last 200 yards to beat Walter Mehl, ex-Wisconsin star, to the tape by nearly 10 yards.

The University of Texas shuttle hurdle relay team of Douglas Jaques, Coleman Pack, Ralph Baggett, and Boyce Gatewood turned in a fast performance. Matched against a classy Yale team, the Texans were timed in :58.6, which bettered any known time for the event. The best previous record was :59.8, set by California in 1935.

Orr Runs 440 in :46.8.

Lee Orr of Washington State came thru with a :46.8 performance in the 440 yard run, which bettered the meet record. The old mark of :47.1 was set by J. E. Luvalle of U. C. L. A. in 1936.

Turning on the most remarkable sprint of the day, Greg Rice of the South Bend A. A. won the two mile run in 9:02.4. This betters his own collegiate mark of 9:02.6. For the last 220 he ran like a dash man, leaving Don Lash 15 yards in the rear.

Edward Burrowes Jr. upheld the home guard by winning the half mile in 1:49.8 to tie the meet record set by Ben Eastman of the Olympic club in 1934. The Princeton star outlasted Campbell Kane of Indiana in a great stretch duel to win by three yards.

Summaries:

120 YARD HIGH HURDLES—Won by Fred Wolcott, Rice; Boyce Gatewood, Texas, second; Marsh Farmer, Shore A. C., third; Frank Fuller, Virginia, fourth. Time, :13.9. [Betters meet record of :14.3 set by Sam Allen, Oklahoma Baptist, in 1935; also, recognized American record of :14 set by R. D. Osgood, Michigan, in 1937.]

AL BLOZIS PUTS SHOT 55' 3" FOR N. Y. A. C. RECORD

Blozis smashed a second meet record in the discus with a heave of 164 feet 3½ inches, bettering by nearly 2 feet the mark of 162 feet 9½ inches made by John Anderson in 1933. Bernard Wolf of California was second with 159 feet 1¼ inches.

GENE SHOOTS 5 STRAIGHT PARS TO MATCH RIVAL

Oliver Also Scores 287; Disqualified.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cleveland, O., June 8.—Lawson Little, a young man who climaxed a spectacular amateur golf career in this state of Ohio five years ago, and Gene Sarazen, a middle aged gent of 38 years who began an equally sensational round of professional work here 20 years ago, tomorrow morning will play 18 holes at 9:30 o'clock [Chicago time] for the 44th National Open golf championship.

Little and Sarazen are involved in the 15th playoff in the history of golf's greatest show as a result of their final 72 hole scores of 287, one under par, for the heat-and-rain ridden leas of the Canterbury Golf club. They were not the only players, however, to turn in that figure for the regulation distance. In one of the strangest finishes the Open ever has seen, 23 year old Ed Oliver of Hornell, N. Y., also turned in 287, but it was unofficial, for he was disqualified by the first paragraph of the second-stroke rule in the United States Golf association's code for having started ahead of time. Along with him in this erasure from the official scoreboard were five other professionals, all of whom thought they were merely hastening the speed of the tournament.

It's a Closed Book.

The decision of the U. S. G. A. on Oliver became an official closed book with the announcement of Harold Pierce, president of the organization, that Oliver and the other five pros who started out with him had violated an obvious rule and that was all there was to it. Oliver, himself, had given his caddy $25, packed up his luggage, and left for his home club.

The fact still remains, however, that Little and Sarazen, probably two of the most overlooked swingers ever to come up to an Open, have to go to work tomorrow morning without Oliver. Both Little and Sarazen made pleas to the U. S. G. A. to skip the rule and allow Oliver to play, but their efforts were disallowed.

Play Under Heavy Pressure.

Probably no two National Open competitors had the pressure on them today that Little and Sarazen encountered. Little went into the final round after getting a morning 70 for a 54 hole total of 214, one shot back of Frank Walsh, Chicago-born pro from Rumson, N. J., who led at the three-quarters mark with a 213. The unruly gallery promptly pursued the husky Californian, who completed his little slam as an amateur in 1935 only five miles from Canterbury at the Country Club of Cleveland. He had his biggest chance at the 441 yard 18th but almost caught a trap there, and then settled for a bogey five from the fringe. The youngster who now registers as a professional from Bretton Woods, N. H., made a brave try, but the man he will meet in tomorrow's playoff turned in one of the grandest jobs the Open ever has seen.

Perhaps that is going a bit far, for Sarazen did rather well in his final round at Fresh Meadow in 1932 when he won his second Open since his victory at Chicago's Skokie course in 1922, but today the outspoken Italian squire had all the pressure on him.

In 21st National Open.

Sarazen, who is playing his 21st National Open golf tournament after his debut at Toledo's Inverness course, was one of the last men to go out today into an afternoon which saw the winds of Canterbury bring up for chums a series of showers which stopped most of the field. Sarazen was aware at the eleventh hole that he had to go to work to catch Little, who had just finished with his second 73 of the day for a 287.

Sarazen also knew that Oliver had

Put On Slugfest to Go Back Into Lead.

Cincinnati, O., June 8 (AP).—The Cincinnati Reds regained the National league lead today by clubbing out a 23 to 2 victory over yesterday's leaders, the Brooklyn Dodgers.

In sharp contrast to yesterday's battle, which went to the Dodgers by 4 to 2 in 11 innings, today's game was nothing but a batting workout for the Reds and a mighty headache to Pitchers Fred Fitzsimmons, Carl Doyle and Van Lingle Mungo.

While the Reds were collecting 27 hits, the Dodgers were bowing to Paul Derringer's fine hurling. He yielded but seven hits in chalking up his first victory over them since 1938. Heading the batting soirée for the Reds was Harry Craft, who got two singles, a double, triplee, and homer. In addition to Craft, Lonnie Frey and Johnny Rizzo hit homers, both with two mates aboard.

St. Louis, Mo., June 8 (AP).—Walter Brown, the New York Giants' ace relief pitcher, proved his effectiveness today, helping his third place mates to win a double header from the St. Louis Cardinals, 4 to 2 and 5 to 2. Brown aided Roy Joiner in winning the opener with a sparkling ninth inning relief job, disposing of Enos Slaughter, Joe Medwick, and Don Padgett when the Cards had the tying runs on base.

In the second game he helped Cliff Melton win his sixth game of the season by retiring the last six batters in order, after Cliff tired and let Joe Orengo hit an eighth inning homer. That marked Brown's 14th relief appearance of the year.

PIRATES, 6; PHILLIES, 5.

Pittsburgh, Pa., June 8 (AP).—Altho outhit 12 to 8, the Pittsburgh Pirates beat the Philadelphia Phillies, 6 to 5, today for their fourth consecutive victory. A wild pitch by Si Johnson in the seventh set up the winning run for the Pirates by allowing Paul Waner to go from first to third. Waner had walked. Then Vin DiMaggio, sent in to run for Waner, scored the winning tally on Elbie Fletcher's long fly. Fletcher had tied up the ball game in the fifth with his fifth homer.

Hassett finds Pitcher Olsen's throw to Phil Cavarretta on first base is too fast and the Boston first baseman is out in the second inning. The umpire is George Magerkurth. No. 33 is George Kelly, Bees' coach.

but Gee Walker fouled to Larry Rosenthal.

The game continued moderately screwy in the Sox's second. McNair opened with a single to left and Tresh walked. In attempting a pitchout, Chase loosed a wild pitch, which was at least eight feet over Early's head. Dietrich bounced to Chase, who threw late to Early, McNair scoring, Tresh reaching third, and Dietrich first. Kennedy grounded into a double play, Tresh scoring. Chase threw out Joe Kuhel.

It was in the third that the 6,000 spectators saw some especially intricate confusion. With one out, Wright walked and stopped at second on Appling's single. Rosenthal walked, loading the bases. McNair singled to center, scoring Wright and Appling, and when the ball went between Welaj's heels and rolled to the fence, Rosenthal scored and McNair reached third. It was here that Monteagudo replaced Chase after Tresh walked, Dietrich was called out on strikes.

McNair and Tresh put on an attempted double steal on Monteagudo's windup. Tresh broke first, whereupon Catcher Early, instead of waiting in the catcher's box for the pitch, stepped on the plate and caught the ball in anticipation of McNair's approach. Umpire John Quinn promptly waved McNair home and let Tresh stay on second, then ordered the game to proceed.

An Error for the Catcher.

Umpire Bill McGowan, however, halted play and ordered Kennedy to first base. It was explained that Early had been adjudged guilty of that old time favorite of the boys who call sports departments from saloons after midnight, "a catcher's balk." The expression "catcher's balk" disappeared from the rule book several years ago. Under present phraseology it was simply interference by the catcher and drew Early an error. The crazy inning ended with Tresh being thrown out in an attempt to steal third.

Appling's third single, a sacrifice, and a safe bunt by Tresh produced a run in the fifth. A pass to Kennedy, a sacrifice, and a single by Wright was good for one in the sixth. After going out in order in the seventh and eighth, the Sox made three runs in the ninth on a conglomeration of activities.

Brown had his greatest struggle in the ninth, in which the Senators scored two runs and had the bases loaded when the game ended.

Ted Lyons Faces Senators for Sox in Final of Series

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 8.—Ted Lyons will pitch for the White Sox in the final of the series tomorrow. He will be after his fifth victory of the season. Willis Hudlin probably will pitch for the Senators.

The Washington official scorer today corrected his ruling, which yesterday had given Taft Wright credit for a stolen base in an attempted double steal, which was broken up by the Senators.

The White Sox will remain in Washington tomorrow night and will leave for Wilmington, Del., at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon. They will play the Wilmington Blue Rocks Monday night and move on to Philadelphia after the game. On Tuesday night the Chicagoans will play their first major league night contest of the season. They will engage the A's again Wednesday afternoon, then start for home.

STEINMETZ NINE DEFEATS CULVER IN ELEVENTH, 3-2

Culver, Ind., June 8 [Special].—Culver Military academy and Steinmetz High school of Chicago went 11 innings today in the annual commencement baseball game, the Chicagoans finally winning, 3 to 2. Quandee scored for Steinmetz in the eleventh. He doubled to center, advanced on a sacrifice, then scored on a long fly to center. Score:

have been a double killing if Miller had not slipped just as he fielded the ball. He threw to first from a sitting position, but the throw was a bit late. Mattick tried to bunt and wound up with a strike out. Then Olsen performed in his own behalf with the double into center, scoring Dallessandro. Hack was purposely passed and was forced by Cavarretta, Collins scoring on the play. Gleeson popped to Warstler.

The Bees, after a stretch of five innings in which they produced only one hit, produced a couple of solid but futile drives in the eighth before anybody was retired. Hassett lead off with a single to center and Masi, batting for Fette, singled thru short, putting Hassett on third. Hassett tried to go home on Warstler's tap to Olsen and was nailed, after which the situation was cleaned up quickly by a double play.

Strincevich's one inning of work in the eighth wasn't without its interesting moments. Herman walked, Dallessandro doubled and Collins was purposely passed with one out. But a double play on Mattick's grounder lifted Strincevich from the jam.

Larry French and Charley Root will be the Cubs' pitchers today in the bargain bill with the Bees. The latter's mound operators will be Bill Posedel and George [Barney] Barnicle.

Hank Leiber, ill for several days with an inflamed throat, showed up at the ball park yesterday but didn't feel pert enough to slip into a uniform. The trouble has been traced to a piece of tonsil overlooked when he underwent a tonsilectomy some time ago. Hank wants to have the surviving bit extracted immediately.

Most of the fans showed up minus their coats and not more than a few innings had been played before they regretted their confidence in Chicago's summer climate. The north wind suddenly took on an arctic touch, making it unfavorable for everybody except the bleacher bugs.

Hornsby Takes Over Today in Oklahoma City

Oklahoma City, Okla., June 8 (AP).—Rogers Hornsby has been signed to manage the Oklahoma City Indians of the Texas league, Owner John Holland announced today.

Hornsby, former National league manager and hitting star, is expected to take charge of the faltering Indians, now in the league cellar, for a double header with the Dallas Rebels tomorrow afternoon.

He replaces Jim Keesey, who was given an outright release.

HE HAS NO PLANS

St. Louis, Mo., June 8 (AP).—Rogers Hornsby, packing to leave for his new job as manager of the Oklahoma City club in the Texas league, said tonight he had made no plans for the team and knew nothing about it except that he was taking it over tomorrow and it is in the cellar.

"It looks like a tough job," some one commented.

"All baseball managers' jobs are tough," Hornsby responded. "I never heard of an easy one, have you?"

Hornsby, one of the greatest hitters baseball has known, managed the St. Louis Cardinals, Browns and Cubs. His last job was as manager of Chattanooga of the Southern association. He was released a few weeks before the end of the 1939 season.

He recently worked with some of the Cardinals' young players and his coaching brought a marked improvement in the batting of Martin Marion and Joe Orengo.

Hornsby's baseball career began in 1914 when he joined the Hugo club of the old Texas-Oklahoma league. He went to the majors in 1915, signing to play first base with the St. Louis Cardinals. He remained with that squad until 1926.

Then he went to the New York Giants, to the Boston Braves in 1928, to the Cubs in 1929 and back to the Cardinals in 1933.

That same year he joined the Browns, remaining with them thru 1937.

PLAYS STERLING TEAM.

Bob Young, ex-North Central college athlete and former St. Joseph, Mich., softball player, will make his debut with Match Corporation of America tonight when the Chicago team meets Sterling, Ill., in Parichy stadium, Harlem and Harrison.

St. Sabina and St. Odilo Win in Softball Meet

St. Sabina defeated St. Barbara, 8 to 7, in the final round of the St. Ignatius softball tournament yesterday. St. Odilo defeated St. Bartholomew, 4 to 2, for third place.

Milnar Blanks Yankees, 3-0; Yields 2 Hits

New York, June 8 (AP).—A pair of singles—one by Charley Keller and one by Buster Mills—were all the hits the world champion Yankees could get off Al Milnar of the Cleveland Indians today as the Tribe won, 3 to 0, to move up to within one point of the league leading Red Sox. The left hander won his eighth victory against one defeat by his masterful pitching today. A crowd of 16,067 cheered him on.

Marius Russo, who outpitched Milnar earlier in the season for the Indian star's only defeat, suffered his first defeat, giving up five hits in eight innings. Johnny Murphy, who pitched the ninth, was tagged for two more hits, one of them a homer by Roy Bell. Cleveland scored its other two runs in the fifth and seventh, adding two solid hits for a run in each frame.

TIGERS, 4; RED SOX, 2.

Boston, Mass., June 8 (AP).—Johnny Gorsica won his first major league victory today as his Detroit Tiger teammates defeated the Boston Red Sox for the second consecutive day, 4 to 2. The Red Sox still clung to the American league lead by the margin of 1 percentage point.

Boston outhit the Tigers, nine to five, but the winners had four extra base hits, including two home runs. Rudy York opened the scoring in the second with a home run over the left field screen. The second tally crossed the plate a few minutes later when Pinky Higgins walked and scored on a double by Birdie Tebbetts.

These two hits, and a single by Dick Bartell, were the only ones the Tigers could obtain off Denny Galehouse, Boston starting hurler, until he gave way for a pinch hitter in the seventh. Relief Pitcher Jack Wilson yielded Detroit's two remaining hits and runs in the eighth.

Philadelphia, Pa., June 8 (AP).—Roy Cullenbine, who was traded to St. Louis by Brooklyn because he wasn't hitting, drove in six runs today with a homer and double to lead the Browns to a 15 to 1 victory over the Athletics behind Eldon Auker's five hit pitching. Cullenbine started a seven run uprising for the Browns in the fifth by drawing a base on balls and scoring on Chet Laabs' triple. Coming up for the second time in the inning he doubled with the bases full to score two runs.

In the sixth Cullenbine came to bat with the bases full and hit a homer off Rookie Carl Miles.

DIZ DEAN STARTS NEW TEST TODAY IN TEXAS LEAGUE

Believes Sun Will Help Arm in Comeback.

Tulsa, Okla., June 8 (AP).—Jerome Herman [Dizzy] Dean, neither as speedy nor as dizzy as he once was, unslings his new sidearm pitch and his new upright hope here tomorrow in the hot Texas league sunshine.

He's putting his faith in sun-baking and side-winding to revive the flame the National league wars soaked out of his fireballing right arm. He thinks he'll help the Tulsa Oilers win the Texas league pennant—they're in the second division now—and help himself back up the hill.

Faces Fort Worth Cats.

He met his new mates in Oklahoma City and predicted, offhand, that he'd rejoin the Chicago Cubs within four weeks. It must have been the sunshine.

He will oppose the last place Fort Worth Cats here tomorrow in the first game of a double header.

Dean today isn't the cocky Arkansan who in 1931 rifled Houston to victory in this same Texas league and in the Dixie series, and himself into the St. Louis Cardinal camp and thence to world series fame.

"One day I can pitch overhanded or any way," he said, "and the next day it ties up on me."

No More Fast Balls.

He knows he hasn't power to burn any more. "I'm used to firing it by them," he reminded and then reflected, "you get to a certain stage where you can't do that."

Tulsa's manager, Roy Johnson, as a Cub coach, has handled Dizzy before. "Losing hurt Roy worse than it hurt the pitchers," Dean recalled. And that's the kind of boss Diz likes.

Dizzy's home country isn't cold like Chicago, where "you can't do nothin'—pick the ball up, lay the ball down, can't throw." He'll have sunshine for workouts but most games in this league are under arc lights.

Any objections? "No, sir—that's where I became a great pitcher, at night ball," Dean replied.

Lewis Battles Greenberg for City Net Title

Morey Lewis and Seymour Greenberg reached the final round of men's singles in the annual city tennis championship tournament at the Oak Park Tennis club yesterday. They will meet at 2 o'clock this afternoon for the title.

Lewis bested the veteran Thane Halstead, River Forest, 6-2, 6-1, 6-3, and Greenberg eliminated Scott Rexinger, Beverly Hills, 6-1, 6-4, 7-5.

Catherine Wolf, defending champion of Elkhart, Ind., will meet Helen Shockley, Indian Hill, for the women's singles championship an hour later, after which the rivals will team against Louise Hofmeister and Margaret Stiel of River Forest for the doubles title.

Men's doubles involve Lewis and John Foreman, Lake Shore T. C., and Max Davidson and Rexinger, Beverly Hills. Today's schedule:

MEN'S SINGLES—Morey Lewis, River Forest, vs. Seymour Greenberg, Northwestern U., 2 p. m.

MEN'S DOUBLES—Lewis, River Forest, and Foreman, Lake Shore T. C., vs. Rexinger and Davidson, Beverly Hills, 4 p. m.

WOMEN'S DOUBLES—Wolf, Elkhart, Ind., and Shockley, Indian Hill, vs. Hofmeister and Stiel, River Forest, 4 p. m.

TEN PREP CREWS SEEK TITLES IN REGATTA TODAY

Lane Tech Bids for 2d Tribune Trophy.

by rowing only once. Lane, if it gets by the newcomers from Schurz, will be called upon to defeat Amundsen's huskies to reach the final round.

Perfect rowing weather of the last week enabled all of the crews to come up for today's test in perfect condition. There is no basis to speculate on the comparative strength of the five junior crews. Each is conceded a chance to triumph.

Added to the excitement of the eight oar shell races will be three events bringing together cumbersome Sea Scout cutters. The only cutter race on the 1939 program rivaled the shell races in crowd appeal.

Single oar and four oar shell races between members of the Lincoln Park Boat club, canoe races, and tilting contests round out the afternoon's offering. Winners and runners-up will be awarded trophies and medals. All presentations will be made at the landing in front of the boat house after the conclusion of the senior shell race.

Members of the competing crews follow:

FOUR GAMES IN SOFTBALL RACE BILLED TONIGHT

The Windy City Softball league swings into an important week of the first quarter schedule with two league contests scheduled for each of the circuit's parks. At the west side park, St. Philip stadium, the heavy hitting Salerno Cookies will battle the Atlas All-Americans for second place in the American division. In the co-feature the Goranson Alleys of Logan Square take on the Chicago Hebrews.

At the league's south shore park, Rand stadium, 75th and Euclid avenue, tonight's card will pit the Lopota Steelers against the Dust Motors, while in the windup game the Pollack Motors of Brighton park clash with the Washburne Craftsmen.

SPENCER COALS PLAY ST. LOUIS IN TWO GAMES

The Spencer Coals, who have won six of eight games this season, will oppose the St. Louis Stars in two games this afternoon in Spencer field, 4200 North Central avenue. St. Louis was runnerup in the Negro baseball league and the only team to shut out the Coals last year.

Bill [Lefty] Stevens and Slim De Lion, who have scored the club's six victories, will pitch for the Coals. De Lion will be seeking his fourth straight in the first game at 1:30 o'clock. Stevens will work the second. The Coals lineup will include Bill Grandbois, Joe Cannizzo, and Hal Mossman.

MAN THE OARS, MEN, IT'S REGATTA DAY AGAIN

Sun Valley, Idaho, June 8 (AP).—Baseball, thinks Ty Cobb, is on its way back—back to the type of game he played as the Georgia Peach of the Detroit Tigers. Cobb told interviewers he found evidence that closely fought games were returning to popular favor.

He cited the feat of Jimmy Fox in winning at least seven victories for the Boston Red Sox during the past month by home runs with men on base, noting at the same time that this accomplishment had stirred no undue furor.

"People are getting used to all these home runs. Today it's the tight 1 to 0 games that get the attention. Maybe we'll be back where we were," Cobb said.

Cobb expects the Cincinnati Reds to outlast the Brooklyn Dodgers for the National league pennant. The Dodgers are inspired, he said, but "it's a long way to September." In the American league he favors the New York Yankees over the Red Sox, with Cleveland an outside chance.

HOUSE OF DAVID, MILLS CLASH IN DOUBLE HEADER

The House of David baseball team, managed by John Tucker, first baseman, will play the Mills semipro nine in a double header in Mills stadium, 4700 West Lake street, this afternoon. The bearded nine will be making its first appearance of the season against the Mills.

Babe Lick, former member of the Mills; Bill Clay, Val Valcheck, and Bill Tally are some of the players who are on this year's House of David club. A pepper game will be presented during the second contest.

Dempsey May Box Wrestler in Atlanta Ring

Atlanta, Ga., June 8 (AP).—Jack Dempsey, biggest drawing card in boxing history, today indicated his willingness to reënter the ring here July 1 for a fight with a wrestler, Cowboy Luttrell.

An Atlanta newspaper says a 10 round boxing bout has been arranged between the former heavyweight champion, now 45 years old, and Luttrell, a former fighter. Promoter Jim Downing is en route to New York with papers for Dempsey to sign.

Dempsey's Willing.

In New York Dempsey, when asked about the proposed match, said:

"I may be an old man, but I'm willing to meet Luttrell any time, any place, for any number of rounds he desires."

Last Fought in 1932.

Dempsey's last fight was in 1932, when he lost a four round decision to King Levinsky at Chicago. Since that time Dempsey has been active as a boxing and wrestling referee.

Luttrell is a former boxer who turned to wrestling. It was said part of the proceeds would go to the Red Cross.

MISS ORCUTT WINS METROPOLITAN 7TH TIME; RECORD

Montclair, N. J., June 8 [Special].—A golfing record fell before the steadiness of Miss Maureen Orcutt's game today as the former national champion won the women's metropolitan championship for the seventh time, to establish a record in the 40 year old tournament.

Leaving little doubt about the outcome early in the final, Miss Orcutt administered an 11 and 9 setback to Miss Grace Amory of the Women's National club over the Montclair Gold club course.

Until this afternoon, Mrs. George B. Wagstaff and Miss Orcutt each were credited with six metropolitan titles.

Romero's Death Is Exaggerated; Says So Himself

SANTIAGO, Chile, June 8 (AP).—Quintin Romero, former Chilean heavyweight boxing champion, said today that he wished his friends in the boxing federation had saved their money "to give me a real funeral much later."

Carrying a large wreath, a delegation came to his home yesterday after hearing that a young man posing as Romero's son was seeking funds "to bury his father."

But Romero, 46, wasn't even ill. He boxed in the United States from 1924 thru 1927.

MICHIGAN STATE BEATEN TWICE BY OHIO STATE

Lansing, Mich., June 8 [Special].—Mark Kilmer and Gene Dornbrook pitched Ohio State to a double victory over Michigan State this afternoon in the final games of the season for both schools. The first game went 12 innings with the Buckeyes winning, 4 to 3. The second game went to Ohio State, 7 to 3. A double by Dumetre followed by Fraker's single in the 12th decided the first game.

By winning today's double bill Ohio State brought its record to 11 victories against 14 defeats. The Spartans were on the road to one of their best seasons in several years, but today's double defeat set their record for the season at 12 victories, 8 losses, and 2 ties. Scores:

Ohio State   ..010 000 100 011—4 12 1
Michigan State.000 000 020 010—3 12 1
```

Batteries—Kilmer and Nickol; Mekules and Wolkowicz.

SECOND GAME.

```

```

WINNETKA TO SEEK SIXTH IN ROW IN CRICKET

Winnetka, runner-up to the champion Chicago Cricket club last season will seek its sixth straight victory when it meets the South Park club in Washington park this afternoon at 1:30 o'clock in an Illinois league game. The Winnetka team has beaten Milwaukee, Washington Park, Chicago, Oak Park, and Lake Shore.

Four other games all starting at 1:30 p. m. will be played. They are:

Lake Forest vs. Washington Park at South Park, Lake Forest.

College Crews Bid Friday for Dinghy Title

The first annual Midwest Intercollegiate Dinghy championship regatta will be sailed Friday in Grant Park harbor, it was announced last night by Commodore Jack Emerson of the University of Chicago Yacht club. A trophy, a model of a racing dinghy under sail, has been offered by the club and the university for the championship. The college yacht club winning three years will win permanent possession of the prize.

Two University of Chicago crews will compete, as well as representatives of Armour institute, Notre Dame, and possibly Michigan, Wisconsin, and Northwestern. Columbia Yacht club B class dinghies will be sailed. An elimination series to determine Chicago's two teams will be sailed Wednesday.

The Columbia Yacht club's 49th annual race from Chicago to Michigan City, Ind., will be sailed Saturday morning. Yankee, Ed Schnabel's R class sloop, and Southern Cross, Robert Benedict's cruising yawl, the 1939 racing and cruising division time prize winners, will defend the Ariel and Rubinkam trophies in the race.

Commodore Milton Friend and Race Committee Chairman R. F. Hatfield expect the entries in all classes to total somewhat less than the 100 yachts predicted for the 50th race next year.

Illini Coaches to Attend Golf Outing on Thursday

New Line of Nylon Passes Angler's Tests

BY BOB BECKER.

For several years fishermen have been seeing the introduction of new materials, new kinds of flies, new types of reels, and other practical novelties in their favorite sport. For example, various types of plastics now are rather commonly used to make attractive and enduring lures, whereas a few years ago such lures were rare. Recently the introduction of a material called nylon for fishing lines, both bait casting and fly, caused comment among fishermen. A substitute for real gut which is made up in leaders also is getting a big hand from fishermen who use leaders for bass and trout fishing. This is a new product known as Vec.

Gives Nylon Line a Workout.

Thus we have on one hand a serious threat against silk for fishing lines, and a welcome one, too, as far as the fisherman is concerned, for silk has been none too durable on a casting reel. And on the other hand fishermen eagerly turn to a new leader material which has many advantages over natural gut. This leader material [made in America], retains its strength, ties easily, requires no soaking, and doesn't fray.

On a recent quick trip to some southern bass country [Reelfoot, Shreveport, Lake Charles, and Biloxi] we decided to give a nylon line [15 pound test] a thoro workout. The idea was to see how well it would stand hard usage among lily pads ["bonnets" they call 'em down south], aroung logs and trees, and in salt water. So we alternated a fly rod and a bait casting rod everywhere we fished. When we cast among the lily pads and got snagged we didn't spare the nylon line. On the contrary we pulled and hauled on it beyond the point that we would strain a silk line of similar strength.

Product Stands Up.

When we reached Biloxi we cast for sea trout in salt water. This same nylon line that had hours of usage was used. When we finished the salt water trip we didn't even dry this line because we wanted to see if it could take the salt water which so quickly ruins a silk line.

The way the product stood up was amazing. After all the hard usage given this line it still is unfrayed and ready for more work. Salt water didn't affect it as far as we can tell. From now on silk casting lines are just a dime a dozen as far as our fishing outfit is concerned. Our tests of the new leader materials were equally satisfactory.

Princeton, N. J., June 8 [Special].—Dan Carmichael of Princeton outpitched Ted Harrison of Yale today as the Tigers defeated the Elis, 2 to 0, before an alumni day crowd of 8,000. Yale collected only three hits off Carmichael in the 177th game of the oldest intercollegiate rivalry. Harrison struck out 14 but yielded eight hits.

MEXICAN SOCCER CHAMPIONS PLAY SPARTANS TODAY

Defend Unbeaten Record in Chicago Game.

BY OFFSIDE.

The Sparta Ogdens, who are still debating with the National Soccer association against playing the third game of their series with Baltimore in New York, have a treat in store for fans in Sparta stadium, 21st street and Kostner avenue, when they meet the Club Atlante of Mexico in an international match at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

The Mexicans are undefeated in their tour of the United States. They won over the New York Americans, 1 to 0; tied the American league All-Stars, 2 to 2; beat the New York Espanos, 6 to 2; played a tie against the New England States at Tiverton, R. I., and defeated the St. Louis All-Stars, 6 to 1.

Included in their lineup are several outstanding stars. Fernado Garcia, their center half who came to South America from Spain, is considered the greatest player in his position in the world today. This was substantiated when the Argentines paid the record sum of $55,000 for his services after he completes this tour. Another player of note is Alberta Mendoza, the leading goal scorer of his country. He is only 19 years old but a veteran in finding the net.

The team as a whole is well balanced, all having many international honors. It now rests with the Sparta to be the first to stop their winning streak. Sparta will field all their regulars except Jimmy MacDermott, who for club reasons has been suspended. Frank Trimmell will fill his place at center forward. Manager Rudolph Velk, knowing the importance of this game, had his players doing special training all week. The Sparta Seconds will meet the Necaxas in a preliminary game at 1 o'clock. Lineups:

SPARTA.		CLUB ATLANTE.

Sparta substitutes—George Hamous and Art Waldron. Atlante substitutes—Ehardo Romero Rafel Navaro and Louis Gross.

Referee—Joe Springer, Chicago.

The International league first division second play-off match takes place in Greenfield stadium in Oak Park at 2:30 o'clock today when the Slovaks and Oak Park battle in the second and deciding game for the first division title. In the first match played at the Slovaks ground the teams played a 2 to 2 tie.

The juniors will have their annual Field day at 4500 West Fullerton avenue, staging Seven-a-Sides for both juveniles and juniors, starting at 12:30 p. m. today. The first event will be the playing of the Peel cup junior finals. The contesting teams are the Macabees and Oak Park Acorns. Twelve juvenile and sixteen junior teams will take part in both tournaments.

CHICAGO OWNED FILLY CAPTURES JOLIET STAKES

Blue Delight Romps Home on Muddy Track.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Blue Delight, a dainty brown filly owned by Mrs. John Marsch of Chicago, paraded to the post with 10 other handsome juveniles in the $5,000 Joliet stakes yesterday at Lincoln Fields. Her well groomed appearance lasted only for a few strides once the field got away on the rain drenched track—but she looked prettier than ever to her owner as she came galloping down the stretch, splattering mud recklessly from her flying hoofs. She crossed the finish line half a length ahead of her closest pursuer, Cleveland Putnam's Swain, while the hitherto unbeaten Clarksville, owned by John Greener, was getting home third.

Points for Lassie Stakes.

Blue Delight thus earned the juvenile championship of the Lincoln Fields meeting, for her rivals included both colts and fillies, some of which were brought in from other tracks especially for this event. She has now won three races out of four starts, her only defeat having been incurred by the margin of a head in the first race of her career last month at Churchill Downs. In her only previous appearance at Lincoln Fields, she scored with six lengths to spare. She will now be pointed for juvenile events at Arlington Park, her next big objective being the $35,000 Lassie stakes.

The heaviest betting support went to Clarksville because of his record of four consecutive victories at Churchill Downs and Detroit. He was quoted at a little better than 2 to 1. Blue Delight was second choice at 7 to 2. Prices on the others ranged from 7 to 1 on Calumet farm's Two Tops to 37 to 1 on Friedberg and Axton's Beau Brannon.

Daughter of Blue Larkspur.

Blue Delight, who is a daughter of Blue Larkspur, is a full sister to Lightspur, the Marsch horse which raced successfully on Chicago tracks last season and then broke a leg in Kentucky last fall. The dam of both of them is the Chicle mare, Chicleight.

The last of many intermittent rain squalls blew away shortly before the horses went to the post for the Joliet stakes. When Starter Bill Hamilton sent them off on the five furlong dash, Air Hostess sprang into the lead but Blue Delight kept pace. Clarksville took a contending position despite the fact that he was forced to race fairly wide from his No. 10 post position on the short dash to the turn.

Approaching the stretch, Air Hostess began to weaken and Even Roll came on with a rush to challenge for the lead. Tho she lost quite a bit of ground making a wide sweep into the stretch, Blue Delight quickly took command. Even Roll tired steadily and dropped back in the late stages. Swain, who had been racing with the trailers, closed resolutely and Clarksville, who was the victim of a bit of shuffling on the turn, came on again to take third, another half a length back.

Wins in Good Time.

Despite the sloppy condition of the track, Blue Delight ran the five furlongs in 1:01 4-5. Those who bet on her in the mutuels collected $9 to win, $4.80 to place, and $3.40 to show. Swain, who went to the post at 11 to 1, returned $9.40 and $5.60 for place and show. Tickets on Clarksville were worth $3.20.

Tom Taggart's Yale O'Nine, which failed completely as a 3 year old after being well regarded at the close of his juvenile campaign, came back to score his first victory since 1938 in the Congress Hotel handicap, secondary feature on the program. He beat Paul Kelley's Floataway by a length in this dash of 7 furlongs. Mrs. Marie Evans' Shot Put was third while Manie O.Hara and Sir Jim James completed the field of five.

Because of his good performance in the previous Saturday's Steger handicap in which he finished second to Joe Schenck, Yale O'Nine was established as the favorite at a little better than even money. Trainer Howard Wells had brought him up to excellent condition for a successful effort.

Yale O'Nine Catches Up.

For a few moments during the race, many of the spectators feared that Floataway might be getting too far ahead for the favorite's safety. The Kelley horse opened up about four lengths during the run down the back stretch while Yale O'Nine was moving along in second place, side by side with Manie O'Hara.

On the swing around the turn, Yale O'Nine shook off Manie O'Hara and went after the pace setter. Soon after the stretch run began he drew alongside. About a furlong from the finish he dropped his nose and then drew clear. Meanwhile Shot Put, which had been far back in the earlier stages, closed with good speed.

In the sloppy going, Yale O'Nine covered the seven furlongs in 1:26 1-5. Those who backed him collected $4.20, $3, and $2.20.

Long Shot Wins First.

Sweep Through, a 50 to 1 shot, won the first race while a heavy rain drenched the course and drove the crowd to shelter. This 4 year old gelding had led the way home on only one previous occasion—and that was in 1938. Accordingly there was very little money bet on him by the spectators who had gathered to see a program headed by the $5,000 Joliet stakes.

Sweep Through's backers collected $103.20, $28.40, and $17 for win, place, and show.

High Blame scored at 13 to 1 odds in the second race, getting home a length in advance of Startling, while Star Bess was third. The winner returned $28.40, $10.20, and $11.80.

Jake Lowenstein's De Kalb then completed a $204.60 daily double by winning the third race. He led all the way and got home a length and a half ahead of Thomas Piatt's Version.

IT'S BIMELECH BY HALF A LENGTH IN BELMONT STAKES

E. R. Bradley's big horse, Bimelech, winner of the Preakness after disappointing showings in the Kentucky Derby and Withers, captures the Belmont stakes by half a length from Your Chance, with Andy K., the noted gypsy, lasting to be third. Your Chance came out of nowhere and was running over horses at the finish, but the race was several lengths too short for him to catch the tiring Bimelech. A crowd of 26,501 saw the 72d running of the famous stakes. [Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Mays, Horn to Race Today in Milwaukee

Milwaukee, Wis., June 8 [Special].—Headed by Rex Mays, who was second at Indianapolis, and Ted Horn, who was fourth, 21 drivers, the majority Indianapolis veterans, will try for a $2,500 purse in A. A. A. automobile races at Wisconsin State Fair park tomorrow at 2:30 p. m.

In the opening 25 mile event last year Mays defeated Horn, but Horn came back during fair week and twice finished ahead of Mays in similar events. The mile track record is held by Mays, who covered the distance in 38.17 seconds last August.

Three Chicago drivers, Duke Nalon, Emil Andres, and Cecil Yates, are entered in tomorrow's races.

AGUA CALIENTE ENTRIES.

FIRST RACE—Purse $500, allowances, 2 year olds, 5 furlongs:

Bimelech, undefeated in six starts as a two year old and beaten just twice in five previous outings this year, was under the wire first. He paid $4.70 for each $2 winning ticket, the best price he has returned his supporters since his third race last year. Your Chance, ridden by Harry Richards and picking up seven lengths in his great run from the back stretch, was $3.30 for place and Andy paid off $3.70 for show.

Not only was it a vindication for Bimelech, giving him two thirds of the triple crown—the Preakness and Belmont, with only the Derby missing—but the jackpot of $35,030 to the winner boosted his earnings for the year over the $100,000 mark. He now has earned $241,090.

In the companion feature on Belmont Park's closing card, Attention, a speedy son of Equipoise owned by Mrs. Parker Corning, won the National Stallion stakes by two lengths over George D. Widener's Swabia. He galloped the five furlong straightaway in 58.2 seconds for his second straight victory, and ridden by Buddy Haas, paid $3.60 for $2.

MIDDIES NAME NEW CAPTAINS FOR SIX TEAMS

Annapolis, Md., June 8 (AP).—New captains of the track, sailing, rifle, lacrosse, baseball and golf teams at the Naval academy were announced today by Commander Warde P. Davis, graduate manager of athletics.

Midshipman Lloyd L. Delatour of New Orleans, who last Saturday beat his brother, Frank, captain of the army track team, in the half mile race, was named captain of the track squad.

Midshipman T. E. Blount of Rye, N. Y., and H. R. Schoenbaum of Huntington, W. Va., were selected co-captains of the baseball team. Blount is a shortstop and Schoenbaum a southpaw pitcher.

The lacrosse team will be led by Midshipman B. P. Seaman Jr., a defense man of Garden City, N. Y., the sailing, rifle and golf captains, respectively, are Midshipmen W. E. Lemos of Riverside, R. I.; R. M. Strieter, Rock Island, Ill., and R. C. Knight of Baltimore.

DE LANCEY GETS WARM WELCOME AND AUTOMOBILE

St. Louis, Mo., June 8 (AP).—Baseball is full of "days" for favorite players but there was a special, heart-warming one today for Bill Delancey, the St. Louis Cardinals' catcher who won a courageous victory over tuberculosis.

Cardinal fans, welcoming Delancey after a four year absence, paid tribute also to his wife, Frances, who nursed him back to health. A huge bouquet of roses was taken to Mrs. Delancey in her box during the ceremonies.

With members of the Cardinals and the New York Giants grouped around the plate, Delancey received an automobile as a gift from friends and fans, including members of the Albuquerque, N. M., team, which he managed for three years during his convalescence.

GILL GOES SOUTH.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 8 (AP).—The Kansas City Blue of the American association have sent William Gill, right handed pitcher, to the Norfolk, Va., club of the Piedmont league on option.

Two dollar mutuels paid: Bimelech, $4.70 straight, $3.10 place, $2.70 show; Your Chance, $3.30 place, $3.00 show; Andy K., $3.70 show.

BIMELECH ran a remarkable race. He got away well in motion, but was eased back and rated along in a contending position for the first half. The boy became anxous and rushed BIMELECH up fast. He ran head and head with ANDY K. and finally made him stop. BIMELECH drew away in stretch, but tired and just lasted to win. YOUR CHANCE trailed far back for a mile, made his bid around turn and finished fast. ANDY K., showing a world of early speed, set a terrific pace to the stretch, where he weakened. CENTURY NOTE closed some ground. GALLAHADION had speed for seven furlongs, then tired. CORYDON stopped badly after showing early speed.

Boston, Mass., June 8 (AP).—Mrs. Emil Denemark's Court Dance, a 27-1 outsider in the pari-mutuels, won the fourth running of the $5,000 added Plymouth Rock handicap by a nose today before 25,000 fans at Suffolk Downs.

Until almost the last stride of the six furlong sprint, the Circle M ranch's Speed To Spare appeared a certain winner after staying on top most of the way with Walter McCune's Sassy Lady. Court Dance, however, came up fast on the outside under Jockey Teddy Atkinson's urging to squeeze home first.

Speed To Spare lasted for the place with the Lemar Stock farm's Mar Le in third position, a neck behind Speed To Spare and a neck in front of Joe W. Brown's T. M. Dorsett. The latter was up well all the way and saved ground on the turn for home, where Sassy Lady and Speed To Spare went wide.

The winner, timed in 1:11, paid $56, $21.20, and $12.40. Speed To Spare paid $7.40 and $5.60. Mar Le paid $5.20.

HYSTERICAL WINS

Los Angeles, Cal., June 8 (AP).—Hysterical, owned by George W. Stratton of Los Angeles, captured the $10,000 added Inglewood handicap at Hollywood Park today, edging out the final challenge of A. A. Baroni's Specify in the mile and one-sixteenth feature. Hysterical paid $16.40, $7.60 and $4.80.

Wedding Call, owned by Gaffers and Sattler of Los Angeles, ran third. The betting favorite, Louis B. Mayer's Joy Boy, finished out of the money. A crowd of 25,000 witnessed the race on which $119,649 was wagered.

Coast Favored Over Big 9½ Track Team

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Pacific coast track athletes undoubtedly will whip the team representing the Western conference in the meet in Dyche stadium, Northwestern university, a week from tomorrow evening. The westerners have swept all three meets. They won last year, 94⅓ to 36⅔. However, the stars of the Big 9½ figure to climb a bit in the final tabulation of the meet June 17.

Judged by results in the title meets of the Western conference and the Pacific Coast conference, which were held on the same day, May 25, the Big 9½ had better marks in four events than went to the Pacific coast athletes, and one event was tied. This comparison does not include the marks of two Western conference stars who may win two events June 17.

Schwarzkopf Expected to Win.

Capt. Ralph Schwarzkopf of Michigan, who easily should win the two miles if he has recovered from his throat infection, and Roy Cochran of Indiana, who was forced out of the 220 yard low hurdles by a pulled muscle, will bolster the midwesterners.

Orr of Washington State won the Pacific coast title in the low hurdles with a mark of :23.3. Cochran can beat this time easily. Stan Kelley of Michigan, Big Ten winner, ran the low hurdles a half second slower than Orr's championship mark.

The Pacific coast two mile championship went to Garner of Washington State, in 9:12.5. Schwarzkopf can run ten seconds faster, presuming that he can reach peak condition after his long layoff.

Coast Leads in Field Events.

The Big 9½ will take a licking in the six field events. In only one, the discus throw, in which Indiana's Archie Harris set a conference record, does the midwestern team have an advantage oven the Pacific Coast conference champions. The list of comparative marks and champions in the two recent conference meets follows:

MILE—Zamperini, Southern California, 4:11.6; Kane, Indiana, 4:15.

TWO MILES—Garner, Washington State, 9:12.5; Holderman, Purdue, 9:17.1.

MILE RELAY—Stanford, 3:14; Minnesota, 3:16.9 [picked teams from the conferences will compete and not individual universities].

120 YARD HIGH HURDLES—Smith, Wisconsin, :14.4; McGoldrick, Washington, :14.7.

HIGH JUMP—Wilson, Southern California, 6 feet 7 inches; Canham, Michigan, 6 feet 4¼ inches.

POLE VAULT—Dills, Southern California, 14 feet 3 inches; Williams, Wisconsin, 13 feet 6 inches.

Three men from each conference will compete in each event and the first three places will be scored on the usual basis of 5, 3, and 1 points respectively.

C. Y. O. TO DEFEND PERFECT BOXING RECORD JULY 10

Chicago Team to Oppose Hawaiian Champs.

A record which no other amateur boxing squad ever has compiled, not losing a team match in eight years, is held by the Chicago C. Y. O. On the night of July 10 in Soldiers' field, the 10 outstanding boxers of the C. Y. O. will attempt to keep this record intact when they clash with the amateur champions of Hawaii.

Win International Fame.

Boxing teams representing the C. Y. O. have fought the best in the world in intercity and international contests without defeat. Appearing in an average of a half dozen matches a year against squads from other cities and countries, C. Y. O. aggregations were victorious in all but a few matches, in which they were held to draws.

In addition to being victorious in intercity and international team matches, C. Y. O. squads have come thru on top in the world's largest and most important tournament, the Golden Gloves, nine consecutive years, starting in 1932, the first year the C. Y. O. entered a squad in the meet.

Three Golden Gloves Winners.

C. Y. O. teams also have won the Illinois Athletic club invitation meet eight years in a row, the Central A. A. U., and Midwest tournaments in 1933 and 1935, respectively. In this year's Golden Gloves tourney, three C. Y. O. representatives, Harold Dade, flyweight; Savior Canadeo, welterweight, and Cornelius Young, heavyweight, won titles in their respective divisions.

Among the squads defeated by the C. Y. O. are: Los Angeles, San Francisco, United States navy [Panama Canal Zone], Kansas City, Mo., Portland, Ore., New York, Phoenix, Ariz., Ireland, South America, Cleveland, Detroit, Honolulu, Cincinnati, Wilkes Barre, Pa., and Scranton, Pa.

Teams from Ireland, Omaha, Kansas City, Mo., San Francisco and Los Angeles have held C. Y. O. squads to draws.

Tickets for the show between the Hawaiian and C. Y. O. boxers are now on sale at the C. Y. O. center, 31 East Congress street.

Gale Captures First Race in Yacht Regatta

Harry Nye Jr. won the opening race of the Jackson Park Yacht club's annual invitational regatta for Star class yachts yesterday in his sloop Gale. He sailed the four and one-half mile course twice around in 1 hour 46 minutes and 5 seconds. Walter Etzbach was crew for Skipper Nye on the Gale. The second race of the series will be sailed at 10 a. m. today, and the final event is scheduled for 2:30 p. m.

Fleet Captain Warren Hatch sailed his 19 foot Lightning class sloop Folly to first place in the new class' second race at Montrose harbor. William Kuhlman and Frank Rosulek were crew.

Gossoon II., Sterling Morton and Malcolm D. Vail's R class sloop, led the Chicago Yacht club's fleet around the 12 mile triangular course off Belmont harbor to finish only five seconds ahead of the next boat, Yankee, owned and skippered by Ed Schnabel Sr. Gossoon's winning elapsed time was 2 hours 15 minutes and 4 seconds.

The 52 boat fleet racing off Chicago harbors yesterday began sailing in a north wind that veered to the northeast and brought a fog. Many of the competitors had to sail by compass. By late afternoon the wind had backed to northwest.

Hubert C. Ellis' Eagle class sloop Aquila, class champion for many seasons, repeated its victory of last week. The Daiseg-Richter syndicate's 27 foot sloop Friendship won in the Tumlaren class, and Bernard Magruder's 110 class yacht won in its class. The first of the Chicago Yacht club's annual Commodore's cup series will be sailed today off Belmont harbor.

Sarah Palfrey Fabyan Files Suit for Divorce

Reno, Nev., June 8 (AP).—Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Fabyan of tennis fame filed suit today to divorce socially prominent Marshall Fabyan Jr. of Boston and Manchester, Mass. She charged cruelty and asked restoration of her maiden name, Sarah Palfrey. The Fabyans were married Oct. 6, 1934. There was no appearance filed for Fabyan, an architect, and no indication as to when the case would come to trial.

NANCY MILLER WINS 2 EVENTS IN HORSE SHOW

Seven McGuires Take 3 Firsts and Seven Places.

Nancy Miller with two victories, Mrs. E. M. Hubbard Clifton's Chatelaine with a first, second, and fourth, and the seven McGuires with three firsts, as many seconds, an equal number of thirds, and a fourth, distinguished themselves at the opening of the South Shore Country club horse show yesterday.

The show will wind up this afternoon, starting at 2 o'clock, with five championship events and eight other classes of competition scheduled.

Most of the promising horses came up to advance expectations, but several times the favorites were upset, notably in the open jumper class, won by Jay Don, a comparative unknown, from the Black Top farm.

Scores in Successive Classes.

Miss Miller's two victories were scored in successive classes. She took the blue ribbon among junior jumpers with Golden Bow and followed with a repeat on Dominick in the event for hunters ridden by women.

The individual equine start of the day, Clifton's Chatelaine, was ridden by Marie Merrill Hubbard, daughter of its owner. This timber topper finished second to Stanley Luke's Ilderton in the competition for green or qualified hunters, returned to win the knockdown and out event, and then took fourth in the class for hunters ridden by women. Another Hubbard entry, Zounds, captured a fourth in the event for lightweight hunters, won by Lieut. Col. P. W. Evans' Tamerlane, ridden by Mrs. E. T. Scott.

Thirteen youngsters vied for the Town and Country Equestrian association's championship for juvenile riders, and at its conclusion, the title was awarded to Joan Monroe, who automatically qualifies for the grand championship at the International Horse show in the Stockyards amphitheater next fall.

Two McGuire Boys Win.

The three victories among 10 places won by the five McGuire sisters and their two brothers went to the credit of Walter Jr. in junior equitation class, Mary in the event for three-gaited saddle horses 15.2 hands or over, and John in the class for hunter pairs.

Other featured winners, all of them adding to the string of victories they have rolled up in recent years, were High Tide from Sunny Ridge farm, owned by H. Leslie Atlass, in the class for five-gaited mares or geldings; Snuffy Smith, owned by Nancy Florsheim, in the class for three-gaited mares or geldings, 15 to 15.2 hands high; Princess Roberta, owned by Hubert Silberman, in the ladies' five-gaited saddle class, and Star Chief, owned by Joan Ryan, in the open class for five-gaited horses.

PRINCETON AND WEST POINT WIN IN NATIONAL POLO

Westwood, Mass., June 8 (AP).—West Point defeated Harvard, 17 to 8, and Princeton's sophomore stars beat the University of Arizona, 12 to 4, in the opening round of the national intercollegiate outdoor polo meet today in Forbes field.

Bud Rose and Tiger Romfh, sophomores, scored seven goals between them as Princeton overpowered the first team Arizona has sent to eastern collegiate polo wars in nearly a decade.

come home with 287. Horton Smith of Oak Park, Ill., in the meantime was quietly working out the 288 that will give him official third place in the tournament by the time tomorrow's extra workout is done. Craig Wood, the New Yorker who lost the 1939 championship in a double play-off with Byron Nelson, contributed another fine fight with a 289 for fourth place.

Needs Five Pars to Tie.

Little, who led the Chicago district and the country in the qualifying rounds for the big show by shooting a 134 at Olympia Fields, was in a good half hour before Sarazen's gallery realized that the old timer had a chance. It didn't become a fact until the thirteenth, where he was told that he needed five pars to tie Little. The fellows who had mentioned the matter to him happened to be two of his best friends—Dick Metz of Oak Park, 1938 runner-up, and Tony Manero of Peabody, Mass.

Nobody had paid any attention to Sarazen until he holed a 15 footer at the 11th. Sarazen himself was not entertaining a hope of coming close until that juncture, for he had scrambled for pars and two bogeys on the front nine for a 38, two over par. That deuce on the 170 yard 11th served as an impetus to the fellow who always comes out fighting. He was short in a trap at the long 13th, but came out and dropped a 10 foot putt for a birdie. He was faced with a 12 footer on the next in order to make a par, and once again proved himself the battler he is by running that down.

At the 16th, he missed a 15 footer for a birdie in front of the mishandled audience that was trailing him with the knowledge that he was now the only man in the field with a chance to catch Little, who is something of a fighter himself. The charging throng now pursuing Sarazen realized his goal, and they were no help to him when he put a 5 wood into the rough off that 230 yard green. A wedge left him 25 feet from the cup, and it appeared that the party was all Little's. But Sarazen has not been around Opens and P. G. A.'s for years for nothing. He rolled the putt home with native quickness, and then turned toward the 18th.

Confusion Reigns Supreme.

In the golf business, the line "he made a good stab for it" has been long since copyrighted. Sarazen's second landed on the lower right hand corner of the green, and confusion reigned supreme while would-be marshals tried to curb the crowd. The Connecticut farmer's ball was at least 45 feet from the pin, as he discovered after rassling his way thru the wildest crowd of the last five Opens. He studied it briefly, and then stroked it up to the hole in a great effort for the birdie that would have won for him. There was no doubt about his winning intention, for the ball rolled a good foot past the cup, grazing the edge by a fraction.

Then Sarazen attempted to run the gantlet of admirers, but it was a good half hour before he finally reached the locker alley in which he found his old pal and rival, Walter Hagen, who greeted him with the drink which Sarazen quickly changed to a soft one.

While Sarazen's public was getting all steamed up, the rest of the gallery had not forgotten Little's final round. They would have been lax if they had overlooked the 40 foot niblick shot Little ran into the cup for a birdie at the 553 yard ninth. Even tho they suffered thru a three putt 10th green and a trapped drive at the 11th, they were rewarded by a courageous show by the 30 year old Californian, who has at times been regarded as one of the great match players of all time.

Meets Real Opponent.

Little is aware this evening that he is meeting tomorrow a fellow who is pretty fair at the man-to-man business himself. Sarazen has been in more than one playoff himself. On the last such occasion—in the 1935 Masters' tournament—he shot a now epic eagle to tie Craig Wood, and then defeated him in the 36 hole extra inning argument.

Oliver, the unhappy young man who might be out there with Sarazen and Little tomorrow, was officially disqualified along with five other professionals. Just in front of him and his partners—John Bulla of Chicago, last year's British Open runner-up and 54 hole leader in the 1939 National Open, and Ernie Harrison of Little Rock, Ark.—were a trio including Claude Harmon of Northmoor, Ky Laffoon of Chicago, and Leland Gibson of Kansas City.

Disqualification Causes Commotion.

There was almost as much commotion over the disqualification of Oliver as there was about the finishing rounds of Sarazen and Little. It got to a point where citizens were scurrying about, joining Sarazen and Little in signing a petition to keep Oliver in the play-off. The rotund Delaware native who did nicely thru this last winter circuit made no complaints, probably because he was misinformed about the aforesaid rule of the U. S. G. A., which reads:

"Competitors shall start in the order and at the times arranged by the committee. They shall not discontinue play nor delay to start on account of bad weather, or for any reason whatever, except such as the committee may consider satisfactory. Penalty—disqualification."

There was no doubt about the tragic effect of the disqualification. The U. S. G. A., however, is not to be blamed, for the rule is rather plain. Oliver took the matter a trifle hard at first, but then resigned himself to the situation quickly, and that was all there was to it. However, it's no pleasure to any player to shoot a 70 and a 71, three under par for 36 holes, as the stout Oliver did, and then to be disqualified.

SOUTH SHORE'S CHARITY SHOW TO CLOSE TODAY

Young Riders Dominate First Programs.

BY INDIA MOFFETT.

The two day charity show of the South Shore Country club started yesterday with morning and afternoon performances and will end this afternoon with a performance that will commence promptly at 2 o'clock. Yesterday's schedule was adhered to so perfectly that veteran horse show guests were amazed, for usually enough time has not been allowed for each class and consequently the performance drags. There was nothing like that in the South Shore's ring yesterday.

Even the weather coöperated to help make the show the great success it was. Umbrellas that had been carried by many in the audience "just in case" were used as sunshades, for there are no roofs over the boxes and grandstands and the only shade is that provided by trees. The South Shore ring has one of the most pleasant settings imaginable, with the lake, the golf course, and the beautiful clubhouse as a background. Yesterday morning dozens of sailboats added to the charm of the scene.

Dark Glasses Cause Disguises.

Dark glasses disguised almost every woman and girl sitting in the boxes. Behind a pair that looked like miniature sunflowers Mrs. James C. Thompson, wife of the chairman of the stable committee, was recognizable, and not far away sat young Phyllis Thompson, who is riding today. With them were 6 year old Harriet Atlass, who in the afternoon put her trick pony thru its paces in an interesting exhibition. She, too, had on a pair of dark glasses which were discarded, however, when she went into the ring. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Atlass, were there, and so were her two older brothers.

Members of the Kenwood Social Service club and the South Shore center of the Infant Welfare society were looking especially happy. Their charity receives the proceeds of the show. In former years about $10,000 has been netted and the indications are that that amount will be equaled this year. Mrs. Fred Herendeen, general chairman of the show committee; Miss Jane Dubbs, Mrs. Eugene K. Lydon, Mrs. Neil Graham, Mrs. George K. Hendrick, Mrs. William Scantlin, Mrs. W. K. Ballantine, Mrs. A. V. Conners, Mrs. V. J. Ream, Mrs. B. S. Rockwell, Mrs. Richard Oas, and Mrs. Kenneth Mac Lellan were among the Infant Welfarers there.

Youngsters Have an Outing.

Mrs. Hendrick had with her a party of seven little girls, including her daughter, Martha, who was celebrating her eighth birthday. Elizabeth Hubbard and her mother, Mrs. Merrill Hubbard, were interested spectators, especially when Debutante Marie Merrill Hubbard was riding. Miss Hubbard carried away several ribbons during the day, and so did Miss Jeanne Lee Hester, who was enthusiastically applauded for her masterly handling of several high spirited horses. Subdeb Joy Salisbury was in the list of winners, also, and so was her mother, Mrs. Kimball Salisbury, who jumped several of the Denison B. Hulls' hunters.

Yesterday belonged almost exclusively to children at the South Shore show, altho there were many classes for adults and plenty of them in the audience. The youngsters, however, had such a jolly time that every one else took a back seat and let it be the kids' day. The dining room was filled with youthful luncheon parties and there were many in smart riding attire who looked as if they hadn't been out of rompers very long.

Among others at the show, riding or watching, or doing both, were Mrs. William B. McIlvaine, Fred L. Thompson, the club president, and his daughter, Mrs. William E. Dee Jr.; Mrs. Carl Defebaugh, Mrs. Kenath Sponsel, Franklin B. Evans, Mr. and Mrs. William D. Saltiel, Mrs. Richard Cooper Jr., and her daughter, Maxine; Miss Carlotta Lagorio, Miss Polly Lawler, Mrs. Clinton G. Rood, Abner J. Stilwell, Nancy and Sally Miller, who won several ribbons; Mr. and Mrs. Denison B. Hull and their young son, the Walter G. McGuires and their family, Lieut. and Mrs. Theodore Mohlman and her brother, Wallace Wakem.

Cleveland, O., June 8 (AP).—The golfing professionals fire primarily for prestige, not for money, in the National Open golf tournament, but the 35 low scorers did split up $6,000 in the 44th annual event which wound up in a tie today.

Gene Sarazen of Brookfield Center, Conn., and Lawson Little, Bretton Woods, N. H., who tied at 287 for the title, will split $1,800, the winner of tomorrow's playoff taking $1,000 and the loser $800. Other money winners:

Horton Smith, Oak Park, Ill., $700; Craig Wood, Mamaroneck, N. Y., $600; Ralph Guldahl, Chicago; Byron Nelson, Toledo; Lloyd Mangrum, Chicago, and Ben Hogan, White Plains, N. Y., $325 each; Dick Metz, Chicago, $175; Frank Walsh, Rumson, N. J., and Ed Dudley, Philadelphia, $137.50 each; Jug McSpaden, Winchester, Mass.; Tommy Armour, Medinah, Ill.; Henry Picard, Hershey, Pa., and Vic Ghezzi, Deal, N. J., $100 each.

Johnny Revolta, Evanston, Ill.; Gene Kunes, Philadelphia; Sam Snead, Shawnee on Delaware, Pa.; Jim Foulis, Hinsdale, Ill.; Felix Serafin, Scranton, Pa.; Jimmy Hines, Great Neck, N. Y.; Andy Gibson, Baltimore; Leland Willcox, Waterloo, Ia.; Jock Hutchison Jr., Rockford, Ill.; Eddie Kirk, Farmington, Mich.; Ray Mangrum, Pittsburgh, and Johnny Farrell, Springfield, N. J., $50 each.

Bruce Coltart, Seaview, N. J.; H. B. Ransom, Fort Worth, Tex.; Jack Ryan, Louisville, Ky.; Sam Parks Jr., Pittsburgh, and Al Huske, DeKalb, Ill., $30 each.

Wilford Wehrle, Niles, Ill., the leading amateur, and Andy Szwedko of Pittsburgh and Jim Ferrier of Australia, other simon pures to finish among the first 35, received medals.

THE LOCKER ROOM

Round-of-the-Week

Gene Sarazen's final round of 72 in the National Open at Cleveland

Shot-of-the-Week

SAM O' SHANTER is getting dressed up for the Chicago Open to be held there July 19, 20, and 21. . . . Five holes are being lengthened by the installation of back tees. . . . George S. May, president, reports that the overall shooting distance for the Open will be 6,680 yards, compared to 6,395 yards formerly. . . . After playing golf for 35 years with irons only, George Griffith of Bob o' Link says he has finally mastered them and is now going after the wood clubs. . . . He went around in 125 last week. . . . Caddies will be the beneficiaries of Wooden Cup day at Park Ridge Wednesday. . . . Each contestant must donate an old club, bag, or new ball, which will be given to caddies who cannot afford to obtain golf equipment. . . . Low net for the days wins the C. D. G. A. Wooden cup. . . . J. Everett Wrenn, after trying for 10 years, finally broke 90 with an 89 on No. 1 course at Olympia Fields recently.

Entries Open for C. D. G. A. Junior on June 24-28.

Entries are being received at C. D. G. A. headquarters for the association's fifth annual Junior Open tournament at Itasca, June 24-28. . . . The event is open to any amateur under 18. . . . Marshall Springer of Evergreen won the event last year in a 20 hole match with Manuel de La Torre of Highland Park. . . . Chester Bland, who won the title in 1937, is captain of the Northwestern university golf team. . . . Stuart Phillips of Riverside took 90 strokes to tour the course last week, but he had an ace on the 140 yard seventh, where he holed out with a 6 iron. . . . The hole in one was attested by Dr. Irish and Bob Wagner.

Bob o' Link will hold its annual Hullabaloo tournament Wednesday and Thursday, June 19 and 20. . . . George Peurye, a 14 handicapper, has been nicknamed "the champ" out at Twin Orchard after he shot the best round of his life, a 37—39—76. . . . The General Electric company and its subsidiaries will hold a golf outing at Sportsman's Saturday. . . . Alex Henderson of Riverside is receiving compliments for the mass of colorful tulips he installed back of the 18th green.

H. M. Pond of Edgewater came up with the first golf marathon of the season when he played the four courses at Bethpage State park, New York, in 8 hours 20 minutes. . . . He went thru 21 foursomes and lunched on sandwiches and candy bars. . . . And he's still wondering why he can't put on any weight. . . . Bob MacDonald, veteran Chicago professional, celebrated his 30th year as a National Open participant at Cleveland. . . . MacDonald came to this country from Scotland in 1910. . . . In 1915 Bob led the field up to the last six holes, when he experienced bunker trouble and finished third behind Jerome Travers and Tom McNamara.

All hole in one records have been smashed at Park Ridge this season with four aces made already. . . . They were made by B. F. Weber Jr., 17th hole; Herb Carqueville, 14th hole; John W. Gow, 12th hole, and Carl L. Kutson, guest of W. G. Roby, 12th hole. . . . The 14th annual Women's Trans-Mississippi golf tournament will open at St. Louis tomorrow. . . . It is said that the only time Alex Smith, the pioneer professional from Scotland, was ever at a loss for words was one winter at Belleair, Fla., where he was giving lessons to a somewhat rotund lady. . . . Realizing that he was making no progress, he told her: "I gie up, lassie; you'll nae make a gowfer in this world." . . . "But I don't want to be a golfer, Mr. Smith," she replied. "I am only taking these lessons to reduce."

Refurbished Elmhurst to Hold Blowout Wednesday.

One of the big golf events of the week will be the Elmhurst Blowout Wednesday. . . . The popular west side club, owned by Fred B. Snite, has undergone many improvements this year including the enlargement of both the men and women's locker rooms and new furnishings in the dining rooms and lounge. . . . A new pro shop has been erected near the first tee, necessitating a change in the course. . . . The No. 1 tee is the old No. 10. . . . One hundred new elm trees have been planted on the course, and last but not least, a new chef has been installed in the kitchen.

Twenty-five new members at the Evanston Golf club will have an opportunity to get better acquainted with the old timers at a new member party to be held Wednesday. . . . Golf, dinner, and movies will be the order of the day. . . . Eddie Gayer, pro at Twin Orchard, is back on the job again after spending a week in the hospital following an automobile accident. . . . In the Olympia Fields bowling tournament recently, the five man team composed of Dr. L. W. Hughes, E. E. Bolte, G. C. Vander Boom, and J. J. Shanahan all birdied the par 4 No. 3 hole on the No. 1 course. . . . Barrington Hills will hold its annual Highland Fling invitational tournament Wednesday. . . . One hundred and fifty members and guests are expected.

Tomorrow will be the deadline for entries in the Western Junior golf championship to be held at the Mill Road Farm course in Lake Forest, June 18-21. . . . The course, now owned by the University of Chicago, has been turned over to the Western Golf association for its junior tournament. . . . Players will be housed and fed at Northwestern university. . . . Sam Marzulo, athletic director at Maine Township High school, Des Plains, scored an ace on the 13th hole at Elmhurst last Sunday.

Itasca Takes Good Care of Its Caddies' Leisure.

Henry Ruyter, athletic director at Marshall High school, is caddy chairman at Itasca. . . . The caddies have been provided with athletic equipment, including basketballs, horseshoes, and baseballs, with which to play when not busy on the course. . . . Several hundred evergreen trees planted during the winter have added greatly to the attractive appearance of the Evanston course. . . . Berny Borst shot a 70 at Nordic Hills last week and is still busy telling the boys about it. . . . Mixed events for men and women have been enthusiastically received at River Forest this season. . . . These events are held each Sunday afternoon with a twilight event also scheduled for each Tuesday. . . .

It took Pat Gallagher and Harold Quest from noon till dusk to play 18 holes at Bob o' Link last Saturday. . . . Harold says that Pat calls every dandelion in the rough by its first name. . . . After a two year lay-off from golf J. L. Siegenthaler has again resumed play and is already making it tough for the boys. . . . Paul Krivanec, 1939 club champion at Navajo Fields, is back in form again. . . . He unleashed a pair of 69s last Sunday for his best scores of the season. . . . George Chatt, father of Howard Chatt, fly casting champion, is a daily player at Hickory Hills where he shoots in the low 80s. . . .

A long record was broken at Tam o' Shanter recently when a foursome consisting of Glenn Bryce, Bill Brooksbank, Paul Duzeski, and Frank Sammons, finally missed a Sunday of golf due to illness of two members of the foursome. . . . The quartet had not missed a Sunday of golf in the last four years Fred Jackson of Nordic Hills, who just returned from a bear hunting trip in Canada, tried his first game of the season last week and admitted that he can shoot much better with a rifle than with a putter. . . . Butterfield will hold a junior dinner-dance Friday.

BABE RUTH'S rôle as instructor in a baseball school here hasn't interfered with his fondness for golf. . . . The Bambino played with the Chicago District club managers in their recent tournament at Olympia Fields and bagged a snappy 41—37—78 on the No. 1 course. . . . Ella Mae Williams of Medinah will defend her title in the Illinois State Women's tournament at the Aurora Country club starting Monday, June 17. . . . Among the leading players in the state who will compete are Jeanne Cline of Bloomington, Betty Putnam of Rockford, Mrs. Lillian Zech, Shirley Ann Johnson, and Virginia Lindblad. . . . R. Otto Probst of South Bend has the finest golf library in the world, comprising 1,500 volumes.

Frank Fay, who lives in Boston, keeps a membership at Glen Oak to play three games each year. . . . Mrs. Danile Upp won low gross for women at North Shore this week with a 45—45—90. . . . A 6 and 7 on two holes kept her from getting into the 80s. . . . The offer of Johnny Revolta and Steve Grady, Evanston pros, to give a series of free one hour golf lessons to sons and daughters of members met with enthusiastic response. . . . Over thirty youngsters showed up for the first lesson. . . . The Otters club of the Illinois Athletic association will hold their annual tournament at Kildeer June 20. . . . While practicing for the National Open last week, Charles Penna, assistant pro at Medinah, scored an ace on the 12th hole on No. 1 course. . . . The ball went into the cup on the fly. . . . Other members of the foursome were Ky Lafoon, Harry Adams, and Leo Roberts. . . .

Tam o' Shanter Members Cheer for Wehrle and MacDonald.

Tam o' Shanter's two entries in the National Open, Wilford Wehrle and Bob MacDonald, were cheered on by a delegation of club members headed by George S. May, who chartered a plane to take the party to Cleveland. . . . Those who made the trip were W. A. Weismann, Harry Dunbar, Bill Gordon, James A. Duffy, J. H. McCarland, J. Burton Noelle, Wendell O. Kling, P. F. Lowder, J. D. Linehan, George J. Burney, Dale May, Dewitt Cregier, and Matt Nieser. . . . Vic Anderson, membership chairman at Ruth Lake, took a nine on the 10th hole recently when he sliced three balls into the water. . . . He still came in with a respectable 81, however. . . .

Golf Balls Meet in Midair and Eagle Deuce Results.

Everett Visk, secretary at Hickory Hills, swears that it actually happened. . . . He relates that Jack Clegg and Mike O'Connell, inseparable companions, drove their tee shots at the 11th hole to opposite sides of the fairway in the rough. . . . They made their second shots simultaneously and the balls met in the air. . . . Clegg's ball dropped into the cup for an eagle deuce and O'Connell's ball bounced into a sand trap and he finally holed out for a nine. . . . Olive Trew, chairman of women's events at Gleneagles, has planned a big program for the first guest day of the season Tuesday. . . . Prizes will be awarded for low gross, low net, and low putts. . . . Ivo Buddeke of Midlothian received the thrill of his life recently when he holed a 160 yard iron shot for an eagle deuce on the 361 yard par 4 third hole. . . . He was playing with Ed Howard, Charlie Woodruff, and James Ferguson. . . .

Hal Reading, president at Nordic Hills, fired a 34 on the first nine recently, but couldn't stand the pressure, coming home in 42. . . . The 11th annual Open championship of the Women's Western Golf association will be held at the Blue Mound Golf club, Milwaukee, June 24-39. . . . It was just discovered this summer that J. R. Crews, Medinah's five handicap southpaw golfer, also excels in voice with the result that he is a popular locker room figure these days. . . . Mrs. Betty Ryan of Calumet is the possessor of the coveted charm bracelet this week as a result of her winning score in the first of the regular tournaments for women. . . . Mrs. G. J. Garvey is chairman of the women's program. . . . The short lived miniature golf craze of several years ago originated from a course in the front yard of James Barber's winter home at Pinehurst, N. C. . . .

Chuck McGuire, the former Chicago football star, will defend his champion of champions title at the annual tournament at Oak Park Friday. . . . Club champions of district clubs will compete. . . . Kildeer will continue its activities in developing young golfers this season. . . . The first junior event will be held June 25. . . .

Ted Fox scored an ace on the 200 yard 17th hole at Oak Park yesterday when his spoon shot dropped in the cup. The other members of his foursome were R. S. Bradshaw, Don Heppes, and C. E. Simmons.

The Inquiring Golfer

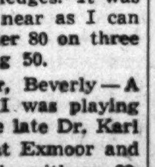
THE QUESTION.

What is the best score you have made since you were 50 years of age? Asked at the Illinois Seniors' Golf tournament.

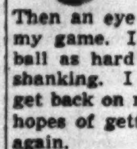
THE ANSWERS.

T. Barbour Brown, Exmoor—I am 81 now and my average score is 120, but, I shot 80 on several occasions since I was 50. For 25 years I shot between 80 and 85, but that's all in the past now; my drives aren't what they used to be. That 115 I had today is about the best I have done for several years.

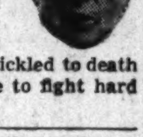
C. C. Hopkins, Glen View—I had a 70 at Glen View the year I turned 50. My best score in competition since was a 73 in the Western Railway club championship which I won a year ago. I guess my next best score was a 74 made two years ago. Nowadays I must work hard to break 80 and am mighty glad when I do it.



Walter Carr, Oak Park, president of the Illinois Seniors—A 78 was my best score since I became 50 and I'm not telling how long ago that was. I was so proud of that score that I offered to buy drinks and the late Charlie Wells called in the boys from the fairways and the hedges. It was a costly triumph. As near as I can recall I have been under 80 on three occasions since turning 50.



Edward R. Litsinger, Beverly—A number of years ago I was playing with the late Dr. Karl Meyer at Exmoor and I came in with an 82, my best score since turning 50. Up until 1935 I shot consistently in the upper 80s. Then an eye ailment interfered with my game. I was unable to hit the ball as hard as formerly and began shanking. I am just beginning to get back on my game again and have hopes of getting back into those 80s again.



N. Landon Hoyt, Indian Hill—Since turning 50 I had two rounds of 74 at Indian Hill and Skokie. I hardly need add that both scores were accomplished with a little luck thrown in. As a young man I used to crack 80 but nowadays I am tickled to death to break 90 and I have to fight hard to do it.

C'mon In!

The Locker Room is conducted for every one interested in golf. Amateur, professional, daily fee or park golfer are all welcome. All brief interesting items on the game will be welcome each week. Reminiscences and tales of clubs and players will have a regular place in the Locker Room. Contributions should be mailed so as to reach the Locker Room early Saturday afternoon. C'mon in!

As if DAD couldn't guess!—WEBSTERS

It's a thoughtful daughter—son—or wife—who knows what the head of the house likes best for Father's Day. If he's a man of taste for the better things, you can be sure he'll appreciate Webster cigars. What's more, Webster is a cigar of such exquisite bouquet

that the whole family will enjoy its being smoked about the house. Dad can really "go to it" when his cigars are Websters! For this superb combination of 100% long Havana filler and choice light-claro wrapper gives Websters a fragrant mildness not surpassed even in costly imported Cuban cigars. Boxes of 25 or 50 are suggested for Father's Day.

STOCK MARKET POINTS LOWER; TRADE SHRINKS

War Developments Chill Buying Interest.

New York, June 8 (AP).—In dealings that barely kept the ticker tape moving, the stock market today finished a hesitant week pointing slightly lower.

Reports of further German progress tended to chill speculative sentiment to some extent despite other reports that the French were putting up a stiff retreating battle and even had bombed Berlin suburbs.

Wall street was calm under the new threat that Italy would make the break on the side of the Germans early next week, but the possibility of more adverse happenings over the week-end caused many traders to lighten accounts.

Business News Favorable.

On the other hand domestic business developments remained a hopeful market factor altho a pessimistic note was sounded here and there by those who feared the effect of proposed heavy defense taxes on individuals and corporations.

Transfers of 199,270 shares for the two hours were the smallest for any session since July 8, 1939. The week's turnover of around 2,500,000 shares also was a low figure for about a year.

Willys-Overland common and preferred were a bit higher as a result of announcement that the company, with a subsidiary, would enter the munitions field.

Steel Group Ends Lower.

United States Steel, Bethlehem, and Youngstown, up for a time on forecasts of a brisk upturn in next week's mill operations, ended lower. Other losers were Goodyear, Goodrich, Montgomery Ward, Boeing, Santa Fe, Westinghouse, Allied Chemical, Texas corporation, and International Paper preferred.

Up a shade were Sperry, Consolidated Edison, Anaconda, Standard Oil of New Jersey, National Biscuit, and General Electric.

CHICAGO STOCKS UNEVEN.

Only 4,000 shares were traded on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday. No price trend was established as gains and losses were divided about equally.

Volume for the week was 74,000 shares, compared with 100,000 in the preceding week. Of 166 issues traded, 63 closed higher than a week earlier, 71 were lower, and 32 showed no change.

GRAIN MARKETS SINK, SOME TO MINIMUM LEVEL

Grain markets yesterday weakened on a favorable Canadian crop report, adverse war news, and forecasts of rain in the grain belts. They lost the bit of ground gained in Friday's trading.

On the Board of Trade wheat prices sagged about a cent a bushel, and corn dropped as much as ¾ cent. Rye, most deliveries of oats, and all of the soy bean contracts eased to the minimum price levels.

Chief disturbing factor in the market was the Canadian government report of crop conditions on May 31, which said that the crops of Canada would average 96 per cent of normal.

Based on the May 1 report of intentions to plant and the average yields figured on May 31 condition, Canada has a potential production of about 440 million bushels of spring wheat—much more than earlier estimates had indicated.

FUTURES PRICES OF COMMODITIES CLOSE UNEVEN

Metal, Wool, and Cotton Markets Strong.

Commodities futures markets closed irregular yesterday. Metals, wool, and cotton, vital war materials, recorded good gains during the week and made moderate advances yesterday. Scarcity of copper for prompt or nearby shipment strengthened prices. Traders said demand was active, with September reported the nearest delivery month for sales in some instances.

With several of the largest brass mills boosting prices of alloys containing zinc, traders rushed to buy from those mills maintaining the lower quotations. Brass mill operations have been stepped up to an estimated 80 per cent of capacity.

Cash Demand Is Active.

There was no trading in lead, zinc, or Straits tin futures yesterday. Copper futures advanced about 1-10 cent a pound. However, demand for zinc in the cash market was reported exceeding the supply. Lead traders also reported increased demand.

The government announcement last week that heavy supplies of wool would be needed shortly for the defense program brought a 7 cent advance during the week in standard wool tops in the cash market. Futures were 0.2 cent lower to 0.3 cent higher yesterday.

ARMY AND NAVY BUY EQUIPMENT IN CHICAGO AREA

Week's Contracts Total $333,922.

The vital part to be played in rearming the United States by Chicago and the vast middle western area which it serves as industrial and financial hub was illustrated yesterday by figures issued by the Illinois Manufacturers' association.

Its report to members listed $333,922 in orders placed with Chicago manufacturers during the week ended June 1 by the war and navy departments and various of their divisions. Contracts placed with downstate manufacturers brought the Illinois total for the week to $363,579.

Include Practice Bombs.

The contracts covered practice bombs for the navy, head and chest protecting equipment for the army signal corps, earth boring machines for the engineer corps, and such items as office equipment, beds, pipe coverings, body forgings, shovels, paint, and tube fittings.

The companies receiving the orders were not identified. The association's bulletin, however, called attention to the wide variety of products turned out in this area and expressed the conviction that Chicago and the midwest will play an increasingly important rôle in the rebuilding of the nation's military defenses.

Close coöperation toward assuring a steady flow of materials was promised the government thru the association's committee on national defense, of which Brig. Gen. Thomas H. Hammond is chairman and Maj. F. A. Preston vice chairman.

Hammond Heads Harvey Firm.

Hammond, a former president of the association, is president of the Whiting corporation, Harvey, manufacturer of stokers, cranes and other industrial equipment. Preston is vice president of Poor & Co., Chicago, manufacturer of railway supplies, and is chief of the war department's Chicago ordnance district.

Other association members making up the committee, most of them holding military rank, are E. A. Russell of the Otis Elevator company; Sterling Morton, Morton Salt company; John J. Miller, Barnard & Miller; L. P. Bonfoey, Monroe Chemical company; H. L. Bering of the Chambers, Bering, Quinlan company; Francis M. Allen, Allen company; Karl E. Hobart, Commonwealth Edison company; Louis C. Scherer Jr., Sears, Roebuck & Co.; Fred B. Skeates, Link-Belt company; John B. Gibson, Western Electric company, and Harold B. Smith, of the Illinois Tool works.

Keep Contact with Washington.

"All policies and activities of the association in connection with national defense will be worked out in conjunction with this committee," the association's bulletin said.

"The association is in close contact with the various governmental agencies in Washington as well as in the midwest which are concerned with the procurement of war materials and supplies.

"A substantial number of Illinois industries have already been surveyed by the war department and the government is informed regarding their ability to produce necessary supplies."

Wide Variety of Products.

Plants of Chicago and other middle western areas will be called upon to furnish scores of items not only for use in actual combat on land, air, and sea, but in the preparation for combat, according to proposals received by the association.

Some of the more unusual items are alarm bells, aprons, asbestos mittens, band instruments, buttons, books, uniform caps, cameras, cook's coats, dollies, mattresses, life preservers, laces, glue, goggles, grease, paste, nozzles, nuts and bolts, meat slicing machines, sewing machines, soap, socks, sirens, aeronautical silk, tape identification tags, towels, telescopes, typewriters, and even castor oil.

BRITISH, BELGIAN, FRENCH MONEY TIE 'ARRANGED

The British treasury announced yesterday the establishment of an official rate of exchange affecting the pound sterling, the French franc, and the Belgian franc. The action was taken under an agreement signed Friday for regulation of wartime trade.

The rate for the Belgian currency will be 176½ francs to the pound, same as the rate applying to the French franc.

The London announcement said a similar accord with Holland will be signed in a few days. When the pact is signed, "the union between four countries in their war effort will be effectively extended to the economic sphere," British officials said.

Develops Way of Producing TNT from Oil

BY LLOYD NORMAN.

Dr. J. C. Morrell announces new method of producing TNT.

The war's stimulus to the commercial development of new chemical processes, which already has pushed forward a synthetic rubber industry in this country, may bring forth a new offshoot of the petroleum industry to make high explosives.

This possibility was indicated yesterday by the announcement of development by research scientists of a Chicago company of a recently discovered method of making TNT and other military explosives from crude oil and gasoline. Until now practically all TNT has been derived from coal tar, the available supply of which is limited.

The proximity of Chicago to some of the nation's large refineries and its pipeline connections with principal oil fields have caused at least one large middle western corporation to draft plans for construction of an explosives plant using the new process in this area. Actual building, it was learned, would not begin until a sufficient wartime demand warranted the capital investment.

Report Toluol Shortage.

A shortage of toluol, the basic chemical from which TNT is made, has been reported in the coal tar products industry. Allied purchases and war department orders have created a scarcity of the distillate, it was indicated.

Barrett company, a large Chicago producer of coal tar products, said that toluol is not available in tank car lots but may be obtained in lots of less than 1,000 gallons. The tank wagon price of toluol for 50 to 1,000 gallon lots is 31 cents a gallon and the nominal price on the tank car lots is 25 cents a gallon. Barrett is a subsidiary of Allied Chemical and Dye corporation.

The recent scarcity of toluol has given rise to reports that the wholesale price will be boosted June 15. Should the shortage become more acute and its price soar on the domestic market, a new industry for making explosives from crude oil may develop, it was asserted by Dr. Jacques C. Morrell, associate director of research of the Universal Oil Products company, Chicago.

New Process Patented.

Dr. Morrell and two associates disclosed the discovery of the new process of converting petroleum hydrocarbons into toluene [the scientific name for toluol]. Patents for the process are owned by his company, which, it is reported, has already licensed one large corporation to apply it in making explosives.

Toluol, a clear, aromatic liquid resembling gasoline, is used commercially as a solvent for resins, gums, paints, and varnishes. The supply of toluol is limited by the rate of steel operations because it is distilled from coal tar, which in turn is obtained mainly as a by-product of coke ovens producing coke for steel mills.

Universal's process for obtaining toluol from crude oil or gasoline was submitted secretly to the war department, Dr. Morrell said. Patents for and announcement of the discovery were not made public until after the army had released the method for use by private manufacturers.

U. S. Steel Biggest Producer.

Commercial production of toluol by the Universal process would have to compete on the market with coal tar toluol. The largest producer of the latter is the United States Steel corporation, which thru its subsidiaries operates numerous coke ovens from which its steel mills are supplied with coke for treating pig iron. The Koppers company is rated as the second largest producer of toluol as a by-product of its coke operations and coal tar distillation.

The potential production of TNT by the Universal process is 88 billion pounds a year, Dr. Morrell estimated. Only 400 million pounds of TNT is available from the coal tar process, he said.

Army Reserve Officer.

Dr. Morrell is a lieutenant colonel in the chemical warfare reserves of the United States army, a consultant to the chemical warfare service and a member of the procurement board of the chemical warfare division of the ordnance department for the Chicago district.

Chicago would be the strategic and logical center for the production of toluene from crude oil and gasoline, he said, because of the city's accessibility to refineries, oil pipe lines, utilities and transportation facilities.

Court Is Asked to Throw Out Railroad Plan

Luther M. Walter.

The United States District court at Chicago yesterday was asked to throw out the present plan for the reorganization of the Chicago and North Western railway and to refer the entire matter back to the interstate commerce commission at Washington for further action.

Acting on behalf of the railroad company, Luther M. Walter, widely known transportation attorney, filed a petition with the court in which he charged among other things that the common and preferred stockholders were being unduly deprived of their holdings. The present plan wipes out the stockholders' equity, having a book value of about $182,730,000.

Other Rate Plans Attacked.

The North Western's action follows other recent attacks on railroad reorganization plans approved by the ICC in which stockholders equities were wiped out. These included the action of the Pennsylvania railroad in asking that the plan for the New Haven, in which it has a large stock interest, be reconsidered, and one by the Missouri Pacific assailing the plan promulgated for that road.

"The plan approved by the commission should be disapproved by the court," Walter said, "because it is not fair and equitable, does not afford due recognition to the rights of each class of creditors and stockholders, discriminates unduly in favor of certain creditors, is unfair to stockholders, and does not conform to the requirements of the law of the land regarding participation of the various classes of creditors and stockholders in distribution of the securities of the reorganized company."

Contends Stocks Have Value.

The petition says that the capitalization of the road should be not less than $705,153,992, instead of the $449,974,309 approved in the plan. It declares that the preferred and common stock should be found to have value and therefore holders should share in the allocation of new securities.

It says that interest on certain notes held by the Reconstruction Finance corporation should be restated at 4 per cent instead of at the rates of 5 and 6 per cent provided in the notes. It declares that the principal amount of the claim of the RFC should be fixed at $42,250,133, and asks relief on interest claimed by the RFC.

Holds Allotment Unfair.

The petition says that the court should find that to allot the RFC securities and collateral totaling about $135,833,808 to satisfy an RFC claim of $47,032,000, including interest, is inequitable and wholly unjustified and confiscates property of the debtor, as well as of the stockholders.

The petition declares that $26,200,000 to be set aside in new securities to finance rehabilitation is not needed as the present management has made provision to take care of such work.

Washington, D. C., June 8 [Special].—About 14,600 workers were killed at their jobs in 1939, while 91,500 suffered permanent disability and nearly 1,250,000 were temporarily disabled, the department of labor reported today.

If the fatalities and injuries of self-employed workers or proprietors are added to these figures, the report said, the accident toll for the year would stand at 16,000 fatalities, 106,000 permanent impairments, and 1,407,000 temporary disabilities, or a total of 1,529,000 disabling occupational injuries.

Agriculture had the worst record, with deaths estimated at 4,300, plus 13,000 permanent and about 240,000 temporary disabilities, it was reported. The second largest fatality total was found in construction, in which about 2,800 employed persons and 400 self-employed persons were killed.

GENERAL MOTORS CONSUMER SALES 165,820 FOR MAY

New York, June 8 (AP).—Sales of General Motors cars and trucks to consumers in the United States in May totaled 165,820, the company announced today. This compared with 183,481 in April and 129,053 in May last year.

Sales to dealers in the United States were 171,024 units, against 183,900 in April and 112,868 in May, 1939.

Total sales to dealers in the United States and Canada plus overseas shipments aggregated 185,548 units in May, against 196,747 in April and 128,453 in May, 1939.

Consumer sales in the United States for the first five months were the second highest on record at 768,609 units, exceeded only by 774,695 in the first five months of 1936. In the comparable 1939 period domestic consumer sales totaled 575,843.

Sales to dealers in the United States in the first five months were the largest in the company's history, aggregating 861,373 units, compared with the previous high of 792,128 in 1936.

SLUM CLEARING LAW DECLARED IMMEDIATE NEED

The creation of public service building corporations with power to acquire slum land by condemnation proceedings is one of the major needs in a program to stop bankruptcy of large urban areas, Paul D. Angell said yesterday at the Chicago housing conference in the Morrison hotel. He is the chairman of the committee on rehabilitation, Chicago Real Estate board.

Recent studies of city patterns, he said, have shown that only 40 per cent of the total area of the city provides proper living conditions, and 60 per cent is in need of rehabilitation or safeguards from further decay and disintegration.

"Provision must be made immediately for the creation of public service building corporations thru a state legislative enactment, which shall authorize, among other things, the acquisition of slum areas, thru condemnation in courts of competent jurisdiction, and their subsequent rebuilding into large neighborhoods."

Chicago Steel Output Rate to Hit 90 Per Cent

Chicago's roaring steel mills are still stepping up production and by tomorrow are expected to be operating at 90.6 per cent of capacity—the highest rate so far in 1940. This week's rate will be at the highest level since the week ended Dec. 16, 1939, and it will approach the November, 1939, peak, when most of the mills were operating at virtual capacity.

It was disclosed that some of the Chicago mills are now working on orders for the British and French governments, mostly for steel shell billets and semifinished steels. It is stated, however, that the foreign work in this district is not large.

The Chicago mills continue to benefit largely from the fact that the big eastern mills are working on French and British orders, with the result that a larger part of the domestic business has been diverted here.

Carnegie Lights 19th Furnace.

However, a substantial part of the American business may be going into war materials. Steel company executives explained that it is impossible for them to know what is being done with the steel they make after it is in the customers' hands.

The Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation, U. S. Steel subsidiary and the largest operator in the Chicago area, is firing another blast furnace at its South works. This will raise to 19 out of 23 the number of blast furnaces working.

Carnegie-Illinois now has 10 of its 12 furnaces operating at Gary and 9 out of 11 at South works. At the height of the war boom last fall, the company had 18 furnaces operating. The present number is the same as in May, 1937. The largest number in operation in the memory of present Carnegie-Illinois officials was in 1929 when 20 blast furnaces were being used.

Machine Tool Makers Buy.

Large orders from machine tool companies are supplying an increasingly large part of steel mill business, altho the peacetime demands of domestic companies continue to lead in the Chicago production.

An operating executive of another Chicago company said the office force is being swamped with work.

ity estimated at more than 15,000,000 tons of steel ingots a year — an amount equal to about 22 per cent of the national capacity.

Meantime, employment has improved greatly in the mills. Workers are on a full time basis now, whereas a few weeks ago they were working part time. Some hundreds of workers are being recalled, but they are mostly men who had been laid off.

Chemical Concern Gives Soldiers Longer Vacations

St. Louis, Mo., June 8 [Special].—The Monsanto Chemical company announced today that employés of all 13 company plants who are members of the National Guard will be given an extra week's vacation to enable them to spend three weeks in training this year without loss of income. The company will make up to them the difference between the allowance for military duty and their normal pay.

FEDERAL POWER GRID FOUGHT AS UNNECESSARY

Duplicates Systems, Study Reveals.

The proposed government owned electric power transmission grid would duplicate systems already capable of meeting even the emergency needs of wartime, Electric Light and Power, a publication devoted to the industry, declares in the current issue.

Observing that backers of the proposed federal grid have emphasized national defense requirements, the magazine, in an article by C. W. Leihy, its editor, says a study which it made "does not support the premise" that construction of such a grid would be a sound defense measure.

The publication made an intricate survey of present networks as a basis for its study, and produced maps to demonstrate that the proposed grid would involve a high degree of duplication of existing facilities.

Other Factors to Be Considered.

But many other factors need to be considered, the magazine says, and cites, among these, the vulnerability of such a grid to sabotage and the huge cost [$200,000,000] of the proposed system.

The following were advanced as "six facts which must be considered to get the right answer to the problem of insuring adequate power resources for a possible [war] emergency:

"1. A highly developed transmission interconnection already exists in every important producing area of the country. This existing network should be capable of being coördinated to defense needs for a relatively small cost.

"2. Duplication of the existing network will accomplish little if anything that cannot be done with existing circuits.

Does Not Boost Capacity.

"3. The proposed power grid will not appreciably increase the availability of generating capacity. A transmission line is not a source of power. Reserve generating capacity is the criterion by which power preparedness is measured. The existing margin of spare capacity is estimated at 8 million to 12 million kilowatts, is well distributed, and already interconnected.

"4. The capacity of the proposed grid is small compared with the electrical demands of major production centers.

"5. Distributed generating capacity of adequate amounts, such as exists today over the United States, is much more reliable than dependence on transmission circuits. Local generating plants can be guarded adequately. A transmission system is liable to many normal hazards [floods, airplanes, kites, sleet, etc.] and particularly vulnerable to sabotage in time of hostilities.

No War, No Value.

"6. If the power grid were built, and no war materialized, the proposed grid would be almost valueless as an adjunct of efficient operations in utility systems. Present networks were built to take advantage of economies available thru interconnection and serve that function well."

To proceed with construction of a government system on the defense premise "is to gamble $200,000,000 of the taxpayers' money that certain possibilities may become eventualities, the publication declared.

Discussing the question whether the grid, proposed by the national power policy committee, would serve a useful purpose if no national emergency develops, the magazine said:

"A consideration of the facts involved can lead only to the conclusion that so large a duplication of the present interconnections would be almost 100 per cent useless from the operating viewpoint.

Present System Is Vast.

"To comprehend the completeness and extent of the interconnected transmission systems that have been built up, almost wholly in the last 15 years, it is only necessary to trace on the map circuits which make it possible [if not economically desirable] for generators in Amarillo, Tex., to operate in synchronism with those in Boston.

"Of passing interest is the fact that electric clocks in Florida habitually operate in unison with those in Chicago thruout an interconnected system."

The largest interconnected grid, the magazine said, extends from Florida to Wisconsin and from the Appalachian mountains to the Mississippi.

Defense Boom Lifts Tempo of U. S. Industry

BY LELAND FORRESTER.

Steel centers, which have provided the shock troops for an industrial advance under the impetus of war goods orders, received reinforcements last week from the ranks of retail trade, automobile manufacturing and other expanding branches of business activity.

As the industrial march broadened and speeded up, pay rolls began to expand a little and several plant additions were announced. American and other governments let additional orders for military supplies, factories geared facilities to meet the demand, and steps were taken to prevent sabotage.

Retail Trade Steps Out.

The freshest sign of renewed vigor came from the retail field, which had been lagging. Dun & Bradstreet said that consumers last week were in the best buying mood in a month, and that sales nationally averaged 5 to 11 per cent above year ago levels, with the middle west gaining most. [The Chicago area already had set the pace for the steel industry.]

While the week's improvement was being recorded by retailers department store sales figures were issued showing a sustained consumer demand in the Chicago area during May in spite of a letdown in the final week because of the Memorial day holiday and rainy weather. Chain stores also reported a good May showing, and all-time sales records for the month were announced by Walgreen company, drug enterprise, and Montgomery Ward & Co., and Sears, Roebuck & Co.

Last week's wholesale trade showed some improvement in "fill in" orders, Dun & Bradstreet said, but forward purchasing lagged.

Auto Output Climbs.

Automobile production climbed to 95,560 units from 60,980 in the preceding week, which included the holiday. The gain was more than seasonal, however.

Cotton textile output increased, and residential construction was more active than in the preceding week.

Declines were reported in engineering construction activity, electric power output, freight loadings and bank clearings. However, in the case of the last three of these indices, latest figures covered weekly periods which included Memorial day.

New offerings of corporation securities were at a complete standstill, only municipal issues being marketed. Bank loans to business increased by a small amount in Chicago, but declined in New York City.

Broker Loans Off More.

In Wall street observers noted that the stock market was nearer to an all cash basis than at any other time in recent years. Loans to brokers by New York City reserve system member banks dropped to 312 million dollars for the week ended June 5, and were within 5 million dollars of the depression low point. Stocks moved narrowly and displayed rallying power on occasion.

Commodities markets were mostly firm, braced by large orders from Britain and France.

Steel production climbed to 80.3 per cent of theoretical capacity at the beginning of the week, and individual mills boosted output from day to day, with at least one reaching 100 per cent of capacity.

Industrial Leaders in Charge.

Edward R. Stettinius Jr. resigned as chairman of the board of United States Steel corporation to give full time to the new national defense council, and Irving S. Olds took over the steel job.

William S. Knudsen, on a leave of absence from his post as president of General Motors corporation to direct the procurement of tools in the defense program, assumed another task—coördination of airplane engine production. Automobile makers agreed to make plane engines, and awaited the signal to begin. The machine tool industry likewise put its facilities at the disposal of the government.

The state department announced the export of some essential tools had been forbidden, to assure an adequate supply at home, but President Roose-

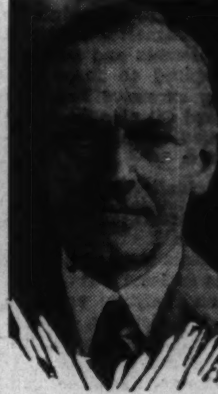
AMERICA LIMPS FINANCIALLY AS ARMING STARTS

Position Far Weaker Than in 1917.

BY JOHN FISHER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]



Calvin Coolidge once said, "A country loaded with debt is a country devoid of the first line of defense."

Washington, D. C., June 8.—The federal government is limping financially as it enters its second big rearmament program within a generation. In financing this second program, the government will find conditions far different from those of the world war days because the New Deal has leaned heavily on its crutches of debt and spending.

A comparison of conditions now and at the opening of the world war shows a nation laden with debt after successive years of deficit spending and revenue sources drained to the utmost. That is why the administration is looking toward compulsory drafting of income and capital to finance a multibillion dollar defense program.

Current Tax Bill "Modest."

The current billion dollar tax bill in congress probably will be modest compared with what the administration has in mind as future revenue raising measures. In true fashion, the New Dealers are expected to seek regimentation of capital in the same way they have sought it over men.

With banks and insurance companies already overloaded with government bonds, the government is approaching a ceiling on the rate of absorption of such issues. The new tax bill would try to put new borrowing on a liquidating basis by levying sufficient taxes to pay off 4 billions in special defense bonds within five years.

Altho this would take care of the present program, additional requests for defense money will have to be met, and there is little or no chance of reducing the "hangover debt," which amounts to about 42.8 billion dollars, or approximately $324 for every man, woman and child in the United States.

Would Boost Debt Limit.

Approaching the legal debt limit of 45 billions, which will be reached by next year, the present tax bill would boost the limit from 45 to 49 billions. As the defense program continues, additional demands for lifting the debt ceiling may be expected.

Expenditures of more than 71 billion dollars by the government in the last 10 years have exceeded receipts by more than 30 billions, leaving the gap to be taken up by increases in the federal debt. The government had a fertile field for defense financing at the opening of the world war compared with conditions at the opening of the present war in Europe. The following table shows

STANDARD OIL CO. (IND.) IS ORDERED TO PAY DAMAGES

Pan-American Petroleum Business Involved.

New York, June 8 (AP).—Unspecified damages—originally set at 50 million dollars by the plaintiff—today were ordered paid by the Standard Oil Company of Indiana and five individuals on the ground they had unfairly interfered with the competitive business of the Pan American Petroleum and Transport company.

State Supreme Court Justice Samuel Rosenman did not fix the amount of damages to be paid Pan-American as these would depend on an accounting of profits since April, 1933. Standard Oil of Indiana controls 76 per cent of Pan American's stock.

The suit, begun in 1934, by minority stockholders of Pan American, charged that Standard interests and some of its officers conspired to force Pan American to pay excessive sums for leases on Standard Oil pipe lines and for using facilities of refineries controled by Standard.

Others Originally Named.

Originally Standard Oil of New Jersey, Pan American itself, and nine Standard Oil officials were named defendants, but the decision was against only the Indiana company and five persons—Edward G. Seubert, Charles J. Barkdull, Louis L. Stephens, Edward G. McKeever, and James A. Carroll Jr., all directors of Pan American.

It was understood that Standard Oil would appeal the decision. Former Appellate Division Justice Clarence J. Shearn was named referee in the settlement.

The suit was brought by the estate of Louis J. Blaustein, former president of Pan American, and his son, Jacob, former vice president.

Justice Rosenman directed that Standard account for and pay over to Pan American profits made by the Standard Oil and Gas corporation, a subsidiary of the Indiana company, on all crude oil sold Pan American since April 1, 1933. The oil was produced from properties in the east Texas fields and Gulf coast area, where Pan American once was active.

Orders Property Returned.

Of these fields the court directed that the Indiana corporation be "directed to transfer to Pan American all oil properties acquired from it by Standard Oil and Gas from April 1, 1933, to July 1, 1935, upon proper reimbursement by Pan American of all the costs thereof; or if this cannot be done to pay Pan American a reasonable value thereof, including the potential value of the reserves."

Profits from the sale of crude oil since April 1, 1933, from the same fields to companies other than Pan American and from oil purchased and resold to Pan American also were directed to be paid to the plaintiff corporation.

The court also ordered the payment of any damages from April 1, 1933, resulting from "the failure and refusal to permit Pan American to construct its own gathering system and direct pipe line in the east Texas field.

DENY BIG DAMAGE.

Representatives of the Standard Oil company said last night that damages to be assessed against the company, even if upheld after an appeal, could not in any way approach the original 50 million dollar estimate. Any payments to Pan American Petroleum would revert in part to Standard Oil because of its 76 per cent control of Pan American.

BOSTON & MAINE LIENS LEAD RISE IN BOND MARKET

New York, June 8 (AP).—A selected group of domestic railroad and foreign dollar obligations rose sharply in today's bond market. The rest of the list moved narrowly, altho the main trend was slightly higher.

Boston and Maine Railroad lines headed the advance with gains of 2 to 7½ points following announcement the road had taken steps toward final readjustment of the capital structure.

United States government issues virtually neglected and ended 3-32ds of a point higher to 5-32ds lower.

WILLYS OVERLAND EXPECTS 25 MILLIONS IN ARMAMENT ORDERS

Ward M. Canaday.

Toledo, O., June 8 [Special].—The Willys-Overland plants here, which turned out shell casings by the millions during the world war, appeared today likely to become one of the largest sources of implements of destruction for the present European war.

It was learned authoritatively that the award of 25 million dollars in contracts to Willys-Overland Motors, Inc., hinges on a visit here next week by a commission representing the United States government and British and French purchasing agents.

Ward M. Canaday, chairman of the company's board, disclosed plans for its reëntrance in the armaments production field, directly and thru two subsidiaries.

The contracts will cover 75 and 90 millimeter shells, 8 inch shell casings, large numbers of light armored cars, and parts for bombing planes, it was said. The company already has received educational orders from the United States government in connection with national defense preparations, and earlier this year opened a part of its Toledo plant for the manufacture of shell casings.

HOG PRICES TAKE SAME COURSE AS DURING 1914 WAR

First Recovery Made in 8th Month.

Hog markets in the United States during the first nine months of the war have closely followed the course of prices during the world war, despite the many assurances of economists that conditions are "different," and that data on price trends back in 1914-'18 are of little value in gauging the future.

A bulge in the market occurred the first month of the war, both in the present war and the 1914 conflict, a review of the records shows. For seven months of the old war prices fell steadily, making the first recovery when the conflict was about eight months old. Hog markets in the present war, after the first month's rise, declined steadily for six months, making a recovery in April, the eighth month of the war.

Price Trends Compared.

The following table shows what has happened in the hog market during the last 10 months, as compared with a similar period in 1914-'15. Monthly Chicago hog averages, in dollars per hundred pounds:

1939-'40.		1914-'15.
Aug.	$5.60	July	$8.70
*Sept.	7.55	*Aug.	9.00
Oct.	6.85	Sept.	8.85
Nov.	5.85	Oct.	7.65
Dec.	5.40	Nov.	7.50
Jan.	5.35	Dec.	7.10
Feb.	5.15	Jan.	6.90
March	5.10	Feb.	6.80
Apr.	5.40	March	6.75
May	5.65	Apr.	7.30

*Start of war.

Hogs during the first nine months of the present war averaged $5.80 a hundred pounds, compared with $7.55 during the first nine months of the previous war, a reduction of 23 per cent. Seventeen months after the start of the war in August, 1914, hog prices began the first pronounced advance. The extent of the advance is indicated by annual average prices at the Chicago stockyards in the table below:

1914	$8.30	1918	$17.45
1916	9.60	1920	14.15
1917	15.10	1921	8.65

Sell Because of Feed Ratio.

Despite the prevailing belief that hog prices will eventually advance as Europe begins to buy pork in larger quantities from either Canada or the United States, farmers thruout the country continued to liquidate large numbers of light hogs last week due to the feed situation created by the government's corn sealing program. Corn available for purchase is scarce and high in price in relation to prices of hogs.

Prices of all classes of hogs fell under pressure of the selling wave. The six day average, at $5.10, off 25 cents, stood lowest since early April. The price shows a drop of 70 cents in three weeks.

Cattle feeders also dumped the heaviest June supplies in six years on the market last week.

Steers during the week tumbled 25 to 40 cents. Yearlings were off 15 to 25 cents. Cows showed a decline of only 10 to 15 cents, but heifers broke 25 to 50 cents.

Just before the United States entered the world war the public debt stood at 1 billion 282 million dollars [March 31, 1917]. The war debt reached its peak on Aug. 31, 1919, at 26 billion, 597 million dollars and was reduced to a low of 16 billion, 26 million dollars by Dec. 31, 1930.

The treasury's war borrowings, including liberty and victory loans totaled 21 billion 439 million dollars, and were subscribed voluntarily. An act of March 3, 1919, provided for a cumulative sinking fund intended to retire within 25 years all of the war borrowings less the amount loaned to foreign governments. In the middle of the post-war decade agitation arose to spread out the debt liquidation period over 62 years. President Coolidge firmly opposed such proposals. In his annual message of 1927 Coolidge said:

"A country loaded with debt is a country devoid of the first line of defense. Economy is the handmaid of preparedness. If we wish to defend ourselves to the full extent of our power in the future, we shall discharge as soon as possible the financial burden of the last war. Otherwise we shall face a crisis with a part of our capital resources already expended."

Loans Called in 1935.

The last of the world war liberty loans were called in 1935, but there were still about 33 million dollars of them outstanding at the end of the last fiscal year, altho interest payments had stopped. In the 1934 annual report of the secretary of the treasury it was estimated that the world war had cost the United States nearly 42 billion dollars, to that time, in government expenditures.

However, continued defaults on war debts of foreign governments since then, have boosted the amount, altho no recent revision of the cost has been made. The defaulted war debts now total more than 13 billions. They represent almost the entire portion of "securities" owned by the United States government on June 30, 1939. Of 15 billion, 125 million dollars in securities held then, foreign obligations arising from the world war amounted to 12 billion, 17 million.

Expect to Seize Wealth.

With respect to future financing, the New Dealers are counting upon some compulsory measure to take income or wealth. The much discussed Lee bill is to be revised and pressed for enactment at the next session of congress. Lee will withhold the new bill until then because President Roosevelt wishes the pending tax measure to pass quickly. The present Lee bill provides for forced loans to the government, in time of war, of graduated percentages of a person's "net wealth." Such loans would bear interest and run for 50 years. The government would reach out and take 5 per cent of a person's "net wealth" between $1,000 and $10,000. The rate would graduate to 75 per cent of the "net wealth" in excess of $100,000,000.

The net wealth angle was too ambiguous to satisfy Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau, so the bill is to be changed to apply to income instead of wealth. But Senator Josh Lee [D., Okla.] will offer the new measure only as a first step, in belief that action to cover savings and other forms of wealth will be necessary later.

Confers with New Dealers.

He has conferred with Jerome Frank, chairman of the Securities and Exchange commission; Leon Henderson, member of the SEC; Laughlin Currie, administrative assistant to the President, and other New Dealers active in the Corcoran-Cohen circle, in preparing his new bill. It is likely that he will draw upon the plan advanced recently by Frank in a significant address to the army industrial college.

This plan calls for forced "loans" from the public of which only a part would be returned at the close of war—in other words, confiscation. He suggested that 50 to 75 per cent of the "forced loan" might be returned. The rates he suggested for taking "loans" ranged from 2 per cent on family incomes of $1,000 to $1,500 to about 75 per cent on those above $100,000 a year. The amount returnable would be in inverse ratio to the amount taken.

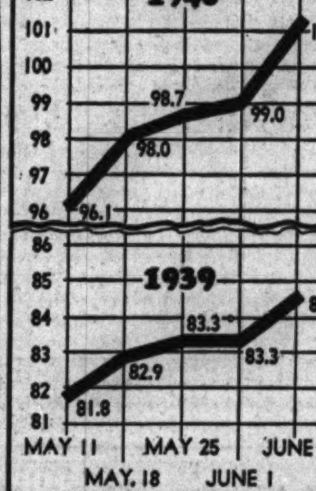
velt said no such embargo had been applied.

In some areas aliens were discharged from plants engaged in national defense work, and in others the managements were examining records to learn which employés had failed to establish citizenship. Factories tightened protective measures against possible sabotge.

Additional war emergency measures were put into effect by Great Britain and are expected to have an effect on American exports. Britain ordered that consumption of nearly all types of goods used by the civilian population be slashed drastically in order to reduce imports.



The chart traces the course of industrial activity in recent weeks, as measured by the Associated Press' seasonally adjudged composite index, which is based on 1929-'30 activity as 100.

War Buying Broadens.

Evidence appeared that the allied purchasing agents in America are beginning to broaden their buying lists to include goods not heretofore sought in this country. It was reported that idle railroad cars suitable for heavy gun mountings will be acquired by England and France.

Prospects of placement of war tank orders with American manufacturers were said to be good. The allied agents also were reported to be considering purchases of automotive equipment, presumably of the type needed for armored motor divisions.

Orders Mount to $1,300,000,000.

So far, allied buying has centered largely on airplanes and tools. Orders for all kinds of war goods placed since September are understood to total $1,300,000,000.

The Associated Press weekly index of industrial activity recorded another gain. The index, with its components based on 1929-'30 levels as 100, follows:

COST OF BRITISH ARMS OUTPUT IS 27 MILLION A DAY

Predict Further Increase in War Spending.

BY JOSEPH CERUTTI.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 8.—From the treasury and Bank of England this week came the first official figures showing the effects of the British government's new arms production drive on the country's financial structure.

For the week ended last Saturday the treasury's expenditure on the war services totaled 48,100,000 pounds [about $185,180,000], or close to 7,000,000 pounds daily [about $26,950,000]. This is 6,000,000 pounds [about $22,500,000] more than for the preceding week.

Expect Still Higher Costs.

With the industrial machine just beginning to get into top gear, daily war costs mounting to 10,000,000 pounds [about $38,500,000] or even higher are predicted.

The total government expenditure last week, according to the treasury figures, was 71,000,000 pounds [about $273,350,000], and revenue amounted to only 9,500,000 pounds [about $36,575,000]. For the financial year to date the ordinary expenditure totaled 430,537,000 pounds [about $1,657,500,000], and income was 133,057,000 pounds [about $476,344,000], leaving a deficit of 297,480,000 pounds [about $1,147,298,000].

The intensification of war operations expanded the Bank of England's currency bill circulation last week another 12,398,000 pounds [about $47,722,300] to a record high of 569,262,000 pounds [about $2,191,558,000]. Financial observers attribute the increased largely to hoarding and larger wage payments to war workers all over the country.

Economists predict a further jump in prices despite the government price control system and the sweeping cuts in domestic consumption decreed this week.

NATION'S RETAIL EXECUTIVES WILL MEET JUNE 17

Several hundred retailers and store executives from all sections of the country will meet in Chicago for the four day midyear convention of the National Retail Dry Goods association, beginning June 17, association officials said yesterday.

On June 19 Gen. Charles G. Dawes, chairman of the City National Bank and Trust company of Chicago and former Vice President of the United States, will discuss national defense preparations in an address to be given at the convention dinner at the Palmer House.

A. P. Williams of Mandel Brothers, chairman of the dinner arrangements committee, said 500 reservations have been made. Leon Mandel of Mandel Brothers will be dinner chairman, and F. M. Mayfield, president of the association and of Scruggs-Vandervoort-Barney, Inc., St. Louis, will be toastmaster. The Chicago Controllers' association is sponsoring a special entertainment program.

BANK STOCKS

Principal Chicago bank stocks were irregular in over the counter trading yesterday. Dealers raised the bid prices of First National and Harris Trust by 1 and 2 points respectively, lowered City National by 2, and held most of the others unchanged.

DEERFIELD AIMS AT MAKING OF GOOD CITIZENS

Pageant Is to Show American Scene.

Friday is Citizenship Recognition day as well as Flag day in Deerfield. Months before any blitzkriegs challenged democracy, the Deerfield Civic association outlined a citizenship program. It was inspired by the success of a similar experiment in Manitowoc, Wis. The Deerfield program will be climaxed with a ceremony and pageant Friday evening in the grammar school auditorium.

Aided by the University of Wisconsin extension bureau, the civic association last August proposed to hold a series of training forums to be concluded with a public induction ceremony. This would recognize a few of the more than two million Americans coming of age yearly. All native born residents of the community coming of age between the national elections of November, 1936, and November, 1940, were to be eligible.

Hold Public Meetings.

Euthusiasm was built up at a public meeting in September when Dr. Eston V. Tubbs addressed the audience on "Citizenship Training in a Democracy." The training forums have been running since May 9, with Dr. Tubbs leading a discussion on "The Citizen and His Government," Carl Schuessler of the high school on "Local Government," Mrs. Marc Law of the North Shore League of Women Voters on "State Government," and last Thursday C. C. Kapschull, past state commander of the American Legion, closing the meetings with a talk on "National Government."

Thru a sponsorship system, each "first citizen" had an older citizen who was interested in his activity. At the close of the program, in order to bring the young citizens into community activities, each woman will receive a membership in the Woman's club, and each man a membership in the Civic association.

The citizenship show will open with a salute to the flag and invocation by the Rev. F. G. Piepenbrok. A mass responsive reading, reaffirming faith in the American way of life, will be followed by a pageant, "The Heritage of Courage," to be presented by the local dramatic group, the Stagers.

Will Get Certificates.

Certificates of electorship will be presented to the new citizens and Dr. Thomas Parry Jones of Sheboygan, Wis., will address the assemblage. For the closing, the audience will sing "America, the Beautiful" and the national anthem and the Rev. James V. Murphy will say the benediction.

The decoration committee is urging every resident to display a flag and the merchants are making the business section an "Avenue of Flags." Anthony Mercurio, Americanization chairman for the American Legion, is head of the committee and the Boy Scouts are assisting in the work.

The pageant, which will trace the steps leading to the American Revolution, the establishment of the Union and the formation of the constitution, is under the direction of Kenneth Hunter. Mrs. Lawrence McDermott is in charge of costuming.

Members of the cast include John Derby as George Washington, Donald Clark as Alexander Hamilton, the Rev. William Brusso as Chancellor Livingston, James Tibbetts as the chronicler, Jirah D. Cole IV. as a horseman, Vernon Giss, Dwight Merrill, Cevel Barretts and E. B. Jordan as congressmen; Robert Hauss, Howard Anderson, W. J. Galloway, and Lawrence McDermott as citizens; John Stryker and Herbert White as British lords; Shirley Clark and Beatrice Cole as ladies, and Michael Cole, Robert Tennis, Ralph Sheridan, and John Anderson as soldiers. Choirs of the Bethlehem and Presbyterian churches will provide the music.

Native of Wales.

The committee plans to make this event an annual affair and to foster sponsorship of future citizens by this year's participants. Organizations supporting the movement are the American Legion and its auxiliary, the board of education, Rotary club, chamber of commerce, P.-T. A., Presbyterian church, St. Paul's Evangelical Reformed church, Bethlehem Evangelical church, Deerfield Stagers, the Boy Scouts, and the local newspapers.

E. F. Nelson, president of the civic association, is head of the executive committee. Representatives from the various organizations include Lester Ball, Mrs. C. W. Boyle, Mrs. William Cruickshank, Raymond Cox, Jirah D. Cole, Mrs. C. J. Turner, Mr. Mercurio, Phil Johnson, the Rev. Mr. Piepenbrok, Mrs. R. E. Pettis, Arthur Pearson, Edward B. Crush, Mrs. Chester Wessling, Dr. Charles E. Pope, Burton B. McRoy, Mrs. Walter B. Metcalfe, Mrs. Hunter, Michael S. Palermo, Mrs. R. F. Hamill, Harry L. Thomson, Edward H. Selig, C. M. Willman [village president], Mrs. Agnes Tennerman, Dr. William Weir and Marshall Pottinger.

BY JOHN T. McCUTCHEON JR.

One of the strongest sources of support in the organization of the Sportsmen's Defense reserve has been among the members of the Lincoln Park Gun club. Altho a private organization made up of 260 members, the facilities of the club are always available to the public, and it now rates as one of the best equipped and most used gun clubs in the country.

The Sportsmen's Defense reserve is being formed for the purpose of registering the nation's millions of amateur marksmen for action in case of an emergency. Walter C. Peacock, State street merchant, is head of the Illinois division, which originated the movement. William L. Bourland, president of the Lincoln Park Gun club, is a director.

The history of the Lincoln Park Gun club, also known as the Lincoln Park traps, goes back to 1918. Its 20 charter members were among the city's best known citizens, and were the leaders in the migration of the wealthy away from the once aristocratic near south side.

Many of them had been members of the old Chicago Gun club on the south side, but found it too far to go from the north side, where they had established new homes. The Lincoln Park Gun club claims to be the first such organization on the north side, and one of the first trap clubs in the country.

Among the charter members and early life members were the late William Wrigley Jr., George Lytton, Charles Antoine, Urbine J. [Sport] Herrmann, and Charles W. Folds, the first president.

Others, still living, are P. K. Wrigley, Col R. H. Morse, Charles B. Pike, Otto Hassel, David G. Joyce, Oscar G. Mayer, C. E. Jaques, and J. M. Studebaker.

At first the club occupied an old frame house at Cornelia avenue and the lake. But there was no room for expansion there, and the region became more and more thickly settled.

In 1921, therefore, an agreement was reached with the Lincoln park authorities whereby the club might lease land at Diversey parkway and the lake, provided it allowed nonmembers to shoot at a fee not more than 10 per cent above that for members.

Have $40,000 Home.

A modern and well furnished stone clubhouse was built with funds put up by members, at the new location overlooking the lake. At its dedication the following year John Philip Sousa's band played under his personal direction, and he was made an honorary member. In 1926 a second story was added. The building is now valued at $40,000.

The shooting equipment includes two skeet fields and 16 straight traps, and is valued at $12,000. Last year it was estimated that 400,000 targets were broken, a figure larger than that of any other similar club in the country.

Other officers besides Mr. Bourland are Walter F. Klein, vice president, and Thomas J. Sullivan, secretary and treasurer. Gerald Batten is manager of the club grounds. The membership includes 40 women.

EQUESTRIAN CLUB HOLDS ITS ANNUAL BREAKFAST RIDE

About 200 men and women horsemen last Sunday took part in the annual breakfast ride of the Town and Country Equestrian association. The ride of ten miles started and ended at Division No. 5 at Palos Park forest preserve.

The ride was under the direction of a committee headed by John A. Klein, a director in the association. Other members of the committee include J. M. Fitzgerald, Merton Ketchum, Mrs. H. M. L. Hall and Robert Mann. Officers of the association are Herbert J. Lorber, president; Frank Bering, vice president, and A. H. Sus, secretary-treasurer.

TEMPLARS PLAN INSTALLATION FOR TOMORROW

New officers of Chicago Commandery, No. 19, Knights Templar, will be installed at 8 o'clock tomorrow night at an open meeting at 32 West Randolph street. Henry R. Lundblad, past grand state commander, will be the installing officer. George C. Norris, past commander of the Chicago commandery will be grand marshal.

Those to be inducted are Fred L. J. Herrmann, commander; Jerry J. Blecha, generalissimo; Harry P. Falknor, captain general; Archie O. Colenbaugh, senior warden; William H. Dunkak, junior warden; Oscar F. Modene, prelate; Murray A. Stillwaugh, treasurer; Henry R. Lundblad, recorded; Carl H. Boettcher, sword bearer; Carl Ketel, warder; Edward R. Shafer, color bearer, and Ralph W. Wilder, sentinel.

Members of the finance board are George C. Norris, Jerry J. Blecha, Walter Woldhausen, Lee Millner, and Fred L. J. Herrmann. Music will be supplied by the Chicago commandery band.

Wooded Haven for Children

Ravine park, a woodland retreat and bird sanctuary in Lake Bluff, attracts many children after school hours in the spring and all day long during the summer. These young ladies are members of the Junior Garden club out on a checkup tour. (Left to right) Jane Green, Claire Chamberlain, and Betty Bowen are looking for spots to put in new plants, damaged places to repair, or weeds to uproot. The ravine is a part of the park district of 43 acres in Lake Bluff. All the villagers, from the pioneer down to the first graders, are co-operating to "perpetuate the natural beauty of Lake Bluff," and Ravine park is an outstanding example of the work.

Honor Pupils to Be Heard on 'Citizen' Show

The voices of 50 of those who carry the great hopes of the middle west will be heard on W-G-N next Wednesday evening. The occasion will be the final program of the first series of the "Citizens of Tomorrow" broadcasts from 7 to 7:30 that evening. The high school students who have been named to the "Citizens of Tomorrow" honor roll will give their names, home towns, and tell of their ambitions during the show.

Dean W. H. Conley.

Fifty students from the middlewest have been named to the roll and they will be the special guests of Chicago when they come to town for the final broadcast.

Students to Attend.

The broadcast will be from the W-G-N audience studio and will be attended by 600 students from Wright Junior college. Dean William H. Conley of the college will lead the delegation of students and have a seat on the platform.

The college mixed chorus will be heard in three songs including the school song, "Fight Wright, Fight!" Morton Haas, Bob Riis, and Inez Richland will lead the students in cheering.

Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE TRIBUNE, will speak briefly.

Guests on List.

Following the broadcast, Philip Maxwell, a member of THE TRIBUNE'S editorial staff, who plays the rôle of "The Principal" in the show, will introduce several special guests, including James B. McCahey, president of the board of education; Dr. William H. Johnson, superintendent of the Chicago public schools, and Miss Helen Howe, director of music, and Harold Kent, director of the radio council, both of the public schools.

The members of the honor roll will come from 30 cities and towns of the Chicagoland states. A number of events have been arranged for their entertainment.

At 1 o'clock they will be guests of the Junior Association of Commerce at a luncheon in the La Salle hotel and at 3 o'clock will be given an airplane ride over Chicago in a big TWA plane. Then at 5 o'clock the Chicago Woman's club is entertaining them at supper in the clubhouse at 72 East 11th street.

In this closeup Claire gets right down with the wild flowers to be sure she's not missing any new blossom that might have come up this week. She and her playmates will have lots of time this summer to learn more about the natural plant life in her home town, and Ravine park is an ideal spot. It's almost the same as it was in 1877 when settlers began to gather there for camp meetings. The villagers hope to keep it that way forever. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

3,000 TO SING IN HARMS PARK FOLK FESTIVAL

More than 3,000 persons will take part in the Grand Singers Folk festival at 2 o'clock next Sunday afternoon in Harms park, Berteau and Western avenues. Groups participating will be the United German Male Choruses of Chicago, formed by 29 choirs with 1,200 singers; the United German Ladies' Choruses, with 10 choirs and 500 singers; the Young People's Mixed Choirs, with two groups of 400 singers, and the German-American Children's chorus, of five groups with 1,000 singers. One of the choirs will be the Schwabian Singing league, first place winner in last year's Chicagoland Music Festival.

Musical directors will be Ludwig Lohmiller, Reinhold Walter, and H. A. Rehberg. Dr. Walter H. Silge is president of the executive committee in charge of arrangements. Other officers assisting Dr. Silge are Paul M. Wagner, vice president; Karl Kraenzle, secretary; Herman Loesicke, treasurer; Phil C. Nilles, financial secretary, and Kurt Reichel, librarian.

Lake View High Students Are to Hear Safety Talk

Five hundred Lake View High school students tomorrow morning will hear a statistical résumé of bicycle fatalities and accidents to be given in a safety talk by George W. Fleming, general secretary of Mayor Kelly's Keep Chicago Safe committee. John H. Beckerman, safety coordinator at the school, will be in charge of the program, which is to include the showing of two traffic safety sound films.

NATURE ENJOYS FRIEND IN NEED AT LAKE BLUFF

Protects Beauty at Every Turn.

BY JUANITA DALY.

Lake Bluff is preserving its natural heritage. Forward looking village fathers first reserved the lake front rights for the public. Since then conscientious citizens have been coöperating to protect the beach and the ravine with their profuse native undergrowth and wild flowers.

A sign, lettered in yellow on natural wood and posted by the board of commissioners of the park district, is headed warningly "Penalty." It announces that "this Ravine park is dedicated to the perpetuation of its natural beauty and as a bird sanctuary." Furthermore, "Any one guilty of picking wild flowers, injuring or disturbing shrubs, trees, bridges, or other park property; sliding down banks, lighting fires, dumping, shooting, or trapping are subject to ARREST and FINE."

Beauty Lovers on Guard.

This summarizes all the things that beauty lovers in Lake Bluff have seen happen or fear might happen to their community. Citizens thru the park board, the village board, the Woman's and Garden clubs, and Boy and Girl Scout organizations are working thruout the year to prevent this destruction and to restore beauty marred by natural causes.

Dame Nature's gift in trees, which always attract home builders to a suburb, include white, red, and burr oaks, shagbark, hickory, white ash, white birch, crabapple, hawthorns, maples, and a few shadbush. Certain rare and beautiful wild flowers which were in danger of extermination have been protected by village ordinance and some by state law. This list includes bloodroot, trillium, gentian, ladyslipper, red lobelia, columbine, and the lotus flower.

Protect Other Flowers.

The Garden club joined with the Wild Flower Preservation society to urge the conservation of additional

OUR TOWN

Paragraphs About People You May Know

JUNE in Our Town is the month of scholarships. Just one of the many scholarship winners is Miss Dorothy Hollahan, 6433 Glenwood avenue, who was given the Leonore Z. Meder award in the school of social work at Loyola university. This scholarship is granted annually by the alumnae association of the university to the graduate student who seems most likely to complete the social work course and most promising in making a future contribution in the social work field. Miss Hollahan was graduated cum laude with the degree of bachelor of arts from Mundelein college last Monday.

ERNEST COLLIER PRICE, 2403 Orchard street, is one of about 60 Illinois youths who have been accepted for the United States Military academy at West Point. Price, who is 20 years old, prepared at Onarga Military academy, Onarga, Ill., and the Millard Military school, Washington, D. C. He was sponsored by Congressman James J. McAndrews of the 9th congressional district, and will enter West Point July 1.

Ernest C. Price.

From Smith college, Northampton, Mass., comes word of more Our Town honors. Two Evanston students at the college were elected to office in campus organizations. Marian Sollitt, 2324 Lincolnwood drive, was chosen as representative to the Smith College Association for Christian Work from her college house of residence. Patricia Van Metre, 1225 Ridge avenue, was named student adviser for the 1940-'41 term.

JUNE is also the wedding anniversary month of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Wickert, 1040 Montana street. Last Wednesday they celebrated their golden anniversary. Mr. Wickert, a retired South Water street market merchant, is 78 years old. Mrs. Wickert is 72. The couple have resided in Our Town since their marriage in 1890.

Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Sadler, 3849 North Hamilton avenue, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary Tuesday at their home. They have two sons, Charles and Walter, and five grandchildren. The Sadlers have resided on the north side for more than 50 years. Mr. Sadler is a retired teaming contractor.

OFFICERS for 1940-'41 of the Uptown Chicago Lions club recently were elected. They are E. E. Bogardus, president; George Hilverink, first vice president; J. W. Jones, second vice president; H. L. Wells, third vice president; William Ross, treasurer; R. C. Bertrand, secretary; James McGuaran, lion tamer, and Roamy Meier, tail twister.

Mr. and Mrs. John Biegalski recently celebrated their golden wedding anniversary at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Charles Wojciechowski of Elmwood Park. They came from Poland to Chicago in 1882 and were married in St. Stanislaus Kostka Catholic church in 1890.

ONE of ten outstanding students of the University of Dayton, who were awarded gold keys for their scholastic attainments is William Clyde Hill, 949 Belden avenue. He is a student of civil engineering and president of the school's American Society of Civil Engineers. He is 19 years old.

Two north side students of Illinois State Normal university are candidates for degrees tomorrow at the school's annual commencement exercises. They are Vernon Durston, 4148 North Leavitt street, and George Sider, 827 Lakeside place.

JOSEPH REDHEFFER, 257 East Delaware place, and Miss Barbara Mandelbaum, 1301 North State street, were graduated last week from Swarthmore college, Swarthmore, Pa. Miss Mandelbaum, staff member of the student literary magazine and an active member of the American Student union, received scholastic honors in the division of humanities. Young Redheffer, stage manager of the Swarthmore Little theater, was graduated with honors in the department of engineering.

Jean Tracy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Tracy, 7453 North Hoyne avenue, has been selected to direct the business staff of the bi-weekly newspaper at St. Mary-of-the-Woods college, Terre Haute, Ind.

Members of the park district outing club will take an eight mile hike thru Little Calumet flats today. The group will board an interurban electric train at 9 a. m. and return at 7:12 p. m. Frank Stegenga will be the leader and Miss Elizabeth Pajari and Bob Barker will be guides.

MUSIC PATRONS BEGIN SALE OF COUPON BOOKS

First Program to Be Offered June 25.

BY DAVID ANDERSON.

Approximately 400 Chicagoland music patrons last week began their fifth annual campaign to sell season tickets to Ravinia park, summertime symphony center of the north shore. The 1940 season at the 37 acre park will open June 25. Concerts will be played by the Chicago Symphony orchestra under the direction of four famous conductors each Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday evening for six weeks until Aug. 4.

Community chairmen supporting the music festival have received their quotas of season coupon books. Proceeds from these books are the public's contribution to the maintenance of the annual concert program. The remainder of the cost is met by subscribers who donate various sums.

Those who will direct the orchestra are Eugene Ormandy, conductor of the Philadelphia orchestra; Artur Rodzinski, conductor of the Cleveland orchestra; Nicolai Malko, Russian born conductor, and John Barbirolli, conductor of the New York Philharmonic symphony.

Fifth Year of Programs.

Music lovers in charge of selling the season tickets are in their fifth year of ressurecting Ravinia as the north shore music capital. Formerly the park was the scene of outdoor summer opera.

The park was first opened as an amusement center in 1904 by a former president of the Chicago, North Shore and Milwaukee railroad. In 1906 Walter Damrosch, dean of American conductors, launched Ravinia on its musical career by conducting a series of symphony concerts there. In 1912 a group of civic spirited citizens took shares of stock in the park and encouraged the production of grand opera in the summer.

But famous as Ravinia became, its seasonal deficits grew. One of the largest contributors was the late Louis Eckstein, wealthy Chicago business man. He and his wife finally were making up 50 per cent of the annual deficit. The 1931 depression forced Mr. Eckstein to abandon any musical program at Ravinia and for four summers there was no music there.

Business Men Guarantee.

In 1936, after the death of Mr. Eckstein, a number of business men raised a guaranty fund of $34,000 and the present Ravinia symphony program was launched. This year's guaranty fund of more than $40,000 was raised by a committee headed by Howell W. Murray of Highland Park. A portion of this money is returned at the end of the season.

The public matches this sum by buying the coupon books, which are sold at $10 each. The books entitle the purchasers to admittance to all of the 18 concerts. Last year there were 24 concerts with an attendance of 68,682, a record for the last five years.

Percy B. Eckhart of Kenilworth is chairman of the Ravinia Festival association, sponsoring body. Vice chairmen are Mr. Murray, Francis M. Knight, and Renslow P. Sherer of Highland Park; Thomas H. Fisher of Winnetka, and Ralph H. Poole, Durand Smith, and George Voevodsky of Lake Forest. J. Eugene Davis of Glencoe is secretary and Charles Z. Henkle of Highland Park is a member of the executive committee.

Trustees include Maurice Berkson, Donald S. Boynton, Mrs. Marion Rosenwald Stern, Mrs. Robert E. Wood, Max Epstein, Edward L. Ryerson Jr., Charles H. Swift, and A. D. Lasker.

Aiding in Plans.

Mrs. Royden J. Keith, 399 Fullerton parkway, is chairman of the coupon book committee. Co-chairmen are Miss Alice Barler, 436 Arlington place; Mrs. Fred Gerlach, 2440 Lake View avenue; Mrs. Chester Mac Chesney, 1235 Astor street; Mrs. Frederick Moorehead, 2000 Lincoln Park West; Mrs. Raymond Schaeffer, 3730 Lake Shore drive, and Miss Elizabeth Stenson, 1445 North State street.

Mrs. Arthur Boettcher is Evanston chairman. Members of her committee include Mrs. William Barnes, Mrs. Arthur Betts, Mrs. Kenneth Brown, Mrs. John Dolese, Mrs. George Falley, Mrs. Dennis Gent, Mrs. George Haskell, Mrs. William O'Neil, Mrs. Wesley Polk, Mrs. T. E. Quisenberry, Mrs. Norman Westerhold, Mrs. Leslie Parker, Mrs. Percival Truman, Miss Marian Carpenter, Mrs. William Faricy, Mrs. Carl von Ammon, Miss Barbara Boettcher, Miss Jane Miller, Mrs. Thomas Galloway, Mrs. Donald Eddy, Miss Isabel Fiske, Mrs. John McClellan, Mrs. Philip Danielson, and Mrs. Minier Sargent.

Mrs. Walter Knupfer is chairman of the Wilmette committee. She is assisted by Miss Marjorie Day, Miss Jane Moist, Mrs. Charles Ostrom, Mrs. M. R. Rosen, Mrs. Charlotte Comstock, Mrs. Ernow Akely, Mrs. Julius Wald, and Mrs. Horace Young.

DRIVER HAS A COMPLAINT.

I want to complain, along with many other drivers, about the long wait traffic must make for the elevated trains on the Niles Center division. North Shore trains rush thru, but the local trains approach slowly and the gates are down long before the elevated train reaches the crossing. It is especially bad at Crawford avenue. The other day there were 24 cars waiting for a pokey one car elevated carrying two passengers. Another time 17 cars were held up. Certainly something could be done to adjust the gates for the local trains. There should be one drop for these trains and another for the fast North Shore trains. Drivers should receive some consideration, even from the elevated company.

IRATE DRIVER.

WANTS LIFEGUARDS NOW.

The swimming season has been opened by the public. Yet, as I understand it, there will be no lifeguards until after June 20. Last week-end I observed hundreds of bathers at two north side beaches. Many were swimming. But there were no lifeguards.

I believe the city and the park district should keep up with their tax paying public and hire lifeguards—at least a skeleton staff—as early as Memorial day.

THETA ALUMNAE TO HAVE OUTING FOR N. U. SENIORS

Two Chapters to Take Hostess Roles.

Kappa Alpha Theta seniors in the Northwestern graduating class will be guests of the Evanston and North Shore Alumnae chapter Wednesday at Big Foot Country club, on Lake Geneva, Fontana, Wis. After a 12:30 o'clock luncheon, seniors will be inducted into the alumnae group. There will be golf and swimming all day and bridge in the afternoon.

Mrs. Arthur R. Colwell of Evanston and Lake Geneva will be hostess, assisted by Mrs. Blake Bell and her daughter, Mrs. Herbert B. Megran, Mrs. William Stevens and Theta alumnae from Northwestern in Harvard and Lake Geneva. Mrs. Colwell, Mrs. C. M. Bakker and Mrs. William C. Henning in Winnetka and Mrs. R. H. Olmstead Jr., in Highland Park are in charge of reservations. Mrs. E. F. McLaughlin of Evanston is president.

Seniors who will be guests include Miss June Christopherson, Miss Jeanne Grasett, Miss Isabelle Howe, Miss Sue Ingalls, Miss Clesta Kramlich, Miss Madeline Long, Miss Rosemary Murningham, Miss Barbara Neumann, Miss Helen Osler, Miss Virginia Rahel, Miss Louise Reynolds, Miss Catherine Schwalm, Miss Patricia Steffen, Miss Phyllis Stevens, Miss Janet Stoltz, Miss Janet Wagner, Miss Katherine Wenger and Miss Dorothy Wheeler.

Alumnae of Tau chapter of Theta will hold a reunion luncheon at 12:30 o'clock Friday in the chapter house on Northwestern campus. Officers, who will act as hostesses, are Mrs. Donald E. Nichols, president; Mrs. Arthur L. Reincke, vice president; Mrs. R. C. Harrer, secretary; Mrs. McLaughlin, treasurer; Mrs. Iryin Fathchild, house chairman; Mrs. Daniel J. Ball, Mrs. D. Bligh Grasett and Mrs. W. E. Schroeder, directors. Mrs. Schroeder is in charge of arrangements.

Board members will be hostesses again Saturday, Commencement day at the university, for an open house from 3 to 5 o'clock in the Theta house. Guests will be alumnae, seniors and their families. Mrs. Arthur L. Reincke is chairman of the event.

Delta Delta Delta.

North Shore alliance members will be hostesses to returning alumnae and graduating seniors at a buffet luncheon and open house at 1 o'clock Friday in the Northwestern chapter house. Before the luncheon, the circle degree of initiation will be conferred on seniors and others eligible for it.

FRESHER BLOOMS WILL BE AIM ON NEXT LILAC DAY

Donors Are Likely to Get Sturdy Cartons.

When Chicago's 12th annual "Share Your Lilacs" observance ended nearly two weeks ago with bouquets of lilac blooms by the bedsides of more than 23,000 patients in 152 hospitals, settlement houses, and other institutions that care for the sick and shutins, the voluntary workers who made it possible began immediately to plan for lilac days next year.

Officials of the Chicago Plant, Flower, and Fruit guild, who direct the work in coöperation with THE TRIBUNE, feel that there still is one weakness in their system of distributing the flowers—that of getting the bouquets to hospitals in the freshest possible condition.

Gardeners now do a fine job of cutting and handling the fragile blooms, but they do not always have suitable cartons for shipping them. Guild officials are trying to work out a plan to supply lilac donors with sturdy, uniform cartons for sending in the blossoms next year.

More people give lilacs each year. A partial list of this year's contributors appeared in this newspaper last Sunday. Here are others in this region who gave.

DE PAUL U. WILL HOLD EXERCISES NEXT WEDNESDAY

Baccalaureate Mass to Be This Morning.

Willard C. Meier.

Edward K. Meier.

A baccalaureate mass this morning and commencement exercises Wednesday comprise the graduation activities for De Paul university seniors. The Rev. Thomas Navin from St. Louis Preparatory seminary will mark the silver anniversary of his ordination by celebrating the mass at 11:30 o'clock in St. Vincent's church, 1010 Webster avenue. Archbishop Samuel A. Stritch will preside and the Rev. James Magner, founder and director of the Charles Carroll forum, will deliver the sermon.

The 42d annual convocation will be held at 2:30 o'clock on Wednesday in the Auditorium theater, Michigan avenue at Congress street. The Rev. Michael J. O'Connell, University president, will deliver the address and confer 429 degrees.

Same Studies and Same Grades.

Prominent among the 45 north side graduates are the twins, Willard C. and Edward K. Meier of Wilmette, 26 years old, who will receive the degrees of juris doctor from the law school. From the time they started grammar school, the boys have followed the same course of studies and one rarely received a better grade than the other. They both completed their law course with a B average.

At New Trier High school, their major extra curricular activity was football. During the three years the brothers played at guard, New Trier kept near the top of the Suburban league. They continued to play football at Dennison university, Granville, O., and in their last year of competition there, they were voted the most valuable players in the Ohio conference. They received their bachelor of arts degrees from Dennison in 1936 and at present are employed in Chicago.

Other North Side Candidates.

Other north side candidates include:

Jean is president of Alpha Omega and the Inter-sorority council, secretary of her class and the Women's league, and a member of the De Paulian staff and the Edgar Allen Poe Literary club. Rosecarol served as president of the Women's Athletic association, secretary of the Women's league, was a member of the Glee club, Classical club, and Economic forum. James' activities included Wranglers, the Literary club, Cisca, De Paulian, Gambit league, and intramural sports.

15TH CATHEDRAL BALL WEDNESDAY DUE TO DRAW CROWD OF 400

[Marshall Photo.]

More than 400 persons are expected to attend the 15th annual Cathedral ball to be held Wednesday evening by Gamma Kappa Delta, Episcopal young people's group, at the Congress hotel. William Siddall, 748 Hinman avenue, Evanston, is general chairman of the dance.

The dance was originally scheduled for May 11, but was postponed because of the death of Bishop George Craig Stewart. Proceeds will go to a fund established fifteen years ago for the construction of a great cathedral.

Miss Ann Eadie, 1813 Grant street, Evanston, will be crowned queen of the ball. She was selected from twenty girls affiliated with Episcopal churches in the city and suburbs. Miss Virginia McLellan, 1257 Lunt avenue, will be a member of the queen's court of honor.

UPTOWN BETHANY CHURCH TO NOTE 35TH BIRTHDAY

The Rev. Karl G. Schlerf.

Uptown Bethany Lutheran church, Thorndale and Magnolia avenues, celebrates its 35th anniversary today. But the celebration implies much more than this historical memory, for the service at 11 o'clock this morning will be conducted by the Rev. Karl G. Schlerf, pastor of the congregation for the last 34½ years. The dual anniversary sermon will be preached by the Rev. Bernard H. Hemmeter, pastor of Mount Olive church, Byron street and Tripp avenue.

Early in 1905, a group of English speaking Lutherans in the Edgewater district rented a hall at Clark street and Ridge avenue and invited the late the Rev. Ernest F. Haertel, then a pioneer Lutheran minister in the Chicago area, to conduct services. The first was held June 11, 1905, and the name of the church to be was formally adopted the following November.

Encouraged by the progress made by the congregation, the northern Illinois district board of the Missouri synod extended a call to the Rev. Mr. Schlerf, at that time pastor of Trinity church in Hillsdale, Mich., who was inducted on Jan. 7, 1906.

The Rev. Mr. Schlerf is now the oldest active minister of the Missouri synod on the north side.

The present membership of Uptown Bethany is approximately 900.

LAKE BLUFF HELPS NATURE KEEP HER COAT OF BEAUTY

Whole Village Protects Wild Flowers.

wild flowers such as hepatics, bellflower, hawthorn, May apple, Turks-cap lily, Dutchmans' breeches, Jack in the Pulpit, and shooting star.

"Well meaning homeowners," explained Mrs. Stewart Reed Brown of the park board, "burn off vacant lots to eradicate the weeds. But many of these noxious weeds withstand the fire treatment and the fire only upsets nature's balance by destroying the wild flowers and bushes. The only sure way to kill ragweed, poison ivy, burdock, and thistle is to uproot the plants, rake them in a pile, and then light your match."

Transplant Wild Flowers.

"When newcomers are ready to build," she continued, "members of the Garden club, if notified, will come gladly and dig up the wild flowers and plant them elsewhere to preserve them."

As early as 1925 Lake Bluff began to organize a park board and by 1928 was well on its way to owning the 43 acres of land now under its jurisdiction.

One of the first acts of the board was to obtain a strip of land along the east side of Sheridan road to secure it from roadhhouses, gas stations, and undesirable buildings. No billboards are allowed within the village limits.

Ravine park is on the south side of the village. The Garden club has transplanted several hundred plants into the ravine and the board is hoping to create a bird sanctuary there.

RUBINOFF GUEST TONIGHT ON W-G-N SYMPHONIC HOUR

Small Business Men Will Attend Broadcast.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Rubinoff and his violin will make a guest appearance on the Chicago Tribune symphonic hour from 9 to 10 o'clock tonight. With the famous radio and concert violinist will be featured Marion Claire, Chicago's own soprano, and the W-G-N Symphony orchestra and chorus under the direction of Henry Weber.

Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE TRIBUNE, will be the speaker of the evening.

The Symphonic hour will be broadcast from W-G-N's main studio over the coast to coast Mutual Broadcasting system.

Small Business Men Guests.

Members of the National Small Business Men's association will be W-G-N's guests tonight. United States Senator H. Styles Bridges of New Hampshire and James S. Kemper, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, will accompany the association members.

David Rubinoff is to be featured at the all-Chicago Flag day celebration, which will be held next Wednesday, June 12, in the Grant park bandshell. In this connection, Rubinoff is touring the Chicago public high schools, giving violin concerts. Last Friday he appeared at 12 schools and played before an estimated total of 45,000 school boys and girls.

Music Festival Guest.

Rubinoff was starred in 1937 at the eighth annual Chicagoland Music Festival in Soldiers' field. Two weeks previous to that occasion, he played his 209 year old Stradivarius before a crowd estimated at 225,000 in the Grant park shell.

For the dramatic feature of the evening, the Symphonic hour will present "The Old Spinning Wheel," starring Miss Claire as narrator and soloist. An outstanding dramatic cast and the chorus and the Symphony orchestra will support her. William A. Bacher, director and producer of the program, is the author of this feature.

Back to the Carolinas.

Heard with Miss Claire in the dramatic cast will be Cleveland Towne, De Witt McBride, Bret Morrison, Olan Soule, Alice Hill, and Marie Nelson.

The musical program:

"Rumanian Rhapsody" ......Enesco
Orchestra.
"On Wings of Song"...Mendelssohn
Miss Claire and orchestra.
"Drink to Me Only with Thine Eyes" ....Jonson
Miss Claire, chorus and orchestra.
"Fêtes" ....Debussy
"Dance of the Russian Peasants" ....Rubinoff
Mr. Rubinoff.
Number to be selected by Mr. Rubinoff.
Aria from "Manon Lescaut"..Puccini
Miss Claire and orchestra.
"The Old Spinning Wheel"
..Miss Claire and dramatic cast
Speech ....Col. R. R. McCormick
Themes from "Tannhäuser"..Wagner
Chorus and orchestra.

Rubinoff enjoys a place all his own in musical America. Steering a middle course between popular music and the classics, he has won the masses to an appreciation of violin and orchestral music. As the son of poor workers in Russia he won for himself a violin scholarhip at the Moscow Musical conservatory.

Moves to America.

At the age of 15 his parents took him to America and settled down in Pittsburgh. So great was his musical talent that he was quickly in charge of a school orchestra—this before he had even learned to speak English.

After years of hard work in concert tours he was brought to the attention of Rudy Vallee and from then on his fame was assured.

Eddie Cantor's nation-wide radio program, from 1930 to 1935, with Rubinoff, his violin, and orchestra, made the name of Rubinoff known to millions of Americans.

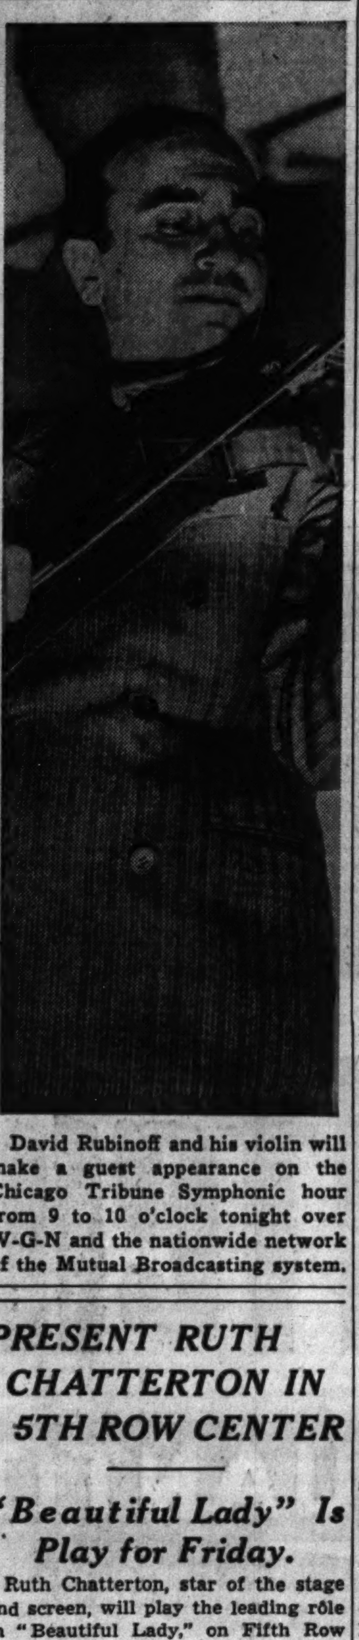
Dr. John Dickson Given a Degree by McKendree

Dr. John L. Dickson, director of W-G-N's midday service, was honored by his alma mater, McKendree college in Lebanon, Ill., last Tuesday, when the degree of doctor of literature was conferred on him.

Invited to attend the commencement exercises, he also gave the baccalaureate address.

The degree was given in recognition of Dr. Dickson's work in the field of religion, American citizenship, and public affairs.

Guest of W-G-N



David Rubinoff and his violin will make a guest appearance on the Chicago Tribune Symphonic hour from 9 to 10 o'clock tonight over W-G-N and the nationwide network of the Mutual Broadcasting system.

PRESENT RUTH CHATTERTON IN 5TH ROW CENTER

"Beautiful Lady" Is Play for Friday.

Ruth Chatterton, star of the stage and screen, will play the leading rôle in "Beautiful Lady," on Fifth Row Center over W-G-N and coast-to-coast network of the Mutual Broadcasting system, at 7 p. m. next Friday.

Miss Chatterton will be supported by Francis X. Bushman, star of the silent movie era and now an outstanding radio actor, and Marvin Mueller, Ed Prentiss and Cleveland Towne, well-known Chicago actors.

"Beautiful Lady" is the story of a mother who fought against blind justice, and of a man who loved an adopted boy. Miss Chatterton plays the rôle of the mother who fights to regain the possession of her son. Bushman will be cast in the part of the man who is unwilling to relinquish his adopted son.

Chicagoans last saw Ruth Chatterton on the stage last October when she starred in the comedy, "Tonight We Dance." It was her first appearance in the legitimate theater in many years. Her best remembered movies were "Madame X," "Sarah and Son," "Lady of Secrets," "Girl's Dormitory," "Dodsworth," and "The Royal Divorce."

Before she answered the call of Hollywood, Miss Chatterton had established herself as one of Broadway's most talented actresses. She made her first hit in the memorable "Daddy Long Legs" when she was 18 years old, and this was followed by a long list of successes.

The musical setting for "Beautiful Lady" will be furnished by the W-G-N Dance orchestra under the baton of Harold Stokes. The entire production will be directed by Blair Walliser.

FAVORITE SONGS TO BE PRESENTED BY NORTHERNERS

The Northerners, under the direction of Harry S. Walsh, will present a program of favorite ballads at 9:30 p. m. Tuesday on W-G-N. Irene Verner, soprano, will be the featured soloist. Miss Verner will sing the popular "Zigeuner" from Noel Coward's "Bittersweet." The octet will sing "All Day in the Prairie," "150th Psalm," and "My Heart's in the Highland." The entire Northerners cast will join in selections from "Katinka."

THEATER OF AIR OPERETTAS TO RETURN IN FALL

Marion Claire to Star in "Great Waltz" First.

The Chicago Theater of the Air, which presented streamlined operetta productions at intervals of two weeks over W-G-N and the Mutual network this spring, will return with a new series of one hour productions each week starting Saturday, Sept. 14. The fall series will be opened with Marion Claire in "The Great Waltz." Miss Claire was starred in the stage version of this musical success.

Other operettas to be given are "The Vagabond King," "Rogue Song," "Sweethearts," and "My Maryland."

Miss Claire, Chicago's own soprano, will be the feminine star in the subsequent operettas, also. Notable male soloists, including leading operatic and concert stars, will be engaged for the various productions as was the custom for the series recently concluded.

Over Mutual Network.

Dramatic and musical support will be provided by Chicago's best radio actors and by the augmented W-G-N concert orchestra and chorus under the direction of Henry Weber, musical director of W-G-N and artistic director of the Chicago Opera company. All of the Chicago Theater of the Air performances will be aired over the nation-wide network of the Mutual Broadcasting system.

William A. Bacher, the Hollywood director-producer, who has been in charge of the Chicago Theater of the Air, will direct the new series in the fall.

Three operettas were presented in the spring series with several thousand persons, many of them musical and civic leaders of Chicagoland, as studio guests.

Three Operettas Presented.

The three operettas already presented were: Noel Coward's "Bittersweet," and Simund Romberg's "Student Prince," and "Blossom Time," the latter based on the melodies of Franz Schubert. In the first of the series Miss Claire was co-starred with James Melton, the noted tenor. Miss Claire played the lead in the Chicago stage company of "Bittersweet."

"The Student Prince" was broadcast on May 16 by an all-star cast headed by Miss Claire, Jan Peerce, Radio City Music Hall tenor, and Igor Gorin, the noted baritone of concert fame.

The third of the series, "Blossom Time," broadcast to an overflow crowd on May 30, bringing to a climax the spring season, featured Miss Claire with Gorin and Michael Bartlett.

"YESTERDAYS" TO MAKE ITS BOW ON W-G-N—MUTUAL

A new musical program titled "Yesterdays," under the direction of Harold Stokes, will make its debut over W-G-N and the Mutual network at 9:30 p. m. tomorrow. The show will present music by the W-G-N dance orchestra and Vocalists Kathryn Witwer, soprano, and Wesley Summerfield, tenor.

Opening with the musical theme, "Yesterday," from "Roberta," the program will present a complete dramatization, incorporating popular songs in the script, telling a story of the past.

The musical numbers which will be used in the show are "I Hear You Calling Me," to be sung by Summerfield; "Honeymoon,' and "Suppose I Never Met You," by Summerfield and Miss Witwer; "Italian Street Song," sung by Miss Witwer; and "Song of the Islands," "Negra Consentida," and "Neopolitan Nights."

Supporting Miss Witwer and Summerfield will be the W-GN chorus and a dramatic cast.

ANSON TRAINED FOR CARTUNE-O IN SCHOOL DAYS

Bill Anson, headliner in the new radio quiz game, Cartune-O, feels perfectly at ease on the program. Anson once was staff cartoonist on the Schurz High school magazine. Later his work appeared in national magazines before he abandoned the drawing board for the microphone.

Cartune-O, heard over W-G-N from 7:30 to 8:15 every Thursday evening, offers the radio audience an opportunity to participate in a quiz program. Bags of groceries are given to all listeners who correctly check five cartoons in a row across the Cartune-O card. Cash prizes ranging from $15 to $100 are awarded writers of the best brief sentences describing any of the sponsor's products.

GIVE SCHEDULE OF SHORT WAVE WAR NEWSCASTS

British Send Five "Full" Reports Daily.

Since the Nazi invasion of the Netherlands, Belgium, and France news casts in English by short-wave from the various capitals of Europe have been considerably increased.

The British Broadcasting corporation is currently sending out five "full news" transmissions daily to America, the first one at 6:30 a. m. and the last at 11 p. m. These usually run about a half hour. In addition to the official BBC bulletins eyewitness accounts by officers and men lately returned from the battle front are often given. Besides the "full" broadcasts there are several shorter news periods.

Broadcasts from Paris in English include a daily period under auspices of the American Legion. The German short wave reports are of course in sharp contrast to those of Paris and London with regard to claims.

Moscow is again broadcasting in English to American listeners at 7:15 o'clock nightly.

Below is given a schedule of newscasts in English with time [central daylight saving] and frequencies. This list was compiled by the E. H. Scott Radio Laboratories. While the schedule is not complete, the Scott laboratories in releasing it announced that it represents the transmissions and frequencies most clearly received currently in Chicagoland.

HOME, HOMELAND TO BE SUBJECT OF MIDDAY HOUR

"Home and the Homeland" is the topic for discussion on the W-G-N midday service for this week. The program, directed by Dr. John L. Dickson, is broadcast daily except Saturday and Sunday over W-G-N at 12:35 p. m. Speakers for the week include:

Tuesday—The Rev. L. B. Galer, First Unitarian church, Mt. Pleasant, Ia.

Wednesday—The Rev. Father J. Harold Kenney, Catholic Youth organization.

Thursday—The Rev. B. F. Smith, South Park Methodist church.

Friday—The Rev. O. A. Geiseman, Grace Evangelical Lutheran church, River Forest.

MAY BUSINESS ON MUTUAL NET UP 37 PER CENT

Billings for May of the Mutual Broadcasting system totaled $322,186, representing an increase of 37.2 per cent over May, 1939, and the highest May figures in the history of the network. May, 1939, billings totaled $234,764.

Mutual's cumulative billings for the first five months of 1940 also were the largest in the network's history. The 1940 figure totaled $1,731,843, an increase of 24.1 per cent over 1939's first five months, when the figure of $1,396,049 was reached.

[ADVERTISMENT]
Pull the Trigger on Lazy Bowels, and Also Pepsin-ize Stomach!
When constipation brings on acid indigestion, bloating, dizzy spells, gas, coated tongue, sour taste, and bad breath, your stomach is probably loaded up with certain undigested food and your bowels don't move. So you need both Pepsin to help break up fast that rich undigested food in your stomach, and Laxative Senna to pull the trigger on those lazy bowels. So be sure your laxative also contains Pepsin. Take Dr. Caldwell's Laxative, because its Syrup Pepsin helps you gain that wonderful stomach comfort, while the Laxative Senna moves your bowels. Tests prove the power of Pepsin to dissolve those lumps of undigested protein food which may linger in your stomach, to cause belching, gastric acidity and nausea. This is how pepsinizing your stomach helps relieve it of such distress. At the same time this medicine wakes up lazy nerves and muscles in your bowels to relieve your constipation. So see how much better you feel by taking the laxative that also puts Pepsin to work on that stomach discomfort, too. Even finicky children love to taste this pleasant family laxative. Buy Dr. Caldwell's Laxative—Senna with Syrup Pepsin at your druggist today!

HIGHLAND PARK WILL GRADUATE CLASS OF 248

Total Is 18 More than Last June.

The 1940 graduating class of 248 students at Highland Park High school, 18 more than last June, will receive diplomas on Thursday night in the school auditorium. The exercises will open at 8:15 o'clock with the march, Elgar's "Pomp and Circumstance," by the school orchestra. Elizabeth Murray and Ralph de Sha, marshals, will lead the processional of graduates.

John Butler will speak for his class on "The High School and the Community." Robert Templeton, a graduate, will introduce the principal speaker, Carroll Binder, a Chicago newspaper man, whose address is entitled "This, Our World." Honors and diplomas will be awarded by George T. Rogers, president of the board of education.

The Rev. Christopher Keller, pastor of Trinity Episcopal church in Highland Park, will offer the invocation and the benediction. The school chorus will sing "Choral Benediction" by Lutkin and "An Evening's Pastorale" by Shaw, and the orchestra will play Shadwell's "Slavonic Serenade" and the recessional.

Members of the graduating class include:

Modern Office Furnishings

DOCTOR'S SUITE LOSES SEVERITY IN REMODELING

Reception Room Given Homelike Air.

BY LOUISE BARGELT.

The fine art of modernization is by no means confined to homes or to apartments.

A handsome and interesting change has been effected in the Monroe building, 104 South Michigan avenue, Chicago. It is the modernization of a suite of physicians' offices, the treatment in the contemporary style with modern Swedish furnishings.

The work of the modernization was put into the hands of the architects, Hooper and Nelson, 118 East 26th street, Chicago, and these architects carried out their appointed task with a wise understanding of their clients' wishes.

In the offices of many modern physicians and surgeons there is now seen a trend away from the extreme severity of past years—as there is likewise in hospitals a distinct trend away from unrelieved white. This is a recognition of the fact that the state of mind of a nervous, sick patient can often be calmed and steadied in an atmosphere of quiet, harmonious colors, and furnishings which are beautifully simple.

Like Living Room.

In this particular physicians' suite the reception room has been treated in the manner of a gracious, hospitable living room in a private home or apartment.

Three of the walls have been painted a soft green, while the fireplace wall is papered with a deep green, hand blocked paper, with a primitive motif. This aboriginal note blends well with the natural wood trim, and the brown rubber tile floor which affords the feel of warm earth.

The wide, striking fireplace has a natural wood mantel in oak with modern horizontal fluting across the top. The hearth is of black marble, the andirons of highly polished brass. Further accent is given to the primitive by the "Balinese" figure on the mantel and the etchings on the wall, which are framed in natural wood and show glimpses of sky and trees and water.

The room is lighted entirely by lamps, and there is a capacious unit seat in the center of the room of butterscotch yellow, a warm, happy tone. The chairs are a gray-green leather with ambered mahogany legs, and on the table is a highly polished brass lamp.

Block Veneer Walls.

While this reception room has the spirit of a living room the consultation room has the atmosphere of a library. The block veneered walls are of Japanese exotic wood in rich shades of tan. The floor is covered with a sand toned carpet, and the trim is a natural oak, treated with a white filler to lighten it and achieve a perfect harmony between trim and walls.

The desk is of ambered mahogany, with fluorescent lighting, and the chairs are upholstered in gray-green leather. Here the ceiling is a grayish pink, and the pictures on the walls are gay water color sketches, introducing lively tones of greens and yellows and reds. There are green drapes at the windows, and the light gray diagonal line in these drapes is caught and carried into the pale gray of the Venetian blinds and tapes.

There are four examining rooms, and the architects have carried out their decorations with the same delightful attention to color harmony and detail.

This WEEK in the GARDEN

Monday, June 10.

Plants placed far enough apart should have the soil stirred between them until they cover the ground. It is impossible to cultivate perennials planted close together after the foliage becomes intermingled. Until then consistent cultivation is essential. After the plants touch and the roots fill the soil, summer mulching with peat is an excellent practice. Spent mushroom manure and grass clippings also may be used. Water thru the mulch. Soil for potting should be available at all times. Save weeds and other material and start a compost heap

Tuesday, June 11.

Do not neglect to thin seedlings so that each plant remaining will have room to develop. Annuals do best in mass unless grown in rows in the cutting garden. Flowering plants never attain their full beauty of flower and foliage unless each plant has space to develop. Thinning should be done while the plants are small to avoid disturbing those that remain. Mowing the lawn should be done carefully. The best height to cut is from 1½ to 2 inches unless it is a bent grass lawn, which is cut very low and often. All beds and walks should be kept edged. Keep shrubs within bounds and vines securely fastened in place.

Wednesday, June 12.

Pansies require a rich, mellow soil and if partial shade can be given it will prolong their flowering period. Never allow seed to form. Pick all flowers occasionally to rest the plants and later in the season trim back the growths to encourage new, vigorous growth. Mulch the bed during hot weather and never allow the soil to become excessively dry. Water when the plants need water and not before.

Thursday, June 13.

Plants in window boxes must be watered daily. Allow the water to soak thru the drainage holes in the bottom of the box, if it is of wood; if it is self-watering learn by experience when to water. A moist upper surface indicates that the soil is moist thruout. Tuberous begonias may be planted in a shady location. Use a well drained soil, fairly light. It is not too late to plant bedding plants, such as cannas, ageratum, geraniums, heliotrope, salvia, and numerous other kinds. Cannas are among the finest flowering plants for average backgrounds, and they may be obtained in green or bronze foliage with yellow or red blooms. They need heat, rich soil, and plenty of water.

Friday, June 14.

Feed the amaryllis bulbs to obtain good, strong plants for next season's blooming. Keep all newly planted fruit trees, shade trees, and shrubs well mulched. Water thru the mulch. Sow the seeds of perennials to obtain strong plants for next autumn. It is an excellent plan to assign a plot of ground as a seedbed. Provide lath shade to be used whenever necessary.

Saturday, June 15.

This is rose month. Liquid manure applied to roses is very beneficial; a complete commercial food is easily obtained and contains more food than organic manures. Dust sulphur on roses for mildew. Disbud roses for large display blooms. Vegetable crops that are grown for the foliage should be fed nitrogen. Tie up the leaves of cauliflower to obtain choice white heads. Tomatoes will ripen more uniformly if they are staked. Control leaf eating worms with a stomach poison.

GRANT DIPLOMAS TO SENIORS AT WAUKEGAN HIGH

Graduating Class of '40 Numbers 332.

Three hundred and thirty-two students from Waukegan Township High school now can add "graduated with the class of June, 1940," to their brief biographies. Dressed in caps and gowns [marine blue and white this year], the seniors filed past Minard E. Hulse, president of the high school board, as he awarded the diplomas last Thursday night. John W. Thalman, superintendent, presented the graduates.

Two girls, Charlotte Mix, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chase F. Mix, and Sirkka Hannula, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Toiva Hannula, topped their classmates in scholastic achievements. Charlotte was valedictorian and Sirkka salutatorian for the class night exercises last Tuesday. Both are members of the National Honor society.

Sirkka's extra curricular activities included the Girls' league, the French club and the Senior government group. Charlotte was editor of the 1940 annual, active in the Girls' league, French club, the Student council, dramatics, and girls' sports and served as secretary-treasurer of her class for the last two years.

CATHOLIC SENIOR STUDENTS BEAT RECORD OF 1939

Commencement exercises for 891 graduates of eight north side Catholic high schools were begun last week. This year's total is 91 more than last year and surpasses the 1938 figure by 141.

Immaculata High school, Irving Park road and the Outer drive, will graduate 257 girls Tuesday evening. It will be the largest graduation class in the area. Forty-two seniors will receive diplomas this evening at the Mallinckrodt girls' high school in Wilmette. De Paul acadamy, 1010 Webster avenue, will hold its commencement program tomorrow evening for 108 seniors, and on Friday evening Loyola academy, 6525 Sheridan road, will graduate 88 boys.

Ceremonies were held last week for 115 boys and girls at St. Michael's Central High school, 1615 Cleveland avenue; 105 girls at St. Scholastica High school, 7416 Ridge boulevard; 157 boys at St. George High school, Evanston, and 19 girls at Marywood school, Evanston.

FERRY HALL SENIORS ARE TO BE AWARDED DIPLOMAS TOMORROW

Graduates at Ferry hall in Lake Forest will attend a baccalaureate service at 5 o'clock this afternoon in the chapel and the commencement exercises at 10:30 o'clock tomorrow in the Presbyterian church. The Rev. J. W. G. Ward of Oak Park will deliver the baccalaureate sermon and the Rev. William W. Patton of Glen Ridge, N. J., will be the commencement speaker.

Virginia Benson.
[Moffett Photo.]

Virginia Benson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Larry J. Benson of Libertyville, will be the only graduate from the junior college department. Her attendants at the exercises will be her sister, Margery, and Edith Poor of Oak Park. Virginia plans to study nursing at the Washington Boulevard hospital in the fall.

Twenty-four graduates from the high school include Harriet Berger, Marilyn Brownlee, Muriel Burnet, Nanette Colehower, Jane Dean, Patricia Doan, Gloria Erickson, Marcia Goldsmith, Marilyn Hammel, Marie Louise Hayes, Bianca Heald, Florence Hewitt, Dorothea Hinckley, Jeanne Hoffheimer, Patricia Hopper, Sarah Loughead, Rachel MacHatton, Jean Marshall, Louan Morrison, Catherine Oren, Mary Elizabeth Richards, Constance Tippens, and Margaret Wright.

YOUNG PATRIOTS IN PARADE TODAY

HONOR PUPILS TO BE HEARD ON 'CITIZEN' SHOW

To Be Special Guests at Broadcast.

The voices of 50 of those who carry the great hopes of the middle west will be heard on W-G-N next Wednesday evening. The occasion will be the final program of the first series of the "Citizens of Tomorrow" broadcasts from 7 to 7:30 that evening. The high school students who have been named to the "Citizens of Tomorrow" honor roll will give their names, home towns, and tell of their ambitions during the show.

Dean W. H. Conley.

Fifty students from the middlewest have been named to the roll and they will be the special guests of Chicago when they come to town for the final broadcast.

Students to Attend.

The broadcast will be from the W-G-N audience studio and will be attended by 600 students from Wright Junior college. Dean William H. Conley of the college will lead the delegation of students and have a seat on the platform.

The college mixed chorus will be heard in three songs including the school song, "Fight Wright, Fight!" Morton Haas, Bob Riis, and Inez Richland will lead the students in cheering.

Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE TRIBUNE, will speak briefly.

Guests on List.

Following the broadcast, Philip Maxwell, a member of THE TRIBUNE'S editorial staff, who plays the rôle of "The Principal" in the show, will introduce several special guests, including James B. McCahey, president of the board of education; Dr. William H. Johnson, superintendent of the Chicago public schools, and Miss Helen Howe, director of music, and Harold Kent, director of the radio council, both of the public schools.

The members of the honor roll will come from 30 cities and towns of the Chicagoland states. A number of events have been arranged for their entertainment.

At 1 o'clock they will be guests of the Junior Association of Commerce at a luncheon in the La Salle hotel and at 3 o'clock will be given an airplane ride over Chicago in a big TWA plane. Then at 5 o'clock the Chicago Woman's club is entertaining them at supper in the clubhouse at 72 East 11th street.

3,000 TO SING IN HARMS PARK FOLK FESTIVAL

More than 3,000 persons will take part in the Grand Singers Folk festival at 2 o'clock next Sunday afternoon in Harms park, Berteau and Western avenues. Groups participating will be the United German Male Choruses of Chicago, formed by 29 choirs with 1,200 singers; the United German Ladies Choruses, with 10 choirs and 500 singers; the Young People's Mixed Choirs, with two groups of 400 singers, and the German-American Children's chorus, of five groups with 1,000 singers. One of the choirs will be the Schwabian Singing league, first place winner in last year's Chicagoland Music Festival.

Musical directors will be Ludwig Lohmiller, Reinhold Walter, and H. A. Rehberg. Dr. Walter H. Silge is president of the executive committee in charge of arrangements. Other officers assisting Dr. Silge are Paul M. Wagner, vice president; Karl Kraenzle, secretary; Herman Loesicke, treasurer; Phil C. Nilles, financial secretary, and Kurt Reichel, librarian.

Members of the entertainment committee are Herbert Seyfort, chairman; Eugene Bosch, co-chairman; Fred Dohse, secretary; Ernst W. Guntermann, treasurer, and Mr. Kraenzle, publicity chairman.

LOVETT SCHOOL STUDENTS WIN ROUND UP PRIZE

A plaque, awarded each year to the elementary school winning the most points in the spring roundup at Sayre branch of Steinmetz High school, was given to Lovett school last Thursday at the meeting of the Grand-Harlem Kiwanis club, sponsors of the event. Miss Helen Cox is the principal.

The roundup is a field day organized by the Kiwanis club each year to promote friendship among eighth grade graduates in schools in the community served by the Sayre branch. More than 200 boys and girls competed in the event this year.

Ribbons for individual winners as well as the trophies were donated by the club. The second trophy, given to the school winning the baseball tournament, was presented to the Elmwood Park school.

Shooting Club Moves Thrice, but Survives

BY JOHN T. McCUTCHEON JR.

The Chicagoland Gun club has had to move from three different locations in its 14 years of existence. After being transported twice, the good old clubhouse wasn't what it used to be: It had lost its fireplace and its stability. When the club's third lease was canceled to make room for a subdivision, it was clear that the clubhouse would either have to stay where it was, in peace, or end in pieces.

But did the club give up? Not at all. On the contrary the new clubhouse is built in portable sections and it has no fireplace to leave behind. Thru this perseverance the Chicagoland Gun club, with about 120 members, has become one of the foremost skeet clubs of the middlewest. The support which its members have given to the organization of the Sportsmen's Defense Reserve is therefore regarded as of great value.

Aids National Defense.

The purpose of the Reserve is the registration of the nation's millions of amateur marksmen for use in case of a national emergency. The formation of the Illinois division of the Reserve is now well advanced under the direction of Walter C. Peacock, State street merchant and sportsman. After attending the preliminary meeting, Clarence Sheehan, president of the Chicagoland Gun club, expressed his indorsement of the program.

The club was formed in 1926 by members of the Forest Park chapter of the Izaak Walton league who wanted to shoot over the traps. The movement was originated by the late Dr. John Warner, then president of the chapter; John Pilkington, Harry Behm, and Dr. John Y. Hurdle of Maywood, and Paul Diebold of River Forest. Originally the membership embraced that of the league chapter, about 350 persons.

Takes Up Skeet.

Skeet shooting was being developed at about this time and the club immediately took up the new sport, a more advanced and difficult outgrowth of trap shooting, thus becoming the first club in this part of the country devoted to skeet shooting.

The club's first site was at Cermak road on the west bank of the Des Plaines river in North Riverside. Here the members built their first clubhouse of wood—plus a big stone fireplace. Things went well for four years, by which time the neighborhood had become too thickly settled and the club found itself exposed to vandalism.

So a lease was obtained on land just a mile north, at Roosevelt road and the river, in Maywood. This, too, lasted for four years. Then there were too many buildings nearby and the rent went up.

Again They Move.

The house was then subjected to a second major operation which left it on Roosevelt road south of Elmhurst, a five mile journey. At the same time the business depression made it necessary to put membership on a financial basis, money hitherto only having been collected from fees. When the smoke blew away there were nearly 100 paying members and that figure remained fairly steady. Nonmembers have been allowed to use the club's facilities.

In 1937 this land was sold for subdivision, and the present six acre site on Grand avenue a mile west of Franklin Park was chosen. Here a new one room electrified frame clubhouse was built. The equipment consists of four skeet fields and three traps. In the last year more than 175,000 targets were broken, most of them by nonmembers, who have used the club more and more.

The present officers are Mr. Sheehan, president; Mr. Diebold, secretary and treasurer, and Dr. Hurdle and Mr. Behm, directors.

TEMPLARS PLAN INSTALLATION FOR TOMORROW

New officers of Chicago Commandery, No. 19, Knights Templar, will be installed at 8 o'clock tomorrow night at an open meeting at 32 West Randolph street. Henry R. Lundblad, past grand state commander, will be the installing officer. George C. Norris, past commander of the Chicago commandery will be grand marshal.

Those to be inducted are Fred L. J. Herrmann, commander; Jerry J. Blecha, generalissimo; Harry P. Falknor, captain general; Archie O. Colenbaugh, senior warden; William H. Dunkak, junior warden; Oscar F. Modene, prelate; Murray A. Stillwaugh, treasurer; Henry R. Lundblad, recorded; Carl H. Boettcher, sword bearer; Carl Ketel, warder; Edward R. Shafer, color bearer, and Ralph W. Wilder, sentinel.

Members of the finance board are George C. Norris, Jerry J. Blecha, Walter Woldhausen, Lee Millner, and Fred L. J. Herrmann. Music will be supplied by the Chicago commandery band. Refreshments will be served by the ladies auxiliary.

POST OF V. F. W. PLANS TO HOLD ANNUAL PICNIC

The annual picnic of Des Plaines post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars will be held next Saturday at Ehrhardt's grove, Talcott road near Touhy avenue, Park Ridge. There will be dancing in the afternoon and evening and games and contests for children and adults. Joseph Maruska is chairman of the committee. Members are Albert W. Blume, George Winzeler, Max Goertz, George Memmen, and Adolph Lanctot. Arthur Pierron is commander of the post.

Preparing for Flower Show

When this picture of Miss Margaret Nordlinger was taken, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harman Nordlinger, 5324 Bernard stret, were checking last minute details for the Garden club of Mayfair flower show which is open to the public today from 1 o'clock until 8 at Gompers park fieldhouse. The show includes 136 classes in which prize winning exhibits are on display. Mr. Nordlinger is vice president of the club, as well as chairman of the flower show committee, on which Mrs. Nordlinger also serves. E. L. Barr is president of the club.

MEN GARDENERS TO OFFER PLAY IN PORTAGE PARK

2 Clubs in Community Plan Joint Meeting.

A dramatic sketch, "School Days," will be presented by men who are members of the Portage Park Garden club next Saturday night at a joint meeting with the Portage Park Community club in the Portage park fieldhouse, 4100 North Long avenue.

The program, arranged by W. H. Kornbeck, chairman of the interclub relations committee of the community club, is designed to promote better understanding between organizations in the community. Mrs. C. P. Moyen, president of the woman's club, will preside. Mrs. Edwin Myers, president of the Portage Park school P.-T. A., will introduce officers of the two clubs.

Has 34 New Members.

Mrs. Faira Bowsher is president of the Garden club, and George N. Welsh is president of the community club.

GIRLS FROM SIX SCHOOLS TO HAVE TRACK CONTEST

Several hundred girl pupils of six north and northwest grade schools will take part in the second annual park district track and field meet Thursday afternoon at California park, 3901 California avenue.

Girls from Coonley, Bell, Linne, Bate, Cleveland, and St. Benedict grade schools will compete in dashes, jumping events, and a softball throw.

FOUR CHURCH CHOIRS TONIGHT WILL OFFER FESTIVAL OF SONG

The four choirs of Christ English Evangelical Lutheran church, Wilson and Spaulding avenues, will offer a festival of song at 8:15 o'clock tonight. Erhardt Bergstrasser, director of music, has arranged the program. His assistant is Anthony Koolker.

Erhardt Bergstrasser.

Among the soloists will be June Johnson Ziehm, Genevieve Rutzen, Garnet Rohde, Lillian Gangler, Gene Burton, and John Blegen. The Wright Junior college brass sextet composed of Edward Mikelski, Howard Manseau, Barret Bast, John Horn, Stephen Brekke, and Edward Lukaszewski will play. Thelma Michelson is the organist.

Members of the festival committee are Arthur Neyendorf, chairman; George Alt, Theodore Rauch, John Hagman, Seth Rutzen, and Beatrice Blegen.

DRAMATIC CLUB TO OFFER THREE PLAYS AT PARK

Three one act plays will be presented by members of the Visionaires, an amateur dramatic club, at 8:15 o'clock Friday night in Jefferson park fieldhouse, Higgins and Long avenues. Two of the plays, "Bargains" and "Jealousy Plays a Part," are comedies. The third, "The Command Performance," is a drama.

Frank Yonan will play the leading rôle of an Indian Maharajah in "The Command Performance." Supporting players will be Elmore Stangland, Edward Wisinski, Ray Smith, Joe Wilks, Shirley Rogers, Eddie Romans, Joan Wilson, Irene Trinkler, and Richard Behnke.

Those in the cast of "Bargains" are George Katchis, Virginia Luebke, Elaine Wisinski, and LeRoy Hayward. Appearing in "Jealousy Plays a Part" are Marion Pelzel, Elaine Wisinski, Sonia Kechik, Gwen Beisswanger, Anna Boos, Bob Thompson, and Alfred Jankowski.

Hospital Auxiliary Will Have Guest Day Program

The Women's auxiliary of St. Mary of Nazareth hospital will hold a guest day tomorrow. A coöperative dinner will be served in the assembly hall of the hospital at 1 o'clock. A program and cards will follow. Mrs. Peter Doretti is president.

To Confirm 32.

A class of 32 children will be confirmed at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning in Temple Beth Israel, 4850 North Bernard street. Rabbi S. Felix Mendelsohn will conduct the services.

EXHIBIT TO SHOW LIBRARY GROWTH IN ALBANY PARK

A pictorial display portraying the growth and development of the Albany Park branch of the public library will be exhibited this week in the windows at 3536 Lawrence avenue. The display has been prepared to commemorate the 18th anniversary of the establishment of the branch.

The branch was opened first on June 12, 1922, in a vacant store building at Lawrence and Drake avenues. It had a stock of 11,662 volumes and a staff of six librarians. More than 100,000 books were loaned the first year.

Since then two adjacent stores have been rented to provide room for a growing stock of books which now number 20,391 volumes. Circulation has increased to 300,248 in 1939. Miss Fanchon I. Henderson is the librarian.

GARDEN CLUBS PUT ON LAVISH FLOWER SHOWS

Northwest Exhibits on View Today.

At Gompers park fieldhouse a lavish exhibit of 136 classes of flowers, including the prize winner as designated by the judges in each class, is on display in the two day Garden Club of Mayfair show. Yesterday hundreds of visitors admired the blossoms which club members have been growing to their loveliest for the exhibition. The fieldhouse will be open from 1 o'clock this afternoon to 8 o'clock.

Members of the committee responsible for arranging the show include the general chairman and vice president of the club, Harman Nordlinger, the chairman of the flower show committee, R. S. McIntyre, and the secretary, Mrs. H. N. Andreason.

Park Ridge Has Show.

At Portage park gymnasium, Central and Berteau avenues, members of the Portage Park Garden club today present 91 classes, including columbines, delphiniums, bearded irises, beardless irises, hardy lilies, peonies, poppies, roses, and miniature novelty arrangements.

In addition to these there will be such features as an adult hobby show with member made birdhouses and garden furniture, and a neighborhood children's hobby show, staged under the direction of Mrs. W. C. Brown to encourage nonmember children in the neighborhood to take an interest in growing flowers.

Cleanup Is Urged.

This is in line with the club's avowed purpose of interesting residents of the area in cleaning up and beautifying vacant lots. Mrs. Faira Bowsher is the club president and Edward Immel chairman of the flower show committee. The gymnasium will be open from 1:30 on this afternoon.

Next Saturday and Sunday Arlington Heights will be in the limelight with its garden club flower show, for which plans were started weeks ago. The show will be held in the fieldhouse.

MESSIAH CHURCH TO HOLD SOCIAL NEXT WEDNESDAY

The Messiah Woman's club will sponsor a strawberry social in Messiah Evangelical Lutheran church assembly hall at 1:30 o'clock Wednesday. Instead of paying for their luncheon, guests are asked to bring an offering of fancy goods, which will be held for sale at the annual Christmas bazaar.

Graduation exercises for Messiah Christian day school pupils will be held in the church Friday evening, with the Rev. H. M. Bauer, pastor of Immanuel Lutheran church, South Ashland boulevard and Roosevelt road, in charge.

4,000 TO MARCH AT 5TH ANNUAL YOUTH MEETING

Legion Posts, Units Sponsor Affair.

BY CLAYTON KIRKPATRICK.

Northwest side youth will go on parade this afternoon. Clad in uniforms, carrying flags and brilliant pennants, stepping to the music of bands and drum and bugle corps, nearly 4,000 boys and girls will march thru the streets of Arlington Heights.

They will be delegates to the fifth annual youth convention called by the 9th district of the American Legion. They will come as representatives of organizations sponsored by the 29 Legion posts and 23 auxiliary units on the northwest side and in the northwest suburbs. Victor A. Pecchia, general chairman of the convention and junior vice commander of the 9th district, said he expected 10,000 persons would watch them pass.

Victor A. Pecchia.

Lawrence Inkster, chairman of the publicity committee, said the convention would promote interest in the work of youth groups supported by the Legion and the auxiliary.

Teach American Way.

"In these critical times," he said, "it is important to have people know that large groups of young people are being taught the principles and ideals of the American way. We look to them as the protectors and defenders of American institutions. The convention is in some measure a recognition of their achievements and an inspiration to new efforts."

Posts in area 1 of the 9th district will be hosts to the convention. They are Merle Guild post of Arlington Heights and Des Plaines, Mount Prospect, Palatine, and Barrington posts.

All expenses of the assembly will be paid by the 9th district and the auxiliary. More than 50 prizes and trophies will be awarded to individuals and organizations taking part in the parade.

81 Groups to March.

Eighty-one youth groups including Sons of the American Legion squadrons, junior units of the auxiliary, community clubs, high school bands, Boy Scout troops, Cub Scout packs, Girl Scout troops, Camp Fire Girls, Sea Scout ships, Girl Mariners, and school patrol boys will have places in the line of march.

They will assemble at 2 o'clock in the athletic field of the Arlington Heights Township High school. Led by Mel Tierney post drum and bugle corps, three times class A state Legion champions, they will march to Euclid avenue and east to State road.

Turning south on State road they will proceed to Eastman street, then east to Belmont avenue. The line of march will continue south on Belmont avenue to Campbell street and east into Recreation park where the principal ceremonies will take place.

Escort groups besides Mel Tierney drum and bugle corps will be Victory post drum and bugle corps, two times state champions in class B, the 9th district Sea Scout band, and the 9th district junior auxiliary drill team.

Speakers on List.

At the parade grounds the assembly will be called to order by Joseph L. O'Brien, commander of the 9th district. Other speakers will be Mrs. Jeanette Pecchia, director of the 9th district auxiliary; Past Commander Lawrence J. Fenlon; Robert Roberts, district chaplain, and Victor A. Pecchia, chairman.

Under the direction of Earl Barkley, parade marshal, the youth groups will then give demonstrations of their activities. A report on contest winners will be read by Past Commander George Rohde. Mrs. Ann Kelly, president of the Belmont Park auxiliary unit, will sing the "Star Spangled Banner."

Among the bands entered will be the Palatine Township High school band, winners of a first place rating recently at the national high school music contest at Battle Creek, Mich. Bands will also come from the Arlington Heights, Barrington, Leyden, and Maine Township High schools, from the Irving Park and the Elmwood Park Elementary schools, and from the Happy Hour Harmonica club.

Drum and Bugle Corps.

Groups sending drum and bugle corps include the Belmont Park, Gladstone, Elmwood Park, and Palmer squadrons of the Sons of the American Legion; the Melin-Romer and Lafayette Boy Scout troops, and juniors from the following posts: Edison Park, John F. Conley, Merle Guild, Gen. George Bell Jr., Norwood, Des Plaines, Portage Park, Logan Square, and H. J. Behrentz.

Drill teams will be sent by the Albany Park and Billy Caldwell squadrons, Sons of the American Legion, and the Melin-Palmer Boy Scout troop.

Marching units will include Logan

MISSES THE POPLAR TREES.

Three years ago when the bosses of the WPA were having trouble finding holes for their men to dig out and fill in again somebody had the brilliant idea of turning a crew loose in Spaulding avenue near Logan Square with instructions to cut down the poplar trees along the sidewalks. The roots, they said, were troublesome, and poplar trees weren't very pretty or useful anyway.

Well, they're gone now and I believe the homeowners along the street have regretted it ever since. They are especially regretful on days such as we have been having the last week. The sun beats in on the black topped street and is reflected in stifling waves against the houses. Houses do not cool off until after 11 o'clock at night.

If those sunbaked streets are more beautiful than they were before, then my idea of esthetics is far from normal. The whole situation could easily be remedied by letting the WPA undo the work they have done and plant new poplar trees.

FINDS SMALL PARKS NEEDED.

Of all the dismal prospects I have ever seen few can compare with some of the areas on the near northwest side. Dreary wooden buildings crowd against equally dilapidated buildings of crumbling red bricks. The only open spaces are the streets and a few vacant lots littered with bricks and bottles and tin cans. These areas need small parks to start the rehabilitation.

Northwest Side Students to Help Carry Daisy Chain

Three northwest side students will participate in carrying the daisy chain at commencement exercises at National College of Education, Evanston, Wednesday afternoon. They have been so honored because they are among the 24 most representative students enrolled in the sophomore class. They are Miss Barbara Haskins, Park Ridge; Miss Ruth Risler, Park Ridge; and Miss Lucy L. Huck, Palatine.

FRESHER BLOOMS WILL BE AIM ON NEXT LILAC DAY

Donors Are Likely to Get Sturdy Cartons.

When Chicago's 12th annual "Share Your Lilacs" observance ended nearly two weeks ago with bouquets of lilac blooms by the bedsides of more than 23,000 patients in 152 hospitals, settlement houses, and other institutions that care for the sick and shut-ins, the voluntary workers who made it possible began immediately to plan for lilac days next year.

Officials of the Chicago Plant, Flower, and Fruit guild, who direct the work in coöperation with THE TRIBUNE, feel that there still is one weakness in their system of distributing the flowers—that of getting the bouquets to hospitals in the freshest possible condition.

Gardeners now do a fine job of cutting and handling the fragile blooms, but they do not always have suitable cartons for shipping them. Guild officials are trying to work out a plan to supply lilac donors with sturdy, uniform cartons for sending in the blossoms next year.

More people give lilacs each year. A partial list of this year's contributors appeared in this newspaper last Sunday. Here are others in this region who gave.

SHOW FEATURES WEDDING GOWNS OF OTHER DAYS

Fashions Since 1850 Will Pass in Review.

Thumb thru the pages of your family album, have a good laugh at the picture of Aunt Jennie's string bean wedding dress with the belt encircling her second rib, and get on back to the wasp waist affair that great-grandmother married your great-grandfather in. That should just about take you back to 1850.

And it's back to that very date that several young northwest side women have rummaged in attic trunks for the plunder with which to stage a "Parade of Brides," depicting bridal finery from the 1850s right up to now. The show will be given Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock in Christ Evangelical Lutheran church, Wilson and Spaulding avenues.

This unique fashion show will be given by the Loyal Missionary girls of Christ church to benefit the organization's missionary projects.

Include a Bride of 1940.

So literally have they planned the show that they will have a 1940 bride, Mrs. Bernice Vogel, who recently was married at the altar of the church. She will wear her own gown of white satin and tulle veiling, ornamented with orange blossoms.

Her attendants will be Miss Lucille Anderson, in aqua marquisette, and Miss Ruth Anderson in hyacinth blue.

Seven year old Wilma Ethel Frostenson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Frostenson, will be the flower girl. The ushers will be Delwin Hobon, Harold Lundahl, and Fred Anderson.

Then Gowns of Other Years.

She will be followed by Miss Lillian Doyle, in a gown of 1895; Miss Dorothy Tieber, 1909; Miss Elizabeth Leslie, 1910; Miss Marie Gilissen, 1910; Miss Irmgard Springer, 1919; Miss Dorothy Kiefer, 1913; Miss Virginia Schramm, 1930; Miss Bernice Lundahl, 1934; Miss Beatrice Blegen, 1937; Miss Dorothy Noreen, 1937; Miss Eleanor Wiechman, 1938, and Miss June Ziehm, 1939.

Miss Schramm and Miss Gilissen will sing. Miss Gerda Tegtineier will accompany, and Mrs. Gene Rutzen will narrate.

Several members are assisting with preparations: Miss Ruth Kehm, and Miss Dorothy Kundert, collection of wedding pictures for display; Miss Lundahl, flowers and scenic properties; Miss Weichman and Miss Genevieve Rutzen, arrangements; Miss Blegen, publicity. Mrs. Harry Hagan is sponsor of the Loyal Missionary girls.

Messiah Treble Choir Recital.

A concert of sacred music will be presented by the Messiah Treble choir at 8 o'clock this evening in Messiah Evangelical Lutheran church, Melvina and Patterson avenues. Harold Wukasch will direct and Herbert D. Bruening, organist for St. Luke's Lutheran church, Belmont and Greenview avenues, will play the organ.

Members of the chorus: Deloris Piehl, Elaine Heuel, Marie Paetsch, Emma Wagner, Ardell Ross, Dorothy Granow, Erna Schicht, Isabelle Baumgartner, Marva Stackfish, Dorothy Bartels, Evlyn Schaefer, Evelyn Bier, Ruth Swanson, Lillian Hoppe, Lorraine Werner, Clara Breitenbach, Edna Breitenbach, Merle Brauer, Ruth Granow, Shirley Radtke, Lucille Birr, Virginia Buckland, June Rennhack, Eleanor Bier, Lois Schauer, Shirley Spies, Pearl Nelson, Marion Siegerdt, Alma Hehn, Dorothy Mohr, Myra Kunde, Bernice Jacobson, Ferne Handsen, and Doris Laufer. The Rev. Franklin C. Giese is pastor of the church.

Faith Lutheran Ladies' Aid.

Under the direction of Mrs. G. R. Freedlund, members of the Ladies' aid will present a two act play, "Klassenmeyer's Kindergarten," at 7:45 o'clock Friday evening in the Hitch school auditorium.

Invite 500 Albany Park Scouts to Attend Rally

More than 500 Boy Scouts in the Albany Park community have been invited to attend a rally Wednesday night, June 19, in Eugene Field park, 5100 North Ridgeway avenue. The rally will be held under auspices of the Albany Park Scout Leaders' association and the park district. Philip Leiderman, park supervisor, is the coordinator.

MISS LINNEA BENGSTON.
[Gibson Photo.]

Altho most of the members of northwest side women's clubs have turned their thoughts to vacation plans, the newly elected club presidents will be giving considerable time to the planning of their programs for fall. Two of these are Mrs. John William Chapman, president of the Irving Park Woman's club, and Miss Linnea Bengtson, president of Irving Park Catholic juniors.

ALUMNI TO OPEN 3 DAY SCHOOL AT N. U. WEDNESDAY

War and Propaganda Will Be Topics.

Northwestern university's new alumni school will open its 1940 session Wednesday for a three day semester and all former students have been invited to brush up on such after-college subjects as the European war, America's own political situation, and the effects of propaganda.

The school, to be held as an activity of the Northwestern Alumni association, will be a part of the 1940 commencement week program. The sessions will open Wednesday evening with a discussion course on "America and the War," by Dean Ralph B. Dennis of the school of speech, who recently returned from a trip around the world; Dr. Charles H. Behre, economic geologist, and Dr. Kenneth Colegrove, political science lecturer.

Trends in Culture.

The trend in culture today will be analyzed Thursday afternoon by Dr. Alpheus Smith of the school's English department. He will speak on "Man: the Glory, Jest and Riddle of the World." At 4:30 the same afternoon there will be a panel discussion on the effect of propaganda on the war-torn world.

An alumni school dinner will be held Thursday evening at the First Methodist church of Evanston. Dr. William McGovern, professor of political science, will discuss the current political and military developments in the far east.

On Friday afternoon Dr. Oliver J. Lee, director of Dearborn observatory, will show his astronomy film, "Looking Thru Great Telescopes." The concluding session at 4:30 o'clock Friday afternoon will deal with the coming presidential campaign and the future of civil liberties in the United States. Three speakers, Dr. A. R. Hatton, chairman of the department of political science; Dr. Ernest H. Hahne, professor of economics, and Dr. Earl DeLong, chairman of the Evanston Civil Service commission, will address the class.

Members of Committee.

Paul S. Cummins, 122 Keeney street, Evanston, will serve as general chairman of the Alumni week program. Other members of the arrangements committee include Mrs. I. A. Smothers, Robert H. Weinecke, Mayor Henry Penfield of Evanston, Ray Carey, Fred Hertwig, Tommy Airth, Richmond Corbett, H. L. Wessling, Frank E. Spencer, Mrs. T. B. Singleton, Dr. B. R. Jones, Dr. G. C. Turnbull, Cranston Spray and Carl I. Johnson. All classes will be held on the Evanston campus.

Park Ridge Church Will Offer Vacation Classes

Vacation church school for children from 4 to 12 years of age will open tomorrow and continue thru June 28 at Park Ridge Community church. Forenoon sessions will be held from 9 to 11:30 o'clock five days of the week. The school is divided into three groups: Miss Ruth Risler will teach the kindergarten; Mrs. Laila Spence the primary, and Mrs. H. P. Dunsmore the junior department. The Rev. Orvis F. Jordan is the pastor.

Notre Dame High Clubs to Hold Joint Meeting

This month completes the charter year of the Fathers' club of Notre Dame, new Catholic high school for girls. The Fathers' club and the Mothers' club will hold a joint meeting at the home of Joseph Flesch, 5121 Concord place, Tuesday evening. This is a "no expense" meeting, the last regular gathering of the school year.

'Doughnut Tagger'

Miss Judy Flemming, 1634 North Kedzie avenue, is one of the hundreds of northwest side volunteers who will serve as "captains" and "taggers" in the Salvation Army's 1940 Doughnut day drive Tuesday. The funds collected by the sale of paper doughnuts will go principally to the Army's camp for Chicago's underprivileged children and mothers at Antioch.

ARRANGE CARD PARTY, LUNCHEON FOR TOMORROW

Belmont Woman's Club to Aid Charities.

Mrs. William J. Larkin, 5523 Byron street, is chairman of arrangements for the luncheon and card party which will be held by the Belmont Woman's club tomorrow at 12:30 o'clock at the Home Arts guild, 205 North Michigan avenue. Her committee includes Mrs. Neil A. MacLean, 4852 Fletcher street; Mrs. John Pabich Jr., 5418 Melrose street; Mrs. Joseph G. Recher, 4846 Roscoe street; Mrs. E. W. Freitag, 5401 Melrose street; Mrs. Charles Hansen, 5401 Melrose street, and Mrs. Harry Smital, 6025 Melrose street. Proceeds of the party will go to philanthropic projects of the club.

Leyden Woman's Club.

The last regular meeting of the season will be held at 2 o'clock Wednesday at Leyden house, 3428 North Oketo avenue. New officers to be installed are Mrs. T. E. Killgrove, president; Mrs. Augusta Lithander and Mrs. Robert Votruba, vice presidents; Mrs. Marion Schrubba, secretary; Mrs. Frieda Scheibe, corresponding secretary; Mrs. John C. Rhode, treasurer; Mrs. E. A. Berry, parliamentarian. Members will present "The Old Family Album." A social hour will follow.

Edison Park Juniorettes.

This newly organized branch of the Woman's club will stage a "Vanity Fair" next Sunday at the Park Ridge Tennis club. Plans for the fair include an auction, novel pantomine plays, and a dance. Miss Marion Mack, 6712 North Northwest highway, is publicity chairman.

Aid Society to Meet.

Albany Park unit of the American Ladies Aid society will hold an earning fund luncheon Tuesday afternoon in the Palmer House. Those in charge of the meeting are Mrs. Herman Myerson and Mrs. Allen Freedman.

SALVATION ARMY DOUGHNUT DAY TO AID CHARITY

Women Will Turn Out to Sell Replicas.

Tuesday is Doughnut day, the day hundreds of northwest side women will be among those taking over the city's street corners to sell paper doughnuts in the Salvation Army's drive for funds for the Army's fresh air camp at Antioch, where every summer thousands of mothers and children from the crowded areas are given vacation outings.

In the camp, these women and children not only get a much needed opportunity to build up their health but have the advantage of wholesome recreation and character education activities.

The coins for doughnuts will also go to the settlement at 3053 Normal avenue, the emergency lodge, 1230 West Adams street, which gives the temporary refuge to women and children in need, and the home and hospital at 5040 North Pulaski road, where unwed mothers are given care and assistance in the solution of their problems.

Volunteer as Taggers.

Under the leadership of Mrs. Henry Paschen, 345 Fullerton parkway, Doughnut day chairman, northwest members of a number of organizations have volunteered as "taggers" and will serve as voluntary "colonels" and co-workers in Tuesday's drive.

One of these organizations is the Organized Women Musicians, which includes many of Chicago's leading instrumentalists. On the northwest side the members will be led by Miss Mildred Martin Cobb, Crystal Lake.

Northwest side women enrolled as captains are Mrs. Herbert Arcutt, 4815 Cortez street; Mrs. C. N. Bard, 7275 Myrtle avenue; Mrs. Harry Becker, 5158 North Lotus avenue, Mrs. George W. Bock, 3144 Lyndale avenue; Mrs. G. C. Chapman, 3748 North Kedvale avenue; Mrs. Simon Dennis, 3000 North Neenah avenue; Mrs. A. C. Fehlow, 6491 Caldwell avenue; Mrs. G. B. Gardner, 5035 Winthrop avenue.

Others Lending Aid.

Mrs. Margit Johnson, 3853 Schubert avenue; Mrs. L. J. Kreisel, 5742 North Artesian avenue; Mrs. Edward Manz, 6246 North Maplewood avenue; Mrs. H. J. Moran, 5713 Pensacola avenue; Mrs. Donald W. Parker, 4417 North Mead avenue; Mrs. John C. Rhode, 3505 North Ottawa avenue; Mrs. June Rodland, 3836 North Kostner avenue; Mrs. C. J. Russell, 2936 Logan boulevard; Mrs. Frances Scardine, 2421 North Fairfield avenue; Mrs. Fred Schenk, 4931 North Menard avenue; Mrs. Homer Silberzahn, 6424 North Rockwell street; Mrs. Lillian Swanson, 4610 Shakespeare avenue; Mrs. David Gunder, 3900 Montrose avenue; Mrs. Emil C. Hentschel, 4532 Manor avenue; Mrs. Richard Jaitner, 2904 North Damen avenue.

In Church Wedding

Yesterday Miss Caryl Jean Schnitzius, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Schnitzius, 6620 Talman avenue, became the bride of Paul Redmond Periolat, son of John A. Periolat, 3762 Wayne avenue, in St. Timothy's church. A wedding breakfast was held in the Edgewater Beach hotel.

Have the time of your life!

In the To Rent-Resort Properties column of the Tribune want ad section, you will find descriptions of summer cottages located thruout the attractive resort areas of the middle west. Use this column to find the cottage you want.

If you are interested in buying a summer place, you will be interested in the Real Estate-Resort Properties column.

Summer time is BIKE TIME

AMERICA has re-discovered that bicycling is both fun and fine exercise.

The best months of the year for bicycling are here. If you want to enjoy this healthy sport, don't overlook the good buys in used bicycles which are described in the Motorcycles and Bicycles column of the Tribune want ad section.

"BOY, THIS IS FUN!"

NO WONDER Chicagoans are enthusiastic about sailing. With all Lake Michigan at the very door, with races and special events almost every week-end all summer, sailing is becoming the hobby of more and more people every year.

Review the Boats, Yachts, Etc., column in the Tribune want ad section. Here is Chicago's most active market for things nautical—motors, sails, hulls, hardware, rope, large and small boats of practically every description. Prices make it worth your while to shop this column for your boating needs.

"HURRY! THEY'RE COMING OVER!"

SUMMER is no time to be without a good car. If you need a better one than you have now, it will pay you to review the Used Automobiles for Sale columns in the Tribune want ad section.

There you will find offers of good late model used cars of practically every make. It will be easy to choose a bargain in the make and model you prefer. Your present car may be the only down payment required.

Because they get better results, want ad users place more total want advertising in the Tribune than they place in all other Chicago newspapers combined

Chicago Tribune SERVING CHICAGO FOR 92 YEARS

RUBINOFF GUEST TONIGHT ON W-G-N SYMPHONIC HOUR

Small Business Men Will Attend Broadcast.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Rubinoff and his violin will make a guest appearance on the Chicago Tribune symphonic hour from 9 to 10 o'clock tonight. With the famous radio and concert violinist will be featured Marion Claire, Chicago's own soprano, and the W-G-N Symphony orchestra and chorus under the direction of Henry Weber.

Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE TRIBUNE, will be the speaker of the evening.

The Symphonic hour will be broadcast from W-G-N's main studio over the coast to coast Mutual Broadcasting system.

Small Business Men Guests.

Members of the National Small Business Men's association will be W-G-N's guests tonight. United States Senator H. Styles Bridges of New Hampshire and James S. Kemper, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, will accompany the association members.

David Rubinoff is to be featured at the all-Chicago Flag day celebration, which will be held next Wednesday, June 12, in the Grant park bandshell. In this connection, Rubinoff is touring the Chicago public high schools, giving violin concerts. Last Friday he appeared at 12 schools and played before an estimated total of 45,000 school boys and girls.

Music Festival Guest.

Rubinoff was starred in 1937 at the eighth annual Chicagoland Music Festival in Soldiers' field. Two weeks previous to that occasion, he played his 209 year old Stradivarius before a crowd estimated at 225,000 in the Grant park shell.

For the dramatic feature of the evening, the Symphonic hour will present "The Old Spinning Wheel," starring Miss Claire as narrator and soloist. An outstanding dramatic cast and the chorus and the Symphony orchestra will support her. William A. Bacher, director and producer of the program, is the author of this feature.

Back to the Carolinas.

Heard with Miss Claire in the dramatic cast will be Cleveland Towne, De Witt McBride, Bret Morrison, Olan Soule, Alice Hill, and Marie Nelson.

The musical program:

"Rumanian Rhapsody" ......Enesco
Orchestra.
"On Wings of Song"...Mendelssohn
Miss Claire and orchestra.
"Drink to Me Only with Thine Eyes" ....Jonson
Miss Claire, chorus and orchestra.
"Fêtes" ....Debussy
"Dance of the Russian Peasants" ....Rubinoff
Mr. Rubinoff.
Number to be selected by Mr. Rubinoff.
Aria from "Manon Lescaut"..Puccini
Miss Claire and orchestra.
"The Old Spinning Wheel"
..Miss Claire and dramatic cast
Speech ....Col. R. R. McCormick
Themes from "Tannhäuser"..Wagner
Chorus and orchestra.

Rubinoff enjoys a place all his own in musical America. Steering a middle course between popular music and the classics, he has won the masses to an appreciation of violin and orchestral music. As the son of poor workers in Russia he won for himself a violin scholarhip at the Moscow Musical conservatory.

Moves to America.

At the age of 15 his parents took him to America and settled down in Pittsburgh. So great was his musical talent that he was quickly in charge of a school orchestra—this before he had even learned to speak English.

After years of hard work in concert tours he was brought to the attention of Rudy Vallee and from then on his fame was assured.

Eddie Cantor's nation-wide radio program, from 1930 to 1935, with Rubinoff, his violin, and orchestra, made the name of Rubinoff known to millions of Americans.

Renew "Inside of Sports."

"The Inside of Sports," one of the most popular sports programs on the air, has been renewed for another year over W-G-N and the coast to coast Mutual Broadcasting system. The program was first heard on June 14, 1938.

In "Road of Life"

Janet Logan, young actress who has taken over the part of Helen Stephenson in the serial "The Road of Life" on NBC.

Play Broadcast

The headliners of Play Broadcast, heard over W-G-N and the Mutual network every Monday from 7 to 7:30 p. m. Left to right: Bob Elson, who does the sports dramatizations; Dorothy Roberts, character actress; Norman Ross, announcer; Murray Forbes, character actor, and Bill Anson, master of ceremonies and impersonations. They give the clews that help listeners win prizes for correct answers.

LEHAR THEMES TO BE HEARD ON MELODY PAGEANT

The Pageant of Melody, under the direction of Henry Weber, will feature themes from Franz Lehar, with the singing of Kathryn Witwer, soprano; Attilio Baggiore, tenor, and the octet, from 9:15 to 10 p. m. Wednesday on W-G-N and the Mutual Broadcasting system.

First on the musical program will be selections from Von Flotow's "Martha," to be sung by the octet with the accompaniment of the concert orchestra.

Miss Witwer will sing for her solo, "Summer" by Chaminade. Baggiore will do "La Danza" by Rossini. Miss Witwer and Baggiore will join the octet in the Lehar themes, which include "Vilia," "My Little Nest of Heavenly Blue," and "Gypsy Love."

Orchestral numbers will include "Naila" by Leo Delibes, "Dawn" by Curran, and "Caucasian Sketches" by Ippolitov-Ivanov.

Lorenzo Alvari to Be Soloist in Music Hall

Lorenzo Alvari, basso, and Henrietta Schumann, pianist, will be soloists with the Music Hall String symphony on the Radio City Music Hall on the Air program at 11 a. m. today over WCFL. Miss Schumann will play the C-minor Concerto by Mendelssohn, and Alvari will sing the aria of Polyphemus from Handel's "Acis and Galatea."

Col. Louis Johnson Speaks Over Mutual on Tuesday

Col. Louis A. Johnson, assistant secretary of war, addressing a banquet meeting of the Institute of Food Technologists, will be heard over W-G-N and the Mutual network from 10 to 10:30 p. m. Tuesday, from the Morrison hotel in Chicago.

Col. Johnson's subject will be "Mobilization of the Food Industry in the Event of War."

THEATER OF AIR OPERETTAS TO RETURN IN FALL

Marion Claire to Star in "Great Waltz" First.

The Chicago Theater of the Air, which presented streamlined operetta productions at intervals of two weeks over W-G-N and the Mutual network this spring, will return with a new series of one hour productions each week starting Saturday, Sept. 14. The fall series will be opened with Marion Claire in "The Great Waltz." Miss Claire was starred in the stage version of this musical success.

Other operettas to be given are "The Vagabond King," "Rogue Song," "Sweethearts," and "My Maryland."

Miss Claire, Chicago's own soprano, will be the feminine star in the subsequent operettas, also. Notable male soloists, including leading operatic and concert stars, will be engaged for the various productions as was the custom for the series recently concluded.

Over Mutual Network.

Dramatic and musical support will be provided by Chicago's best radio actors and by the augmented W-G-N concert orchestra and chorus under the direction of Henry Weber, musical director of W-G-N and artistic director of the Chicago Opera company. All of the Chicago Theater of the Air performances will be aired over the nation-wide network of the Mutual Broadcasting system.

William A. Bacher, the Hollywood director-producer, who has been in charge of the Chicago Theater of the Air, will direct the new series in the fall.

Three operettas were presented in the spring series with several thousand persons, many of them musical and civic leaders of Chicagoland, as studio guests.

Three Operettas Presented.

The three operettas already presented were: Noel Coward's "Bittersweet," and Simund Romberg's "Student Prince," and "Blossom Time," the latter based on the melodies of Franz Schubert. In the first of the series Miss Claire was co-starred with James Melton, the noted tenor. Miss Claire played the lead in the Chicago stage company of "Bittersweet."

"The Student Prince" was broadcast on May 16 by an all-star cast headed by Miss Claire, Jan Peerce, Radio City Music Hall tenor, and Igor Gorin, the noted baritone of concert fame.

The third of the series, "Blossom Time," broadcast to an overflow crowd on May 30, bringing to a climax the spring season, featured Miss Claire with Gorin and Michael Bartlett.

CHICAGO OPERA SEASON PREVUE SLATED BY WAAF

In coöperation with the Chicago Opera company, WAAF will present "The Opera Festival," a summer series of prevues of next season's Chicago opera. This program will be presented from 6:30 to 8:30 Sunday nights starting tonight. Verdi's "Aida" is scheduled for tonight.

Giovanni Cardelli of the opera company will appear as narrator and will comment on the opera and the composer. Recordings of the chorus and orchestra of the La Scala opera, conducted by Carlo Sabajno at Milan, will be presented.

The répertoire of operas to be presented includes "Aida," "Trovatore," "Falstaff," "Traviata," "Cavalleria Rusticana," "I Pagliacci," "Don Giovanni," "Rigoletto," "Otello," "Carmen," "Hansel and Gretel," "Der Rosenkavalier," and "Martha."

Guest artists who will appear in starring rôles in Chicago's coming opera season will be presented on the program to tell personal incidents of their operatic careers. Trips will be taken backstage to the Civic Opera house to interview the stage manager and the wardrobe mistress on colorful happenings of yesteryear in Chicago opera.

At the conclusion of the series a final composite program of excerpts from the various operas heard during the summer will be presented. On this performance, prizes of season and individual tickets to the Chicago Opera company's fall series will be offered for correct identification of the excerpts played.

Dr. John Dickson Given a Degree by McKendree

Dr. John L. Dickson, director of W-G-N's midday service, was honored by his alma mater, McKendree college in Lebanon, Ind., on last Tuesday, when the degree of doctor of literature was conferred on him.

Invited to attend the commencement exercises, he also gave the baccalaureate address.

The degree was given in recognition of Dr. Dickson's work in the field of religion, American citizenship, and public affairs.

[ADVERTISMENT]
Pull the Trigger on Lazy Bowels, and Also Pepsin-ize Stomach!
When constipation brings on acid indigestion, bloating, dizzy spells, gas, coated tongue, sour taste, and bad breath, your stomach is probably loaded up with certain undigested food and your bowels don't move. So you need both Pepsin to help break up fast that rich undigested food in your stomach, and Laxative Senna to pull the trigger on those lazy bowels. So be sure your laxative also contains Pepsin. Take Dr. Caldwell's Laxative, because its Syrup Pepsin helps you gain that wonderful stomach comfort, while the Laxative Senna moves your bowels. Tests prove the power of Pepsin to dissolve those lumps of undigested protein food which may linger in your stomach, to cause belching, gastric acidity and nausea. This is how pepsinizing your stomach helps relieve it of such distress. At the same time this medicine wakes up lazy nerves and muscles in your bowels to relieve your constipation. So see how much better you feel by taking the laxative that also puts Pepsin to work on that stomach discomfort, too. Even finicky children love to taste this pleasant family laxative. Buy Dr. Caldwell's Laxative—Senna with Syrup Pepsin at your druggist today!

Guest of W-G-N

David Rubinoff and his violin will make a guest appearance on the Chicago Tribune Symphonic hour from 9 to 10 o'clock tonight over W-G-N and the nationwide network of the Mutual Broadcasting system.

"YESTERDAYS" TO MAKE ITS BOW ON W-G-N—MUTUAL

A new musical program titled "Yesterdays," under the direction of Harold Stokes, will make its debut over W-G-N and the Mutual network at 9:30 p. m. tomorrow. The show will present music by the W-G-N dance orchestra and Vocalists Kathryn Witwer, soprano, and Wesley Summerfield, tenor.

Opening with the musical theme, "Yesterday," from "Roberta," the program will present a complete dramatization, incorporating popular songs in the script, telling a story of the past.

The musical numbers which will be used in the show are "I Hear You Calling Me," to be sung by Summerfield; "Honeymoon,' and "Suppose I Never Met You," by Summerfield and Miss Witwer; "Italian Street Song," sung by Miss Witwer; and "Song of the Islands," "Negra Consentida," and "Neopolitan Nights."

Supporting Miss Witwer and Summerfield will be the W-GN chorus and a dramatic cast.

FEDERATION BY FORCE, TOPIC OF REVIEW STAND

Clifton M. Utley and John B. Crane will discuss "European Federation by Force" on the Northwestern Reviewing Stand at 10 a. m. over W-G-N and Mutual.

Mr. Utley, guest speaker on the program, is director of the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations. He also appears weekly on a W-G-N news interpretation. Dr. Crane is professor of economics at the Northwestern university.

Crane and Utley will consider such questions as: Is federation the answer to Europe's problems? Would the federation that Hitler seems to be completing serve the same purpose as one accomplished by peaceful processes? Could federation ever be accomplished peacefully? Would a German-dominated federation of Europe endanger the welfare of the United States?

PRESENT RUTH CHATTERTON IN 5TH ROW CENTER

"Beautiful Lady" Is Play for Next Friday.

Ruth Chatterton, star of the stage and screen, will play the leading rôle in "Beautiful Lady," on Fifth Row Center over W-G-N and coast-to-coast network of the Mutual Broadcasting system, at 7 p. m. next Friday.

Miss Chatterton will be supported by Francis X. Bushman, star of the silent movie era and now an outstanding radio actor, and Marvin Mueller, Ed Prentiss and Cleveland Towne, well-known Chicago actors.

"Beautiful Lady" is the story of a mother who fought against blind justice, and of a man who loved an adopted boy. Miss Chatterton plays the rôle of the mother who fights to regain the possession of her son. Bushman will be cast in the part of the man who is unwilling to relinquish his adopted son.

Chicagoans last saw Ruth Chatterton on the stage last October when she starred in the comedy, "Tonight We Dance." It was her first appearance in the legitimate theater in many years. Her best remembered movies were "Madame X," "Sarah and Son," "Lady of Secrets," "Girl's Dormitory," "Dodsworth," and "The Royal Divorce."

Before she answered the call of Hollywood, Miss Chatterton had established herself as one of Broadway's most talented actresses. She made her first hit in the memorable "Daddy Long Legs" when she was 18 years old, and this was followed by a long list of successes.

The musical setting for "Beautiful Lady" will be furnished by the W-G-N Dance orchestra under the baton of Harold Stokes. The entire production will be directed by Blair Walliser.

RAVINIA MUSIC QUIZ SLATED ON W-G-N TOMORROW

Three distinguished music experts will vie with a team representing the Ravinia festival association in W-G-N's weekly battle of musical minds on "Your Music I. Q." new quiz program, at 8:45 p. m., tomorrow.

The contestants comprising the experts' team include Albert Goldberg, conductor of the Illinois Symphony orchestra; Marx Oberndorfer, musical director of the Civic Music association, and Dr. Leon Sametini, violinist and conductor. They will be opposed by the Ravinia group—Durand Smith of Lake Forest, J. Eugene Davis of Glencoe, and Mrs. Lois Watt North of "Music News."

Questions on music sent in by Chicagoland's concertgoers are posed to the two teams and prizes of admissions to the six week Ravinia Music festival which opens June 25, are awarded the senders. Senders whose questions are used receive two admissions to Ravinia; if one team misses a question, the sender receives two reserved seats in addition to the admissions; if both teams are stumped, the sender receives a $10 book of 18 coupons, each good either for a 75 cent admission or a 75 cent reserved seat at any regular concert of the season.

MAY BUSINESS ON MUTUAL NET UP 37 PER CENT

Billings for May of the Mutual Broadcasting system totaled $322,186, representing an increase of 37.2 per cent over May, 1939, and the highest May figures in the history of the network. May, 1939, billings totaled $234,764.

Mutual's cumulative billings for the first five months of 1940 also were the largest in the network's history. The 1940 figure totaled $1,731,843, an increase of 24.1 per cent over 1939's first five months, when the figure of $1,396,049 was reached.

GIVE SCHEDULE OF SHORT WAVE WAR NEWSCASTS

British Send Five "Full" Reports Daily.

Since the Nazi invasion of the Netherlands, Belgium, and France news casts in English by short-wave from the various capitals of Europe have been considerably increased.

The British Broadcasting corporation is currently sending out five "full news" transmissions daily to America, the first one at 6:30 a. m. and the last at 11 p. m. These usually run about a half hour. In addition to the official BBC bulletins eye-witness accounts by officers and men lately returned from the battle front are often given. Besides the "full" broadcasts there are several shorter news periods.

Broadcasts from Paris in English include a daily period under auspices of the American Legion. The German short wave reports are of course in sharp contrast to those of Paris and London with regard to claims.

Moscow is again broadcasting in English to American listeners at 7:15 o'clock nightly.

Below is given a schedule of newscasts in English with time [central daylight saving] and frequencies. This list was compiled by the E. H. Scott Radio Laboratories. While the schedule is not complete, the Scott laboratories in releasing it announced that it represents the transmissions and frequencies most clearly received currently in Chicagoland.

FAVORITE SONGS TO BE PRESENTED BY NORTHERNERS

The Northerners, under the direction of Harry S. Walsh, will present a program of favorite ballads at 9:30 p. m. Tuesday on W-G-N. Irene Verner, soprano, will be the featured soloist. Miss Verner will sing the popular "Zigeuner" from Noel Coward's "Bittersweet." The octet will sing "All Day in the Prairie," "150th Psalm," and "My Heart's in the Highland." The entire Northerners cast will join in selections from "Katinka."

Ruth Carhart to Sing on Bowes Family Hour

Ruth Carhart, soprano of radio and the stage, will be a special guest of Maj. Edward Bowes during his "Family Hour" on WIND and the Columbia Broadcasting system from 10:30 to 11 a. m. today. Regular members of the Bowes "family," including Nicholas Cosentino, Sam Herman, Charles Magnante, and Dalton Brother's trio with Waldo Mayo's orchestra will be heard as usual.

PLAN GRADUATION PROGRAM FOR 264 AT NORTH PARK

Baccalaureate Will Open Rites This Morning.

Baccalaureate services this morning, a consecration vesper service for seminary graduates, and a picturesque out of door commencement under the spreading elms of the college front lawn is the busy schedule of graduation activities today and tomorrow for 264 members of the North Park college graduating class. Of these, 72 are high school seniors who will receive diplomas from North Park academy.

Miss Rosalie Nieft, 4347 North Lowell avenue, will deliver the subcollegiate valedictory address, having earned first honors among academy seniors. Albert Klatt, 2053 Birchwood avenue, will deliver the college valedictory address.

Omaha Pastor to Speak.

This morning at baccalaureate services in the college auditorium, 3224 Foster avenue, the Rev. William Freeman of the First Covenant church, Omaha, will speak on the subject, "The Battle for Truth." The college choir, under the direction of E. Clifford Toren, dean of the school of music, will sing, and Miss Dagmar Gavert of the school of music will play the organ processional and recessional. Later the Rev. Mr. Freeman will address a consecration vesper service for the 12 graduating members of North Park seminary, and Dean N. W. Lund will give the charge to the young ministers.

At commencement exercises tomorrow at 10 o'clock Dr. Bernhard M. Christiansen, president of Augsburg college, Minneapolis, will give the commencement address on the subject, "The Foundation of Freedom."

This Week in the Garden

Monday, June 10.

Plants placed far enough apart should have the soil stirred between them until they cover the ground. It is impossible to cultivate perennials planted close together after the foliage becomes intermingled. Until then consistent cultivation is essential. After the plants touch and the roots fill the soil, summer mulching with peat is an excellent practice. Spent mushroom manure and grass clippings also may be used. Water thru the mulch. Soil for potting should be available at all times. Save weeds and other material and start a compost heap

Tuesday, June 11.

Do not neglect to thin seedlings so that each plant remaining will have room to develop. Annuals do best in mass unless grown in rows in the cutting garden. Flowering plants never attain their full beauty of flower and foliage unless each plant has space to develop. Thinning should be done while the plants are small to avoid disturbing those that remain. Mowing the lawn should be done carefully. The best height to cut is from 1½ to 2 inches unless it is a bent grass lawn, which is cut very low and often. All beds and walks should be kept edged. Keep shrubs within bounds and vines securely fastened in place.

Wednesday, June 12.

Pansies require a rich, mellow soil and if partial shade can be given it will prolong their flowering period. Never allow seed to form. Pick all flowers occasionally to rest the plants and later in the season trim back the growths to encourage new, vigorous growth. Mulch the bed during hot weather and never allow the soil to become excessively dry. Water when the plants need water and not before. Soak the ground to a depth of five inches for established plants. Water early in the morning to enable the foliage to dry off before night and avoid the likelihood of attacks by fungous diseases. Sprinkling the lawn only results in shallow rooting. Soak the lawn to encourage deep rooting.

Thursday, June 13.

Plants in window boxes must be watered daily. Allow the water to soak thru the drainage holes in the bottom of the box, if it is of wood; if it is self-watering learn by experience when to water. A moist upper surface indicates that the soil is moist thruout. Tuberous begonias may be planted in a shady location. Use a well drained soil, fairly light. It is not too late to plant bedding plants, such as cannas, ageratum, geraniums, heliotrope, salvia, and numerous other kinds. Cannas are among the finest flowering plants for average backgrounds, and they may be obtained in green or bronze foliage with yellow or red blooms. They need heat, rich soil, and plenty of water. Be sure to sow vines along the fences. Why not try gourds?

Friday, June 14.

Feed the amaryllis bulbs to obtain good, strong plants for next season's blooming. Keep all newly planted fruit trees, shade trees, and shrubs well mulched. Water thru the mulch. Sow the seeds of perennials to obtain strong plants for next autumn. It is an excellent plan to assign a plot of ground as a seedbed. Provide lath shade to be used whenever necessary. Have a sprinkling can at hand for watering. Keep the blooms cut on coreopsis. Do not allow sweet peas to go to seed. Pick the flowers each morning for use indoors. Mulch these plants and watch for plant lice.

Saturday, June 15.

This is rose month. Liquid manure applied to roses is very beneficial; a complete commercial food is easily obtained and contains more food than organic manures. Dust sulphur on roses for mildew. Disbud roses for large display blooms. Vegetable crops that are grown for the foliage should be fed nitrogen. Tie up the leaves of cauliflower to obtain choice white heads. Tomatoes will ripen more uniformly if they are staked. Control leaf eating worms with a stomach poison.

DOCTOR'S SUITE LOSES SEVERITY IN REMODELING

Reception Lounge Made Like Living Room.

BY LOUISE BARGELT.

The fine art of modernization is by no means confined to homes or to apartments.

A handsome and interesting change has been effected in the Monroe building, 104 South Michigan avenue, Chicago. It is the modernization of a suite of physicians' offices, the treatment in the contemporary style with modern Swedish furnishings.

The work of the modernization was put into the hands of the architects, Hooper and Nelson, 118 East 26th street, Chicago, and these architects carried out their appointed task with a wise understanding of their clients' wishes.

In the offices of many modern physicians and surgeons there is now seen a trend away from the extreme severity of past years—as there is likewise in hospitals a distinct trend away from unrelieved white. This is a recognition of the fact that the state of mind of a nervous, sick patient can often be calmed and steadied in an atmosphere of quiet, harmonious colors, and furnishings which are beautifully simple, and in fine style.

Like Living Room.

In this particular physicians' suite the reception room has been treated in the manner of a gracious, hospitable living room in a private home or apartment.

Three of the walls have been painted a soft green, while the fireplace wall is papered with a deep green, hand blocked paper, with a primitive motif. This aboriginal note blends well with the natural wood trim, and the brown rubber tile floor which affords the feel of warm earth.

The wide, striking fireplace has a natural wood mantel in oak with modern horizontal fluting across the top. The hearth is of black marble, the andirons of highly polished brass. Further accent is given to the primitive by the "Balinese" figure on the mantel and the etchings on the wall, which are framed in natural wood and show glimpses of sky and trees and water.

The room is lighted entirely by lamps, and there is a capacious unit seat in the center of the room of butterscotch yellow, a warm, happy tone. The chairs are a gray-green leather with ambered mahogany legs, and on the table is a highly polished brass lamp.

Block Veneer Walls.

While this reception room has the spirit of a living room the consultation room has the atmosphere of a library. The block veneered walls are of Japanese exotic wood in rich shades of tan. The floor is covered with a sand toned carpet, and the trim is a natural oak, treated with a white filler to lighten it and achieve a perfect harmony between trim and walls.

The desk is of ambered mahogany, with fluorescent lighting, and the chairs are upholstered in gray-green leather. Here the ceiling is a grayish pink, and the pictures on the walls are gay water color sketches, introducing lively tones of greens and yellows and reds. There are green drapes at the windows, and the light gray diagonal line in these drapes is caught and carried into the pale gray of the Venetian blinds and tapes.

There are four examining rooms, and the architects have carried out their decorations with the same delightful attention to color harmony and detail. In one we find the walls an Egyptian tan, with a pale green ceiling. The furniture is of the same fine ambered mahogany as is seen in the consultation room and reception room, and upholstered in gray-green tones.

Flush Type Doors.

The doors are the flush type with linoleum floor in tile pattern, the grays and whites in the pattern in harmony with the natural oak woodwork and Venetian blinds. In another examining room the color scheme is reversed, the walls are green and the ceiling is an Egyptian tan.

In this suite there is also an adjoining small reception office with Egyptian tan walls, an X-ray room and a laboratory.

Bus Line Hearing.

Representatives of more than 35 civic organizations on the northwest side will attend a hearing on a petition for the extension of bus service on Narragansett and Bryn Mawr avenues Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock in the chambers of the Illinois Commerce commission, 160 North La Salle street.

News and Queries Within and Without the Church
A Religious Voice of the People — Edited by the Rev. John Evans

Half a million members of the Evangelical Lutheran Augustana synod thruout the world are thinking about "the forgotten woman" who founded the first church of the synod which now is 80 years old. Their attention will be turned today to the village of Andover about 30 miles south of Rock Island on Illinois highway 81.

Thousands of Augustana Lutherans will converge at Andover today and a large section of the caravan is going from Rock Island where the 80th anniversary of the founding of the synod is being marked by the closing day's session of synodical convention.

The caravan will stop at a grave marker, a simple shaft on which is carved the closed hand with index finger pointing heavenward, beneath which "the forgotten woman" rests in an 84 cent home made coffin. The inscription is: Amalia Planting-Gyllenboga Esbjorn.

Dr. E. E. Ryden of Rock Island, editor the the Lutheran Companion, summarized the dramatic story of Mrs. Esbjorn in a paragraph. It follows:

'Today a service will be held at Andover, the little hamlet which is the cradle of the Augustana synod. Here lies the mother of the synod, a woman of Swedish noble birth who crossed the seas with her husband to found the Swedish church in the new world: lost two of her babes during the journey; nursed her husband in Chicago after he had contracted cholera while ministering to his countrymen during the epidemic of October, 1849; built the first parsonage of the Augustana synod with her own funds; sent her husband on a mision to the east to see Jenny Lind and others to obtain money with which to build the first Augustana Lutheran church [still standing]; died in childbirth less than three years after her arrival in Andover, and was buried in a coffin costing 84 cents, made from boards intended for the new church. She might be called "The Forgotten Woman" of the Augustana synod."

The entire story of pastor and Mrs. Esbjorn's founding of the Augustana church in America some day will be written in full. It ought to be preserved. It would tell of first attempts to provide for spiritual needs of Swedish immigrants in Delaware, Pennsylvania and New Jersey, thru affiliation of Swedish Lutheran and Episcopal leadership.

The story would also tell of Jenny Lind's $1,500 gift to Pastor Esbjorn's church, but it would not omit gifts from Chicago Norwegian and German Lutheran pastors such as the Rev. Peter Anderson and the Rev. Dr. William A. Passavant of Passavant Memorial hospital, which he founded in 1865 as the Emergency hospital.

"Boards to Mrs. Esbjorn's coffin, 42 ft., 0.84."

The boards were owned by the congregation, having been purchased for the church building. The cash record shows that the church was reinbursed for the lumber.

Dr. Emmy Evald, founder and president of the Women's Missionary society of the Lutheran Augustana synod, writing of Amalia Esbjorn, says:

"In the Lord's name, Mrs. Esbjorn became the mother of the Augustana synod. She should never be forgotten."

Note:—Altho the Esbjorns founded the first Augustana church, the actual founding of the synod did not take place until 1860 or 8 years after Mrs. Esbjorn's death.

VETERANS ADOPT STAND AGAINST FIFTH COLUMN

Honack Post Offers 'Aid to Government.

Henry A. Honack post, Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States, recently adopted resolutions offering the service of its members to the President for any duty that may be assigned in assisting the constituted authority to quell subversive activities.

The resolutions cite that the United States of America is threatened by enemies of our form of government, both within our borders and in Europe, and that a large organization of men who have served in the armed forces in other times of danger is sworn to uphold and defend the Constitution which is the safeguard of our liberties.

C. M. Kendig is commander of the post, and C. J. Graff is adjutant.

Custom House post will hold its first election of officers Tuesday night in court room 1123 of the County building. The post is recruited from employés of the customs service and other government departments in the custom house. The post's organizers are George Longakier, acting commander; Stanley Gutouski, acting quartermaster, and Timothy Mc Inerney, acting adjutant.

Jane A. Delano post will install officers at a dinner meeting at 6:45 o'clock tomorrow at Adelard's restaurant, 185 North Wabash avenue.

Officers recently elected by Jewish War Veterans of the United States, department of Illinois, are Rudolph Shapira, commander; Louis Cohen, senior vice commander; Charles H. Bournstine, junior vice commander; Dr. Lewis H. Lippman, surgeon; Leo Wulfsohn, judge advocate; Joseph R. Rosenblum, chaplain; David H. Fass, quartermaster, and Harry Shaffer, adjutant.

The department is composed of Gen. Edward S. Solomon post on the north side, Gen. Abel Davis on the west side, and Gen. Milton J. Foreman post on the south side. Plans are being discussed for the forming of additional posts in Chicago.

The next regular meeting of Surface Lines unit will be held Wednesday night at the Morrison hotel. Election of officers will take place.

PATRIOTS TO SALUTE FLAG FRIDAY

HINSDALE OPENS QUALITY HORSE SHOW SATURDAY

Enter Fine Animals in Two Day Event.

West side and west suburban residents will dominate the scene as contenders and spectators at the 11th annual Hinsdale Horse show to be staged next Saturday and Sunday on one of the Oak Brook polo fields at York road just north of 31st street.

Thirty-seven classes of competition are listed for the four sessions on the morning and afternoon of each day. Walter P. Saunders, president of the Hinsdale Horse Show association, said the event had attracted more quality entrants than ever before. In line with tradition, proceeds will go to charitable activities of the Junior Infant Welfare society.

List of Classes.

Of the 37 classes listed, seven will be for three gaited saddle horses, five for five gaited saddle horses, eight for hunters, six for jumpers, seven for horsemanship, and four for local equestrianship.

Special events in addition to the competitive classes include drills by the Kuban Cossacks, and an exhibition by Capt. William F. Kirby astride his trick jumping horse, El Lobo. The horse has been trained by Capt. Kirby and Lieut. John L. Kracke of the Black Horse squadron. The Kuban Cossacks are likewise a presentation of the squadron, and was originated by Sergt. Robert L. Rigg of that organization.

Officers of the Hinsdale Horse Show association, in addition to Mr. Saunders, are James A. Hannah, Robert L. Hasbrook and William E. Hill, vice presidents; E. Porter Essley, secretary and chairman of the open entries committee; Albert T. Huizinga, treasurer, and Mrs. O. W. Campbell, executive secretary.

Heads Advisory Group.

Paul Butler heads the advisory committee. The executive committee is made up of the officers and the following:

Mrs. Robert P. Gordon, who is also president of the Junior Infant Welfare society; Mrs. Junius F. Cooke Jr., Mrs. Palmer C. Boothby, James Emmett Jr., John V. A. Hasbrook, Mr. and Mrs. Horace B. Hench, Mrs. H. H. Holcomb Jr., Roy D. Keehn Jr., W. W. Kimball, John McC. Price, Theophilus Noel 2d, Harry O. Owen Jr., Frank J. Schaefer, and Julian Tilton.

President Saunders again will occupy his place in the official box and act as narrator thruout the show.

PEONY GROWERS OF MIDWEST TO HOLD EXHIBITION

Mrs. William Beaudry.

The pride of peony hybridizers from Ohio, Kentucky, Indiana, Illinois, and Michigan will fill the 18,000 square feet of horticultural hall of Garfield Park conservatory Saturday and next Sunday. It will be the regional show of the American Peony society of Chicago staged in coöperation with the Midwest Horticultural society.

Men and women who spend hours of their leisure time trying to capture a particular pink blush on a peony or a certain size bloom will exhibit new hybrids or seedlings.

The peony luncheon, of which Mrs. William Beaudry is chairman, will be held at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon in the Graemere hotel. There will be vocal solos by Mrs. Robert T. Van Tress. Guests will be garden leaders from all parts of the central west.

Mrs. Frank C. Lambert is general chairman of the show and W. F. Christman is secretary. He is also secretary of the American Peony society. Eldrid Green of the Garfield park staff is registrar. The judges' clerks are E. C. Freed, Mrs. Beatrice E. Harms, Mrs. Frank Maresh Jr., Mrs. Walter J. Scott, Mrs. H. M. Nelson, and Mrs. Fred Haines.

14 IMMIGRANTS FINISH COURSE AT INSTITUTE

Fourteen immigrants, residents of the United States for one or two years, were graduated last week from the Peoples Elementary school of the Jewish People's institute, 3500 Douglas boulevard. Diplomas were awarded after a course in American politics, social customs, history, and literature.

Field trips to newspaper plants, industrial sites, municipal buildings, and museums made up the major part of the program.

Members of the graduating class were Tania Silverman, Betty Manaster, Gertrude Libbin, Ralph Kosobudsky, Joseph Levitan, Rose Haspel, Baruch Wild, Jack Warshawsky, Jeanette Unger, Estelle Silvergelt, Mary Press, Morris Rose, Ephraim Kaplan, and Irwin Casper.

Shooting Club Moves Thrice, but Survives

BY JOHN T. McCUTCHEON JR.

The Chicagoland Gun club has had to move from three different locations in its 14 years of existence. After being transported twice, the good old clubhouse wasn't what it used to be: It had lost its fireplace and its stability. When the club's third lease was canceled to make room for a subdivision, it was clear that the clubhouse would either have to stay where it was, in peace, or end in pieces.

But did the club give up? Not at all. On the contrary the new clubhouse is built in portable sections and it has no fireplace to leave behind. Thru this perseverance the Chicagoland Gun club, with about 120 members, has become one of the foremost skeet clubs of the middlewest. The support which its members have given to the organization of the Sportsmen's Defense Reserve is therefore regarded as of great value.

Aids National Defense.

The purpose of the Reserve is the registration of the nation's millions of amateur marksmen for use in case of a national emergency. The formation of the Illinois division of the Reserve is now well advanced under the direction of Walter C. Peacock, State street merchant and sportsman. After attending the preliminary meeting, Clarence Sheehan, president of the Chicagoland Gun club, expressed his indorsement of the program.

The club was formed in 1926 by members of the Forest Park chapter of the Izaak Walton league who wanted to shoot over the traps. The movement was originated by the late Dr. John Warner, then president of the chapter; John Pilkington, Harry Behm, and Dr. John Y. Hurdle of Maywood, and Paul Diebold of River Forest. Originally the membership embraced that of the league chapter, about 350 persons.

Takes Up Skeet.

Skeet shooting was being developed at about this time and the club immediately took up the new sport, a more advanced and difficult outgrowth of trap shooting, thus becoming the first club in this part of the country devoted to skeet shooting.

The club's first site was at Cermak road on the west bank of the Des Plaines river in North Riverside. Here the members built their first clubhouse of wood—plus a big stone fireplace. Things went well for four years, by which time the neighborhood had become too thickly settled and the club found itself exposed to vandalism.

So a lease was obtained on land just a mile north, at Roosevelt road and the river, in Maywood. This, too, lasted for four years. Then there were too many buildings nearby and the rent went up.

Again They Move.

The house was then subjected to a second major operation which left it on Roosevelt road south of Elmhurst, a five mile journey. At the same time the business depression made it necessary to put membership on a financial basis, money hitherto only having been collected from fees. When the smoke blew away there were nearly 100 paying members and that figure remained fairly steady. Nonmembers have been allowed to use the club's facilities.

In 1937 this land was sold for subdivision, and the present six acre site on Grand avenue a mile west of Franklin Park was chosen. Here a new one room electrified frame clubhouse was built. The equipment consists of four skeet fields and three traps. In the last year more than 175,000 targets were broken, most of them by nonmembers, who have used the club more and more.

The present officers are Mr. Sheehan, president; Mr. Diebold, secretary and treasurer, and Dr. Hurdle and Mr. Behm, directors.

TEMPLARS PLAN INSTALLATION FOR TOMORROW

New officers of Chicago Commandery, No. 19, Knights Templar, will be installed at 8 o'clock tomorrow night at an open meeting at 32 West Randolph street. Henry R. Lundblad, past grand state commander, will be the installing officer. George C. Norris, past commander of the Chicago commandery, will be grand marshal.

Those to be inducted are Fred L. J. Herrmann, commander; Jerry J. Blecha, generalissimo; Harry P. Falknor, captain general; Archie O. Colenbaugh, senior warden; William H. Dunkak, junior warden; Oscar F. Modene, prelate; Murray A. Stillwaugh, treasurer; Henry R. Lundblad, recorded; Carl H. Boettcher, sword bearer; Carl Ketel, warder; Edward R. Shafer, color bearer, and Ralph W. Wilder, sentinel.

Members of the finance board are George C. Norris, Jerry J. Blecha, Walter Woldhausen, Lee Millner, and Fred L. J. Herrmann. Music will be supplied by the Chicago commandery band. Refreshments will be served by the ladies auxiliary.

Amateur Theater Groups to Join for Season's End

The amateur theatrical season in Riverside will be brought to a close this week when three companies join in presenting three one act plays in the community's first annual drama festival, sponsored by St. Mary's Catholic church. Performances will be held Monday and Friday nights in the church auditorium. An original play, "Missa Magenta," written by Norbert Hruby of Riverside, will be presented by the St. Mary's Drama guild. Shakespeare Stories will be given by the Cisca Alumni players.

Artists' Daughters to Be Waitresses

Artists' daughters will be drafted as waitresses and the best paintings will be given away as prizes at the annual Austin, Oak Park, and River Forest Art league benefit on Tuesday afternoon. The porches and lawns of Mills park, Oak Park, will be decorated for the bridge party, which is held to earn money to pay for the art education of some talented boy or girl. Mrs. Albert J. Pohlman is president of the league and Mrs. Carl S. Junge is social chairman. Among the daughters who will serve are, left to right, Helen Sawler, Priscilla Thompson, and Betty Berry.

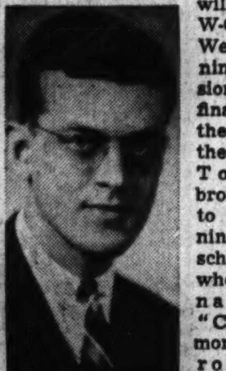
Honor Pupils to Be Heard on 'Citizen' Show



Dean W. H. Conley.

The voices of 50 of those who carry the great hopes of the middle west will be heard on W-G-N next Wednesday evening. The occasion will be the final program of the first series of the "Citizens of Tomorrow" broadcasts from 7 to 7:30 that evening. The high school students who have been named to the "Citizens of Tomorrow" honor roll will give their names, home towns, and tell of their ambitions during the show.

Fifty students from the middlewest have been named to the roll and they will be the special guests of Chicago when they come to town for the final broadcast.

Students to Attend.

The broadcast will be from the W-G-N audience studio and will be attended by 600 students from Wright Junior college. Dean William H. Conley of the college will lead the delegation of students and have a seat on the platform.

The college mixed chorus will be heard in three songs including the school song, "Fight Wright, Fight!" Morton Haas, Bob Riis, and Inez Richland will lead the students in cheering.

Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE TRIBUNE, will speak briefly.

Guests on List.

Following the broadcast, Philip Maxwell, a member of THE TRIBUNE'S editorial staff, who plays the rôle of "The Principal" in the show, will introduce several special guests, including James B. McCahey, president of the board of education; Dr. William H. Johnson, superintendent of the Chicago public schools, and Miss Helen Howe, director of music, and Harold Kent, director of the radio council, both of the public schools.

The members of the honor roll will come from 30 cities and towns of the Chicagoland states. A number of events have been arranged for their entertainment.

At 1 o'clock they will be guests of the Junior Association of Commerce at a luncheon in the La Salle hotel and at 3 o'clock will be given an airplane ride over Chicago in a big TWA plane. Then at 5 o'clock the Chicago Woman's club is entertaining them at supper in the clubhouse at 72 East 11th street.

To Confirm 32.

A class of 32 children will be confirmed at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning in Temple Beth Israel, 4850 North Bernard street. Rabbi S. Felix Mendelsohn will conduct the services.

BERWYN BOY CHOSEN AMONG 10 IN NATION FOR STUDY AT U. S. C.

Robert Becker.

Robert John Becker, 2438 South Kenilworth avenue, Berwyn, recently was notified by the University of Southern California, Los Angeles, that he is one of 10 junior college students in the United States who has been selected for a 1940-'41 scholarship. Robert graduated with honors from the Piper public school in Berwyn and from Morton High school as well as from Morton Junior college this year. At the junior college, he has been president of the Men's club, captain of the baseball team, and active in student government and social affairs. He plans to specialize in business administration and accounting.

WOMEN WILL AID SALVATION ARMY DOUGHNUT DAY

Early in the morning on Tuesday before the thousands of city workers have had their breakfasts, wives of bankers and factory workers, attorney's wives and women of every career and creed will leave their homes to sell doughnuts on the street corners. But the doughnuts will be made of paper. They are a symbol of Salvation Army service for the needy in Chicago.

Hundreds of west side women are in the line-up of volunteers who have enrolled to assist the Women's division of the Salvation Army in its annual tag day. Mrs. Henry Paschen, 345 Fullerton parkway, is doughnut chairman.

Doughnut day is an annual one day financial campaign to raise funds for Salvation Army activities which most directly aid women and children. The principal beneficiary this year will be the Army's fresh air camp at Antioch, Ill.

Other Army projects that will share in the drive are the settlement at 3053 Normal avenue, the emergency lodge, 1230 West Adams street, which gives temporary refuge to women and children in need, and the home and hospital at 5040 North Pulaski road, where unwed mothers are given care.

The Doughnut day colonels received their final instructions at a luncheon last Wednesday. West side women in this group are Mrs. Ann Florence, 2252 South Keeler avenue; Miss Lauretta Stanton, 921 South Ashland avenue; Mrs. Emily Wencl, 4242 West 21st place, and Mrs. H. H. Wolowska, 1309 North Ashland avenue.

West side women enrolled as captains are Brigadier Esther Ahnstrom, Capt. G. Lucille Alfveby, Mrs. Frank S. Bernstein, Mrs. Martha Biechner, Mrs. V. V. Bradley, Mrs. Esther Dahl, Mrs. Della Dettmer, Miss Gertrude Doederlein, Maj. Christian Dragsbak, Miss M. I. Hallead, and Mrs. Ruth Hulbert.

West Suburbs ArtLeagueHas PartyTuesday

Some boy or girl who likes to draw pictures will be glad that the Austin, Oak Park, and River Forest Art league is having a party. Proceeds from this annual event to be held at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon in Mills park, Oak Park, will pay for a scholarship to the Art institute of Chicago.

Prizes at the bridge tables will be paintings donated by artist members of the club. A picture by Cornelia Weyburn, floral painter, will be included. Mrs. Carl S. Junge is social chairman of the Art league and Mrs. Albert J. Pohlman is its president.

Expect 600 Guests.

More than 600 persons are expected to attend the party. The entire first floor of the Mills house, the porches, and the lawns will be filled with tables. Mrs. Frederic Bradshaw is chairman of tickets.

Other chairmen are Mrs. Averil Courtney Conwell, door prizes; Mrs. Alice Wheeler Somers, refreshments; Mrs. Leslie Joslyn, tables and chairs; Mrs. William D. Dawler, cards and tallies; Mrs. Helen Hudson Below, decorations; Mrs. Bruce Thompson, social director; Mrs. Sidney Hix, table prizes; Mrs. Etta Garson, pictures and Mrs. Kathryn Yager Lewis, publicity.

Others Who Will Assist.

Also assisting are Mrs. Alex Innes, Mrs. Louis Kullman, Mrs. William Wood, Mrs. Cornelia Weyburn, Mrs. J. G. E. Puerkel, Mrs. M. E. Berry, and Mrs. M. V. Lilliston.

The art league which has its headquarters at 520 Chicago avenue, Oak Park, annually pays the tuition of some high school student who wants to continue art study.

EQUESTRIAN CLUB HOLDS ITS ANNUAL BREAKFAST RIDE

About 200 men and women horsemen last Sunday took part in the annual breakfast ride of the Town and Country Equestrian association. The ride of ten miles started and ended at Division No. 5 at Palos Park forest preserve.

The ride was under the direction of a committee headed by John A. Klein, a director in the association. Other members of the committee include J. M. Fitzgerald, Merton Ketchum, Mrs. H. M. L. The Kalomi club, an Elmhurst organization whose name is derived from the first letters of Knights and Ladies of Mary Immaculate, will hold a summer formal dance Friday evening in the Itasca Country club, Itasca. Lawrence W. Raredon, committee chairman, is assisted by Miss Gertrude M. Knicker, ticket chairman; George A. Becker, orchestra; Betty J. Downey, publicity.

OUR TOWN

Paragraphs About Some Folks You Know.

CARL O. BUE JR., Downers Grove, was graduated from the Shattuck Military school, Faribault, Minn., last week. He is cadet major of his battalion and president of the Officers' club and a letterman in baseball and basketball. Young Bue has won military efficiency medals as private and non-commissioned officer and is a member of Cum Laude, the national preparatory school honorary scholastic society. He was editor in chief of the Shattuck Spectator, the school weekly newspaper, and associate editor of the Shad, the annual published by the senior class.

Carl O. Bue.

MISS VIOLA SAUL, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Saul, 2405 South Cuyler avenue, Berwyn, will become a registered nurse today at the graduating exercises in the chapel of St. Anthony de Padua hospital. Miss Saul is a graduate of Morton High school. In the annual shorthand contest sponsored by the order of Gregg Artists, the first prize, a silver loving cup, was won by Mrs. Emma A. Ronge, 3510 South Ridgeland avenue, Berwyn.

Miss Viola Saul.

Steve Ratajack of the Chicago Park district's duplicating department, who typed up to 5,000 pages of specifications on the Outer Drive bridge, has resigned. His next job will be in the record division of the Municipal court. Mr. Ratajack was appointed a clerk on Jan. 1, 1935, and in May of the same year became duplicating machine operator. His home is at 1619 West Garfield boulevard.

AMONG the fifteen boys and girls who will be confirmed this morning in the Washington Boulevard temple, Washington boulevard and Karlov avenue, will be Miss Esther Meyer. Miss Meyer is coming back for old time's sake, for she was confirmed in 1880, and tribute will be paid her by a place in the parade. A choir of 100 children's voices will be a feature of the program. The confirmation will be conducted at 10 o'clock by Samuel Schwartz, rabbi, and W. Gunther Plaut, assistant.

The new president of the Delta Upsilon fraternity at Brown university is Harold A. Stege, son of Mrs. Emma Stege, 307 South Elmwood avenue, Oak Park. Harold is a former Oak Park-River Forest High school student.

At 8 o'clock this evening Fred Vitullo, violin teacher, will present his pupils in a recital in the Auditorium building. In the group will be his own 10 year old daughter, Gloria, who has been playing the violin for six years.

Twelve new officers were recently elected by Sigma Chi fraternity at Cornell university. Among them is Fraser Scholes, 225 South Scoville avenue, Oak Park, mechanical engineer, who was named treasurer.

SUBURBAN CHEST HOLDS $44,394, REPORT REVEALS

There is $44,394.92 in the Oak Park and River Forest community chest. At the annual meeting held recently in the Oak Park club the financial report was read and a new board of governors elected.

The chairman of the board for the 1940-'41 campaign is Ernest L. Hartig. Mr. Hartig resides at 703 Linden avenue, Oak Park. Waldo B. Ames, River Forest, was chosen as chairman of the 1940-'41 financial drive.

The new chairman succeeds G. Willard Hales who has been chairman of the chest since its founding five years ago.

Mr. Hales was named vice chairman. Others are S. H. Gregory, treasurer; Chester D. Seftenberg, chairman of the budget-finance committee, and Clyde E. Shorey, chairman of the legal committee. Mrs. Robert E. Cantwell Jr., Sampson Rogers Jr., Mr. Hales and Waldo B. Ames were elected to the board of governors for three years.

Mr. Seftenberg reported on the chest's financial condition. The listed assets of $44,394.92 is made up of $32,887.34 cash on hand and in bank, together with receivables of $9,032.42 to be collected from the 1939-'40 campaign and $2,475.16 to be collected from the 1938-'39 campaign.

The estimated chest expense for June, July, August, and September is $3,000 and the agency allotments payable total $29,626.88.

PARADES OPEN OBSERVANCE IN WESTERN AREA

Legion, Elks Unite in Preparations.

BY ONEY FRED SWEET.

With hearts beating a bit more briskly from patriotic fervor and with reflections sobered by world crisis, residents of the west side and west suburban communities will observe Flag day Friday. While the natal day of the flag, June 14, 1777, has been celebrated each year by display of the Stars and Stripes in schools and by public programs, those in charge of activities say the ceremonies will be more impressive than any held in the past.

In the Lawndale community, plans have been completed for the greatest Flag day parade ever assembled in the neighborhood. The parade, starting at 8 p. m., will be under the direction of Arthur Schimmel, who, as chairman, will have the coöperation of local American Legion groups.

The procession will form at 7 o'clock at Albany avenue and Roosevelt road, and will move west to Homan avenue, south to Douglas boulevard, and east to Douglas park where a large gathering will greet the marchers.

Scouts in Parade.

According to orders issued by George Goodman, commander of Douglas Park-Michael Rosenberg post of the American Legion, Boy Scout troops will be under the supervision of Isadore Granastein, and Sons of the American Legion will be led by their state commander, Joseph R. Dorfman. Business men of the locality will join in the parade. All Legion posts of the 5th district have been invited to participate.

The American flag, "badge of the nation's greatness and the emblem of its destiny," will lead the parade, followed by the Legion and Boy Scout flags. Music will be provided by drum and bugle corps and a Scotch bagpipe band.

Americanism talks will be given by Ellidor Libonati, Cook county Americanization officer of the American Legion, and Dr. Dorph Brown, dean of Herzl Junior college.

In Oak Park, the annual Flag day service will be held Friday night at 7:15 o'clock under auspices of Oak Park Elks lodge.

"In these days of upset world conditions the patriotic significance of Flag day in the United States of America should at once be apparent to every loyal American," said Harry Busscher, exalted ruler of the lodge.

Starts at Village Hall.

The ceremony will begin at the Oak Park municipal building where L. N. Bittinger, state commander of the American Legion, will speak. Commander Bittinger will be welcomed by James A. Howe, village president and honorary chairman of Flag day.

Constituting a guard of honor, Oak Park post, Charles A. Roth post, Chicago Police post, Melin-Romer post, and Norman J. Cornwall squadron will escort distinguished guests to the Elk's clubhouse. Here a procession will be formed and move to Scoville park, Lake street and Oak Park avenue, where the Elks ritualistic Flag day ceremony will be conducted.

The Oak Park lodge has been designated as the official organization for the observance of Flag day by President Howe. Local musical organizations will take part in concerts and drills.

Officers of the Oak Park lodge who will conduct the ritualistic work assisted by past exalted rulers are Harry Busscher, exalted ruler; John Aldridge, esteemed leading knight; James McNulty, esteemed loyal knight; George Thornton, esteemed lecturing knight; J. F. M. O'Neill, secretary, and Charles E. Gawne, treasurer. Roy Seibel is chairman of the Flag day committee, and Frank Carney will be parade marshal.

Meeting in Austin.

"The Voice of the Flag" will be the topic of an address Tuesday morning at 11:30 o'clock by Frank L. Wood at a meeting of the Missionary society of the Austin Methodist church, Race and Central avenues. The meeting will be a Flag day program which the society observes every year under the direction of Mrs. Edward G. Snodgrass, a past president of the society. There will be music, and a luncheon will follow the program.

Under the chairmanship of Fred C. Runge, Elmhurst will hold its fourth annual Flag day celebration next Sunday, with the local lodge of Elks as sponsor. Last year, a feature of the program was the dedication of a city flag pole.

The celebration will start at 2:30 p. m. with the formation of a parade at 3d and Addison streets. The line of march will be south to Wilder Park, scene of a ritualistic service conducted by Clyne C. Chambers, exalted ruler of the Elmhurst Elks lodge. The speaker will be Joseph M. Cooke, president of the Illinois State Elks association.

Nine flags, beginning with the first flag flown on American soil and coming down to the stars and stripes of today, are included in the ritual.

The Chinese Boy Scout band, Naperville Municipal band, Elmhurst Elementary school band, and the York High school band will take part in the parade.

Voice of the West Side

Readers of the Metropolitan Section are invited to contribute to this column on matters of neighborhood interest. Readers should confine themselves to 200 or 300 words. Full names and addresses must be given. No manuscripts will be returned. Address Voice of the West Side, The Tribune.

MERCHANDISE ON SIDEWALKS.

I do declare that clean-up campaign didn't do the west side a bit of good. I went by a store on Roosevelt road the other day and the grocer had everything but his counter on the street.

Chickens cackled at me as I went by and I fell over the orange crate. I tore my stockings on an apple barrel. Why can't grocers keep their produce inside and give me room to park my baby carriage when I come to buy?

MRS. MARTIN.

SHE APPRECIATES FLOWER SHOWS.

I think these flower shows the women have are awfully nice. It gives the women a fine social afternoon, too. I have had such a time with my grass seed, never knew just what kind to buy and how to coax my lawn along.

Now I have a beautiful lawn because of some hints I got at a flower show held in Oak Park last year. I'm all for them and wish I could go to one every week because the exhibits are an inspiration for me to do better in my own garden.

A LOVER OF FLOWERS.

SAFETY PATROL BOYS TO INVADE WOODS SATURDAY

First Unit to Encamp Near Lake Villa.

Boys who stood in the rain and snow last winter will get some summer sunshine beginning Saturday. On that day the first contingent of school safety patrol boys from the west area will leave for one of the three camps near Lake Villa. They are the winners of the free week in camp awards of the Chicago Motor club and were assigned to camp by Charles M. Hayes, president.

A downstate group from the 750 winners named by civic committees in Illinois and Indiana went to camp yesterday. Indiana boys will have their own camp near Muskegon, Mich., on June 22 and safety patrol girls will have a camp from June 18 to 28 near Elgin.

First Group Named.

Boys who will set out for Camp Hastings Saturday from the west area are Francis Crecechtel, August Nighiore, Eugene A. Layton, Bernard Korzak, Joseph Marcello, James Maley, James Kulawiak, James Vavruska, Albert Ehlschlaeger, Frank Smith, John Lukes, Harley Wallney, Fred Sustman, Richard Koci, Gordon Moore, Ronald J. Sladek, Laddie Dufka, Edward Vilim, Robert Palmer, Harold Hawkins, Roland Schmitt, John Roberts, William Lemka, Arthur M. Stillman, and Horace Mann.

Campers from the west area who will visit Camp Cutten from June 17 to June 24 are Gus Lamesch and Ben Bubis.

Others Who Won Outing.

The boys who will go to Camp Hastings from June 22 to 29 are Jack Lanenga, John Fonzino, Frank Pero, Frank Ventura, Eric Paul Hansen, Charles Hubbard, William Phagan, Bernard Chud, Anthony Varchetto, Thomas McNamara, Hubert Mavrinac, Robert Wellhausen, Samuel Schachtman, Salvatore Peluso, James Pascento, Earl Berman, John Penchoff, Norman Krieman, Earl Hulka, and Victor Berndt. Addison Kennon will go to Camp Wabash in Michigan from July 27 to Aug. 8.

FOUR WEST SIDE COLLEGE GIRLS IN DAISY CHAIN

Four west side young women who are students at the National College of Education in Evanston will be among the 24 sophomores carrying the traditional daisy chain Wednesday afternoon during commencement exercises.

Each year the sophomore class at the college selects its most popular members to escort the seniors to and from graduation ceremonies in Harrison hall. The chain of daisies is a symbol of the unity of classes that have been graduated in the 54 years of the college's history.

West side daisy chain bearers are Elinor Bird, Oak Park; Eleanor Hall, Elmhurst; Gail Hanson, Oak Park, and Patricia Price, Riverside.

FRESHER BLOOMS WILL BE AIM ON NEXT LILAC DAY

Donors Are Likely to Get Sturdy Cartons.

When Chicago's 12th annual "Share Your Lilacs" observance ended nearly two weeks ago with bouquets of lilac blooms by the bedsides of more than 23,000 patients in 152 hospitals, settlement houses, and other institutions that care for the sick and shut-ins, the voluntary workers who made it possible began immediately to plan for lilac days next year.

Officials of the Chicago Plant, Flower, and Fruit guild, who direct the work in coöperation with THE TRIBUNE, feel that there still is one weakness in their system of distributing the flowers—that of getting the bouquets to hospitals in the freshest possible condition.

Gardeners now do a fine job of cutting and handling the fragile blooms, but they do not always have suitable cartons for shipping them. Guild officials are trying to work out a plan to supply lilac donors with sturdy, uniform cartons for sending in the blossoms next year.

More people give lilacs each year. A partial list of this year's contributors appeared in this newspaper last Sunday. Here are others in this region who gave.

SUBURB SCHOOLS READY TO HOLD SUMMER TERMS

Morton High school, Cicero, and Proviso Township High school, Maywood, have announced summer schools. Supt. W. P. MacLean at Morton said the curriculum would be enlarged this summer with the probability that foreign languages, science, cooking, typewriting, and other subjects will be added.

The term will be divided into two semesters of four weeks each, with students limited to one subject a semester. The summer school at Morton will begin tomorrow.

Courses in English, history, mathematics, science, commerce, and music will be offered at the regular summer session at Proviso, according to C. C. Taggart, assistant superintendent. Enrollment will determine what other subjects will be offered. At Proviso, summer school, starting tomorrow, will continue for six weeks until July 19. Classes will start at 8 a. m., daily, and will meet for two hours.

RUBINOFF GUEST TONIGHT ON W-G-N SYMPHONIC HOUR

Small Business Men Will Attend Broadcast.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Rubinoff and his violin will make a guest appearance on the Chicago Tribune symphonic hour from 9 to 10 o'clock tonight. With the famous radio and concert violinist will be featured Marion Claire, Chicago's own soprano, and the W-G-N Symphony orchestra and chorus under the direction of Henry Weber.

Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE TRIBUNE, will be the speaker of the evening.

The Symphonic hour will be broadcast from W-G-N's main studio over the coast to coast Mutual Broadcasting system.

Small Business Men Guests.

Members of the National Small Business Men's association will be W-G-N's guests tonight. United States Senator H. Styles Bridges of New Hampshire and James S. Kemper, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, will accompany the association members.

David Rubinoff is to be featured at the all-Chicago Flag day celebration, which will be held next Wednesday, June 12, in the Grant park bandshell. In this connection, Rubinoff is touring the Chicago public high schools, giving violin concerts. Last Friday he appeared at 12 schools and played before an estimated total of 45,000 school boys and girls.

Music Festival Guest.

Rubinoff was starred in 1937 at the eighth annual Chicagoland Music Festival in Soldiers' field. Two weeks previous to that occasion, he played his 209 year old Stradivarius before a crowd estimated at 225,000 in the Grant park shell.

For the dramatic feature of the evening, the Symphonic hour will present "The Old Spinning Wheel," starring Miss Claire as narrator and soloist. An outstanding dramatic cast and the chorus and the Symphony orchestra will support her. William A. Bacher, director and producer of the program, is the author of this feature.

Back to the Carolinas.

Heard with Miss Claire in the dramatic cast will be Cleveland Towne, De Witt McBride, Bret Morrison, Olan Soule, Alice Hill, and Marie Nelson.

The musical program:

"Rumanian Rhapsody" ......Enesco
Orchestra.
"On Wings of Song"...Mendelssohn
Miss Claire and orchestra.
"Drink to Me Only with Thine Eyes" ....Jonson
Miss Claire, chorus and orchestra.
"Fêtes" ....Debussy
"Dance of the Russian Peasants" ....Rubinoff
Mr. Rubinoff.
Number to be selected by Mr. Rubinoff.
Aria from "Manon Lescaut"..Puccini
Miss Claire and orchestra.
"The Old Spinning Wheel"
..Miss Claire and dramatic cast
Speech ....Col. R. R. McCormick
Themes from "Tannhäuser"..Wagner
Chorus and orchestra.

Rubinoff enjoys a place all his own in musical America. Steering a middle course between popular music and the classics, he has won the masses to an appreciation of violin and orchestral music. As the son of poor workers in Russia he won for himself a violin scholarhip at the Moscow Musical conservatory.

Moves to America.

At the age of 15 his parents took him to America and settled down in Pittsburgh. So great was his musical talent that he was quickly in charge of a school orchestra—this before he had even learned to speak English.

After years of hard work in concert tours he was brought to the attention of Rudy Vallee and from then on his fame was assured.

Eddie Cantor's nation-wide radio program, from 1930 to 1935, with Rubinoff, his violin, and orchestra, made the name of Rubinoff known to millions of Americans.

Play Broadcast

The headliners of Play Broadcast, heard over W-G-N and the Mutual network every Monday from 7 to 7:30 p. m. Left to right: Bob Elson, who does the sports dramatizations; Dorothy Roberts, character actress; Norman Ross, announcer; Murray Forbes, character actor, and Bill Anson, master of ceremonies and impersonations. They give the clews that help listeners win prizes for correct answers.

Guest of W-G-N

David Rubinoff and his violin will make a guest appearance on the Chicago Tribune Symphonic hour from 9 to 10 o'clock tonight over W-G-N and the nationwide network of the Mutual Broadcasting system.

LEHAR THEMES TO BE HEARD ON MELODY PAGEANT

The Pageant of Melody, under the direction of Henry Weber, will feature themes from Franz Lehar, with the singing of Kathryn Witwer, soprano; Attilio Baggiore, tenor, and the octet, from 9:15 to 10 p. m. Wednesday on W-G-N and the Mutual Broadcasting system.

First on the musical program will be selections from Von Flotow's "Martha," to be sung by the octet with the accompaniment of the concert orchestra.

Miss Witwer will sing for her solo, "Summer" by Chaminade. Baggiore will do "La Danza" by Rossini. Miss Witwer and Baggiore will join the octet in the Lehar themes, which include "Vilia," "My Little Nest of Heavenly Blue," and "Gypsy Love."

Orchestral numbers will include "Naila" by Leo Delibes, "Dawn" by Curran, and "Caucasian Sketches" by Ippolitov-Ivanov.

GIVE SCHEDULE OF SHORT WAVE WAR NEWSCASTS

British Air Five Full Reports Daily.

Since the Nazi invasion of the Netherlands, Belgium, and France news casts in English by short-wave from the various capitals of Europe have been considerably increased.

The British Broadcasting corporation is currently sending out five "full news" transmissions daily to America, the first one at 6:30 a. m. and the last at 11 p. m. These usually run about a half hour. In addition to the official BBC bulletins eyewitness accounts by officers and men lately returned from the battle front are often given. Besides the "full" broadcasts there are several shorter news periods.

Broadcasts from Paris in English include a daily period under auspices of the American Legion. The German short wave reports are of course in sharp contrast to those of Paris and London with regard to claims.

Moscow is again broadcasting in English to American listeners at 7:15 o'clock nightly.

Below is given a schedule of newscasts in English with time [central daylight saving] and frequencies. This list was compiled by the E. H. Scott Radio Laboratories. While the schedule is not complete, the Scott laboratories in releasing it announced that it represents the transmissions and frequencies most clearly received currently in Chicagoland.

"YESTERDAYS" TO MAKE ITS BOW ON W-G-N—MUTUAL

A new musical program titled "Yesterdays," under the direction of Harold Stokes, will make its debut over W-G-N and the Mutual network at 9:30 p. m. tomorrow. The show will present music by the W-G-N dance orchestra and Vocalists Kathryn Witwer, soprano, and Wesley Summerfield, tenor.

Opening with the musical theme, "Yesterday," from "Roberta," the program will present a complete dramatization, incorporating popular songs in the script, telling a story of the past.

The musical numbers which will be used in the show are "I Hear You Calling Me," to be sung by Summerfield; "Honeymoon,' and "Suppose I Never Met You," by Summerfield and Miss Witwer; "Italian Street Song," sung by Miss Witwer; and "Song of the Islands," "Negra Consentida," and "Neopolitan Nights."

Supporting Miss Witwer and Summerfield will be the W-GN chorus and a dramatic cast.

Pull the Trigger on Lazy Bowels, and Also Pepsin-ize Stomach!

When constipation brings on acid indigestion, bloating, dizzy spells, gas, coated tongue, sour taste, and bad breath, your stomach is probably loaded up with certain undigested food and your bowels don't move. So you need both Pepsin to help break up fast that rich undigested food in your stomach, and Laxative Senna to pull the trigger on those lazy bowels. So be sure your laxative also contains Pepsin. Take Dr. Caldwell's Laxative, because its Syrup Pepsin helps you gain that wonderful stomach comfort, while the Laxative Senna moves your bowels. Tests prove the power of Pepsin to dissolve those lumps of undigested protein food which may linger in your stomach, to cause belching, gastric acidity and nausea. This is how pepsinizing your stomach helps relieve it of such distress. At the same time this medicine wakes up lazy nerves and muscles in your bowels to relieve your constipation. So see how much better you feel by taking the laxative that also puts Pepsin to work on that stomach discomfort, too. Even finicky children love to taste this pleasant family laxative. Buy Dr. Caldwell's Laxative—Senna with Syrup Pepsin at your druggist today!

THEATER OF AIR OPERETTAS TO RETURN IN FALL

Marion Claire to Star in "Great Waltz" First.

The Chicago Theater of the Air, which presented streamlined operetta productions at intervals of two weeks over W-G-N and the Mutual network this spring, will return with a new series of one hour productions each week starting Saturday, Sept. 14. The fall series will be opened with Marion Claire in "The Great Waltz." Miss Claire was starred in the stage version of this musical success.

Other operettas to be given are "The Vagabond King," "Rogue Song," "Sweethearts," and "My Maryland."

Miss Claire, Chicago's own soprano, will be the feminine star in the subsequent operettas, also. Notable male soloists, including leading operatic and concert stars, will be engaged for the various productions as was the custom for the series recently concluded.

Over Mutual Network.

Dramatic and musical support will be provided by Chicago's best radio actors and by the augmented W-G-N concert orchestra and chorus under the direction of Henry Weber, musical director of W-G-N and artistic director of the Chicago Opera company. All of the Chicago Theater of the Air performances will be aired over the nation-wide network of the Mutual Broadcasting system.

William A. Bacher, the Hollywood director-producer, who has been in charge of the Chicago Theater of the Air, will direct the new series in the fall.

Three operettas were presented in the spring series with several thousand persons, many of them musical and civic leaders of Chicagoland, as studio guests.

Three Operettas Presented.

The three operettas already presented were: Noel Coward's "Bittersweet," and Simund Romberg's "Student Prince," and "Blossom Time," the latter based on the melodies of Franz Schubert. In the first of the series Miss Claire was co-starred with James Melton, the noted tenor. Miss Claire played the lead in the Chicago stage company of "Bittersweet."

"The Student Prince" was broadcast on May 16 by an all-star cast headed by Miss Claire, Jan Peerce, Radio City Music Hall tenor, and Igor Gorin, the noted baritone of concert fame.

The third of the series, "Blossom Time," broadcast to an overflow crowd on May 30, bringing to a climax the spring season, featured Miss Claire with Gorin and Michael Bartlett.

CHICAGO OPERA SEASON PREVUE SLATED BY WAAF

In coöperation with the Chicago Opera company, WAAF will present "The Opera Festival," a summer series of prevues of next season's Chicago opera. This program will be presented from 6:30 to 8:30 Sunday nights starting tonight. Verdi's "Aida" is scheduled for tonight.

Giovanni Cardelli of the opera company will appear as narrator and will comment on the opera and the composer. Recordings of the chorus and orchestra of the La Scala opera, conducted by Carlo Sabajno at Milan, will be presented.

The répertoire of operas to be presented includes "Aida," "Trovatore," "Falstaff," "Traviata," "Cavalleria Rusticana," "I Pagliacci," "Don Giovanni," "Rigoletto," "Otello," "Carmen," "Hansel and Gretel," "Der Rosenkavalier," and "Martha."

Guest artists who will appear in starring rôles in Chicago's coming opera season will be presented on the program to tell personal incidents of their operatic careers. Trips will be taken backstage to the Civic Opera house to interview the stage manager and the wardrobe mistress on colorful happenings of yesteryear in Chicago opera.

At the conclusion of the series a final composite program of excerpts from the various operas heard during the summer will be presented. On this performance, prizes of season and individual tickets to the Chicago Opera company's fall series will be offered for correct identification of the excerpts played.

Renew "Inside of Sports."

"The Inside of Sports," one of the most popular sports programs on the air, has been renewed for another year over W-G-N and the coast to coast Mutual Broadcasting system.

FEDERATION BY FORCE, TOPIC OF REVIEW STAND

Clifton M. Utley and John B. Crane will discuss "European Federation by Force" on the Northwestern Reviewing Stand at 10 a. m. over W-G-N and Mutual.

Mr. Utley, guest speaker on the program, is director of the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations. He also appears weekly on a W-G-N news interpretation. Dr. Crane is professor of economics at the Northwestern university.

Crane and Utley will consider such questions as: Is federation the answer to Europe's problems? Would the federation that Hitler seems to be completing serve the same purpose as one accomplished by peaceful processes? Could federation ever be accomplished peacefully? Would a German-dominated federation of Europe endanger the welfare of the United States?

MAY BUSINESS ON MUTUAL NET UP 37 PER CENT

Billings for May of the Mutual Broadcasting system totaled $322,186, representing an increase of 37.2 per cent over May, 1939, and the highest May figures in the history of the network. May, 1939, billings totaled $234,764.

Mutual's cumulative billings for the first five months of 1940 also were the largest in the network's history. The 1940 figure totaled $1,731,843, an increase of 24.1 per cent over 1939's first five months, when the figure of $1,396,049 was reached.

Mrs. John L. Whitehurst, first vice president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, will be guest speaker during the second program of the series, Listen and Live, at noon over WENR.

PRESENT RUTH CHATTERTON IN 5TH ROW CENTER

"Beautiful Lady" Is Play for Next Friday.

Ruth Chatterton, star of the stage and screen, will play the leading rôle in "Beautiful Lady," on Fifth Row Center over W-G-N and coast-to-coast network of the Mutual Broadcasting system, at 7 p. m. next Friday.

Miss Chatterton will be supported by Francis X. Bushman, star of the silent movie era and now an outstanding radio actor, and Marvin Mueller, Ed Prentiss and Cleveland Towne, well-known Chicago actors.

"Beautiful Lady" is the story of a mother who fought against blind justice, and of a man who loved an adopted boy. Miss Chatterton plays the rôle of the mother who fights to regain the possession of her son. Bushman will be cast in the part of the man who is unwilling to relinquish his adopted son.

Chicagoans last saw Ruth Chatterton on the stage last October when she starred in the comedy, "Tonight We Dance." It was her first appearance in the legitimate theater in many years. Her best remembered movies were "Madame X," "Sarah and Son," "Lady of Secrets," "Girl's Dormitory," "Dodsworth," and "The Royal Divorce."

Before she answered the call of Hollywood, Miss Chatterton had established herself as one of Broadway's most talented actresses. She made her first hit in the memorable "Daddy Long Legs" when she was 18 years old, and this was followed by a long list of successes.

The musical setting for "Beautiful Lady" will be furnished by the W-G-N Dance orchestra under the baton of Harold Stokes. The entire production will be directed by Blair Walliser.

ANSON TRAINED FOR CARTUNE-O IN SCHOOL DAYS

Bill Anson, headliner in the new radio quiz game, Cartune-O, feels perfectly at ease on the program. Anson once was staff cartoonist on the Schurz High school magazine. Later his work appeared in national magazines, before he abandoned the drawing board for the microphone.

Cartune-O, heard over W-G-N from 7:30 to 8:15 every Thursday evening, offers the radio audience an opportunity to participate in a quiz program. Bags of groceries are given to all listeners who correctly check five cartoons in a row across the Cartune-O card. Cash prizes ranging from $15 to $100 are awarded writers of the best brief sentences describing any of the sponsor's products.

On 5th Row Center

Ruth Chatterton, stage and screen actress, who will be starred in a Fifth Row Center production at 7 p. m. Friday on W-G-N and the coast to coast network of the Mutual Broadcasting System. Miss Chatterton will play the lead in "Beautiful Lady," by Arch Oboler. She will be supported by a cast of outstanding Chicago actors.

FAVORITE SONGS TO BE PRESENTED BY NORTHERNERS

The Northerners, under the direction of Harry S. Walsh, will present a program of favorite ballads at 9:30 p. m. Tuesday on W-G-N. Irene Verner, soprano, will be the featured soloist. Miss Verner will sing the popular "Zigeuner" from Noel Coward's "Bittersweet." The octet will sing "All Day in the Prairie," "150th Psalm," and "My Heart's in the Highland." The entire Northerners cast will join in selections from "Katinka."

Ruth Carhart to Sing on Bowes Family Hour

Ruth Carhart, soprano of radio and the stage, will be a special guest of Maj. Edward Bowes during his "Family Hour" on WIND and the Columbia Broadcasting system from 10:30 to 11 a. m. today. Regular members of the Bowes "family," including Nicholas Cosentino, Sam Herman, Charles Magnante, and Dalton Brother's trio with Waldo Mayo's orchestra will be heard as usual.

INVENTOR HELPS REDUCE NEED OF RUBBER IMPORTS

Oak Parker Offers Finds to War Department.

Dr. Jacques Morrell.

If war comes, the United States won't need to face another shortage of either explosives or rubber as it did in 1918, Dr. Jacques Morrell, an Oak Park chemist and consultant to the war department, says he holds patents on new and cheaper ways of producing basic materials for making synthetic rubber, explosives, and gas mask absorbents. A lieutenant colonel in the army reserves, he has offered his discoveries gratis to the war department.

The explanation of the patents has just been published in a technical magazine for chemists and engineers but they have never before been released to the general public. This slender soldier who defends his country from the chemist's laboratory says, "If synthetic rubber is used in future wars, the United States will not be faced again with such a great need to maintain a lifeline with the tropics." Last year the United States imported approximately one billion pounds of crude rubber.

Cuts Out Four Steps.

Dr. Morrell worked with Aristid V. Grosse and Julian M. Mavity of the Universal Oil Products company in developing the new process for producing butadiene, the basic raw material for the manufacture of synthetic rubber. The Germans and Russians have been using an expensive five step process of making butadiene from natural gas and cracked hydrocarbon gases. Dr. Morrell's process, he explains, has one step and he says it will make possible not only the cheap production of rubber but 100 times more than is required for normal use.

The new process was explained last September before the American Chemical society for the first time and there it was hailed as "the missing link in the making of synthetic rubber."

The starting point for the synthesis of rubber is waste products from natural gas and the cracked gases from petroleum refining. These are converted into butadiene and isoprene.

Says Supply Unlimited.

Dr. Morrell points out that there are available for this process billions of barrels of hydrocarbon oils from petroleum, billions of cubic feet of hydrocarbon bases, and billions of tons of coal from which could be derived everything available in petroleum, in case that supply should become exhausted.

Petroleum sources, thru another of Dr. Morrell's discoveries, can be converted into the important modern military explosives referred to as TNT. During the world war TNT, or trinitrotoluene, was obtained from coal tar. Then in order to overcome the shortage of explosives, the allies including the United States, were compelled to use ammonium nitrate in admixture with TNT. This produced an inferior type of explosives, he said.

Dr. Morrell, Mr. Grosse, and William J. Mattox have found a way to produce TNT from petroleum hydrocarbons. Instead of the 3 billion pounds of TNT that can be produced from coal tar a year, the new process from petroleum could provide 88 billion pounds annually.

Cites Use in Explosives.

If only one-half of the potential low boiling hydrocarbon distillates from petroleum were used, he explained, maintaining a balance with the country's need for motor fuel, there could be 44 billion pounds of TNT made annually. Toluene went up in cost to $1.50 a gallon during the world war and is so scarce now that it cannot be purchased on the open market.

Dr. Morrell has also had issued to him the basic patent covering the commercial alkylation process for the production of high powered aviation gasolines.

During the world war the Oak Park chemist came to the rescue when the country faced a shortage of charred coconut shells, the material used for absorbents in gas masks. Housewives and children were urged to save peach seeds, which were to be used as a substitute because of the impossibility of getting more coconuts from the tropics. Dr. Morrell discovered a way of making absorbents from wood and coal, and today with these improvements the supply is unlimited.

Oak Park Bride

Mrs. H. William Melum was Miss Bettie Jean Seymour before her April wedding in the First Congregational church of Oak Park. Dr. Albert Buckner Coe read the marriage service. She is the daughter of the Frederick P. Seymours of Oak Park. Mr. Melum is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Helmer Melum of River Forest. The bride studied at the Sorbonne in Paris during her junior college year and was graduated from Northwestern university in the class of 1938. [Du Bois—the Drake.]

Golden Wedding

Edward Mittelstaedt. Mrs. Mittelstaedt.

With relatives and friends present, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Mittelstaedt of Lombard recently celebrated their golden wedding anniversary at the Park Ridge Tennis club.

Both Mr. Mittelstaedt, 81, and his wife, 78, were born in Germany and came to Chicago in their youth. Eight years ago Mr. Mittelstaedt retired from the meat market business which, during his active days, he had conducted on the west and northwest sides of the city.

Daughters of the couple are Mrs. A. E. Pemberton, 352 North Avers avenue and Mrs. Ben Thesen, 1019 Chicago avenue, Oak Park. A son, E. J. Mittelstaedt, resides near Lombard. There are two grandchildren.

News and Queries Within and Without the Church

A Religious Voice of the People—Edited by the Rev. John Evans

Half a million members of the Evangelical Lutheran Augustana synod thruout the world are thinking about "the forgotten woman" who founded the first church of the synod which now is 80 years old. Their attention will be turned today to the village of Andover about 30 miles south of Rock Island on Illinois highway 81.

Thousands of Augustana Lutherans will converge at Andover today and a large section of the caravan is going from Rock Island where the 80th anniversary of the founding of the synod is being marked by the closing day's session of synodical convention.

The caravan will stop at a grave marker, a simple shaft on which is carved the closed hand with index finger pointing heavenward, beneath which "the forgotten woman" rests in an 84 cent home made coffin. The inscription is: Amalia Planting-Gyllenboga Esbjorn.

Dr. E. E. Ryden of Rock Island, editor the the Lutheran Companion, summarized the dramatic story of Mrs. Esbjorn in a paragraph. It follows:

'Today a service will be held at Andover, the little hamlet which is the cradle of the Augustana synod. Here lies the mother of the synod, a woman of Swedish noble birth who crossed the seas with her husband to found the Swedish church in the new world: lost two of her babes during the journey; nursed her husband in Chicago after he had contracted cholera while ministering to his countrymen during the epidemic of October, 1849; built the first parsonage of the Augustana synod with her own funds; sent her husband on a mission to the east to see Jenny Lind and others to obtain money with which to build the first Augustana Lutheran church [still standing]; died in childbirth less than three years after her arrival in Andover, and was buried in a coffin costing 84 cents, made from boards intended for the new church. She might be called "The Forgotten Woman" of the Augustana synod."

The entire story of pastor and Mrs. Esbjorn's founding of the Augustana church in America some day will be written in full. It ought to be preserved. It would tell of first attempts to provide for spiritual needs of Swedish immigrants in Delaware, Pennsylvania and New Jersey, thru affiliation of Swedish Lutheran and Episcopal leadership.

The story would also tell of Jenny Lind's $1,500 gift to Pastor Esbjorn's church, but it would not omit gifts from Chicago Norwegian and German Lutheran pastors such as the Rev. Peter Anderson and the Rev. Dr. William A. Passavant of Passavant Memorial hospital, which he founded in 1865 as the Emergency hospital.

Pastor Esbjorn's day book which carefully recorded every financial transaction, would be one important source of information. Among the hundreds of entries written with light pen touch is one that is especially arresting:

"Boards to Mrs. Esbjorn's coffin, 42 ft., 0.84."

The boards were owned by the congregation, having been purchased for the church building. The cash record shows that the church was reinbursed for the lumber.

Dr. Emmy Evald, founder and president of the Women's Missionary society of the Lutheran Augustana synod, writing of Amalia Esbjorn, says:

"In the Lord's name, Mrs. Esbjorn became the mother of the Augustana synod. She should never be forgotten."

Note:—Altho the Esbjorns founded the first Augustana church, the actual founding of the synod did not take place until 1860 or 8 years after Mrs. Esbjorn's death.

13 GLEN ELLYN GARDENS LISTED ON BENEFIT TOUR

Admittance Fees to Aid in Beautifying Town.

White flags will mark 13 Glen Ellyn homes on Tuesday. Hundreds of men and women from all parts of the west area will find these flags, walk in and look over the lawns and gardens. But each person who comes must pay.

Mrs. G. M. Kendall.

Proceeds from the garden tour and accompanying flower show will be used by the Glen Ellyn Garden club in an effort to make the village the garden spot of all the suburbs. Bulbs, shrubs, and trees will be planted in the parkway of the Chicago, Aurora and Elgin railroad and on the steep embankment of the Chicago and North Western parkway along Crescent boulevard.

Flower Show Plans.

The flower show will be held from 2 o'clock to 10 o'clock evening in the recreation house in Lake Ellyn park. There will be classes for foliage arrangements, white flowers in white containers, flower arrangements, fruit and vegetable combinations, tables, window treatments, still life pictures, and novelties. There also will be a class for arrangements by men.

Included in exhibit 1 will be iris, peonies, roses, and miscellaneous flowers. Exhibit 2 will be flower displays with three or more blooms or stalks with foliage. Flowering shrubs and trees will make up exhibit 3.

Chairman of the executive committee for the flower show is Mrs. George M. Kendall, assisted by Mrs. J. C. Kreamer, Mrs. Ward R. Schafer, Mrs. Harvey Duvall, Mrs. Hans M. Stark, Mrs. John R. Christopher, Mrs. O. C. Becker, Mrs. Fred J. Mabrey, Mrs. Edwin D. Evans, Mrs. Elmer Olander, Mrs. Frederic F. Vallette, and Mrs. R. C. O'Hair. Guides will be stationed at the recreation house to take parties on a tour of the 13 gardens.

Gardens to Be Visited.

The places to be visited are owned by F. J. Mabrey, 635 Park boulevard, fern garden; A. I. Stephens, 757 Park boulevard, sunken garden; Daniel Strassheim, 618 Lenox road, porch table; Ward R. Schafer, 624 Kenilworth avenue; L. H. Webb, 603 Phillips avenue; Paul Mehl, 234 Merton avenue; Paul Congdon, 723 Hill avenue; E. D. Evans, 578 Hill avenue; O. C. Becker, 455 Taylor avenue; H. C. Stearn, 481 Greenfield avenue; Enos L. Hendrix, 393 Montclair avenue; W. G. Kaiser, 468 Hill avenue, and J. D. Hyde, 300 Glenwood avenue.

The two parkway projects, for which Mrs. J. D. Hyde is chairman, have been entered in the civic improvement contest being conducted by the Garden Club of Illinois. Judges will visit the sites in September. Cash awards will go to the winners.

JEWISH CONGRESS YOUTH CLUB TO GIVE OPERETTA

The West Side district of the Youth division, American Jewish congress, will present an original operetta, "Trial by Music" at 8:15 o'clock Thursday evening in the Knessas Israel Nusachsforad Community center, 1308 Independence boulevard. Abraham Shanes is president of the group and Miss Sylvia Goldich is chairman of the social committee.

Members of the cast are Isadore Dribin, Bernard Shaffer, Louis Zimmerman, Paul Garfinkle, Perle Warshawsky, Shirley Rosenfeld, Rose Cooper, Rose Weiss, Rubin Sherer, David Brand, Mildred Goldberg, Ruth Walchek, Philip Dribin, Ida Charet, Frances Garfinkle, Leonora Shaffer, Leona Zimmerman, and Rose Greenberg.

TWO NEW SCOUT UNITS ORGANIZED IN WEST SECTOR

Two new units have been organized in the west side district of the Chicago Boy Scout council, bringing the total of Scout units to 202 ships, packs, patrols, and troops.

Explorer patrol 333 sponsored by the Off the Street club, 1534 West Van Buren street, will meet at 7:30 o'clock Wednesday evenings. Stephen E. Kroll is the Scoutmaster assisted by Joseph Dominick, Joseph Barclay, E. E. Siemianowski, Donnelly Shepherd, and Herbert Woodward.

The Trinity Presbyterian church, 310 North Laramie avenue, is the meeting place for the new Explorer patrol, No. 390. Meetings will be held at 7:30 o'clock Friday evenings. John R. Picchietti is Scoutmaster, assisted by Lester Bachman, William Baler, and William Groh.

Modern Office Furnishings

This Week in the Garden

Monday, June 10.

Plants placed far enough apart should have the soil stirred between them until they cover the ground. It is impossible to cultivate perennials planted close together after the foliage becomes intermingled. Until then consistent cultivation is essential. After the plants touch and the roots fill the soil, summer mulching with peat is an excellent practice. Spent mushroom manure and grass clippings also may be used. Water thru the mulch. Soil for potting should be available at all times. Save weeds and other material and start a compost heap

Tuesday, June 11.

Do not neglect to thin seedlings so that each plant remaining will have room to develop. Annuals do best in mass unless grown in rows in the cutting garden. Flowering plants never attain their full beauty of flower and foliage unless each plant has space to develop. Thinning should be done while the plants are small to avoid disturbing those that remain. Mowing the lawn should be done carefully. The best height to cut is from 1½ to 2 inches unless it is a bent grass lawn, which is cut very low and often. All beds and walks should be kept edged. Keep shrubs within bounds and vines securely fastened in place.

Wednesday, June 12.

Pansies require a rich, mellow soil and if partial shade can be given it will prolong their flowering period. Never allow seed to form. Pick all flowers occasionally to rest the plants and later in the season trim back the growths to encourage new, vigorous growth. Mulch the bed during hot weather and never allow the soil to become excessively dry. Water when the plants need water and not before. Soak the ground to a depth of five inches for established plants. Water early in the morning to enable the foliage to dry off before night and avoid the likelihood of attacks by fungous diseases. Sprinkling the lawn only results in shallow rooting. Soak the lawn to encourage deep rooting.

Thursday, June 13.

Plants in window boxes must be watered daily. Allow the water to soak thru the drainage holes in the bottom of the box, if it is of wood; if it is self-watering learn by experience when to water. A moist upper surface indicates that the soil is moist thruout. Tuberous begonias may be planted in a shady location. Use a well drained soil, fairly light. It is not too late to plant bedding plants, such as cannas, ageratum, geraniums, heliotrope, salvia, and numerous other kinds. Cannas are among the finest flowering plants for average backgrounds, and they may be obtained in green or bronze foliage with yellow or red blooms. They need heat, rich soil, and plenty of water. Be sure to sow vines along the fences. Why not try gourds?

Friday, June 14.

Feed the amaryllis bulbs to obtain good, strong plants for next season's blooming. Keep all newly planted fruit trees, shade trees, and shrubs well mulched. Water thru the mulch. Sow the seeds of perennials to obtain strong plants for next autumn. It is an excellent plan to assign a plot of ground as a seedbed. Provide lath shade to be used whenever necessary. Have a sprinkling can at hand for watering. Keep the blooms cut on coreopsis. Do not allow sweet peas to go to seed. Pick the flowers each morning for use indoors. Mulch these plants and watch for plant lice.

Saturday, June 15.

This is rose month. Liquid manure applied to roses is very beneficial; a complete commercial food is easily obtained and contains more food than organic manures. Dust sulphur on roses for mildew. Disbud roses for large display blooms. Vegetable crops that are grown for the foliage should be fed nitrogen. Tie up the leaves of cauliflower to obtain choice white heads. Tomatoes will ripen more uniformly if they are staked. Control leaf eating worms with a stomach poison.

DOCTOR'S SUITE LOSES SEVERITY IN REMODELING

Reception Lounge Made Like Living Room.

BY LOUISE BARGELT.

The fine art of modernization is by no means confined to homes or to apartments.

A handsome and interesting change has been effected in the Monroe building, 104 South Michigan avenue, Chicago. It is the modernization of a suite of physicians' offices, the treatment in the contemporary style with modern Swedish furnishings.

The work of the modernization was put into the hands of the architects, Hooper and Nelson, 118 East 26th street, Chicago, and these architects carried out their appointed task with a wise understanding of their clients' wishes.

In the offices of many modern physicians and surgeons there is now seen a trend away from the extreme severity of past years—as there is likewise in hospitals a distinct trend away from unrelieved white. This is a recognition of the fact that the state of mind of a nervous, sick patient can often be calmed and steadied in an atmosphere of quiet, harmonious colors, and furnishings which are beautifully simple, and in fine style.

Like Living Room.

In this particular physicians' suite the reception room has been treated in the manner of a gracious, hospitable living room in a private home or apartment.

Three of the walls have been painted a soft green, while the fireplace wall is papered with a deep green, hand blocked paper, with a primitive motif. This aboriginal note blends well with the natural wood trim, and the brown rubber tile floor which affords the feel of warm earth.

The wide, striking fireplace has a natural wood mantel in oak with modern horizontal fluting across the top. The hearth is of black marble, the andirons of highly polished brass. Further accent is given to the primitive by the "Balinese" figure on the mantel and the etchings on the wall, which are framed in natural wood and show glimpses of sky and trees and water.

The room is lighted entirely by lamps, and there is a capacious unit seat in the center of the room of butterscotch yellow, a warm, happy tone. The chairs are a gray-green leather with ambered mahogany legs, and on the table is a highly polished brass lamp.

Block Veneer Walls.

While this reception room has the spirit of a living room the consultation room has the atmosphere of a library. The block veneered walls are of Japanese exotic wood in rich shades of tan. The floor is covered with a sand toned carpet, and the trim is a natural oak, treated with a white filler to lighten it and achieve a perfect harmony between trim and walls.

The desk is of ambered mahogany, with fluorescent lighting, and the chairs are upholstered in gray-green leather. Here the ceiling is a grayish pink, and the pictures on the walls are gay water color sketches, introducing lively tones of greens and yellows and reds. There are green drapes at the windows, and the light gray diagonal line in these drapes is caught and carried into the pale gray of the Venetian blinds and tapes.

There are four examining rooms, and the architects have carried out their decorations with the same delightful attention to color harmony and detail. In one we find the walls an Egyptian tan, with a pale green ceiling. The furniture is of the same fine ambered mahogany as is seen in the consultation room and reception room, and upholstered in gray-green tones.

Sings in 'Elijah'

When the Austin Methodist church choir presents "Elijah" at 8 o'clock Thursday evening Margaret F. Christy will play the part of the widow. Miss Christy is soprano soloist in the choir. Earl Bichel, tenor, will sing the role of Obediah. John Ross Reed is directing the dramatics and Frank Bennett is the choir director. [Sigurd Larsen Photo.]

Traditional commencements are held in the Catholic high schools with the girls wearing white caps and gowns and the boys wearing black. Breakfasts and masses are held preceding the ceremonies in most of the schools.

Will Get Mount Holyoke Degrees

DAGNY JOHNSON.

MARY LOUISE JOHN.

ALICE GILL.

Two Oak Park girls and one from Maywood will be in the commencement parade at Mount Holyoke college, South Hadley, Mass., this month. Miss Dagny Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur L. Johnson, Oak Park, has majored in political science and is an honor student. Miss Mary Louise John, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles G. John, Oak Park, has been one of the students elected to the representative council of the student government. The Maywood girl, Miss Alice Gill, daughter of Thomas Buell Gill, was prepared for college at Proviso Township High school. She helped plan the costumes for the class events.

Co-Chairman

Miss Mary Riedmiller of 4222 West Adams street is co-chairman with James A. Murphy, 4824 West Monroe street, in charge of Chicago Teachers college class day activities on Thursday. A feature of the plans is the luncheon in the Congress casino at 12:45 o'clock.

Odd Fellows Are to Hold Memorial Services Today

Addresses by Sophia Peterson, president of the Rebekah state assembly of Illinois, and Albert Nelson, grand master of the grand lodge of Illinois, will be made this afternoon at the 32d annual memorial services at Oak Ridge Odd Fellows monument and abbey in Oak Ridge cemetery. Invocation and benediction will be given by William A. Haggard. The program will start at 2:30 o'clock. Officers of the memorial association are Edith Herzberger, president; William Grauman, vice president; Edna M. Wilke, secretary, and Charles A. Mohr, treasurer.

SPRING FESTIVAL AT CHASE HOUSE OPENS THURSDAY

A Circus by Youngsters Among Events.

Baby contests, pet shows, parties and sales will bring 400 west side neighbors together for a three day spring festival opening Thursday night in Chase house, 211 South Ashland avenue. There will be music and dancing and scores of prizes will go to winners in the contests.

The festival will open with a meeting of the board of trustees of the settlement with the president, Robert E. Kenyon Jr. Exhibits of the various clubs at the house will be arranged for this meeting. The festival proper will open with a Chase House Auxiliary luncheon Friday noon. The baby show is scheduled for 2 o'clock in the afternoon and winners will be the littlest west side citizens with the bluest eyes, the curliest hair, and the nicest smile.

Arrange Homemade Circus.

The women's tea will be at 3 o'clock and the junior and adult bunco party will be held at 7 o'clock Friday evening. On Saturday there will be a pet show, a neighborhood hobby show and a homemade circus presented by the little children's club. This will feature the Silver Star club presenting a fat lady and a pair of homemade Siamese twins.

Proceeds from the festival will be used to send neighborhood children, members of Chase house settlement, to various camps during the summer. Mrs. Rose Sweet, sewing chairman of the Original Mothers club and executive chairman of the festival, has worked for two months with her committees planning the events.

List Executive Committee.

Executive committee members are Richard Cox, Co-Operative group; Mrs. Frances Peterson, Merry Menders; Margaret French, Girl Scouts; Deaconess Grace Wilson of the Chase house staff; Toby Polito, Boy Scout leader; Yolanda Pacioni, Coedalettes Girls club; Mrs. Ruth Valentine from the Chase House Parents club.

Julian Hargrove, director of Chase house, and Virginia Stockwell, girls' worker, serve as advisors to the neighborhood committee.

Pin Cushions Among Exhibits.

Among the exhibits by grown-ups will be a dozen pin cushions made from small china dolls, sawdust and bits of cloth cut from wedding dresses and shrouds. Mrs. Rose Sweet is the creator of this collection. The Buchanan Girls club directed by Mrs. Tina Thordason will have an exhibit of table runners and purses.

Members of subcommittees are as follows: games, Mrs. Lillian Sommerman, Mrs. Frances Lamb, Miss Geraldine McInerney, Mrs. Ella Carr; dance, Arthur Wilson, Mrs. Violet Davey, Mrs. John Forejt, Miss Rita Pacioni, Mrs. Genevieve Campbell, and Walter Papciak.

Tables and booths, Mrs. Frances Peterson, Mrs. Sweet, Albert White and Mrs. Mable Kellner; baby show, Mrs. Blanche Good, Deaconess Wilson, Mrs. Thomas Krone, Richard Cox and Mrs. Marilyn Johnson; entertainment, Eleanor Pacioni; arrangements, Mrs. Blanche Matson, Mrs. Ruth Valentine, Mrs. M. C. Arnold; pet show, Albert Hackleman, Mrs. Emma Atzel, Mrs. Renia O'Kern, Mrs. Nellie Hearns and Jean Polito.

An Episcopal Settlement.

Chase house is an Episcopal settlement supported by contributions from friends and by proceeds from events sponsored by the house membership.

Seventeen little girls who are members of the Silver Star club have been making animal costumes and practicing for their "Wampus dance," an original contribution to the circus. "We just made up the name" explains Pat Davis, one of the number. "When we were dancing around I said 'Look at us we're Wampuses.' So that's what we called it."

Other Wampuses are Mildred Gastfield, Margaret Keeler, Helen Sinks, Delores Venezia, and Delita Cataldo. Other children with leading parts in the circus are Sally Litter, Margaret Keeler, Joan Rork, Mary Hynek, Loretta Sherwin, Bridget Finnegan, Naomi and Anita May Dalton, Lois Pines and Kathleen Sherwin.

CHURCH SCHOOLS SCHEDULED FOR SUMMER SEASON

Representatives of the Congregational, Episcopal, and Methodist church schools in Lombard have drafted a plan for conducting a vacation school of religious education to be held for three weeks, starting tomorrow.

In previous years the school has been conducted by the Congregational and Methodist churches. This year the Episcopal and Westmore church schools will be added. Teachers of the four schools will have charge of the work.

In 1938 a total of 81 youths was enrolled. Last year the enrollment increased to 130, and it is expected that this year's school will enroll over 175.

ST. PHILIP HIGH SENIORS TO HAVE CRUISE DANCE

The senior class of St. Philip High school will hold its prom Friday evening aboard the S. S. North America. From 8 o'clock until 1 o'clock the young graduates will cruise Lake Michigan. The cruise and dance has been arranged by the Rev. Terence A. Seery, St. Philip principal. He has been assisted by Martin D. Kissane, faculty adviser to the seniors. The student committee, headed by Robert Dwan, 1940 class president, consists of Robert Anderson, William Hanrahan and Daniel Murphy.

Lodge Queen

Miss Dorothy Downton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Downton of Elmhurst, will be installed as honored queen of Bethel No. 47, Order of Job's Daughters, tomorrow evening in the Elmhurst Masonic temple, Elmhurst.

SUBURB PLANS A PROGRAM FOR NEW CITIZENS

All Groups in Oak Park to Take Part.

Sponsored by Oak Park post of the American Legion, with all civic, service and church groups of the village coöperating, the second annual observance of Citizen Recognition day will be held June 17 in the Children's theater, Forest and Lake streets, Oak Park. The official proclamation was made by James A. Howe, president of the village.

There has been arranged an appropriate ceremony and program for all of the young men and women of the village who will have reached their 21st birthday in 1940.

The program, it is explained, has been planned because of a feeling that with conditions thruout the world as they are it is of supreme importance that the privilege of citizenship be invested with such dignity that its value can never be forgotten nor ignored.

Fred D. Bacon, 716 South Euclid avenue, Oak Park, Americanism chairman of the post, urges all young men and women who qualify to communicate with him. Announcement also is made that tickets to the program may be obtained free at the Lowell school offices.

Dr. Hugh S. Magill, president of the American Federation of Investors, Inc., will give the address of welcome to the new citizens and speak on the topic "Preserving the American System of Government." Residents of Oak Park and the west suburban area are urged to attend the meeting.

National leaders of the American Legion and Elks lodge will hold a flag day celebration and 2d division meeting of the Legion at Ottawa, Ill., Friday, Saturday and Sunday. E M. McQuillen, commander of the 2d division, lives at 217 Kenmore avenue, Elmhurst, and Joseph W. Kriebs, adjutant, at 405 West Harrison avenue, Wheaton.

Arrangements are being made in Ottawa to entertain 50,000 visitors. Legionnaires are expected from the 25 counties that comprise the four districts of the division.

Custom House post will hold its first election of officers Tuesday night in room 1123 of the county building. The post is recruited from employés of the customs service and other government departments in the custom house. The post's organizers are George Longakier, acting commander; Stanley Gutouski, acting quartermaster, and Timothy McInerney, acting adjutant.

Jane A. Delano post will install officers at a dinner meeting at 6:45 o'clock tomorrow night at Adelard's restaurant, 185 North Wabash avenue.

Officers recently elected by Jewish War Veterans of the United States, department of Illinois, are Rudolph Shapira, commander; Louis Cohen, senior vice commander; Charles H. Bournstine, junior vice commander; Dr. Lewis H. Lippman, surgeon; Leo Wulfsohn, judge advocate; Joseph R. Rosenblum, chaplain; David H. Fass, quartermaster, and Harry Shaffer, adjutant.

The department is composed of Gen. Edward E. Solomon post on the north side, Gen. Abel Davis post on the west side, and Gen. Milton J. Foreman post on the south side. Plans are being discussed for the forming of additional posts in Chicago.

Raymond J. Kelly, national commander of the American Legion, is scheduled to arrive early tomorrow morning from Jackson, Miss., for an official visit to Chicago Board of Trade post.

Commander Edward C. Dean has made plans for an open meeting for Legionnaires and their friends at 8 o'clock tomorrow night in the auditorium of the Board of Trade building to greet the national commander, much importance being attached to his visit because of world conditions.

Entertainment includes a luncheon at noon, tour of the Board of Trade building in the afternoon, and dinner, attended by officials of the Chicago Board of Trade and Legion post, at the Union League club.

NICKNAME ANGEL FITS BEST HIGH SCHOOL HARPIST

Florence Lambert Winner of Many Trophies.

When friends tease Florence Lambert they tell her that she ought to do well in heaven. Her nickname is Angel because she is the best high school harpist in the United States.

Florence Lambert.

In the fall of 1936 Florence took her first lesson because Austin High school band needed a harpist and Capt. Albert Gish said he thought she would do. Since then the 18 year old Austin High school senior has won the national solo harp contest three years in succession.

In 1938 she came home from the nationals in Elkhart, Ind., with her first award. The next year she was first at Indianapolis, Ind., and was selected from the 8,500 instrumental finalists to play on the festival program. Recently she came back from Battle Creek, Mich., with her third gold medal.

Wins Another Trophy.

Last year Florence won a trophy "for outstanding qualities in music and civic enterprise" from the manufacturing company that sponsors the W-G-N Kernels program. On July 22 Chicago will hear Florence play "La Rougette" during the Grant Park summer concert series. The piece is a composition written by David Bennett and dedicated to "the little red head," which is what the title means.

The young harpist has played in Northwestern university's summer school orchestra directed by George Dasch. She has played under Glenn Cliffe Bainum, director of the Northwestern university's summer school orchestra; Frank Simon, conductor of the Armco band; Paul Yoder, composer and arranger; Harold Bachman of the University of Chicago faculty, and Ralph Rush, who conducts the Cleveland Heights High School band.

Her first teacher was Joseph Vito, a member of the Chicago Symphony orchestra. Before that Florence had nine years of piano practice which she had started with instruction from her mother, Mrs. Frank Lambert. Her next piano teacher was Earl Blair at the American Conservatory of Music.

Harp Often Moved.

The harp in the Lambert home at 5445 Iowa street has been moved back and forth between the school and home hundreds of times. Florence plays for the Austin Boys' Concert band, the intermediate and the military band. She is continuing her study with Peter Eagle of the W-G-N staff.

So much harp music has sadly cut in on Florence's study time for her school classes and she wants to graduate. Awaiting her are four scholarships at the University of Miami, Fla.; the University of Tampa, Fla.; Coe college, Cedar Rapids, Ia., and Carthage college, Carthage, Ill.

PATRIOTIC SERVICES TO HONOR FLAG

HONOR PUPILS TO BE HEARD ON 'CITIZEN' SHOW

To Be Special Guests at Broadcast.

Dean W. H. Conley.

The voices of 50 of those who carry the great hopes of the middle west will be heard on W-G-N next Wednesday evening. The occasion will be the final program of the first series of the "Citizens of Tomorrow" broadcasts from 7 to 7:30 that evening. The high school students who have been named to the "Citizens of Tomorrow" honor roll will give their names, home towns, and tell of their ambitions during the show.

Fifty students from the middlewest have been named to the roll and they will be the special guests of Chicago when they come to town for the final broadcast.

Students to Attend.

The broadcast will be from the W-G-N audience studio and will be attended by 600 students from Wright Junior college. Dean William H. Conley of the college will lead the delegation of students and have a seat on the platform.

The college mixed chorus will be heard in three songs including the school song, "Fight Wright, Fight!" Morton Haas, Bob Riis, and Inez Richland will lead the students in cheering.

Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE TRIBUNE, will speak briefly.

Guests on List.

Following the broadcast, Philip Maxwell, a member of THE TRIBUNE'S editorial staff, who plays the rôle of "The Principal" in the show, will introduce several special guests, including James B. McCahey, president of the board of education; Dr. William H. Johnson, superintendent of the Chicago public schools, and Miss Helen Howe, director of music, and Harold Kent, director of the radio council, both of the public schools.

The members of the honor roll will come from 30 cities and towns of the Chicagoland states. A number of events have been arranged for their entertainment.

At 1 o'clock they will be guests of the Junior Association of Commerce at a luncheon in the La Salle hotel and at 3 o'clock will be given an airplane ride over Chicago in a big TWA plane. Then at 5 o'clock the Chicago Woman's club is entertaining them at supper in the clubhouse at 72 East 11th street.

TEMPLARS PLAN INSTALLATION FOR TOMORROW

New officers of Chicago Commandery, No. 19, Knights Templar, will be installed at 8 o'clock tomorrow night at an open meeting at 32 West Randolph street. Henry R. Lundblad, past grand state commander, will be the installing officer. George C. Norris, past commander of the Chicago commandery, will be grand marshal.

Those to be inducted are Fred L. J. Herrmann, commander; Jerry J. Blecha, generalissimo; Harry P. Falknor, captain general; Archie O. Colenbaugh, senior warden; William H. Dunkak, junior warden; Oscar F. Modene, prelate; Murray A. Stillwaugh, treasurer; Henry R. Lundblad, recorder; Carl H. Boettcher, sword bearer; Carl Ketel, warden; Edward R. Shafer, color bearer, and Ralph W. Wilder, sentinel.

Members of the finance board are George C. Norris, Jerry J. Blecha, Walter Woldhausen, Lee Millner, and Fred L. J. Herrmann. Music will be supplied by the Chicago commandery band. Refreshments will be served by the ladies auxiliary.

HOMEWOOD CLUB WOMEN TO HAVE SUMMER PARTIES

Members of the Homewood Woman's club will take part in a summer program designed to operate until regular meetings are resumed in October. Plans include a series of summer card parties and a Chicago art gallery tour. The latter will be under the leadership of Mrs. L. L. Pray, art department chairman.

Mrs. Karl Schmidt, newly elected chairman, has completed appointments for the year. The 1940-'41 officers are: Mrs. H. C. Wysong, first vice president; Mrs. W. B. Frazier, second vice president; Mrs. E. H. Kent, recording secretary; Mrs. Lawrence Carr, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Thomas Logan, treasurer.

Board members are Mrs. J. R. Swingle, Mrs. J. R. Blair, Mrs. Pray, Mrs. Elmer Toohey, Mrs. H. B. Einbecker, Mrs. J. F. Wenzel, Mrs. W. E. La Vette, Mrs. L. T. Heron, Mrs. G. C. Gallati, Mrs. S. E. Adair, Mrs. G. L. Bute, Mrs. Evelyn A. Seguin, and Mrs. E. L. Downey. Mrs. Elmer Chapman has been appointed chairman of the Park Ridge School for Girls in the 3d district.

Palos Heights Gun Club Born on Vacant Lot

BY JOHN T. McCUTCHEON JR.

Teachers at the Palos Park community schoolhouse may not remember a day early in October, 1938, when they finally told a handful of leather-jacketed men to stop shooting in an adjoining vacant lot because the noise disturbed the pupils.

But that handful of men has now become the Palos Heights Trap and Gun club; its membership has already spread thru the community and numbers 103. It is one of the larger Chicagoland gun clubs which have coöperated in forming the Sportsmen's Home Defense league, whose purpose is the organization of millions of amateur marksmen into a civilian reserve corps for action in case of an emergency.

Adds Feminine Touch.

Original members of the then nameless organization were Dr. F. C. Jacobsen, 9118 South Winchester avenue, his son, William, of Palos Park, and William F. Brown, vice president of Robert Bartlett & Co., real estate dealers, also of Palos Park. The younger Jacobsen's wife, Barbara, accompanied the trio in the summer of 1938 to their first outing on the vacant lot, and was immediately drafted to work the hand spring which threw the clay pigeons into the air.

As the early mornings became colder it was necessary to build a bonfire to stand by. Other friends often joined the group, and colder weather brought more shooting. It was at this inopportune moment that the fall term of the school began, and after a few weeks the teachers delivered their ultimatum.

The group, then a dozen or so, decided to try the top of a nearby hill, which was too exposed for anybody to want to live on. After a month of progressively colder and windier mornings up there, Mr. Brown and the Jacobsens began to think it was too exposed even for trapshooting.

Obtain Clubhouse.

They then moved to their present location, a 12 acre lot near 119th street and Harlem avenue, which they have since purchased outright, thus becoming one of the few clubs to own their own land. Down the street they found a couple of one room real estate offices at bargain prices, and moved them to form a two room clubhouse on the new land. The clubhouse proved a great drawing card, and membership grew.

Members were divided into week-end shifts to improve the new clubhouse. With the technical advice of a carpenter-electrician they built a 60 foot veranda and wired the house for electricity. Last summer they were able to purchase new equipment and now have two skeet fields and a trap, all of the most up to date design, and a rifle range. The most recent improvement is the planting of 250 poplar trees on the land.

Present officers of the club are William Felber, 9514 Vanderpoel avenue, who has succeeded William Jacobsen as president; Fred T. Rumpf, 9841 South Hoyne avenue, secretary, and Albert Moody, Palos Park, treasurer.

EQUESTRIAN CLUB HOLDS ITS ANNUAL BREAKFAST RIDE

About 200 men and women horsemen last Sunday took part in the annual breakfast ride of the Town and Country Equestrian association. The ride of ten miles started and ended at Division No. 5 at Palos Park forest preserve.

The ride was under the direction of a committee headed by John A. Klein, a director in the association. Other members of the committee include J. M. Fitzgerald, Merton Ketchum, Mrs. H. M. L. Hall and Robert Mann. Officers of the association are Herbert J. Lorber, president; Frank Bering, vice president, and A. H. Sus, secretary-treasurer.

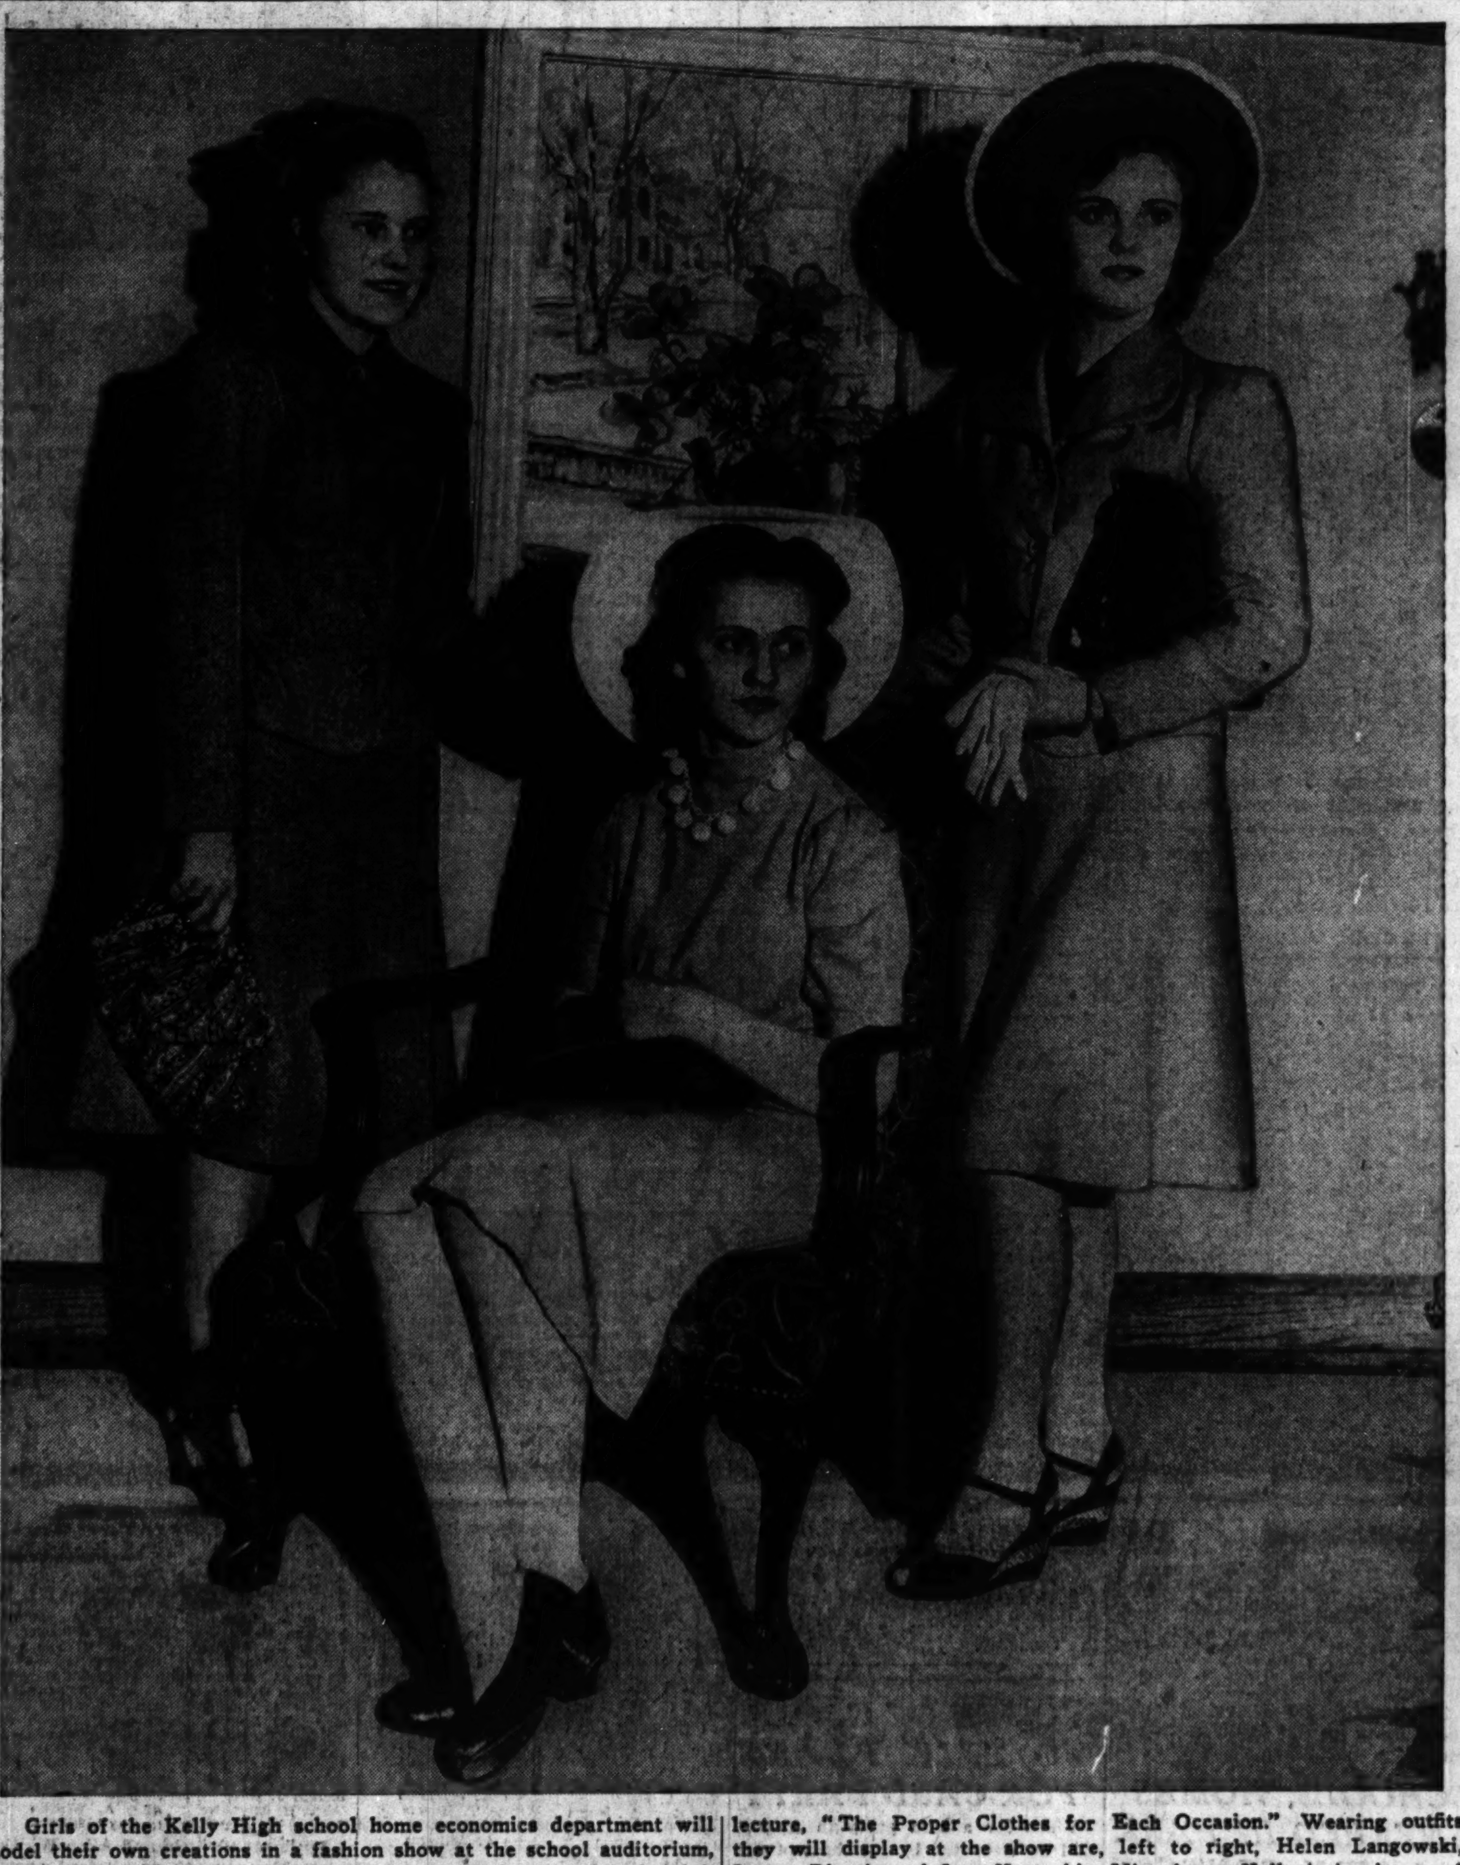
ST. RITA HIGH ALUMNI ARE TO ATTEND FEAST

The St. Rita High school alumni banquet tomorrow at the Hotel Shoreland will be a celebration of the silver jubilee of the class of 1915, a welcome for the members of this year's class, and a testimonial to John [Hicks] Connelly who is leaving St. Rita after 14 years as teacher and basketball and football coach.

John J. McVady, 7936 South Winchester avenue, is chairman of the class of 1915 committee. Assisting him are Bernard Lynsky, 5524 South Richmond street; William V. Daly, 6539 South Justine street; Raymond Adams, 7723 South Bennett street; William J. Luby, 6136 North Klipatrick street, and Thomas Kincaid, 6333 South Richmond street.

Dr. James J. Gardner, 7048 South Western avenue, is president of the alumni association. On the banquet program will be Charles Conzelman, coach of the Cardinals, professional football team, and John Carmichael.

Will Model Own Style Creations



Girls of the Kelly High school home economics department will model their own creations in a fashion show at the school auditorium, 42d street and California avenue, on Wednesday in the seventh and eighth class periods. Part of the program will be a two act play, "A Study in Contrasts," written by students. Another feature will be an illustrated lecture, "The Proper Clothes for Each Occasion." Wearing outfits they will display at the show are, left to right, Helen Langowski, Jeanne Blazek, and Jane Kostecki. Miss Agnes Kelly is in charge of the review.

Her talk will be "Paintings in the Art Institute of Chicago."

Mrs. Lee Pierce will be hostess. Mrs. Theo Johnston is in charge of reservations.

Officers of the club, in addition to Mrs. Kurtz are: Mrs. Hector Brouillet, vice president; Mrs. Dewey Prettyman, secretary, and Mrs. Pierce, treasurer. Committee chairmen are: Mrs. Chester Kilkis, American citizenship; Mrs. Charles Callewaert, American home; Mrs. David L. Williams, gardens; Miss Elva Sunday, press and publicity; Mrs. Robert C. Marshall, membership, and Mrs. Johnston, public welfare.

Flossmoor Cadet Honored as Leader at Wentworth

Cadet Albert Gordon of Flossmoor has received a gold medal for having the highest scholastic average of the year at Wentworth Military academy, Lexington, Mo. He also won a $5 award given by the Daughters of the American Revolution to the student having the highest grades in American history. Cadet Charles Foster Jr., also of Flossmoor, is one of the 17 seniors who have been designated to attend the war department training camp at Fort Leavenworth, Kas.

Eldest Tag Day Worker Looks Back to Booth's First 'Army'

BY GLADYS PRIDDY.

Mrs. Georgina Madin.

When the annual Salvation Army Doughnut day comes on Tuesday, the oldest "lass" on tag duty will be Mrs. Georgina Madin, 77 years old, of 4740 Woodlawn avenue. She'll sell paper doughnuts for contributions to the army probably somewhere near her home.

Going on tag day duty is considered rather strenuous, but it's mild compared to the service Mrs. Madin contributed to such causes in England, her native country. And it is only a part of her service here.

Recalls Gen. Booth.

Mrs. Madin has a special interest in the Salvation Army. It began long ago in England when, as a girl in Liverpool, she first heard General William Booth, Salvation Army founder. "I first saw him when I was 17, and I went with some other young folks to hear him—to giggle at the preacher in the street. He had started his work about five years before in Nottingham." Of that first trip to hear the general, Mrs. Madin recalls that he was "generally making a noise," but she doesn't remember what he was saying.

The minister had no band then; just a big drum, his followers, and himself. At that time, many considered the army a kind of outlandish organization. People went to church. Taking the church to people who didn't go was a bit new—and different.

Mrs. Madin recalls that she was married about 10 years after seeing Gen. Booth, and her father-in-law was a great admirer of the Army leader. In fact, he'd played a violin for Booth's Army orchestra in Nottingham. Mrs. Madin became a mission worker, but she was not identified with the Army. However, she came to know and respect its work.

Mrs. Madin lived in England thru the last war. She and her daughter, Mrs. Raymond Draga, with whom she makes her home, both did war work. Mrs. Draga made munitions, and she played piano concerts for the wounded.

Her Third Drive.

Mrs. Draga came to this country as a war bride. Her mother followed her here.

This will be Mrs. Madin's third year as a "Doughnut day girl." Mrs. Henry Paschen is Doughnut day leader. Funds raised by the day go toward the Army's fresh air camp at Antioch; the settlement at 3052 Normal avenue; the emergency lodge at 1230 West Adams street, and the home and hospital at 5040 North Pulaski road.

Among women enrolled as captains for the finance drive are: Mrs. Albert E. Beath, Mrs. J. Benios, Mrs. E. M. Blanchard, Mrs. William Blocher, Mrs. Frank Curtis, Mrs. Elizabeth DeHart, Mrs. Joseph Fanta, Mrs. Edward Fay, Mrs. Edward Frayne, Mrs. Ray J. Hiserodt, Mrs. R. J. Hubbard, Mrs. C. J. Joachim, Mrs. R. G. Kennedy, Mrs. Roy Liddicott, Mrs. Ambrose Lorenz, Mrs. William McLane, Mrs. James McShame, Mrs. T. E. Milchrist, Mrs. James Mooney, Mrs. A. P. Nicks, Mrs. Oscar O. O'Brien, Mrs. Forrest Pittman, Mrs. Elsie Ridderhoff, Mrs. F. G. Saunders, Mrs. James Shirey, Mrs. J. Stevens, Mrs. A. H. Swett, Mrs. Raymond Sweetie, Julia Trosky, and Mrs. Jess Wixom.

Also Are Captains.

Also enrolled as "captains" for the tag day are Mrs. Eleanor Barbour, Mrs. J. W. Brown, Mrs. A. I. Ciliske, Mrs. John W. Clay, Mrs. Charlotte Crinnion, Mrs. Russell S. Dunbar, Mrs. Reed Foster, Mrs. Arthur Frese, Mrs. E. H. Grant, Mrs. James Granger, Maj. Clara Hagstrom, Mrs. George Herbold, Mrs. I. M. Jensen.

Mrs. A. M. Krider, Mrs. Lawrence Putnam, Mrs. Thomas Ruth, Mrs. Harvey Shollenberger, Mrs. William Finnicane, Mrs. Arthur Sullivan, Mrs. E. R. Summerville, Mrs. Beulah Thornton, Mrs. Louis Von Perbandt, Mrs. Louis Vranik, Mrs. John Walsh, and Mrs. F. T. Wood.

ST. AGNES CATHOLIC CHURCH CHORUS TO GIVE MUSICAL TODAY

Jean Ott.

Miss Jean Ott will assist with the spring musical of the mixed chorus of St. Agnes Catholic church, Chicago Heights, at the Democratic club in the suburb at 3 o'clock this afternoon. She is chairman of ticket sale for the event.

Planned for the program are numbers by the mixed chorus, the male ensemble, vocal and instrumental solos with an accompanying orchestra. Walton Pyre of the Walton Pyre Academy of Dramatic Art will be guest artist and commentator.

Among the singers will be Rebel DePalma, Naomi Clapham, Averardo Grilly, C. E. Condon, Violet Amadio, Emily Biasella, LaVeral Hart, Ann Caccio, Olga Jacobucci, James Mellilo, Jean Ott, Alba Piunti, Virginia Paltenka, June Raczykowski, Jean Raczykowski, Eleanor Sensesac, Sarah Elardi, Andretta Pagoria, Sainta D'Amico, Rose Nardella, Loretta Reinie, Margaret Schumake, Georgia Sanfratello, Donomic Alessdrinini, Joseph Biasella, Mark Foushi, John Gasbarro, Joseph Schumake, William Kaczymarski, Dominic Prist, Thomas Stapleton, Frank Petrarca, Cosmo Cosentino, Robert Klyczek, Carl Schweickert, Lawrence Stapleton, Fidele Testa, Sam Serchia, Peter Burla. Margaret Quinn-Fox is organist and director.

Children to Learn What Farmers' Crops Look Like

Small plots in Marquette park are to be converted into grain fields so that city children may learn about farmers' crops. Oats, timothy, rye, barley, blue grass, wheat, kaffir, broom corn, and pop corn will be grown, according to William Blaesing, acting chief horticulturist of the Chicago park district. The small fields are one-half block north of the Marquette green house.

OUR TOWN

Paragraphs About Some Folks You Know.

If Robert W. Bergstrom, 11248 Indiana avenue, the youngest member of the graduating class of Chicago Kent College of Law, missed any honors during his school career, they can't have been very important. To begin with, he not only attained the highest scholastic average in the senior class of 94 students, but the highest in the entire school. Following are his other achievements: [a] editor in chief of the Chicago Kent Law Review, student quarterly publication; [b] awarded gold pin in recognition of services and literary merit of his contributions to the review; [c] member of The Round Table, honorary scholastic society; [d] awarded certificate of merit by Phi Alpha Delta law fraternity for high scholastic average of the members of his fraternity graduating; [e] elected to Society of Kent honor men; [f] member of college radio debating team for two years.

Dr. E. Allen Parsons of 2935 East 79th street, had good reason to make a special trip to Buena Vista, Va., last week-end to attend the graduation of his daughter, Beverly Allyn, from Southern seminary and junior college. Miss Parsons was president of the senior class and had also been voted the most popular girl in the college. She expects to continue her education at the nurses training school of Johns Hopkins hospital at Baltimore, Md., with the next class.

The De Paulian, De Paul university's yearbook, has labeled 21 students "leaders" for this school year. To be eligible for the highest honor bestowed on the campus, students must be recommended by their college dean for scholastic records and extracurricular activity. Leaders who live in the south area are Ruth Grogan, Evergreen park, editor of The De Paulia, school paper; Wilfrid O'Sullivan, Lemont, president of the Liberal Arts senior class; William Hinckley, 7955 Yates avenue, president of the Wranglers, men's organization; John Delehide, 8140 Eberhardt avenue, co-editor of the 1940 yearbook; Joseph Rettich, 1631 East 83d street; co-editor of the yearbook; Toni Kales, Argo, society editor of the yearbook, vice president of the student activity council, and voice of the undergraduate student body; Dolores Hanlon, 7741 Green street, winter dance chairman of the Secretarial school, and Norman Sullivan, 3440 West 61st street, president of Gamma Eta Gamma, law fraternity and honor law student.

Ruth Grogan.

Mary Goeppner, a freshman at St. Casimer academy, 2601 West Marquette road, was given a gold medal for winning a nation-wide Latin contest. The presentation was made by Archbishop Stritch at graduation exercises recently. Mary, who lives at 1351 West 68th street, won the Latin national medal and norm competitive examinations competition sponsored by "Auxilium Latinum," bi-monthly magazine published in Brooklyn by the Association for the Promotion of the Study of Latin. In spite of the fact that she carries six majors, Mary is a straight "A" student and active in extracurricular affairs.

Honorable mention in the contest went to sophomores Martha Shuminas, Margaret Duffy, Eileen Pavley, Catherine Jansen, Virginia Jonaitus, Ann Crosby, and Evelyn Ziedas, and freshman Adele Druktenis.

Miss Margaret Quanstrom, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Quanstrom of 10749 Ewing avenue, has been made a member of Sieve and Shears, women's honorary achievement fraternity at Drake university. A junior in the fine arts college, Miss Quanstrom is majoring in drama and is a member of Delta Gamma, social sorority, and Alpha Lambda Delta, honorary scholastic fraternity. She also holds membership in Zeta Phi Eta, allied arts fraternity.

When the dramatic students at Mundelein college recently voted on the best performance of the year, they agreed on Miss Loretta Calnan, of 7841 Peoria street, for her work in "The High Brow," a comedy by Molière. She also has been elected president of the Laetare players, the school's dramatic art society.

Nine south side chapters of Nu Beta Nu sorority will close their 13th annual convention with a dinner-dance at Olympia Fields' Country club on Saturday, June 22. Miss Mary Scanlon, 7316 Harvard avenue, president of the sorority, and Miss Virginia Paus, 421 West 74th street, head the dance committee.

PARADES OPEN TWO ASSEMBLIES IN CITY, SUBURB

Veterans and Elks to Lead Ceremonies.

Patriotic ceremonies in observance of Flag day on the southwest side will be centered this year in two major events, both scheduled for next Sunday, two days after the official date established for nation-wide reverence of the Stars and Stripes.

Within the city there will be a community assemblage at the Valentine Boys' club, 34th street and Emerald avenue, with Legion posts from the 3d and 4th districts, Sons of the Legion squadrons, Boy Scouts, Sea Scouts, and Sons and Daughters of Veterans of the Civil war taking part.

Elks from the Chicago South lodge, Harvey and Chicago Heights will converge on Blue Island to join the lodge of that city in another observance. Judge Gibson E. Gorman is expected to give the principal address at both assemblies.

35 Posts Taking Part.

Thirty-five Legion posts are expected to participate in the Valentine club event. William A. Lauer, junior vice commander of Chicago Stockyards post is in charge of plans, and John S. Cusak, past commander of Frank Hughes post is parade marshal.

The line will form at 2 o'clock at 38th and Wallace streets. The procedure will be from there to 35th street, west to Morgan, north to 31st, east to Halsted, south to 33d, east to Emerald avenue, and then south to 35th street to disband for services at the club.

The Rev. Francis E. Young, author of "Our Nation's Prayer," which is inscribed on the tomb of the unknown soldier, will recite his poem. St. Gabriel's boys' choir will sing it. Rita Gross, a student at Mercy High school and winner of the 3d district American Legion oratorical contest, will recite her winning entry, "What America Means to Me."

Will Discuss Club Work.

C. E. Brown of Chicago Boys' clubs will address the assembly in behalf of the Valentine boys. Judge Gorman will speak at 3 o'clock. He will discuss the work of boys' clubs. The American Legion 3d district is sponsoring the program and parade.

Dr. Frank Tracy is in charge of the Blue Island Flag day observance. The parade will start there at 3:30 o'clock from New street and Western avenue. Besides Elks from Blue Island, Harvey, Chicago South, and Chicago Heights, drum corps from Legion posts in Blue Island, Harvey, Chicago Heights, and Beverly Hills have been invited.

The line of march from Western avenue will be west on New street to Greenwood, north on Greenwood to Burr Oak avenue. Paraders will go west on Burr Oak to the Memorial park at Highland avenue. Marshal of the day will be Fay Farkins of Blue Island. The services will take place before a grandstand built into a hill and seating more than 3,000 spectators. Judge Gorman's address is scheduled for 4:30 o'clock.

Will Decorate Park.

A public address system will carry the messages of the speakers. The entire park will be decorated in red, white, and blue. A specially built platform will hold an altar constructed for the Elks' flag service.

As the service progresses, officers taking part will place flowers on a form which, when complete, will be a Liberty Bell.

Joseph Cook of Harvey will give the history of the flag. A replica of each of the nine flags used by this country will be shown as the story progresses, and there will be ritual background music for the different banners. Playing will be the Blue Island High school drum quartet and brass quartet.

According to the Elks flag ritual, the first flag will be the red cross of England which Henry Cabot raised at Labrador when he landed in 1497.

From 1620 to 1775, the English flag was used. In 1606, the field of this flag had been changed from white to blue. It stands as second in the country's flag history.

Pine Tree Flag.

Third flag shows a change of the blue field to crimson with two crosses in the upper left corner and the music, "Why Should We Sing of Arthur?" The colonies substituted a pine tree for the crosses, and, in 1775, it became the flag flown by colonial vessels.

From 1776 to 1777, the southern colonies used a snake on their flag. It is fifth in the history. Sixth is the 13 alternating stripes of red and white and the azure field with the red cross of St. George and white cross of St. Andrew.

Eighth Had 15 Stripes.

"Hail Columbia!" ushers in the flag decreed on June 14, 1777, by the Continental Congress as . . . "the flag of the United States be 13 stripes of alternating red and white; that the union be 13 stars, white, on a blue field, representing a new constellation."

In 1795, two additional stars and stripes were put on to represent Vermont and Kentucky, and this, the eighth flag, inspired the "Star Spangled Banner" and went thru the war of 1812. On April 14, 1818, an act of congress provided for the present flag.

Voice of the Southwest Side

Readers of the Metropolitan Section are invited to contribute to this column on matters of neighborhood interest. Readers should confine themselves to 200 or 300 words. Full names and addresses must be given. No manuscripts will be returned. Address Voice of the Southwest Side, The Tribune.

A PLEA FOR NEW CROSSING.

Clearing parents are continuing their fight to open Austin avenue across the tracks at 59th and 60th. Residents of this vicinity have had a choice of picking their way on a narrow path across four sets of railroad tracks or walking a mile to a regular crossing. The inconvenience is great enough, but the danger to school children is far greater.

Many pupils of the Hale school have to use the path over the tracks. And pupils of the St. Symphorosa school are also endangered. In fact, many parishioners of St. Symphorosa must cross at the unprotected spot or take a long walk out of the way. I understand a hearing on the situation will be held on June 18, and I do hope that something can be done.

MRS. I. F. G.

LIKES THIS YEAR'S GRADUATES.

Congratulations to the youth of today as represented in your last Sunday's story of the boys and girls graduating at Catholic high schools. It is comforting to know that such fine and sensible young folks are going to be tomorrow's men and women.

It is good to find them so frank and so willing to get out and find their places in the world. It is evident that they expect to work at everyday jobs; they don't expect any glamor.

However, impossible dreams seem to belong to youth. And I can't help wishing that a few of the girls wanted to be Sarah Bernhardts and a few of the boys wanted to be Lindberghs.

SCHOOLS, HOMES ENTERED IN PARK LAWN CONTEST

The "Save the Lawn" campaign of the park district is getting under way with contestants registered in four classes: private homes, apartment houses, public schools, fire and police stations. Awards will be grass seed, fertilizer, trophies, lawn and garden tools. Contest entry closes June 30, and judging will be done in the first two weeks of September.

Paul S. Schulze is general chairman. He has selected chairmen in 33 districts of the city. The district is contributing free lawn signs and a pamphlet, "How to Grow a Good Lawn." These may be obtained by calling at any fieldhouse.

Among southwest residents who have entered in the private home class are: H. L. Collins, 10831 South Wood street; Michael J. Gaynor, 8838 South Throop street; Mrs. Josephine Dawe, 8219 South Elizabeth street; August Guritz, 7123 South Morgan street; William Herberg, 215 West 107th place, and Louis Santoso, 10234 LaFayette avenue.

Schools entered are Peck, Curtis, Marquette, Kershaw, D. S. Wentworth, Herzl Junior college, Oglesby, Harvard School for Boys, West Pullman, Mount Greenwood, and Kellogg.

DISTRICT THREE PRESS CHAIRMAN WILL ENTERTAIN

Mrs. R. E. Pfeifer to Be Hostess Tuesday.

Mrs. R. E. Pfeifer.

Mrs. R. E. Pfeifer, press and publicity chairman of district 3, Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs, will entertain press chairmen of district 3 clubs at a tea Tuesday at the Chicago Towers club. The affair will begin at 2 o'clock, and the special guest will be Mrs. Thomas Gifford, third district president.

The third district sent more members to the recent general federation council in Milwaukee than any other district in the country. Illinois led all other states in attendance.

Chairmen for all remaining vacancies in the district were appointed at the final board meeting for the season. Mrs. Walter I. Rennie, chairman of the appointments committee, announced the names of those chosen: Mrs. E. W. Leggot, Beverly Hills Woman's club, reappointed as art department chairman; Mrs. J. E. Trieschmann, Harvey, former district treasurer, now chairman of the American home department; Mrs. E. G. Klingler, Chicago Heights, conservation department chairman; Mrs. Robert S. Houts, Englewood, literature department; Mrs. S. J. Gottschalk, Blue Island, chairman of the newly created occupational therapy department; Mrs. Robert Jaeger Jr., Beverly Hills, public welfare, and Mrs. Frank W. Welsh, Hamilton Park club, program bureau chairman.

Conference on Thursday.

In order to assist in linking the individual clubs more closely with the district work and with the federation program, an instruction conference will take place Thursday from 10 o'clock in the morning until 12:30 in the afternoon at Ridge park fieldhouse. District and state officers will meet chairmen of local clubs and outline the plans for 1940-'41 with the view of having each club present the program described.

Mrs. W. E. Suthers, state legislation chairman, will meet recording secretaries and instruct in the proper methods of keeping books.

Invitations accepted for third district meetings for next year include one for Nov. 19 when the Gage Park club will entertain. Another will be on Jan. 13 with the Englewood club as hostess, and another on April 1, 1941, with the Brainerd Woman's club in charge. At the suggestion of Mrs. Gifford, the plan of these meetings will be reorganized so that the round table conference will begin promptly at 10:30 o'clock in the morning and the general assembly an hour later.

Brainerd Woman's Club.

Mrs. Edward Walter, president, is calling a board meeting for Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock in Ridge park fieldhouse, 96th street and Longwood drive.

New department chairmen whose names have not been previously announced are Mrs. Howard Florence, luncheon; Mrs. Edward Tocatlian, finance; Mrs. H. J. Dehn, American home; Mrs. E. M. Flood, education; Mrs. Frank Case, music; Mrs. James Shirley Jr., public welfare; Mrs. J. A. Bondzinski, public health and hygiene; Mrs. Louis Descher, dean; Mrs. William Somerville, representative Club Woman and Federation News. SCOTIA'S PLAIDS WILL MINGLE AT RITUAL DISPLAY

Clans Will Assemble on Saturday Next.

Harry B. Hutchison.

Plaids of the MacDuff, Campbell, Scott, MacKenzie, MacGregor, and Drummond clans will assemble in confusion and dissemble into unified groups for the drill and ritual display Saturday in the Chicago Towers club. The United Clans and Daughters of Scotia of Chicago will be hosts to the Clansmen and Daughters from Detroit and Flint, Mich., and Toledo, O., for the event.

During the morning, teams from seven clans will compete in a ritual contest. Each man will wear the plaid of the ancient clan he represents. The clans participating and their chiefs include Clan MacKenzie, Flint, David Beattie; Clan MacGregor, Toledo, Andrew Martin; Clan Scott, Detroit, Walter Lindsay, and Clan Drummond, Detroit, Duncan Galbraith.

Local Groups Represented.

Local groups are Clan MacDuff, the oldest in Chicago, which meets in McEnery hall, 4039 Madison street, William Marshall, chief; Clan Campbell, Eagles' hall, 3316 Madison street, James Downie, chief, and Clan Scott, 69th and Halsted streets, Charles Smith, chief. A fourth local group not competing is Clan MacDonald in Pullman.

The ladies, members of the Daughters of Scotia or the clan auxiliaries, will present their colorful drill contest before the public in the grand ballroom in the evening. Visiting lodges will be Lady Campbell from Detroit, Miss Jean Pritchard, chief daughter; Lady MacKenzie from Flint, Mrs. Isabelle Logan, chief daughter, and Lady Auxiliary No. 50 from Toledo, Mrs. Amelia Wilhelm, chief daughter, and local lodges, Lady MacDuff, Miss Agnes Anderson, chief daughter, and Lady Scott, Miss Margaret McArthur, chief daughter.

Colors They Wear.

Lady Campbell members wear black skirts, red tunics, and white tams; Lady MacKenzie, blue uniforms with white skip hats; Lady Auxiliary, MacGregor tartan kilts; Lady MacDuff, white uniforms with purple capes and tams, and Lady Scott, white uniforms with yellow and red capes and hats.

For the presentation of awards, all teams will be piped into the hall by the massed clan pipers led by the Stock Yards Post Pipe band, under the direction of Pipe Major Robert Sim. Dancing will continue till the wee hours of the morning.

Harry B. Hutchison, president of the Chicago drill and ritual committee, is in charge of arrangements and will preside at the event. Assisting with plans are the other officers, Walter McCall, vice president; Robert Muir, treasurer; Kenneth Shepherd, secretary, and George Robertson, publicity chairman.

To Open Clubhouse.

The Universal Sportsmen will open their clubhouse on the Kankakee river six miles east of Momence on Saturday. The Chicago cubroom is at 7435 Cottage Grove avenue. Dr. R. J. Gates, 757 West 79th street, is president.

SMALL BUSINESS MEN GUESTS OF SYMPHONIC HOUR

"Old Spinning Wheel" to Be Dramatic Feature.

The Chicago Tribune Symphonic Hour will be broadcast before an audience of 600 guests representing the National Small Business Men's association tonight. United States Senator H. Styles Bridges of New Hampshire, and James S. Kemper, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, will be guests of honor of the association and will attend the performance in the main audience studio of W-G-N.

Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, will be speaker of the evening.

The musical portion of the program will be given by Marion Claire, Chicago Opera company soprano, who will be soloist, and the W-G-N Symphony orchestra and chorus, directed by Henry Weber. The program will be heard from 9 to 10 p. m., on W-G-N and the Mutual Broadcasting system's coast to coast network.

Present Old Spinning Wheel.

For the dramatic feature of the evening, the Symphonic Hour will present "The Old Spinning Wheel," starring Miss Claire as narrator and soloist. An outstanding dramatic cast and the chorus and the Symphony orchestra will support her. William A. Bacher, director and producer of the program, is the author of this feature.

Miss Claire spins the thread of the narrative beginning with an 8 year old boy who loves Carolina as have his father and grandfather before him, and who promises that he will never leave his land.

The second period portrays him as an 18 year old youth courting a young English girl visiting the Carolinas. She consents to give up the beauties of her land to share life with the youth in his homeland. The concluding portion of the dramatic feature shows the couple in the autumn of their life, left with the happy memories.

In Dramatic Cast.

The aged Carolinian makes the resolution to take his wife to her native England to spend the last days of their life in return for her youthful decision to live in his land.

Heard with Miss Claire in the dramatic cast will be Cleveland Towne, DeWitt McBride, Bret Morrison, Olan Soule, Alice Hill, and Marie Nelson.

The program:

Rumanian Rhapsody..................Enesco
Orchestra.
On Wings of Song..............Mendelssohn
Miss Claire and orchestra.
Night ....Brown
Miss Claire and orchestra.
Fêtes ....Debussy
Orchestra.
The Old Spinning Wheel..................

Miss Claire, chorus and orchestra.
Speech..................Col. R. R. McCormick
Themes from Tannhäuser.............Wagner

The National Small Business Men's association was founded in 1937 by DeWitt M. Emery of Akron, O., who is president of the organization. In February, 1938, the business men united in Washington, D. C., in a demonstration to show the need of small business for a voice in governmental affairs. The association gives small business men an opportunity to voice their opinions and to exercise their influence in governmental, social, and economic affairs.

ANSON TRAINED FOR CARTUNE-O IN SCHOOL DAYS

Bill Anson, headliner in the new radio quiz game, Cartune-O, feels perfectly at ease on the program. Anson once was staff cartoonist on the Schurz High school magazine. Later his work appeared in national magazines before he abandoned the drawing board for the microphone.

Cartune-O, heard over W-G-N from 7:30 to 8:15 every Thursday evening, offers the radio audience an opportunity to participate in a quiz program. Bags of groceries are given to all listeners who correctly check five cartoons in a row across the Cartune-O card. Cash prizes ranging from $15 to $100 are awarded writers of the best brief sentences describing any of the sponsor's products.

FAVORITE SONGS TO BE PRESENTED BY NORTHERNERS

The Northerners, under the direction of Harry S. Walsh, will present a program of favorite ballads at 9:30 p. m. Tuesday on W-G-N. Irene Verner, soprano, will be the featured soloist. Miss Verner will sing the popular "Zigeuner" from Noel Coward's "Bittersweet." The octet will sing "All Day in the Prairie," "150th Psalm," and "My Heart's in the Highland." The entire Northerners cast will join in selections from "Katinka," including "Vienna Girls" and "This Is the End," and also "How High the Moon" and "I Walk with Music."

On 5th Row Center

Ruth Chatterton, stage and screen actress, who will be starred in a Fifth Row Center production at 7 p. m. Friday on W-G-N and the coast to coast network of the Mutual Broadcasting System. Miss Chatterton will play the lead in "Beautiful Lady," by Arch Oboler. She will be supported by a cast of outstanding Chicago actors.

PRESENT RUTH CHATTERTON IN 5TH ROW CENTER

"Beautiful Lady" Is Play for Friday.

Ruth Chatterton, star of the stage and screen, will play the leading rôle in "Beautiful Lady," on Fifth Row Center over W-G-N and coast-to-coast network of the Mutual Broadcasting system, at 7 p. m. next Friday.

Miss Chatterton will be supported by Francis X. Bushman, star of the silent movie era and now an outstanding radio actor, and Marvin Mueller, Ed Prentiss and Cleveland Towne, well-known Chicago actors.

"Beautiful Lady" is the story of a mother who fought against blind justice, and of a man who loved an adopted boy. Miss Chatterton plays the rôle of the mother who fights to regain the possession of her son. Bushman will be cast in the part of the man who is unwilling to relinquish his adopted son.

Chicagoans last saw Ruth Chatterton on the stage last October when she starred in the comedy, "Tonight We Dance." It was her first appearance in the legitimate theater in many years. Her best remembered movies were "Madame X," "Sarah and Son," "Lady of Secrets," "Girl's Dormitory," "Dodsworth," and "The Royal Divorce."

Before she answered the call of Hollywood, Miss Chatterton had established herself as one of Broadway's most talented actresses. She made her first hit in the memorable "Daddy Long Legs" when she was 18 years old, and this was followed by a long list of successes.

The musical setting for "Beautiful Lady" will be furnished by the W-G-N Dance orchestra under the baton of Harold Stokes. The entire production will be directed by Blair Walliser.

"YESTERDAYS" TO MAKE ITS BOW ON W-G-N—MUTUAL

A new musical program titled "Yesterdays," under the direction of Harold Stokes, will make its debut over W-G-N and the Mutual network at 9:30 p. m. tomorrow. The show will present music by the W-G-N dance orchestra and Vocalists Kathryn Witwer, soprano, and Wesley Summerfield, tenor.

Opening with the musical theme, "Yesterday," from "Roberta," the program will present a complete dramatization, incorporating popular songs in the script, telling a story of the past.

The musical numbers which will be used in the show are "I Hear You Calling Me," to be sung by Summerfield; "Honeymoon,' and "Suppose I Never Met You," by Summerfield and Miss Witwer; "Italian Street Song," sung by Miss Witwer; and "Song of the Islands," "Negra Consentida," and "Neopolitan Nights."

Supporting Miss Witwer and Summerfield will be the W-GN chorus and a dramatic cast.

Col. Louis Johnson Speaks Over Mutual on Tuesday

Col. Louis A. Johnson, assistant secretary of war, addressing a banquet meeting of the Institute of Food Technologists, will be heard over W-G-N and the Mutual network from 10 to 10:30 p. m. Tuesday, from the Morrison hotel in Chicago.

Col. Johnson's subject will be "Mobilization of the Food Industry in the Event of War."

THEATER OF AIR OPERETTAS TO RETURN IN FALL

Marion Claire to Star in "Great Waltz" First.

The Chicago Theater of the Air, which presented streamlined operetta productions at intervals of two weeks over W-G-N and the Mutual network this spring, will return with a new series of one hour productions each week starting Saturday, Sept. 14. The fall series will be opened with Marion Claire in "The Great Waltz." Miss Claire was starred in the stage version of this musical success.

Miss Claire, Chicago's own soprano, will be the feminine star in the subsequent operettas, also. Notable male soloists, including leading operatic and concert stars, will be engaged for the various productions as was the custom for the series recently concluded.

Over Mutual Network.

Dramatic and musical support will be provided by Chicago's best radio actors and by the augmented W-G-N concert orchestra and chorus under the direction of Henry Weber, musical director of W-G-N and artistic director of the Chicago Opera company. All of the Chicago Theater of the Air performances will be aired over the nation-wide network of the Mutual Broadcasting system.

William A. Bacher, the Hollywood director-producer, who has been in charge of the Chicago Theater of the Air, will direct the new series in the fall.

Three operettas were presented in the spring series with several thousand persons, many of them musical and civic leaders of Chicagoland, as studio guests.

Three Operettas Presented.

The three operettas already presented were: Noel Coward's "Bittersweet," and Simund Romberg's "Student Prince," and "Blossom Time," the latter based on the melodies of Franz Schubert. In the first of the series Miss Claire was co-starred with James Melton, the noted tenor. Miss Claire played the lead in the Chicago stage company of "Bittersweet."

"The Student Prince" was broadcast on May 16 by an all-star cast headed by Miss Claire, Jan Peerce, Radio City Music Hall tenor, and Igor Gorin, the noted baritone of concert fame.

The third of the series, "Blossom Time," broadcast to an overflow crowd on May 30, bringing to a climax the spring season, featured Miss Claire with Gorin and Michael Bartlett.

RAVINIA MUSIC QUIZ SLATED ON W-G-N TOMORROW

Three distinguished music experts will vie with a team representing the Ravinia festival association in W-G-N's weekly battle of musical minds on "Your Music I. Q." new quiz program, at 8:45 p. m., tomorrow.

The contestants comprising the experts' team include Albert Goldberg, conductor of the Illinois Symphony orchestra; Marx Oberndorfer, musical director of the Civic Music association, and Dr. Leon Sametini, violinist and conductor. They will be opposed by the Ravinia group—Durand Smith of Lake Forest, J. Eugene Davis of Glencoe, and Mrs. Lois Watt North of "Music News."

Questions on music sent in by Chicagoland's concertgoers are posed to the two teams and prizes of admissions to the six week Ravinia Music festival which opens June 25, are awarded the senders. Senders whose questions are used receive two admissions to Ravinia; if one team misses a question, the sender receives two reserved seats in addition to the admissions; if both teams are stumped, the sender receives a $10 book of 18 coupons, each good either for a 75 cent admission or a 75 cent reserved seat at any regular concert of the season.

Club Leader Will Speak on Red Cross Broadcast

Mrs. John L. Whitehurst, first vice president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, will be guest speaker during the second program of the series, Listen and Live, at noon over WENR. The broadcast, presented by the American Red Cross in the interests of first aid and accident prevention, also will include a dramatization of an actual file case of the Red Cross.

RADIO BUILDERS OPEN CONVENTION HERE ON TUESDAY

The Radio Manufacturers' association will open its 16th annual convention at the Stevens hotel on Tuesday. Meetings of allied industry organizations will also be held thruout the week. The Radio Parts National Trade show will be held in the Exhibition hall of the hotel. The Radio Servicemen of America and the Sales Managers club will hold simultaneous sessions.

A. S. Wells, president of R.M.A. and of the Wells-Gardner company of Chicago, will preside at the membership meeting and luncheon Tuesday. The annual banquet will be held on Wednesday evening.

GIVE SCHEDULE OF SHORT WAVE WAR NEWSCASTS

British Send Five "Full" Reports Daily.

Since the Nazi invasion of the Netherlands, Belgium, and France news casts in English by short-wave from the various capitals of Europe have been considerably increased.

The British Broadcasting corporation is currently sending out five "full news" transmissions daily to America, the first one at 6:30 a. m. and the last at 11 p. m. These usually run about a half hour. In addition to the official BBC bulletins eyewitness accounts by officers and men lately returned from the battle front are often given. Besides the "full" broadcasts there are several shorter news periods.

Broadcasts from Paris in English include a daily period under auspices of the American Legion. The German short wave reports are of course in sharp contrast to those of Paris and London with regard to claims.

Moscow is again broadcasting in English to American listeners at 7:15 o'clock nightly.

Below is given a schedule of newscasts in English with time [central daylight saving] and frequencies. This list was compiled by the E. H. Scott Radio Laboratories. While the schedule is not complete, the Scott laboratories in releasing it announced that it represents the transmissions and frequencies most clearly received currently in Chicagoland.

NAME REGIONAL CARRIE CARTER SEARCH WINNERS

Mrs. Bernice Currier of Shenandoah, Ia., and Miss Lucille Dodge of Chicago have been chosen as the winners in the northwest regional elimination auditions in connection with the Carrie Carter Talent search. These winners will compete in the national finals of the contest being conducted in connection with the "Carters of Elm Street" broadcasts over W-G-N and the Mutual Broadcasting system.

Miss Dodge is competing in the 12 to 25 year age group, and Mrs. Currier in the over 25 year old division. Recordings of the voices of all regional winners will be sent to Chicago for final judging.

Ruth Carhart to Sing on Bowes Family Hour

Ruth Carhart, soprano of radio and the stage, will be a special guest of Maj. Edward Bowes during his "Family Hour" on WIND and the Columbia Broadcasting system from 10:30 to 11 a. m. today. Regular members of the Bowes "family," including Nicholas Cosentino, Sam Herman, Charles Magnante, and Dalton Brother's trio with Waldo Mayo's orchestra will be heard as usual.

Irons that Smooth Damp tissue paper without tearing

WE ARE always particularly pleased to have a visit from a home manager who is "fussy" about her ironing. We like to show her how we handle the ironing, and to hear her surprised exclamation, "Why this work is beautifully done!"

We have special equipment and methods for ironing even the most delicate articles. The metal portions are steam heated; because steam heated metal will not scorch. And these ironers are so delicate they will smooth damp tissue paper without tearing!

Pull the Trigger on Lazy Bowels, and Also Pepsin-ize Stomach!
When constipation brings on acid indigestion, bloating, dizzy spells, gas, coated tongue, sour taste, and bad breath, your stomach is probably loaded up with certain undigested food and your bowels don't move. So you need both Pepsin to help break up fast that rich undigested food in your stomach, and Laxative Senna to pull the trigger on those lazy bowels. So be sure your laxative also contains Pepsin. Take Dr. Caldwell's Laxative, because its Syrup Pepsin helps you gain that wonderful stomach comfort, while the Laxative Senna moves your bowels. Tests prove the power of Pepsin to dissolve those lumps of undigested protein food which may linger in your stomach, to cause belching, gastric acidity and nausea. This is how pepsinizing your stomach helps relieve it of such distress. At the same time this medicine wakes up lazy nerves and muscles in your bowels to relieve your constipation. So see how much better you feel by taking the laxative that also puts Pepsin to work on that stomach discomfort, too. Even finicky children love to taste this pleasant family laxative. Buy Dr. Caldwell's Laxative—Senna with Syrup Pepsin at your druggist today!

DOCTOR'S SUITE LOSES SEVERITY IN REMODELING

Reception Lounge Made Like Living Room.

BY LOUISE BARGELT.

The fine art of modernization is by no means confined to homes or to apartments.

A handsome and interesting change has been effected in the Monroe building, 104 South Michigan avenue, Chicago. It is the modernization of a suite of physicians' offices, the treatment in the contemporary style with modern Swedish furnishings.

The work of the modernization was put into the hands of the architects, Hooper and Nelson, 118 East 26th street, Chicago, and these architects carried out their appointed task with a wise understanding of their clients' wishes.

In the offices of many modern physicians and surgeons there is now seen a trend away from the extreme severity of past years—as there is likewise in hospitals a distinct trend away from unrelieved white. This is a recognition of the fact that the state of mind of a nervous, sick patient can often be calmed and steadied in an atmosphere of quiet, harmonious colors, and furnishings which are beautifully simple, and in fine style.

Like Living Room.

In this particular physicians' suite the reception room has been treated in the manner of a gracious, hospitable living room in a private home or apartment.

Three of the walls have been painted a soft green, while the fireplace wall is papered with a deep green, hand blocked paper, with a primitive motif. This aboriginal note blends well with the natural wood trim, and the brown rubber tile floor which affords the feel of warm earth.

The wide, striking fireplace has a natural wood mantel in oak with modern horizontal fluting across the top. The hearth is of black marble, the andirons of highly polished brass. Further accent is given to the primitive by the "Balinese" figure on the mantel and the etchings on the wall, which are framed in natural wood and show glimpses of sky and trees and water.

The room is lighted entirely by lamps, and there is a capacious unit seat in the center of the room of butterscotch yellow, a warm, happy tone. The chairs are a gray-green leather with ambered mahogany legs, and on the table is a highly polished brass lamp.

Block Veneer Walls.

While this reception room has the spirit of a living room the consultation room has the atmosphere of a library. The block veneered walls are of Japanese exotic wood in rich shades of tan. The floor is covered with a sand toned carpet, and the trim is a natural oak, treated with a white filler to lighten it and achieve a perfect harmony between trim and walls.

The desk is of ambered mahogany, with fluorescent lighting, and the chairs are upholstered in gray-green leather. Here the ceiling is a grayish pink, and the pictures on the walls are gay water color sketches, introducing lively tones of greens and yellows and reds. There are green drapes at the windows, and the light gray diagonal line in these drapes is caught and carried into the pale gray of the Venetian blinds and tapes.

There are four examining rooms, and the architects have carried out their decorations with the same delightful attention to color harmony and detail. In one we find the walls an Egyptian tan, with a pale green ceiling. The furniture is of the same fine ambered mahogany as is seen in the consultation room and reception room, and upholstered in gray-green tones.

Flush Type Doors.

The doors are the flush type with linoleum floor in tile pattern, the grays and whites in the pattern in harmony with the natural oak woodwork and Venetian blinds. In another examining room the color scheme is reversed, the walls are green and the ceiling is an Egyptian tan.

In this suite there is also an adjoining small reception office with Egyptian tan walls, an X-ray room and a laboratory. Even the instrument cabinets of ambered mahogany are beautiful enough to take their place in a living room or dining room or library.

Two South Siders Receive Degrees from Swarthmore

Two south siders were graduated from Swarthmore [Pa.] college last week. They are Miss Jane Gilruth, 7206 Euclid avenue, and Ray H. Coffman, 5805 Blackstone avenue. Miss Gilruth was graduated with high honors in the Division of Humanities and Coffman was treasurer of the senior class and a member of Phi Kappa Psi fraternity.

This Week in the Garden

Monday, June 10.

Plants placed far enough apart should have the soil stirred between them until they cover the ground. It is impossible to cultivate perennials planted close together after the foliage becomes intermingled. Until then consistent cultivation is essential. After the plants touch and the roots fill the soil, summer mulching with peat is an excellent practice. Spent mushroom manure and grass clippings also may be used. Water thru the mulch. Soil for potting should be available at all times. Save weeds and other material and start a compost heap

Tuesday, June 11.

Do not neglect to thin seedlings so that each plant remaining will have room to develop. Annuals do best in mass unless grown in rows in the cutting garden. Flowering plants never attain their full beauty of flower and foliage unless each plant has space to develop. Thinning should be done while the plants are small to avoid disturbing those that remain. Mowing the lawn should be done carefully. The best height to cut is from 1½ to 2 inches unless it is a bent grass lawn, which is cut very low and often. All beds and walks should be kept edged. Keep shrubs within bounds and vines securely fastened in place.

Wednesday, June 12.

Pansies require a rich, mellow soil and if partial shade can be given it will prolong their flowering period. Never allow seed to form. Pick all flowers occasionally to rest the plants and later in the season trim back the growths to encourage new, vigorous growth. Mulch the bed during hot weather and never allow the soil to become excessively dry. Water when the plants need water and not before. Soak the ground to a depth of five inches for established plants. Water early in the morning to enable the foliage to dry off before night and avoid the likelihood of attacks by fungous diseases. Sprinkling the lawn only results in shallow rooting. Soak the lawn to encourage deep rooting.

Thursday, June 13.

Plants in window boxes must be watered daily. Allow the water to soak thru the drainage holes in the bottom of the box, if it is of wood; if it is self-watering learn by experience when to water. A moist upper surface indicates that the soil is moist thruout. Tuberous begonias may be planted in a shady location. Use a well drained soil, fairly light. It is not too late to plant bedding plants, such as cannas, ageratum, geraniums, heliotrope, salvia, and numerous other kinds. Cannas are among the finest flowering plants for average backgrounds, and they may be obtained in green or bronze foliage with yellow or red blooms. They need heat, rich soil, and plenty of water. Be sure to sow vines along the fences. Why not try gourds?

Friday, June 14.

Feed the amaryllis bulbs to obtain good, strong plants for next season's blooming. Keep all newly planted fruit trees, shade trees, and shrubs well mulched. Water thru the mulch. Sow the seeds of perennials to obtain strong plants for next autumn. It is an excellent plan to assign a plot of ground as a seedbed. Provide lath shade to be used whenever necessary. Have a sprinkling can at hand for watering. Keep the blooms cut on coreopsis. Do not allow sweet peas to go to seed. Pick the flowers each morning for use indoors. Mulch these plants and watch for plant lice.

Saturday, June 15.

This is rose month. Liquid manure applied to roses is very beneficial; a complete commercial food is easily obtained and contains more food than organic manures. Dust sulphur on roses for mildew. Disbud roses for large display blooms. Vegetable crops that are grown for the foliage should be fed nitrogen. Tie up the leaves of cauliflower to obtain choice white heads. Tomatoes will ripen more uniformly if they are staked. Control leaf eating worms with a stomach poison.

Has Church Wedding

Irene Antoinette, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Rakauskas, 2441 West Marquette road, became the bride of Andrew Joseph Gudenas in a wedding service late in May at the Nativity of Blessed Virgin Mary church. A reception at the Viking temple followed. Mr. and Mrs. Gudenas chose Niagara Falls for their wedding trip, and they are making their present home at the residence of Mrs. Gudenas' parents.

Civic Association to Hear Talk on Traffic Safety

Principal speaker at the traffic safety meeting sponsored by the Stony Island Park Civic association, 86th street and Cregier avenue, Wednesday evening will be George W. Fleming, general secretary of Mayor Kelly's Keep Chicago Safe committee. Roland B. Dean, president of the association, is leading a movement to reduce traffic deaths and accidents in the community, emphasizing the safety of pedestrians.

Home on South Side

Before her wedding a short time ago Mrs. Stanley Young was Miss Grace Bernoski, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Bernoski, 6104 South Mozart street. Her husband is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Young of Rochester, N. Y. After a wedding trip to the Great Smoky mountains the couple returned to live at 822 East 82d street.

Seven Goodman theater students will take part in a new play by Eric Eisner, "Hell and Paradise," to be presented at 8:30 o'clock next Saturday in the Woman's Club theater, 72 East 11th street. The production is being sponsored by the Chicago Round Table of Christians and Jews. Members of the cast include Miss Muriel Meritt, 162 East Ohio street; Miss Judith Jeffrey, 9568 Prospect avenue; Rodger Tracy, 201 East Ontario street; Allan Hancock, 1400 Lake Shore drive; Donald Davies, East Chicago; Robert Thompson, 201 East Ontario street.

160 CULVER CADETS ARE TO BE AWARDED DIPLOMAS WEDNESDAY

Ralph W. Harris, 10415 South Bell avenue, will be one of the 160 seniors who will receive their diplomas Wednesday at Culver Military Academy, Culver, Ind., where commencement exercises begin today.

Ralph W. Harris.

The first important event will be the baccalaureate sermon at 11 o'clock this morning, preached by Dr. Charles W. Welch of Louisville, Ky. Tomorrow afternoon there will be a parade at which commissions will be awarded to the seniors. At this time Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, will present the Tribune medals to the outstanding senior, junior, and sophomore.

Dr. Franklin Bliss Snyder, president of Northwestern university, will be the speaker at the cum laude exercises to be held Tuesday afternoon. Raymond J. Kelly, national commander of the American Legion, will present R. O. T. C. certificates at a parade which will follow. A formal ball will be held that evening.

Wednesday morning the cadet corps will form on the shore of Lake Maxinkuckee, where the seniors will receive their diplomas, corps appointments for next fall will be announced, and the cadets will be dismissed until September.

NEW IRISH CLUB BOY SCOUT UNIT LISTS 23 YOUTHS

The newly organized Boy Scout Troop 590, sponsored by the Irish club, 29 South La Salle street, will have 23 members when it meets at 7:30 o'clock Thursday evening. Scoutmaster George Cunningham, 7711 Prairie avenue, has chosen Donald Collins, 348 East 77th street, as his assistant. Martin E. Corcoran, 29 South La Salle street, is chairman of the troop committee.

PLANS TO SPUR SPIRIT OF PLAY BY HOT LUNCHES

Back of Yards Council Has Vacation Idea.

"Give a boy a bat and a ball, and he'll keep out of mischief." So ran the general theme upon which much early social work was based.

That works all right, according to Joseph Meegan, supervisor of Davis Square park and executive secretary of the Back of The Yards council, if the boy has a playground whereon to use the bat and ball. If, too, he has had enough to eat to give him energy to play. And, again, if he has the few coins he needs to keep himself supplied with candy bars and chewing gum.

For the last two months, members of the council have been working to have playgrounds alloted and put into shape. This activity they've gone into along with their fulltime interest in finding work for their young people.

Plan Hot Lunches.

And now, Mr. Meegan announces, the council will distribute hot lunches thru the vacation period for the youngsters who are enrolled in the handicraft schools at the park. Thus the realization of the theory is completed. The Back of The Yards boys and girls are to have the bats and balls, places to use them and help with the lunch situation.

Representatives of St. Rose of Lima church and the council are coöperating with the Federal Surplus Commodities corporation to provide the lunches for 1,200 to 1,500 children each weekday. Serving will begin on July 5 and continue for six weeks. Dietitians and cooks from WPA will be in charge of planning, preparation, and service. Balanced meals will be on the menu. This is the first time that the FSCC supplies have been made available for public servings outside of schools.

Plan CYO School.

Children will be attending the eighth annual CYO summer school at the square, 45th street and South Marshfield avenue, this year. A corps of 75 volunteer teachers will instruct them in needlework, manual training, games, swimming, dramatics, and sports.

Two recreation centers are to be added to the facilities at the park. One is at 47th street and Damen avenue, the other at 48th and Aberdeen streets. Both will be ready for use when schools are out. So far, $1,200 worth of material has been used. NYA boys are doing the work on the lots. Softball diamonds, bleachers, a backstop, sandboxes, horseshoe courts, teeters, swings—these are the pieces of equipment already built or being constructed.

The council is drawing upon a $3,500 fund allocated from the community chest. This sum was procured thru the efforts of Ald. J. J. McDermott [14th]. To use it, the council must match it. Already nearly half has been raised by a community dance.

Organized Year Ago.

Back of the Yards council was organized a year ago in April. The original council was Saul D. Alinsky and Joseph Meegan. They walked thru the streets of the area and solicited support.

There are no paid council workers. The council has been built into a union of church, labor, and business. There are now 127 organizations represented in it. A Boy Scout troop was recruited three weeks ago with 73 applications. The Infant Welfare station was opened by the council in December and has served 600 individual mothers.

Committees working within the council are Youth committee, juvenile delinquency, social, unemployment, and labor, and educational.

Recently, the southwest real estate board appropriated $100 with which the council was instructed to help residents in beautifying their lawns. The area served extends from 39th to 55th street and from Halsted to Western avenue.

Traffic Safety Meeting Is Planned by Civic Club

A traffic safety rally will be held tomorrow evening at 42d street and Champlain avenue under the auspices of the Chicago Civic and Education club. W. D. Griffith is chairman. George W. Fleming, general secretary of Mayor Kelly's Keep Chicago Safe committee, will discuss fatalities and accidents in Chicago during the last year.

Camp Fire Girls.

The Cal-Wa-Han-Ka Camp Fire girls' group, directed by the Calhoun School Mothers' Civic council, will meet at 3:15 o'clock Friday afternoon in Altgeld park fieldhouse.

Mrs. Harold F. Wood, 11039 South Bell avenue, retiring regent of De Walt Mechlin chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, and her board members will be honored at a garden party tomorrow afternoon at the home of Mrs. Tim H. Ingwersen, Braeburn road, Flossmoor. Vesta Murray Watkins, soprano, will sing. Mrs. Alonzo Newton Benn will speak on "The Origin and Correct Use of the Flag," and use an exhibit of flags with her talk. Mrs. Benn is chairman of the correct use of the flag from the Chicago chapter and vice chairman in the same capacity for the state.

SCHOOL PATROL BOYS WILL GET FREE OUTINGS

Are to Be Guests of the Chicago Motor Club.

The last two weeks of this month will be away-at-camp weeks for those southwest side patrol boys who are to be guests of the Chicago Motor club at Hastings lake near Lake Villa in Lake county.

Charles M. Hayes, president of the motor club, has assigned patrol boys to camps in that area. While some of the boys will be at Camp Hastings on the northwest shore of Hastings lake, others will be at Camp Cutten on the south shore of the lake.

Indiana boys will go to a camp at Muskegon, Mich., on June 22, and girls from Indiana and Illinois will have their own special camp near Elgin June 18 to 28, Mr. Hayes announced.

Get Free Outings.

The 750 winners were selected from 40,000 boys. The awards are a full week of camp life with transportation.

BUSES TO LINK INDIANA AND LOOP

HONOR PUPILS TO BE HEARD ON 'CITIZEN' SHOW

To Be Special Guests at Broadcast.

The voices of 50 of those who carry the great hopes of the middle west will be heard on W-G-N next Wednesday evening. The occasion will be the final program of the first series of the "Citizens of Tomorrow" broadcasts from 7 to 7:30 that evening. The high school students who have been named to the "Citizens of Tomorrow" honor roll will give their names, home towns, and tell of their ambitions during the show.

Dean W. H. Conley.

Fifty students from the middlewest have been named to the roll and they will be the special guests of Chicago when they come to town for the final broadcast.

Students to Attend.

The broadcast will be from the W-G-N audience studio and will be attended by 600 students from Wright Junior college. Dean William H. Conley of the college will lead the delegation of students and have a seat on the platform.

The college mixed chorus will be heard in three songs including the school song, "Fight Wright, Fight!" Morton Haas, Bob Riis, and Inez Richland will lead the students in cheering.

Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE TRIBUNE, will speak briefly.

Guests on List.

Following the broadcast, Philip Maxwell, a member of THE TRIBUNE'S editorial staff, who plays the rôle of "The Principal" in the show, will introduce several special guests, including James B. McCahey, president of the board of education; Dr. William H. Johnson, superintendent of the Chicago public schools, and Miss Helen Howe, director of music, and Harold Kent, director of the radio council, both of the public schools.

The members of the honor roll will come from 30 cities and towns of the Chicagoland states. A number of events have been arranged for their entertainment.

At 1 o'clock they will be guests of the Junior Association of Commerce at a luncheon in the La Salle hotel and at 3 o'clock will be given an airplane ride over Chicago in a big TWA plane. Then at 5 o'clock the Chicago Woman's club is entertaining them at supper in the clubhouse at 72 East 11th street.

TEMPLARS PLAN INSTALLATION FOR TOMORROW

New officers of Chicago Commandery, No. 19, Knights Templar, will be installed at 8 o'clock tomorrow night at an open meeting at 32 West Randolph street. Henry R. Lundblad, past grand state commander, will be the installing officer. George C. Norris, past commander of the Chicago commandery, will be grand marshal.

Those to be inducted are Fred L. J. Herrmann, commander; Jerry J. Blecha, generalissimo; Harry P. Falkner, captain general; Archie O. Colenbaugh, senior warden; William H. Dunkak, junior warden; Oscar F. Modene, prelate; Murray A. Stillwaugh, treasurer; Henry R. Lundblad, recorder; Carl H. Boettcher, sword bearer; Carl Ketel, warden; Edward R. Shafer, color bearer, and Ralph W. Wilder, sentinel.

Members of the finance board are George C. Norris, Jerry J. Blecha, Walter Woldhausen, Lee Millner, and Fred L. J. Herrmann. Music will be supplied by the Chicago commandery band. Refreshments will be served by the ladies auxiliary.

ST. RITA HIGH ALUMNI ARE TO ATTEND FEAST

The St. Rita High school alumni banquet tomorrow at the Hotel Shoreland will be a celebration of the silver jubilee of the class of 1915, a welcome for the members of this year's class, and a testimonial to John [Hicks] Connelly who is leaving St. Rita after 14 years as teacher and basketball and football coach.

John J. McVady, 7936 South Winchester avenue, is chairman of the class of 1915 committee. Assisting him are Bernard Lynsky, 5524 South Richmond street; William V. Daly, 6339 South Justine street; Raymond Adams, 7723 South Bennett street; William J. Luby, 6136 North Kilpatrick street, and Thomas Kincaid, 6333 South Richmond street.

Dr. James J. Gardner, 7048 South Western avenue, is president of the alumni association. On the banquet program will be Charles Conzelman, coach of the Cardinals, professional football team, and John Carmichael.

Helping Toward Horse Show's Success

BY GLADYS PRIDDY.

When the annual Salvation Army Doughnut day comes on Tuesday, the oldest "lass" on tag duty will be Mrs. Georgina Madin, 77 years old, of 4740 Woodlawn avenue. She'll sell paper doughnuts for contributions to the army probably somewhere near her home.

Mrs. Georgina Madin.

Going on tag day duty is considered rather strenuous, but it's mild compared to the service Mrs. Madin contributed to such causes in England, her native country. And it is only a part of her service here.

Recalls Gen. Booth.

Mrs. Madin has a special interest in the Salvation Army. It began long ago in England when, as a girl in Liverpool, she first heard General William Booth, Salvation Army founder. "I first saw him when I was 17, and I went with some other young folks to hear him—to giggle at the preacher in the street. He had started his work about five years before in Nottingham." Of that first trip to hear the general, Mrs. Madin recalls that he was "generally making a noise," but she doesn't remember what he was saying.

The minister had no band then; just a big drum, his followers, and himself. At that time, many considered the army a kind of outlandish organization. People went to church. Taking the church to people who didn't go was a bit new—and different.

Mrs. Madin recalls that she was married about 10 years after seeing Gen. Booth, and her father-in-law was a great admirer of the Army leader. In fact, he'd played a violin for Booth's Army orchestra in Nottingham. Mrs. Madin became a mission worker, but she was not identified with the Army. However, she came to know and respect its work.

Maneuvers of Army.

She says, "On Saturday evenings, the Army workers used to go around the pubs and ask permission to distribute literature. The pamphlets would state that the Salvation Army band would come by for a midnight meeting. Well, the band would march by late, and the fellows in the pubs would be a little woozy and follow along. Then there'd be a meeting, and a lot of men were converted while they were the worse for their visit to the publican."

However, this came out all right, Mrs. Madin says. The men usually remembered their conversion after they were sober. They also remembered they'd promised to attend church. Usually they didn't get there, however, so the Salvation Army workers would call to ask why. The stock excuse was lack of good clothing. The Army supplied suitable garments—and then the men just had to go to church.

Mrs. Madin lived in England thru the last war. She and her daughter, Mrs. Raymond Draga, with whom she makes her home, both did war work. Mrs. Draga made munitions, and she played piano concerts for the wounded.

Her Third Drive.

Mrs. Draga came to this country as a war bride. Her mother followed her here.

This will be Mrs. Madin's third year as a "Doughnut day girl." Mrs. Henry Paschen is Doughnut day leader. Funds raised by the day go toward the Army's fresh air camp at Antioch; the settlement at 3052 Normal avenue; the emergency lodge at 1230 West Adams street, and the home and hospital at 5040 North Pulaski road.

Among women enrolled as captains for the finance drive are: Mrs. Albert E. Beath, Mrs. J. Benios, Mrs. E. M. Blanchard, Mrs. William Blocher, Mrs. Frank Curtis, Mrs. Elizabeth DeHart, Mrs. Joseph Fanta, Mrs. Edward Fay, Mrs. Edward Frayne, Mrs. Ray J. Hiserodt, Mrs. R. J. Hubbard, Mrs. C. J. Joachim, Mrs. R. G. Kennedy, Mrs. Roy Liddicott, Mrs. Ambrose Lorenz, Mrs. William McLane, Mrs. James McShame, Mrs. T. E. Milchrist, Mrs. James Mooney, Mrs. A. P. Nicks, Mrs. Oscar O. O'Brien, Mrs. Forrest Pittman, Mrs. Elsie Ridderhoff, Mrs. F. G. Saunders, Mrs. James Shirey, Mrs. J. Stevens, Mrs. A. H. Swett, Mrs. Raymond Sweetie, Julia Trosky, and Mrs. Jess Wixom.

Also Are Captains.

Also enrolled as "captains" for the tag day are Mrs. Eleanor Barbour, Mrs. J. W. Brown, Mrs. A. I. Ciliske, Mrs. John W. Clay, Mrs. Charlotte Crinnion, Mrs. Russell S. Dunbar, Mrs. Reed Foster, Mrs. Arthur Frese, Mrs. E. H. Grant, Mrs. James Granger, Maj. Clara Hagstrom, Mrs. George Herbold, Mrs. I. M. Jensen.

Mrs. A. M. Krider, Mrs. Lawrence Putnam, Mrs. Thomas Ruth, Mrs. Harvey Shollenberger, Mrs. William Finnicane, Mrs. Arthur Sullivan, Mrs. E. R. Summerville, Mrs. Beulah Thornton, Mrs. Louis Von Perbandt, Mrs. Louis Vranik, Mrs. John Walsh. and Mrs. F. T. Wood.

EQUESTRIAN CLUB HOLDS ITS ANNUAL BREAKFAST RIDE

About 200 men and women horsemen last Sunday took part in the annual breakfast ride of the Town and Country Equestrian association. The ride of ten miles started and ended at Division No. 5 at Palos Park forest preserve.

The ride was under the direction of a committee headed by John A. Klein, a director in the association. Other members of the committee include J. M. Fitzgerald, Merton Ketchum, Mrs. H. M. L. Hall and Robert Mann. Officers of the association are Herbert J. Lorber, president; Frank Bering, vice president, and A. H. Sus, secretary-treasurer.

Directors include Mr. Klein, H. Leslie Atlass, Frank J. Birk, John C. Bowers, Hill Blackett, James H. Cartwright, Wayne Dinsmore, Carleton L. Elms, Capt. W. E. Everett, Frank J. Fox, A. E. Grossmith, J. A. Hannah, Stevens H. Hammond, Albert W. Harris, Orvis T. Henkle Jr., Elmer J. Holdorf, T. L. J. Klapp Jr., Joy Morton II., Harry McNair, Edwin Rothschild, H. S. Silberman, J. C. Thompson, Col. E. N. Wentworth, Lieut. Col. Frank O. Wood and Fred L. Workman.

One of the sprightliest riders in the horse show this evening at the South Shore Country club will be Gwyneth Lee Oliver, 10 year old daughter of Mrs. Marcus S. Oliver of 6826 Crandon avenue. Gwyneth Lee, who recently won a place in the junior equestrienne class at the Camp Oak openings in Saugatuck, Mich., will be entered in the children's class, which is the largest arranged by any horse show in the country. She is a student at the University of Chicago elementary school.

Hebrew Congregation Men's Club Elects New Officers

The Men's club of the South Side Hebrew congregation elected officers for the coming year at its last meeting. They are Al Ellis, president; Harry Schero, Martin Leavitt, and Dr. Samuel Winebrugh, vice presidents; Herman Moss, secretary, and David Saper, treasurer. The club will give a picnic for the benefit of the Hebrew school on Sunday, June 23.

Summer Term Is Scheduled for Hirsch High School

Summer school will be conducted at Hirsch High school from June 24 to Aug. 16 this year. Providing there are enough students interested, all regular subjects will be offered. Teachers will be selected from the faculty of Bowen, Calumet, Hyde Park, and Hirsch High schools.

OUR TOWN

Paragraphs About Some Folks You Know.

IF Robert W. Bergstrom, 11248 Indiana avenue, the youngest member of the graduating class of Chicago Kent College of Law, missed any honors during his school career, they can't have been very important. To begin with, he not only attained the highest scholastic average in the senior class of 94 students, but the highest in the entire school. Following are his other achievements: [a] editor in chief of the Chicago Kent Law Review, student quarterly publication; [b] awarded gold pin in recognition of services and literary merit of his contributions to the review; [c] member of The Round Table, honorary scholastic society; [d] awarded certificate of merit by Phi Alpha Delta law fraternity for high scholastic average of the members of his fraternity graduating; [e] elected to Society of Kent honor men; [f] member of college radio debating team for two years,

Robert W. Bergstrom.

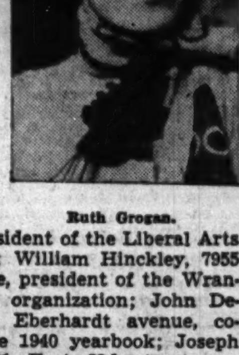
Dr. E. Allen Parsons of 2935 East 79th street, had good reason to make a special trip to Buena Vista, Va., last week-end to attend the graduation of his daughter, Beverly Allyn, from Southern seminary and junior college. Miss Parsons was president of the senior class and had also been voted the most popular girl in the college. She expects to continue her education at the nurses training school of Johns Hopkins hospital at Baltimore, Md., with the next class.

Miss Margaret Quanstrom, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Quanstrom of 10749 Ewing avenue, has been made a member of Sieve and Shears, women's honorary achievement fraternity at Drake university. A junior in the fine arts college, Miss Quanstrom is majoring in drama and is a member of Delta Gamma, social sorority, and Alpha Lambda Delta, honorary scholastic fraternity. She also holds membership in Zeta Phi Eta, allied arts fraternity.

When the dramatic students at Mundelein college recently voted on the best performance of the year, they agreed on Miss Loretta Calnan, of 7841 Peoria street, for her work in "The High Brow," a comedy by Molière. She also has been elected president of the Laetare players, the school's dramatic art society.

Nine south side chapters of Nu Beta Nu sorority will close their 13th annual convention with a dinner-dance at Olympia Fields' Country club on Saturday, June 22. Miss Mary Scanlon, 7316 Harvard avenue, president of the sorority, and Miss Virginia Paus, 421 West 74th street, head the dance committee.

THE De Paulian, De Paul university's yearbook, has labeled 21 students "leaders" for this school year. To be eligible for the highest honor bestowed on the campus, students must be recommended by their college dean for scholastic records and extra-curricular activity. Leaders who live in the south area are Ruth Grogan, Evergreen park, editor of The De Paulia, school paper; Wilfrid O'Sullivan, Lemont, president of the Liberal Arts senior class; William Hinckley, 7955 Yates avenue, president of the Wranglers, men's organization; John Delehide, 8140 Eberhardt avenue, coeditor of the 1940 yearbook; Joseph Rettich, 1631 East 83d street; coeditor of the yearbook; Toni Kales, Argo, society editor of the yearbook, vice president of the student activity council, and voice of the undergraduate student body; Dolores Hanlon, 7741 Green street, winter dance chairman of the Secretarial school, and Norman Sullivan, 3440 West 61st street, president of Gamma Eta Gamma, law fraternity and honor law student.



Ruth Grogan.

Mary Goeppner, a freshman at St. Casimer academy, 2601 West Marquette road, was given a gold medal for winning a nation-wide Latin contest. The presentation was made by Archbishop Stritch at graduation exercises recently. Mary, who lives at 1351 West 68th street, won the Latin national medal and norm competitive examinations competition sponsored by "Auxilium Latinum," bimonthly magazine published in Brooklyn by the Association for the Promotion of the Study of Latin. In spite of the fact that she carries six majors, Mary is a straight "A" student and active in extracurricular affairs.

Honorable mention in the contest went to sophomores Martha Shuminas, Margaret Duffy, Eileen Pavley, Catherine Jansen, Virginia Jonaitus, Ann Crosby, and Evelyn Ziedas, and freshman Adele Druktenis.

After careful consideration William Wambaugh of 4130 Ellis avenue and Hyde Park High school, has decided to go to the University of Chicago next year on a scholarship. William had this choice to make after he was notified that he is the new state Latin champion. He took first place in the annual contest held recently at Knox college, Galesburg, Ill., which offers a full scholarship to the recipient's favorite college. William was the lone Hyde Parker to survive the preliminary, district, sectional, and state examinations.

South side schools will hear two units of the Illinois music project in concerts this week. The American Concert orchestra, under the direction of Ralph Cissne, will play Tuesday afternoon at the Cornell school, 7540 Drexel avenue, and the Jubilee singers, directed by James A. Mundy, will appear Tuesday morning at the Mann school, 8050 Chappel avenue.

Palos Heights Gun Club Born on Vacant Lot

BY JOHN T. McCUTCHEON JR.

Teachers at the Palos Park community schoolhouse may not remember a day early in October, 1938, when they finally told a handful of leather-jacketed men to stop shooting in an adjoining vacant lot because the noise disturbed the pupils.

But that handful of men has now become the Palos Heights Trap and Gun club; its membership has already spread thru the community and numbers 103. It is one of the larger Chicagoland gun clubs which have coöperated in forming the Sportsmen's Home Defense league, whose purpose is the organization of millions of amateur marksmen into a civilian reserve corps for action in case of an emergency.

Adds Feminine Touch.

Original members of the then nameless organization were Dr. F. C. Jacobsen, 9118 South Winchester avenue, his son, William, of Palos Park, and William F. Brown, vice president of Robert Bartlett & Co., real estate dealers, also of Palos Park. The younger Jacobsen's wife, Barbara, accompanied the trio in the summer of 1938 to their first outing on the vacant lot, and was immediately drafted to work the hand spring which threw the clay pigeons into the air.

As the early mornings became colder it was necessary to build a bonfire to stand by. Other friends often joined the group, and colder weather brought more shooting. It was at this inopportune moment that the fall term of the school began, and after a few weeks the teachers delivered their ultimatum.

The group, then a dozen or so, decided to try the top of a nearby hill, which was too exposed for anybody to want to live on. After a month of progressively colder and windier mornings up there, Mr. Brown and the Jacobsens began to think it was too exposed even for trapshooting.

Obtain Clubhouse.

They then moved to their present location, a 12 acre lot near 119th street and Harlem avenue, which they have since purchased outright, thus becoming one of the few clubs to own their own land. Down the street they found a couple of one room real estate offices at bargain prices, and moved them to form a two room clubhouse on the new land. The clubhouse proved a great drawing card, and membership grew.

Members were divided into week-end shifts to improve the new clubhouse. With the technical advice of a carpenter-electrician they built a 60 foot veranda and wired the house for electricity. Last summer they were able to purchase new equipment and now have two skeet fields and a trap, all of the most up to date design, and a rifle range. The most recent improvement is the planting of 250 poplar trees on the land.

Present officers of the club are William Felber, 9514 Vanderpoel avenue, who has succeeded William Jacobsen as president; Fred T. Rumpf, 9841 South Hoyne avenue, secretary, and Albert Moody, Palos Park, treasurer.

WOMEN OF G. O. P. TO TALK PLANS FOR CARD PARTY

Plans for a card party in August will be discussed by members of the executive committee of the 8th Ward Republican Women's organization Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Mabel Kramer, 8123 Evans avenue. Mrs. Agnes Eulass, 8400 Constance avenue, is chairman and Mrs. Alma Kodat, 7936 Evans avenue, cochairman.

Members who will attend the Republican state convention in Springfield Friday are Mrs. Ruby Speakman, Mrs. Kramer, Mrs. Helen Olin, Mrs. Grace Helander, Mrs. Selina Murray, Mrs. Anna Barrie, Mrs. Pearl Bumbs, Mrs. Grayce St. Clair, Mrs. Isabelle McManus, Mrs. Florence Peek, Mrs. Elizabeth Wills, Mrs. Levina Strunce, Mrs. Pearl Thiel, Mrs. Alma Kodat, Mrs. Agnes Eulass, Mrs. Ena Buttsbach, Mrs. Maud Belknap, Mrs. Maud Hellerman, Mrs. Amy Means, Mrs. Ruth Tunison, Mrs. Alice Endicott, Mrs. Goldie Lively, Mrs. Margaret Grund, and Mrs. Charlotte Samuelson.

SCHOOLS WILL CONDUCT FLAG DAY CEREMONY

Thirteen south side elementary schools will assist Hyde Park High school in its flag day program starting at 2 o'clock Thursday in Jackson park. The schools are Bret Harte, Bryn Mawr, Fiske, Kenwood, Kozminski, Madison, Parkside, Oakenwald, O'Keeffe, Ray, Scott, Shakespeare, and Wadsworth.

After the presentation of colors by the Ray school and the playing of the "Star Spangled Banner" by the Hyde Park band, the Scott school will lead participants in the pledge of allegiance. Raymond Engle of the Fiske school will deliver an oration on "What the American Flag Does for Me."

The program will close with the singing of "God Bless America" by the Hyde Park Male chorus. Other features will be the Bret Harte Rhythm band and the Kozminski Harmonica club.

Two South Side Girls Win Monticello Degrees

Two south siders were among the 53 students graduated from Monticello college, Alton, Ill., last week in the annual commencement exercises. They are Miss Josephine White of 4329 Drexel boulevard, and Miss Caroline Pettes of 7430 Prairie avenue.

DIRECT SERVICE WILL GO INTO EFFECT TODAY

Takes Place of Old Street Car System.

BY PAUL HEALY.
[MAP ON PAGE TWO.]

Gary and several other northern Indiana towns will be linked with the Chicago loop by direct bus service beginning today. The buses will entirely replace the 50 year old street car system between 63d street and towns across the state line and will extend the transit line from 63d street via the outer drive to the loop.

Service between 63d street and Gary now operating by way of Whiting and Indianapolis boulevard will have schedules substantially increased so that residents in Whiting and East Chicago will have improved transportation to Gary and Chicago. The terminal of the new loop service will be at 20 East Randolph street. Ten buses will be added to the 89 which have been operating.

Cites Three Advantages.

According to J. C. Johnson, general manager of the Chicago and Calumet District Transit company, abandoning of the trolley routes and expansion of the bus line will have three advantages: [1] faster service, [2] more direct service, with the elimination of transferring, and [3] reduction of costs for the company. Service from Hammond to the loop will take one hour and from Gary to the loop one hour and 22 minutes, he said, which will cut the running time about 20 minutes and 30 minutes, respectively.

"Not only will the present service from Hammond, Whiting, Indiana Harbor, East Chicago, Gary, and Calumet City be extended but direct service without a transfer will be provided from Munster, Highland, Griffith, and Lansing," Mr. Johnson said.

"As a part of this program to improve its transportation in the Calumet district, the first direct service without a transfer between Whiting and Hammond will be instituted. One branch will be operated via 119th street and Calumet avenue to Hammond and the other thru East Chicago to Hammond. This route over Calumet avenue and 119th street also will provide a new service from the Robertsdale district of Hammond direct to Indiana Harbor and Gary."

Plan Alternate Routes.

To accommodate its patrons who formerly used the railway lines from points in the Calumet district to areas in Chicago which will no longer be served, the company will operate alternate routes over 106th street and Ewing avenue as well as over 91st street in the business district of South Chicago. Buses also will be operated along Sheffield avenue to afford the present railway patrons continuation of the service which they had previously.

Buses will stop at all street corners north of 63d street in Chicago. Stops north of 63d street will be made in Jackson park at the Museum of Science and Industry, in Grant park at the Field museum, and along Michigan avenue at 7th street, Van Buren street, and Monroe street.

The present transfer system also will be extended so that patrons boarding coaches to connect with the Chicago service will only pay the same rates of fare as those patrons who board coaches on the Chicago routes.

The street car franchises were voided recently after business and civic leaders in the Hammond district appeared in Indianapolis to testify in a hearing. Formerly the Chicago and Calumet Transit company's street cars and the Chicago Surface lines cars crossed the state line with passengers but stopped at the line to change crews.

Routes Are Traced.

The route over which the buses will supplant street cars goes south from 63d street to South Chicago avenue, southeast to 95th street, east to Ewing avenue, south to Indianapolis boulevard, and southeast on Indianapolis to the junction of U. S. 12-20 and Illinois 41. From this intersection the route divides into three branches.

One follows the lake along Dickey road and the Industrial highway into Gary, passing thru Whiting and Indiana Harbor.

Another follows Indianapolis boulevard to 150th street, east to Hohman avenue and south to Munster, where one line then goes east to Griffith and the other west to Lansing, both using Ridge road. A third off-shoot of this branch turns east on 151st street from Indianapolis and ends at 5th avenue and Broadway in Gary.

The third branch also terminates in Griffith and Lansing, going by way of Calumet avenue and Gostlin avenue to Hohman, with a new alternate route running directly from Calumet avenue to Hohman along Sheffield avenue.

Leave Every Hour.

Three coaches, one for each of the alternate routes, will leave for the Indiana towns from the loop every hour. There will be local buses operating in and near the Indiana towns, however, and a passenger may take a bus in the loop scheduled for any route and transfer to a local bus in Indiana at no additional cost.

A ticket from Calumet City, Hammond, South Chicago and Indiana Harbor to the loop will cost 40 cents, 75 cents for a round trip. From Gary to the loop will be 50 cents, with 90 cents for a round trip. Reductions may be gained by purchasing 10 or 25 ride "barrier tickets."

LIKES HOLES IN OGLESBY AVENUE.

Somebody once said that it is indeed an ill wind that blows somebody no good. I think this applies to the holes on Oglesby avenue between 75th and 79th streets. A lot of persons are complaining because the city has promised to repave this section of Oglesby and never got around to it.

It's an awful place to try to drive at a speed of more than 10 miles an hour, because you really risk cracking a vertebra or two. And this is exactly why I like the holes.

You can't risk driving over 10 miles an hour; consequently very few persons do and our children are safe from speeding motorists. I remember well what speed demons we had on Oglesby when the street was in good condition. For my part, I don't care if it's never repaved.

A FATHER.

WANTS MORE SAILING INTEREST.

What's the matter with our southeast side youths? Very few of them are more than four, five or six miles from the lake and perhaps a half hour's ride on the streetcars from Calumet harbor, yet just about 30 of the great number in this section of the city are taking advantage of the park district's invitation to get out in the lake and learn to sail a boat.

It costs nothing and doesn't require a great deal of energy or brains, but most important of all it affords real landlubbers the joy of riding the sea and battling the elements, even tho it's in a minor way. Not only can you sail, boys, but you can build your own boat if you want to, at very little expense. What's the matter, don't the boys of today read Conrad?

SCOTIA'S PLAIDS WILL MINGLE AT RITUAL DISPLAY

Clans Will Assemble on Saturday Next.

Plaids of the MacDuff, Campbell, Scott, MacKenzie, MacGregor, and Drummond clans will assemble in confusion and dissemble into unified groups for the drill and ritual display Saturday in the Chicago Towers club. The United Clans and Daughters of Scotia of Chicago will be hosts to the Clansmen and Daughters from Detroit and Flint, Mich., and Toledo, O., for the event.

Harry B. Hutchison.

During the morning, teams from seven clans will compete in a ritual contest. Each man will wear the plaid of the ancient clan he represents. The clans participating and their chiefs include Clan MacKenzie, Flint, David Beattie; Clan MacGregor, Toledo, Andrew Martin; Clan Scott, Detroit, Walter Lindsay, and Clan Drummond, Detroit, Duncan Galbraith.

Local Groups Represented.

Local groups are Clan MacDuff, the oldest in Chicago, which meets in McEnery hall, 4039 Madison street, William Marshall, chief; Clan Campbell, Eagles' hall, 3316 Madison street, James Downie, chief, and Clan Scott, 69th and Halsted streets, Charles Smith, chief. A fourth local group not competing is Clan MacDonald in Pullman.

The ladies, members of the Daughters of Scotia or the clan auxiliaries, will present their colorful drill contest before the public in the grand ballroom in the evening. Visiting lodges will be Lady Campbell from Detroit, Miss Jean Pritchard, chief daughter; Lady MacKenzie from Flint, Mrs. Isabelle Logan, chief daughter, and Lady Auxiliary No. 50 from Toledo, Mrs. Amelia Wilhelm, chief daughter, and local lodges, Lady MacDuff, Miss Agnes Anderson, chief daughter, and Lady Scott, Miss Margaret McArthur, chief daughter.

Colors They Wear.

Lady Campbell members wear black skirts, red tunics, and white tams; Lady MacKenzie, blue uniforms with white skip hats; Lady Auxiliary, MacGregor tartan kilts; Lady MacDuff, white uniforms with purple capes and tams, and Lady Scott, white uniforms with yellow and red capes and hats.

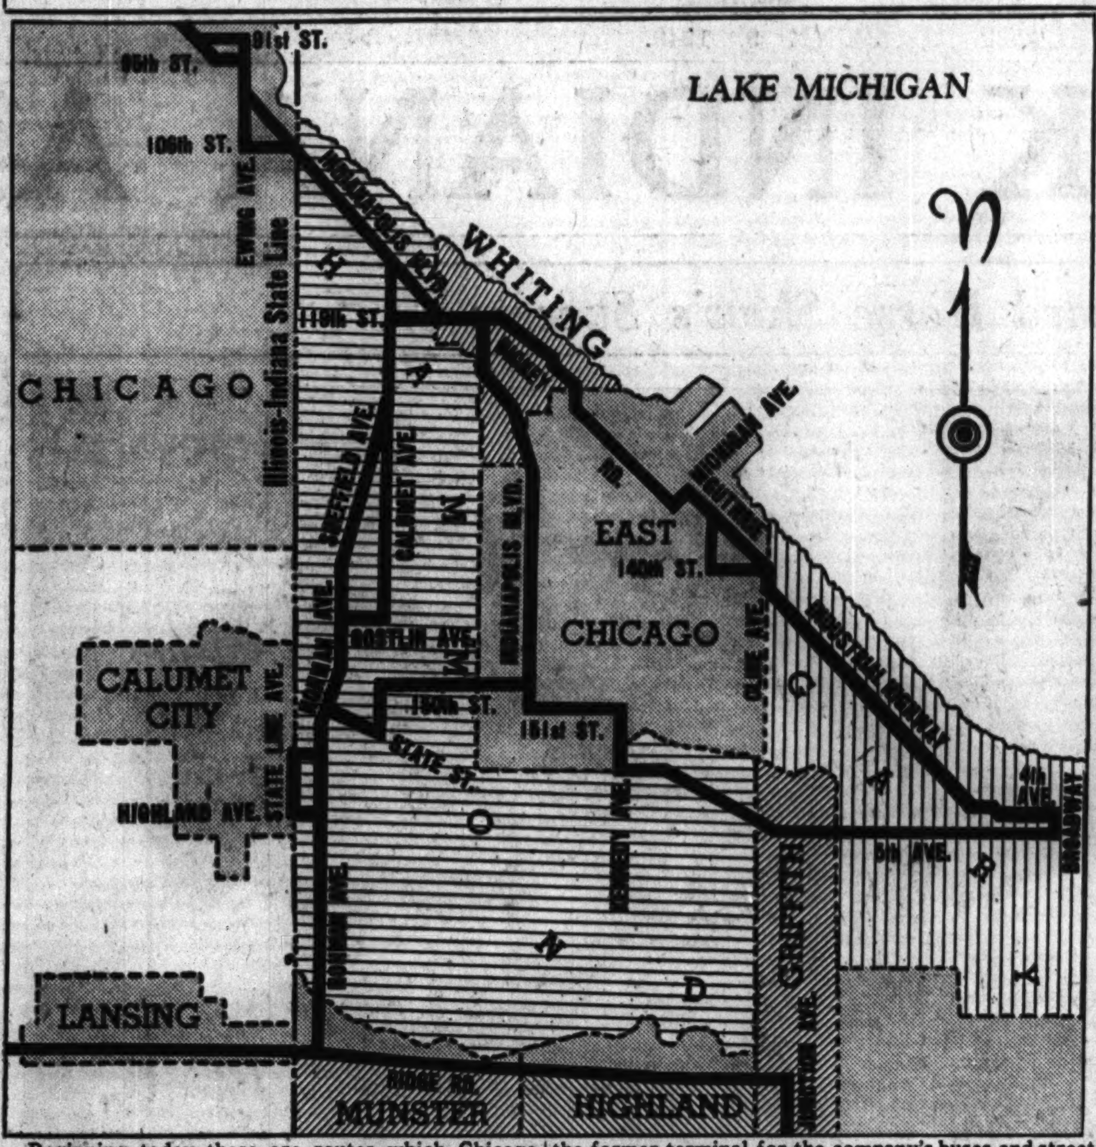
For the presentation of awards, all teams will be piped into the hall by the massed clan pipers led by the Stock Yards Post Pipe band, under the direction of Pipe Major Robert Sim. Dancing will continue till the wee hours of the morning.

Harry B. Hutchison, president of the Chicago drill and ritual committee, is in charge of arrangements and will preside at the event. Assisting with plans are the other officers, Walter McCall, vice president; Robert Muir, treasurer; Kenneth Shepherd, secretary, and George Robertson, publicity chairman.

GOODMAN DRAMA GROUP TO GIVE PLAY SATURDAY

Seven Goodman theater students will take part in a new play by Eric Eisner, "Hell and Paradise," to be presented at 8:30 o'clock next Saturday in the Woman's Club theater, 72 East 11th street. The production is being sponsored by the Chicago Round Table of Christians and Jews. Members of the cast include Miss Muriel Meritt, 162 East Ohio street; Miss Judith Jeffrey, 9568 Prospect avenue; Rodger Tracy, 201 East Ontario street; Allan Hancock, 1400 Lake Shore drive; Donald Davies, East Chicago; Robert Thompson, 201 East Ontario street.

Routes for New Bus Service



Beginning today these are routes which Chicago and Calumet District Transit company buses will pass in their new direct service to the Chicago loop. Two of the routes will end in Gary and a third in Lansing or Griffith. North of 91st street they will take South Chicago avenue to 63d street and Stony Island avenue, the former terminal for the company's buses and street cars, and then travel via the Outer drive to Randolph street in the loop. Under the new plan the company's car lines from Indiana towns into Chicago will be abandoned.

CHILDREN OF 14 SCHOOLS JOIN IN PARK FESTIVAL

Eight hundred children from 14 elementary schools will help stage the second annual Jackson park spring festival starting at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon on the park's golf course meadow located at 63d street and Stony Island avenue. Approximately 10,000 guests are expected to attend the show, which is sponsored by the Southeast council of the P.-T. A. and the park district.

The program will open with community singing of "The Star Spangled Banner" led by pupils of the Kenwood school. There will be music played by the Horace Mann school band, a Maypole dance by girls of the Bradwell school, accompanied by the boys' accordion group, selections by the mothers choral group of the Avalon school, a tumbling act by boys of the Parkside school, a Tyrolean dance by boys of the Wadsworth school, and a tap dance by 7 year old Constance Butler.

Other features will be a children's chorus from Shakespeare school, a patrol boys' drill by the Scott school, a folk dance by the Sullivan school, an overture by the Ray school band, directed by Robert Green, a Grecian scarf dance by the Ray school girls under the leadership of Miss Ruth Kilbourne, and a selection by the Ray school band.

On the committee in charge of the event are Mrs. Louis Kahn, P.-T. A. district chairman; John Bathum, supervisor of Jackson park; Erna C. Claas, director of the park's girls and women's activities, and Lillian Hoffman, accompanist.

SAFETY PATROL BOYS TO START FREE OUTINGS

Chicago Motor Club Is Host to Groups.

The first contingent of outstanding patrol boys from south side public and parochial schools will leave for a week of free outing at Camp Hastings near Lake Villa Saturday, according to Charles M. Hayes, president of the Chicago Motor club. Other south side boys will enjoy their free outdoor camping later in the month or in July. Transportation is furnished from the branch office of the club nearest the boys' home via chartered buses.

The campers are the final selection from 40,000 patrol boys in the area served by the motor club. They were chosen first by their individual schools as the outstanding members of local patrols. Special committees of all area councils in the city then chose the required number from each area from these candidates.

Periods Are Assigned.

The first contingent will go to Camp Hastings from June 15 to June 22; the second group will go from June 22 to June 29. One boy, Frederick Bradford, of the Doolittle school, will take his week from July 27 to Aug. 8 at Camp Wabash, Mich.

Following are the dates on which boys will go to camp:

June 15 to June 22. George Zanetti, St. George's school; John Hadrych, St. Michael; Russell Morache, St. Nicholas; Robert Leahy, St. Philip Neri; Stephen Hlavoc, Frank Sabo, and Anthony Pustelnik of Chicago Heights; Fred Peterman, Lincoln, Dolton; Benjamin Hughes, George Steffek, Casimer Crzesik, and George Asklof of Harvey, and Harry Caliban, Midlothian.

Got Later Date.

June 22 to June 29. Duane Koshork, Bradwell school; Raymond Cyborski, Bright; John Denis, Bryn Mawr; David Hausburg, Caldwell; Carl Kelly, Clay; Joseph Burda, Curtis; Sam Cole, Dixon; Vincent Aloia, Gallistel; Charles Sales, Haines; Jimmy Thomas, Kenwood.

Will Graduate

Miss Mary Rita Walsh, daughter of Police Lieutenant John J. Walsh of 8525 Vernon avenue, will be graduated from St. Xavier academy, 4900 Cottage Grove avenue, Tuesday evening. She will enter St. Mary of the Woods college, Terre Haute, Ind., in the fall.

DISTRICT THREE PRESS CHAIRMAN WILL ENTERTAIN

Mrs. R. E. Pfeifer to Be Hostess Tuesday.

Mrs. R. E. Pfeifer.

Mrs. R. E. Pfeifer, press and publicity chairman of district 3, Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs, will entertain press chairmen of district 3 clubs at a tea Tuesday at the Chicago Towers club. The affair will begin at 2 o'clock, and the special guest will be Mrs. Thomas Gifford, third district president.

The third district sent more members to the recent general federation council in Milwaukee than any other district in the country. Illinois led all other states in attendance.

Chairmen for all remaining vacancies in the district were appointed at the final board meeting for the season. Mrs. Walter I. Rennie, chairman of the appointments committee, announced the names of those chosen: Mrs. E. W. Leggot, Beverly Hills Woman's club, reappointed as art department chairman; Mrs. J. E. Trieschmann, Harvey, former district treasurer, now chairman of the American home department; Mrs. E. G. Klingler, Chicago Heights, conservation department chairman; Mrs. Robert S. Houts, Englewood, literature department; Mrs. S. J. Gottschalk, Blue Island, chairman of the newly created occupational therapy department; Mrs. Robert Jaeger Jr., Beverly Hills, public welfare, and Mrs. Frank W. Welsh, Hamilton Park club, program bureau chairman.

Conference on Thursday.

In order to assist in linking the individual clubs more closely with the district work and with the federation program, an instruction conference will take place Thursday from 10 o'clock in the morning until 12:30 in the afternoon at Ridge park fieldhouse. District and state officers will meet chairmen of local clubs and outline the plans for 1940-'41 with the view of having each club present the program described.

Mrs. W. E. Suthers, state legislation chairman, will meet recording secretaries and instruct in the proper methods of keeping books.

Invitations accepted for third district meetings for next year include one for Nov. 19 when the Gage Park club will entertain. Another will be on Jan. 13 with the Englewood club as hostess, and another on April 1, 1941, with the Brainerd Woman's club in charge. At the suggestion of Mrs. Gifford, the plan of these meetings will be reorganized so that the round table conference will begin promptly at 10:30 o'clock in the morning and the general assembly an hour later.

Second District.

Mrs. W. E. Crowe, conservation chairman in the 2d district club federation, will entertain delegates to her department at luncheon on Thursday at her home, 1228 East 54th street. The guests and hostess will talk over conservation plans for the 1940-'41 season. If the weather is favorable, they will go to Wooded Island, Jackson park, for part of the afternoon.

Other departments will begin outlining next season's work at a special meeting of all chairmen at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon at federation headquarters, 30 West Washington street. The session will be in charge of Mrs. Ivan Henderson, 1710 East 68th street, 2d district, second vice president and dean of departments.

Hamilton Park Woman's Club.

Mrs. A. H. Lassman, 7047 Union avenue, newly elected president of Hamilton Park Woman's club, has called the first meeting of her board members for 10 o'clock Wednesday in the lounge of Hamilton park fieldhouse.

The second dessert bridge party of the season will take place at 1 o'clock Tuesday in the fieldhouse lounge. In charge will be Mrs. Walter L. Long, ways and means chairman, and her co-chairmen, Mrs. T. R. Helmer and Mrs. John R. Glennon. Philanthropic work of the club is carried on by funds earned at these functions. Last year the public welfare department distributed $1,200 among 26 charitable organizations in Chicago.

South Shore Woman's Club.

The second of a series of summer parties will take place tomorrow at the home of Mrs. Fred Acker, 7641 Saginaw avenue. The executive board will meet for a business session before luncheon is served. Tomorrow's event is a Red Cross benefit.

Woodlawn Woman's Club.

Mrs. Roy J. Coleman, new ways and means chairman, announces the first luncheon and card party on her schedule will take place at 12:30 o'clock Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Leslie E. Harden, 7519 Oglesby avenue. Mrs. O. D. Hutchinson will be hostess.

South Side Catholic Club.

A directors' meeting will take place at 11 o'clock Thursday morning at the Southmoor hotel. The 1940-'41 program will be discussed.

Officers and committee chairmen of the club are: Mrs. Peter J. Needham, president; Mrs. E. E. O'Reilly, Mrs. James Allely, and Mrs. Jeffrey Maher, vice presidents; Mrs. W. Ray Dolan, Mrs. David McCuddy, and Mrs. Jeffrey Maher, secretaries; Mrs. Frank Hill, treasurer; Mrs. B. J. McDonough, education chairman, and Mrs. Thomas J. Burke, social service chairman.

Chatham Fields Woman's Club.

Board members will meet their newly elected president, Mrs. Jack Staehle, at 1 o'clock Wednesday afternoon in her home, 8327 Vernon avenue.

Arche Auxiliary.

The Young Woman's auxiliary of the Arche Woman's club, will convene at a regular luncheon meeting Wednesday at 12:30 o'clock at Hotel Sherry, 1725 East 53d street. Hostesses will be Mrs. Jack Emery, Mrs. O. G. Gile, Miss Vera Collins, and Mrs. William G. Johnston.

Engagement Announced

Mr. and Mrs. John B. Wotell, 4654 Ellis avenue, announce the engagement of their daughter, Rosemary Jeanne, to Peter L. Conway Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. P. L. Conway, 8015 Bennett avenue. Miss Wotell is a graduate of Rosary college, River Forest, and a member of Kappa Gamma Pi sorority. Mr. Conway is a graduate of Loyola university and a member of Pi Alpha Lambda fraternity. DRAMA FESTIVAL IS PLANNED FOR S. SIDE CHURCH

Peace Pageant Will Be Part of Program.

Drama groups from churches in the Chicago area have been invited to take part in the drama festival at the Immanuel Evangelical church, 70th street and Michigan avenue, a week from today. Mrs. Guy Chester Jones is chairman of the drama committee of the Chicago Church federation, sponsor of the event.

The Rev. R. H. Elliott, pastor of Roseland Presbyterian church, 11200 State street, will open the program with a worship service at 3:30 o'clock next Sunday afternoon. Three scenes from a peace pageant, "It Shall Not Be Again," written by a class under Dr. Fred Eastman, professor of religious drama at Chicago Theological seminary, will be presented in the afternoon. Members of Epworth leagues of the Morgan Park, Woodlawn, and Harvey Methodist churches will play parts.

In the Production.

In the production are Janet and Ruth Atkins, Robert Beardsley, John and Robert Berger, Burton Holmes, William Mersel, Henry and John Melvin, Ralph Ray, Gerald Smith, Robert Hayden, Elizabeth Hergasheimer, Mildred Balhouse, Edward De Graff, and George Heiderman.

After the pageant there will be a symposium on "Drama and the Church." Three ministers will speak —the Rev. Franklin D. Loehr, First Congregational church of Naperville; the Rev. George P. Ellerbrake, St. Paul's Evangelical church, Barrington, and the Rev. Guy Chester Jones, Academy Methodist church, Harvey.

At Evening Session.

Evening session of the festival will open at 7:45 o'clock with the Rev. H. J. Schick, pastor of the host church, leading in worship. Two interdenominational religous drama groups, the Cathedral Players of Harvey and the Chancel Players of Barrington, will appear in "The Thinker," a three act composition by Dr. Eastman.

In this play will be Ethel and David Whitney and the Rev. and Mrs. George P. Ellerbrake, all of Barrington. From Harvey will be the Rev. Stanley Graf, the Rev. Mr. Jones, Laverne Blaska, and Joyce Russell.

ADVANCED RANK IS AWARDED TO 50 BOY SCOUTS

Fifty south side Boy Scouts received advancement in rank last month. Most of them, who are members of the South Shore and Douglas districts, were promoted to Star or Life Scouts.

New South Shore Life Scouts are Horace Williston, Edwin Polakoff, Mark Goodman, John Backus, Bob Eitzen, Thomas O'Gara, James Stepnicka, Cecil Lewitz, and James Lewy. David Fisher, assistant scoutmaster of Troop 505, has earned the silver palm for additional merit badges over the 21 required for Eagle rank. Lester Mandelstein will receive a gold palm and Leonard Stuttman a bronze palm.

New Star Scouts are Stanley Wilson, Anton Fortelka, David Randall, Edward Campere, John Brecht, Conrad Wurtz, Jack Harrison.

Jack Cope, Richard Golton, Joel Glickstein, Jerry Lebow, Jack Gumbin, Bob Reibel, James Condren, Robert Juhlin, Billy Oswald, Jack Warren, Robert May, Norman Smith, Daniel Dillon, Warren Jackson, Jack Blood, Austin Weston, Henry Bjornstad, Frank Salvino, Irving Hyman, and Norbert Glowacki.

Talk on Tuberculosis.

Mrs. Mary Palmer, special lecturer for the Tuberculosis Institute of Chicago and Cook county, will speak on "The Value of the Tuberculin Test" at 2 o'clock Wednesday before pupils of the Revere school, 7145 Ellis avenue. A sound film, "Behind the Shadows," will be shown.

Bride in Church Wedding

Miss Jean Alice Shaver, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene L. Shaver, 6700 Crandon avenue, was married recently to Len H. Small, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Small of Kankakee, Ill. The wedding took place in the Bryn Mawr Community church and the reception was held at the South Shore Country club. [Du Bois Photo.]

News and Queries Within and Without the Church
A Religious Voice of the People — Edited by the Rev. John Evans

Half a million members of the Evangelical Lutheran Augustana synod thruout the world are thinking about "the forgotten woman" who founded the first church of the synod which now is 80 years old. Their attention will be turned today to the village of Andover about 30 miles south of Rock Island on Illinois highway 81.

Thousands of Augustana Lutherans will converge at Andover today and a large section of the caravan is going from Rock Island where the 80th anniversary of the founding of the synod is being marked by the closing day's session of synodical convention.

The caravan will stop at a grave marker, a simple shaft on which is carved the closed hand with index finger pointing heavenward, beneath which "the forgotten woman" rests in an 84 cent home made coffin. The inscription is: Amalia Planting-Gyllenboga Esbjorn.

Dr. E. E. Ryden of Rock Island, editor the the Lutheran Companion, summarized the dramatic story of Mrs. Esbjorn in a paragraph. It follows:

"Today a service will be held at Andover, the little hamlet which is the cradle of the Augustana synod. Here lies the mother of the synod, a woman of Swedish noble birth who crossed the seas with her husband to found the Swedish church in the new world: lost two of her babes during the journey; nursed her husband in Chicago after he had contracted cholera while ministering to his countrymen during the epidemic of October, 1849; built the first parsonage of the Augustana synod with her own funds; sent her husband on a mision to the east to see Jenny Lind and others to obtain money with which to build the first Augustana Lutheran church [still standing]; died in childbirth less than three years after her arrival in Andover, and was buried in a coffin costing 84 cents, made from boards intended for the new church. She might be called "The Forgotten Woman" of the Augustana synod."

The entire story of pastor and Mrs. Esbjorn's founding of the Augustana church in America some day will be written in full. It ought to be preserved. It would tell of first attempts to provide for spiritual needs of Swedish immigrants in Delaware, Pennsylvania and New Jersey, thru affiliation of Swedish Lutheran and Episcopal leadership.

The story would also tell of Jenny Lind's $1,500 gift to Pastor Esbjorn's church, but it would not omit gifts from Chicago Norwegian and German Lutheran pastors such as the Rev. Peter Anderson and the Rev. Dr. William A. Passavant of Passavant Memorial hospital, which he founded in 1865 as the Emergency hospital.

Pastor Esbjorn's day book which carefully recorded every financial transaction, would be one important source of information. Among the hundreds of entries written with light pen touch is one that is especially arresting:

"Boards to Mrs. Esbjorn's coffin, 42 ft., 0.84."

The boards were owned by the congregation, having been purchased for the church building. The cash record shows that the church was reinbursed for the lumber.

Dr. Emmy Evald, founder and president of the Women's Missionary society of the Lutheran Augustana synod, writing of Amalia Esbjorn, says:

"In the Lord's name, Mrs. Esbjorn became the mother of the Augustana synod. She should never be forgotten."

Note:—Altho the Esbjorns founded the first Augustana church, the actual founding of the synod did not take place until 1860 or 8 years after Mrs. Esbjorn's death.

To Open Clubhouse.

The Universal Sportsmen will open their clubhouse on the Kankakee river six miles east of Momence on Saturday. The Chicago cubroom is at 7435 Cottage Grove avenue. Dr. R. J. Gates, 757 West 79th street, is president.

TWO SOUTH SIDE P.-T. A. GROUPS TO INDUCT OFFICERS

Ceremonies Will Close Year's Business.

Two southeast P.-T. A.'s will install officers at their final meetings of the current school term this week. The Ruggles P.-T. A. will gather in the school auditorium, 78th street and Prairie avenue, at 1:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon and the John L. Marsh P.-T. A. will meet Tuesday afternoon in the assembly hall at 9810 Exchange avenue.

New officers in the Ruggles unit will be inducted by Mrs. A. C. Heeren, past president. Annual reports will be given and music will be supplied by the children's rhythm band and the mothers' chorus. Mrs. H. F. Merker, recreation chairman, is in charge of the program.

Officers to be installed are Mrs. A. M. Brunelle, president; Miss Sarah Stokes, Ruggles principal, honorary vice president; Mrs. W. F. Barsknecht, first vice president; Mrs. Dorothy Kritzer, second vice president; Mrs. W. E. Sedlack, recording secretary; Mrs. Louis Lutz, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. M. G. Slaney, treasurer. Delegates to council will be Mrs. P. R. Todd and Mrs. J. W. Breternitz, and alternate delegates are Mrs. Karl Smith and Mrs. John Gustafson.

The Ruggles group will sponsor a party on Wednesday, June 19, for the 77 pupils of the graduating class. Dancing, entertainment, and refreshments will be on the program, which starts at 1 p. m.

Officers to be installed at the Marsh unit's meeting by Mrs. Lewis Mann, newly elected Southeast council president, are Mrs. George Sikich, 9534 Escanaba avenue, president; Mrs. Mildred Orpen, 9845 Exchange avenue, first vice president; Miss Mary Reynolds, principal, second vice president; Mrs. Helen Strieby, 10016 Exchange avenue, secretary; Mrs. Henry Fritz, 9534 Escanaba avenue, treasurer, and Mrs. Fred LaVigne, 10322 Commercial avenue.

Sixty-eight children recently were examined by the organization in the summer round-up campaign. Eight were found to be in perfect health.

A tea for the combined parent-education and homemaking groups of the Park Manor P.-T. A. will be held Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Wallace Hurter, 7311 Rhodes avenue. Mrs. George Baillie, 6815 Calumet avenue, and Mrs. Hurter, homemaking chairman and parent-education chairman, respectively, will be co-hostesses.

MUSIC PROJECT UNITS TO APPEAR IN 4 SCHOOLS

Three Illinois music project units will play in southwest public schools this week. Tomorrow morning at 9:30 o'clock Max Bendix will direct the Illinois Concert band in a program at the Sawyer avenue school, 5248 South Sawyer avenue. The same group will play at 1 o'clock Thursday afternoon at the Esmond school, 1865 Montvale avenue.

The Dearborn Concert orchestra, conducted by Theodore Romhild, will play tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock at the Armour school, 950 West 33d place.

The Illinois Philharmonic choir, headed by Walter Aschenbrenner, will appear at 9:15 o'clock Wednesday morning at the Sherwood school, 245 West 57th street.

Two South Siders Receive Degrees from Swarthmore

Two south siders were graduated from Swarthmore [Pa.] college last week. They are Miss Jane Gilruth, 7206 Euclid avenue, and Ray H. Coffman, 5805 Blackstone avenue. Miss Gilruth was graduated with high honors in the Division of Humanities and Coffman was treasurer of the senior class and a member of Phi Kappa Psi fraternity.

Pull the Trigger on Lazy Bowels, and Also Pepsin-ize Stomach!

When constipation brings on acid indigestion, bloating, dizzy spells, gas, coated tongue, sour taste, and bad breath, your stomach is probably loaded up with certain undigested food and your bowels don't move. So you need both Pepsin to help break up fast that rich undigested food in your stomach, and Laxative Senna to pull the trigger on those lazy bowels. So be sure your laxative also contains Pepsin. Take Dr. Caldwell's Laxative, because its Syrup Pepsin helps you gain that wonderful stomach comfort, while the Laxative Senna moves your bowels. Tests prove the power of Pepsin to dissolve those lumps of undigested protein food which may linger in your stomach, to cause belching, gastric acidity and nausea. This is how pepsinizing your stomach helps relieve it of such distress. At the same time this medicine wakes up lazy nerves and muscles in your bowels to relieve your constipation. So see how much better you feel by taking the laxative that also puts Pepsin to work on that stomach discomfort, too. Even finicky children love to taste this pleasant family laxative. Buy Dr. Caldwell's Laxative—Senna with Syrup Pepsin at your druggist today!

RUBINOFF GUEST TONIGHT ON W-G-N SYMPHONIC HOUR

Small Business Men Will Attend Broadcast.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Rubinoff and his violin will make a guest appearance on the Chicago Tribune symphonic hour from 9 to 10 o'clock tonight. With the famous radio and concert violinist will be featured Marion Claire, Chicago's own soprano, and the W-G-N Symphony orchestra and chorus under the direction of Henry Weber.

Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE TRIBUNE, will be the speaker of the evening.

The Symphonic hour will be broadcast from W-G-N's main studio over the coast to coast Mutual Broadcasting system.

Small Business Men Guests.

Members of the National Small Business Men's association will be W-G-N's guests tonight. United States Senator H. Styles Bridges of New Hampshire and James S. Kemper, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, will accompany the association members.

David Rubinoff is to be featured at the all-Chicago Flag day celebration, which will be held next Wednesday, June 12, in the Grant park bandshell. In this connection, Rubinoff is touring the Chicago public high schools, giving violin concerts. Last Friday he appeared at 12 schools and played before an estimated total of 45,000 school boys and girls.

Music Festival Guest.

Rubinoff was starred in 1937 at the eighth annual Chicagoland Music Festival in Soldiers' field. Two weeks previous to that occasion, he played his 209 year old Stradivarius before a crowd estimated at 225,000 in the Grant park shell.

For the dramatic feature of the evening, the Symphonic hour will present "The Old Spinning Wheel," starring Miss Claire as narrator and soloist. An outstanding dramatic cast and the chorus and the Symphony orchestra will support her. William A. Bacher, director and producer of the program, is the author of this feature.

Back to the Carolinas.

"The Old Spinning Wheel" is a word picture with musical background taking listeners back thru the years to the Carolinas of old. It will recall three periods in one man's life cycle and his love for his native soil.

Heard with Miss Claire in the dramatic cast will be Cleveland Towne, De Witt McBride, Bret Morrison, Olan Soule, Alice Hill, and Marie Nelson.

The musical program:

"Rumanian Rhapsody" ......Enesco
Orchestra.
"On Wings of Song"...Mendelssohn
Miss Claire and orchestra.
"Drink to Me Only with Thine Eyes" ....Jonson
Miss Claire, chorus and orchestra.
"Fêtes" ....Debussy
"Dance of the Russian Peasants" ....Rubinoff
Mr. Rubinoff.
Number to be selected by Mr. Rubinoff.
Aria from "Manon Lescaut"..Puccini
Miss Claire and orchestra.
"The Old Spinning Wheel"
..Miss Claire and dramatic cast
Speech ....Col. R. R. McCormick
Themes from "Tannhäuser"..Wagner
Chorus and orchestra.

Rubinoff enjoys a place all his own in musical America. Steering a middle course between popular music and the classics, he has won the masses to an appreciation of violin and orchestral music. As the son of poor workers in Russia he won for himself a violin scholarhip at the Moscow Musical conservatory.

Moves to America.

At the age of 15 his parents took him to America and settled down in Pittsburgh. So great was his musical talent that he was quickly in charge of a school orchestra—this before he had even learned to speak English.

After years of hard work in concert tours he was brought to the attention of Rudy Vallee and from then on his fame was assured.

Eddie Cantor's nation-wide radio program, from 1930 to 1935, with Rubinoff, his violin, and orchestra, made the name of Rubinoff known to millions of Americans.

The composition which Rubinoff will play on the concert, "The Dance of the Russian Peasants," is his own.

Col. Louis Johnson Speaks Over Mutual on Tuesday

Col. Louis A. Johnson, assistant secretary of war, addressing a banquet meeting of the Institute of Food Technologists, will be heard over W-G-N and the Mutual network from 10 to 10:30 p. m. Tuesday, from the Morrison hotel in Chicago.

Col. Johnson's subject will be "Mobilization of the Food Industry in the Event of War."

Guest of W-G-N

David Rubinoff and his violin will make a guest appearance on the Chicago Tribune Symphonic hour from 9 to 10 o'clock tonight over W-G-N and the nationwide network of the Mutual Broadcasting system.

PRESENT RUTH CHATTERTON IN 5TH ROW CENTER

"Beautiful Lady" Is Play for Friday.

Ruth Chatterton, star of the stage and screen, will play the leading rôle in "Beautiful Lady," on Fifth Row Center over W-G-N and coast-to-coast network of the Mutual Broadcasting system, at 7 p. m. next Friday.

Miss Chatterton will be supported by Francis X. Bushman, star of the silent movie era and now an outstanding radio actor, and Marvin Mueller, Ed Prentiss and Cleveland Towne, well-known Chicago actors.

"Beautiful Lady" is the story of a mother who fought against blind justice, and of a man who loved an adopted boy. Miss Chatterton plays the rôle of the mother who fights to regain the possession of her son. Bushman will be cast in the part of the man who is unwilling to relinquish his adopted son.

Chicagoans last saw Ruth Chatterton on the stage last October when she starred in the comedy, "Tonight We Dance." It was her first appearance in the legitimate theater in many years. Her best remembered movies were "Madame X," "Sarah and Son," "Lady of Secrets," "Girl's Dormitory," "Dodsworth," and "The Royal Divorce."

Before she answered the call of Hollywood, Miss Chatterton had established herself as one of Broadway's most talented actresses. She made her first hit in the memorable "Daddy Long Legs" when she was 18 years old, and this was followed by a long list of successes.

The musical setting for "Beautiful Lady" will be furnished by the W-G-N Dance orchestra under the baton of Harold Stokes. The entire production will be directed by Blair Walliser.

Ruth Carhart to Sing on Bowes Family Hour

Ruth Carhart, soprano of radio and the stage, will be a special guest of Maj. Edward Bowes during his "Family Hour" on WIND and the Columbia Broadcasting system from 10:30 to 11 a. m. today. Regular members of the Bowes "family," including Nicholas Cosentino, Sam Herman, Charles Magnante, and Dalton Brother's trio with Waldo Mayo's orchestra will be heard as usual.

THEATER OF AIR OPERETTAS TO RETURN IN FALL

Marion Claire to Star in "Great Waltz" First.

The Chicago Theater of the Air, which presented streamlined operetta productions at intervals of two weeks over W-G-N and the Mutual network this spring, will return with a new series of one hour productions each week starting Saturday, Sept. 14. The fall series will be opened with Marion Claire in "The Great Waltz." Miss Claire was starred in the stage version of this musical success.

Other operettas to be given are "The Vagabond King," "Rogue Song," "Sweethearts," and "My Maryland."

Miss Claire, Chicago's own soprano, will be the feminine star in the subsequent operettas, also. Notable male soloists, including leading operatic and concert stars, will be engaged for the various productions as was the custom for the series recently concluded.

Over Mutual Network.

Dramatic and musical support will be provided by Chicago's best radio actors and by the augmented W-G-N concert orchestra and chorus under the direction of Henry Weber, musical director of W-G-N and artistic director of the Chicago Opera company. All of the Chicago Theater of the Air performances will be aired over the nation-wide network of the Mutual Broadcasting system.

William A. Bacher, the Hollywood director-producer, who has been in charge of the Chicago Theater of the Air, will direct the new series in the fall.

Three operettas were presented in the spring series with several thousand persons, many of them musical and civic leaders of Chicagoland, as studio guests.

Three Operettas Presented.

The three operettas already presented were: Noel Coward's "Bittersweet," and Simund Romberg's "Student Prince," and "Blossom Time," the latter based on the melodies of Franz Schubert. In the first of the series Miss Claire was co-starred with James Melton, the noted tenor. Miss Claire played the lead in the Chicago stage company of "Bittersweet."

"The Student Prince" was broadcast on May 16 by an all-star cast headed by Miss Claire, Jan Peerce, Radio City Music Hall tenor, and Igor Gorin, the noted baritone of concert fame.

The third of the series, "Blossom Time," broadcast to an overflow crowd on May 30, bringing to a climax the spring season, featured Miss Claire with Gorin and Michael Bartlett.

"YESTERDAYS" TO MAKE ITS BOW ON W-G-N—MUTUAL

A new musical program titled "Yesterdays," under the direction of Harold Stokes, will make its debut over W-G-N and the Mutual network at 9:30 p. m. tomorrow. The show will present music by the W-G-N dance orchestra and Vocalists Kathryn Witwer, soprano, and Wesley Summerfield, tenor.

Opening with the musical theme, "Yesterday," from "Roberta," the program will present a complete dramatization, incorporating popular songs in the script, telling a story of the past.

The musical numbers which will be used in the show are "I Hear You Calling Me," to be sung by Summerfield; "Honeymoon," and "Suppose I Never Met You," by Summerfield and Miss Witwer; "Italian Street Song," sung by Miss Witwer; and "Song of the Islands," "Negra Consentida," and "Neopolitan Nights."

Supporting Miss Witwer and Summerfield will be the W-GN chorus and a dramatic cast.

FAVORITE SONGS TO BE PRESENTED BY NORTHERNERS

The Northerners, under the direction of Harry S. Walsh, will present a program of favorite ballads at 9:30 p. m. Tuesday on W-G-N. Irene Verner, soprano, will be the featured soloist. Miss Verner will sing the popular "Zigeuner" from Noel Coward's "Bittersweet." The octet will sing "All Day in the Prairie," "150th Psalm," and "My Heart's in the Highland." The entire Northerners cast will join in selections from "Katinka," including "Vienna Girls" and "This Is the End," and also "How High the Moon" and "I Walk with Music."

GIVE SCHEDULE OF SHORT WAVE WAR NEWSCASTS

British Send Five "Full" Reports Daily.

Since the Nazi invasion of the Netherlands, Belgium, and France news casts in English by short-wave from the various capitals of Europe have been considerably increased.

The British Broadcasting corporation is currently sending out five "full news" transmissions daily to America, the first one at 6:30 a. m. and the last at 11 p. m. These usually run about a half hour. In addition to the official BBC bulletins eyewitness accounts by officers and men lately returned from the battle front are often given. Besides the "full" broadcasts there are several shorter news periods.

Broadcasts from Paris in English include a daily period under auspices of the American Legion. The German short wave reports are of course in sharp contrast to those of Paris and London with regard to claims.

Moscow is again broadcasting in English to American listeners at 7:15 o'clock nightly.

Below is given a schedule of newscasts in English with time [central daylight saving] and frequencies. This list was compiled by the E. H. Scott Radio Laboratories. While the schedule is not complete, the Scott laboratories in releasing it announced that it represents the transmissions and frequencies most clearly received currently in Chicagoland.

4 SOUTH SIDERS AMONG CULVER CADET SENIORS

To Award Diplomas Next Wednesday.

Four south side cadets will be among the 160 seniors who will receive their diplomas Wednesday at Culver Military academy, Culver, Ind., where commencement exercises begin today. They are Walter C. Goodman, 6700 Crandon avenue; Arthur J. Miller Jr., 6758 Jeffery avenue; Charles S. Orne 3d, 6935 Crandon avenue, and Lawrence S. Rapport, 5120 Hyde Park boulevard.

The first important event will be the baccalaureate sermon at 11 o'clock this morning, preached by Dr. Charles W. Welch of Louisville, Ky. Tomorrow afternoon there will be a parade at which commissions will be awarded to the seniors. At this time Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, will present the TRIBUNE medals to the outstanding senior, junior and sophomore.

Dr. Franklin Bliss Snyder, president of Northwestern university, will be the speaker at the cum laude exercises to be held Tuesday afternoon. Raymond J. Kelly, national commander of the American Legion, will present R. O. T. C. certificates. A formal ball will be held that evening.

Wednesday morning the cadet corps will form on the shore of Lake Maxintuckee, where the seniors will receive their diplomas, corps appointments for next fall will be announced, and the cadets will be dismissed until September.

DOCTOR'S SUITE LOSES SEVERITY IN REMODELING

Reception Lounge Made Like Living Room.

BY LOUISE BARGELT.

The fine art of modernization is by no means confined to homes or to apartments.

A handsome and interesting change has been effected in the Monroe building, 104 South Michigan avenue, Chicago. It is the modernization of a suite of physicians' offices, the treatment in the contemporary style with modern Swedish furnishings.

The work of the modernization was put into the hands of the architects, Hooper and Nelson, 118 East 26th street, Chicago, and these architects carried out their appointed task with a wise understanding of their clients' wishes.

In the offices of many modern physicians and surgeons there is now seen a trend away from the extreme severity of past years—as there is likewise in hospitals a distinct trend away from unrelieved white. This is a recognition of the fact that the state of mind of a nervous, sick patient can often be calmed and steadied in an atmosphere of quiet, harmonious colors, and furnishings which are beautifully simple, and in fine style.

Like Living Room.

In this particular physicians' suite the reception room has been treated in the manner of a gracious, hospitable living room in a private home or apartment.

Three of the walls have been painted a soft green, while the fireplace wall is papered with a deep green, hand blocked paper, with a primitive motif. This aboriginal note blends well with the natural wood trim, and the brown rubber tile floor which affords the feel of warm earth.

The wide, striking fireplace has a natural wood mantel in oak with modern horizontal fluting across the top. The hearth is of black marble, the andirons of highly polished brass. Further accent is given to the primitive by the "Balinese" figure on the mantel and the etchings on the wall, which are framed in natural wood and show glimpses of sky and trees and water.

The room is lighted entirely by lamps, and there is a capacious unit seat in the center of the room of butterscotch yellow, a warm, happy tone. The chairs are a gray-green leather with ambered mahogany legs, and on the table is a highly polished brass lamp.

Block Veneer Walls.

While this reception room has the spirit of a living room the consultation room has the atmosphere of a library. The block veneered walls are of Japanese exotic wood in rich shades of tan. The floor is covered with a sand toned carpet, and the trim is a natural oak, treated with a white filler to lighten it and achieve a perfect harmony between trim and walls.

The desk is of ambered mahogany, with fluorescent lighting, and the chairs are upholstered in gray-green leather. Here the ceiling is a grayish pink, and the pictures on the walls are gay water color sketches, introducing lively tones of greens and yellows and reds. There are green drapes at the windows, and the light gray diagonal line in these drapes is caught and carried into the pale gray of the Venetian blinds and tapes.

There are four examining rooms, and the architects have carried out their decorations with the same delightful attention to color harmony and detail. In one we find the walls an Egyptian tan, with a pale green ceiling. The furniture is of the same fine ambered mahogany as is seen in the consultation room and reception room, and upholstered in gray-green tones.

Flush Type Doors.

The doors are the flush type with linoleum floor in tile pattern, the grays and whites in the pattern in harmony with the natural oak woodwork and Venetian blinds. In another examining room the color scheme is reversed, the walls are green and the ceiling is an Egyptian tan.

In this suite there is also an adjoining small reception office with Egyptian tan walls, an X-ray room and a laboratory. Even the instrument cabinets of ambered mahogany are beautiful enough to take their place in a living room or dining room or library.

Modern Office Furnishings

The new reception room in a suite of offices in the Monroe building, 104 South Michigan avenue, Chicago, which has just been modernized. The architects, Hooper & Nelson, 118 East 26th street, Chicago, carried out the work in the contemporary style, with modern Swedish furnishings.

This Week in the Garden

Monday, June 10.

Plants placed far enough apart should have the soil stirred between them until they cover the ground. It is impossible to cultivate perennials planted close together after the foliage becomes intermingled. Until then consistent cultivation is essential. After the plants touch and the roots fill the soil, summer mulching with peat is an excellent practice. Spent mushroom manure and grass clippings also may be used. Water thru the mulch. Soil for potting should be available at all times. Save weeds and other material and start a compost heap

Tuesday, June 11.

Do not neglect to thin seedlings so that each plant remaining will have room to develop. Annuals do best in mass unless grown in rows in the cutting garden. Flowering plants never attain their full beauty of flower and foliage unless each plant has space to develop. Thinning should be done while the plants are small to avoid disturbing those that remain. Mowing the lawn should be done carefully. The best height to cut is from 1½ to 2 inches unless it is a bent grass lawn, which is cut very low and often. All beds and walks should be kept edged. Keep shrubs within bounds and vines securely fastened in place.

Wednesday, June 12.

Pansies require a rich, mellow soil and if partial shade can be given it will prolong their flowering period. Never allow seed to form. Pick all flowers occasionally to rest the plants and later in the season trim back the growths to encourage new, vigorous growth. Mulch the bed during hot weather and never allow the soil to become excessively dry. Water when the plants need water and not before. Soak the ground to a depth of five inches for established plants. Water early in the morning to enable the foliage to dry off before night and avoid the likelihood of attacks by fungous diseases. Sprinkling the lawn only results in shallow rooting. Soak the lawn to encourage deep rooting.

Thursday, June 13.

Plants in window boxes must be watered daily. Allow the water to soak thru the drainage holes in the bottom of the box, if it is of wood; if it is self-watering learn by experience when to water. A moist upper surface indicates that the soil is moist thruout. Tuberous begonias may be planted in a shady location. Use a well drained soil, fairly light. It is not too late to plant bedding plants, such as cannas, ageratum, geraniums, heliotrope, salvia, and numerous other kinds. Cannas are among the finest flowering plants for average backgrounds, and they may be obtained in green or bronze foliage with yellow or red blooms. They need heat, rich soil, and plenty of water. Be sure to sow vines along the fences. Why not try gourds?

Friday, June 14.

Feed the amaryllis bulbs to obtain good, strong plants for next season's blooming. Keep all newly planted fruit trees, shade trees, and shrubs well mulched. Water thru the mulch. Sow the seeds of perennials to obtain strong plants for next autumn. It is an excellent plan to assign a plot of ground as a seedbed. Provide lath shade to be used whenever necessary. Have a sprinkling can at hand for watering. Keep the blooms cut on coreopsis. Do not allow sweet peas to go to seed. Pick the flowers each morning for use indoors. Mulch these plants and watch for plant lice.

Saturday, June 15.

This is rose month. Liquid manure applied to roses is very beneficial; a complete commercial food is easily obtained and contains more food than organic manures. Dust sulphur on roses for mildew. Disbud roses for large display blooms. Vegetable crops that are grown for the foliage should be fed nitrogen. Tie up the leaves of cauliflower to obtain choice white heads. Tomatoes will ripen more uniformly if they are staked. Control leaf eating worms with a stomach poison.

HOMEWOOD CLUB WOMEN TO HAVE SUMMER PARTIES

Members of the Homewood Woman's club will take part in a summer program designed to operate until regular meetings are resumed in October. Plans include a series of summer card parties and a Chicago art gallery tour. The latter will be under the leadership of Mrs. L. L. Pray, art department chairman.

Mrs. Karl Schmidt, newly elected chairman, has completed appointments for the year. The 1940-'41 officers are: Mrs. H. C. Wysong, first vice president; Mrs. W. B. Frazier, second vice president; Mrs. E. H. Kent, recording secretary; Mrs. Lawrence Carr, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Thomas Logan, treasurer.

Board members are Mrs. J. R. Swingle, Mrs. J. R. Blair, Mrs. Pray, Mrs. Elmer Toohey, Mrs. H. B. Einbecker, Mrs. J. F. Wenzel, Mrs. W. E. La Vette, Mrs. L. T. Heron, Mrs. G. C. Gallati, Mrs. S. E. Adair, Mrs. G. L. Bute, Mrs. Evelyn A. Seguin, and Mrs. E. L. Downey. Mrs. Elmer Chapman has been appointed chairman of the Park Ridge School for Girls in the 3d district.

Flossmoor Cadet Honored as Leader at Wentworth

Cadet Albert Gordon of Flossmoor has received a gold medal for having the highest scholastic average of the year at Wentworth Military academy, Lexington, Mo. He also won a $5 award given by the Daughters of the American Revolution to the student having the highest grades in American history. Cadet Charles Foster Jr., also of Flossmoor, is one of the 17 seniors who have been designated to attend the war department training camp at Fort Leavenworth, Kas.

To Be June Bride

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Stacey, 5401 Maryland avenue, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Florence, to Laurence B. Flickner of 1162 East 54th street. Both are members of the Footlighters, a drama club in Hyde Park. The wedding will take place later in the month in Valley Forge, Pa. [Johnson Studio.]

Kathryn Uptegrove Marjorie Wiggins
Dorothy Wagner Catherine Williams

The first south side Catholic high school graduation ceremony will take place Wednesday evening in Mount Carmel auditorium.

BRIGHTON PARK WOMAN'S CLUB PLANS LUNCHEON

Mrs. Charles W. Kurtz. [Marshall Photo.]

The newly organized Brighton Park Woman's club recently became a member unit of district 4 in the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs. Mrs. Charles W. Kurtz, 3015 West 60th street, is the president. She will assume the dual rôle of leading officer and lecturer at the club luncheon planned for noon Wednesday at the Syrena restaurant, 4270 South Archer avenue. Her talk will be "Paintings in the Art Institute of Chicago."

Mrs. Lee Pierce will be hostess. Mrs. Theo Johnston is in charge of reservations.

Officers of the club, in addition to Mrs. Kurtz are: Mrs. Hector Brouillet, vice president; Mrs. Dewey Prettyman, secretary, and Mrs. Pierce, treasurer. Committee chairmen are: Mrs. Chester Kilkis, American citizenship; Mrs. Charles Callewaert, American home; Mrs. David L. Williams, gardens; Miss Elva Sunday, press and publicity; Mrs. Robert C. Marshall, membership, and Mrs. Johnston, public welfare.

CATHEDRAL BALL IS SCHEDULED FOR WEDNESDAY

The Episcopal Cathedral ball will be held Wednesday evening in the Gold room of the Congress hotel. The dance was postponed from last month because of the death of Bishop George Craig Stewart. Committee chairmen for the dance are William Siddall, general chairman; Frederick L. Searing, co-chairman; Wirt Wright Stafford, tickets; John E. Rehder, publicity; William Read, boxes and patrons; Jack Fleischer, signatures; Joseph Legg, printing, and Russell Elliott, music. Miss Anne Eadie of Evanston has been chosen to be queen of the ball.

BLOOM TOWNSHIP SCHOOL AWARDS 268 DIPLOMAS

Nebraskan Gives Address to Graduates.

Commencement for the 268 seniors at Bloom Township High school, Chicago Heights, took place Friday evening in the school auditorium. Dr. Charles H. Dienst, deputy state superintendent of public instruction of Nebraska gave the principal address. Raymond D. Meade, principal, presented the class. Diplomas were awarded by E. J. Fenneman, president of the board of education.

The Bloom chorus and orchestra took part in the program. Also assisting were the Rev. Celestine Zeitler, O. M. C., pastor of St. Ann's church, and the Rev. H. G. Elsam of the First Christian church, Chicago Heights.

1940 SUMMER VACATION DRAMA TO BE PLAYED IN AMERICA

Game Fish, Take Warning: Sportsmen's Blitzkrieg Is About to Get Under Way!

By BOB BECKER.

This is an early warning to the muskellunge, brook trout, wall-eyed pike, black bass, and other game fish in the northern tier of the United States and in Canada. It's only fair to advise them that, with the arrival of vacation time, they are about to experience one of the happiest and most exciting blitzkriegs they ever have seen.

The fishermen (there are millions of 'em) are behind this big "push." The pleasant feature about the mass movement is that both the anglers and the fish enjoy it, because the crafty muskies and hard fighting bass often outwit the patient sportsman and even break his tackle—enough to make any fish pleased with himself, if a fish knows how to register pleasure!

With just about everything in the way of a lure except an eggbeater to be brought into play, the preliminary campaign is now getting under way.

• • •

Few groups of anglers are as lucky as those in the middle west when it comes to accessible vacationlands for summer sport. The lake region of northern Illinois, the thousands of lakes and trout streams in nearby Michigan, Wisconsin's vast sweep of timbered north woods and thousands of fishing spots, the lake trout trolling water in Lake Superior (out from Duluth and Bayfield), Minnesota's innumerable lake areas and wilderness spots, Canada's vast reaches of timber and thousands of crystal clear lakes, the picturesque streams and canyons of the Black Hills—these and scores of other regions are not far from the outdoor fans of Chicagoland.

If you're puzzled about where to go this summer for fun, fish, sunshine, swimming, or canoeing, here are some tips that you may want to jot down in the notebook.

• • •

First, let's look at some of the Michigan lakes. For good bass fishing and beautiful surroundings, mark down Lake Bellaire. It is northeast of Traverse City and close to Torch lake. They get big bass there—some weighing up to five pounds.

When at Bellaire you have to drive only a short distance to troll for lake trout, in case you like to hook a big one. Due west of Traverse City only a few miles is 3,900 acre Long lake. This is another good one for both large and small mouth bass. The shore line will please either the rod fisherman or the man who uses a bait casting rod.

Just one of the scenes to be enacted this summer in the playground and resort areas of America. Prevented by the war from going overseas, vacationists by the hundreds of thousands will turn to the scenic places of the western hemisphere.

Six Billion Dollars Will Be Spent for Recreation and Travel in This Hemisphere

By FREDERIC BABCOCK.

Now that Europe has succeeded in crowding itself out of the recreation picture, this summer's vacation drama is to be played on this side of the Atlantic. Americans will be evacuating their cities—but not for the same reason as that overseas.

It has been estimated that two-thirds of all the motor cars in the world are within the United States. American trains, buses, and planes are said to carry more vacationists than do the transportation systems of all the other countries combined. Twenty years ago the average American traveled around 50 miles a year; today the figure is nearly a thousand.

• • •

Government statistics show that $5,751,000,000 was spent on travel and recreation in this country in 1939. This year, with the war causing the tourists to turn their attention to the nearby fields, the total may go above the 6 billion mark.

For years this country has had an "adverse travel trade balance" of something like half a billion annually. That was the difference between what Americans spent abroad and what foreigners spent here. There won't be any such discrepancy in 1940. The money will be spent at home.

As some one has pointed out, the scenic wonders across the Atlantic have a fence around them, and you pay so much a look. In the Americas most of the marvels are inclosed in national parks and national forests, which are owned by the people, and therefore are open to the people. So, for one summer at least, the tourist will lose nothing by being kept close to home. He still has all the western hemisphere to explore.

• • •

New York's and San Francisco's expositions have reopened for the season. All the national parks will be open by the end of this week. The resort areas up north, out west, and back east will start up with the closing of the schools. Florida, southern California, and points in between are developing a year-round clientele. Alaska and Hawaii are preparing for record throngs. The Great Lakes steamers are swinging into action. So are the railroads, air lines, and bus lines.

What about the rest of the travel picture? Canada

Gaspe Carries Tourists Back to Old France

By Alden Powell.

GASPE, QUEBEC. If your longing for travel abroad has been frustrated, don't give up. You can still visit the rugged Gaspe peninsula, and here find a foreign atmosphere much more peaceful than any you would discover in Europe.

Here are the atmosphere of old-time France and the picturesque life of the French colonial era.

The simple fisherfolk and farmers of this area still live the life of centuries ago and still cling to the traditions of their forefathers.

Traveling the shores of the peninsula on the new Gaspe Belt highway, you pass thru settlements and villages more than 200 years old. The dwellings in the little settlements and the farmhouses and barns in the countryside bear the stamp of the typical architecture that existed in Brittany and Normandy when Jacques Cartier left France to add new territory to the domains of his king.

• • •

The French who colonized the Gaspe coast found the country more rugged than their native coast. Hills reaching up to 1,500 feet or more rise from the flatlands that adjoin the harbors. Cliffs and headlands, homes of sea birds, jut into the sea.

In the early days hundreds of fishing vessels come yearly to the coast of France in search of cod. They hailed from Honfleur, Dieppe, Boulogne, and Calais, and many of the present day fisherfolk are their descendants.

The sea still yields a heavy catch. In the forests which come almost to the sea are moose, deer, bear, and partridges. There is good fishing in the lakes and rivers. The old France in the new world still lives in the pioneer enchantments.

Gaspe reaches far out into the Gulf of St. Lawrence, north of New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, and Maine. It is reached by following the St. Lawrence river from Montreal and Quebec. If you drive by the north shore of the St. Lawrence, you ferry at Tadoussac to Rivière-du-Loup, on the south side of the river. A daily ferry service in summer carries 40 cars. From Rivière-du-Loup, you take highway No. 10 for 85 miles to Ste. Flavie, and here the Gaspe Belt highway, otherwise known as No. 6, begins its 550 mile circuit of the peninsula. At Matepedia, at the head of Baie des Chaleurs, on the south shore of the peninsula, you can cross the narrow neck back to the St. Lawrence river by a road less than a hundred miles long. Another returning route takes you south to Calais, Me., the northern end of United States highway No. 1.

• • •

Just after beginning the circuit, a little beyond Rivière-du-Loup, you begin to see the old-time, clay covered outdoor ovens which are as typical of Gaspe as are the fishing nets and schooners or the carts drawn by big strong dogs.

The land is uptilted as you reach the point where it stretches out into the Gulf of St. Lawrence. At Gaspe you suddenly shift your conversational gear from French into English. But this is about the only change.

Gaspe is the point of the discovery of Canada. It was on July 24, 1534, that Jacques Cartier landed where the village stands today.

The harbor is filled with fishing craft, but is deep enough for the biggest steamers.

If you have a craving for the wilds, a canoe trip up the Dartmouth and York rivers will take you into the wilderness.

Fifty miles farther on you come to the famed Roche Perce [Pierced Rock]. From the lofty cliff, the "Peak of Dawn," you can see it rising near the shore, like a stranded ship, 600 feet from Mont Jolie.

• • •

Perce Rock is 1,420 feet long, 288 feet high at the "prow" which faces the shore, 1,565 feet from the "prow" to the lofty "obelisk" which rises from the sea like a broken-off part. The part of the rock above water weighs 4 million tons and is about 300 feet wide at the top. The arch at rough Pierced Rock is 65 feet high.

Three miles from Perce is Bonaventure Island, a bird sanctuary known to ornithologists everywhere. Innumerable gulls, cormorants, auks, puffins, guillemots, and gannets line up like Boy Scouts.

While the rock is the best known part of Perce there are mountains rising sheer behind the village, limestone cliffs, and hillsides fringed with pines. Red roofed farmhouses, crosses by the roadside, two wheeled carts filled with peasants, white churches, headlands, and the ocean dashing against them help form the scene in this home of the French colonists in the new world.

Fishing Regatta in Nova Scotia

The new town of Louisburg, in the center of the sword fishing industry of Cape Breton, in the province of Nova Scotia, will be the scene of a fishermen's regatta July 1. The giant fish offer an exciting play on a 60 fathom ropeline used during the regatta.

New Louisburg is known for its once powerful fortress, ceded by France to Cape Breton in the "Treaty of Utrecht," in 1713. The region has many memorials dating from the 17th century.

WHY DO PEOPLE PREFER THE EMPIRE BUILDER?
GREAT NORTHERN ROUTE FOR THE Nation's Vacation
THIS FAMOUS TRAIN TAKES THEM TO THE MOST GLORIOUS PART OF AMERICA!

● Yes, the EMPIRE BUILDER will take you to or from the nation's vacation wonderland—Glorious Glacier Park in Montana Rockies. From here you can go to the Canadian Rockies—the Great Northern Dude Ranch country—cities and national playgrounds in Washington, Oregon, California—or an Alaskan cruise from Seattle or Vancouver.

But the marvelous scenery and other vacation treats reached by the EMPIRE BUILDER do not alone make this the preferred transcontinental train. It follows the most direct, lowest altitude route in northern United States and runs over a smooth, rock-ballasted roadbed and easy grades.

Whether you travel in Standard Pullman, Economical Tourist Sleeper or Lower Fare Luxury Coach, the comforts, conveniences and hospitality will forever be remembered. And you'll thoroughly enjoy Great Northern's meals at little cost.

Plan a more thrilling vacation for 1940. Call, phone or write for vacation travel information, including complete details on low-cost all-expense tours which take you to the most glorious part of America.

THE ONLY CHARGE YOU'LL RECALL IS THE ONE THIS SHAFT COMMEMORATES

In Massachusetts, where this monument reminds that Red Coats once charged up Bunker Hill, you will find modern "chargers" to vacationists very moderate.

WHETHER your visit be long or short, you occupy a modest or pretentious cottage at the shore or in the mountains, you stop at roadside camp or tourist home, or you regale yourself with the luxury of the many fine hotels—you will be pleased at the very reasonable cost of vacationing in this historic, summer playland.

Come and play or rest in Massachusetts this summer.... You won't remember the cost. But you will never forget the wonderfully interesting—and inspiring—time you'll have.

have you ever had a French Canadian vacation?

DRIVE the River Road to Québec. Below you, great liners, wearing their dull grey war paint, steam slowly towards the sea, laden with supplies for embattled Europe . . . yet here, all is peace in the land where Old World and New meet and are one.

At the roadside, French Canadian farm wives display their hand-made hooked rugs in a gay kaleidoscope of colour . . . on their verandahs stand the family spinning-wheels . . . hard by the farmstead may be seen the stone bake-ovens whence comes the Staff of Life of rural Québec.

Spires in the distance . . . a run through a modern suburb . . . then through a gate in the Old Wall and through narrow, Old-World streets to the ramparts of Canada's ancient Capital, Québec City.

To-morrow you'll go sightseeing in a Calèche, remarkable vehicle which is neither hansom-cab nor Irish jaunting cart, but is native to Québec itself. You'll want to visit the Plains where Wolfe and Montcalm fell . . . make trips to Ile d'Orléans, and famous Ste-Anne de Beaupré, the miracle shrine where hundreds of thousands of pilgrims worship every year.

Try a French Canadian vacation this year Come to the country across the street. Never mind your passport—neighbours need none. Come to Québec, the Province where your dollar goes farther, and where Old World and New live side by side and are one!

STEAMERS-PLANES

Canada Offers 'Old World' on This Continent

By Dorothy Schmidt.

Canada, always a leading goal of the "see North America first" enthusiasts, this summer promises to attract thousands of visitors from other ranks of travelers as well, including those who want some of the old world in their vacation background, and who are prevented from traveling across the Atlantic.

If you'd like a little hint in the right direction, here's one: "Do" old Quebec. Its summer season is excellent, climatically and pictorially. There's a great deal to see, both modern and historical. Turrets, spires, and steep roofed houses behind massive fortifications are the landmarks. The province is a bit of France in Canada, reflecting the early days of explorers, who claimed the country for the fleur de lis. In Quebec are descendants of the Normans, who settled there approximately at the time Columbus' persistence brought him to our own section of this hemisphere.

• • •

Montreal is set atop the rock which dominates the St. Lawrence river and from which may be seen the Ile d'Orleans and the towering Laurentian mountains. In Montreal all is scenery and history and the ways of another world. There's Dufferin terrace, a famous lookout point. Travelers may climb Anse au Foulon to the battle fields where soldiers fell under the flag of France. A mode of travel exclusive to Quebec province, the caleche, a type of carriage, is a source of enjoyment; but, for that matter, going on foot, altho a little more arduous, is possibly more rewarding.

By all means explore the long slope between mountain and river, known as the Beauport shore. Over the ledge thunder the Montmorency falls. Tablets along the way tell the story of the French and British struggle over this territory.

On the Ile d'Orleans farmers still use ox teams in tilling their ancestral acres, occupied by their families for 300 years and more. There are wayside crosses and old windmills. To the tune of clicking looms and whirring spinning wheels, Canadiennes' fingers turn out blankets and homespun. It's truly a rural district, with fresh baked loaves sending forth tantalizing odors from roadside ovens. And it's such a comparatively short trip from the world of today to this world of yesterday!

• • •

Then there's the Gaspé country, with its magnificent coast. Fishing is a big industry there, and the section is a mecca of artists and writers, principally because it is picturesque. Carts drawn by dogs, wagons pulled by sheep and oxen, and clumsy, old-fashioned bread vehicles suggest rural France and Belgium of long ago. Its coast line is not the Gaspé's only scenic attraction, for its fields are flowery and colorful, and the peaks of the Appalachians form a background for the Baie de Gaspé.

You'll want to see Nova Scotia and the island to which it is parent, Cape Breton. Less than a mile from the mainland, the isle is distinct in character. Gaelic is spoken and legend is almost fact in the lives of the people. Plans to hold a highland gathering on the occasion of the opening of the new Cape Breton Highlands National park in Nova Scotia are in preparation, and it is expected that this spectacle will attract large numbers, especially travelers of Scottish descent. In this "new Scotland across the sea" the landscape bears striking resemblance to Auld Scotia. To Cape Breton Island came many clansmen from the Scottish highlands after the rebellion of 1745, and their descendants cherish the traditions of their forefathers.

Altho the Scots have played an important part in the settlement of the isle, it is to Basque fishermen, who crossed the Atlantic in search of whales long before the voyages of Columbus, that the cape owes its name. Place names around the shores indicate that not only Basques, but Bretons, Normans, Portuguese, and Spaniards all had their share in making the history of this part of Nova Scotia.

• • •

All the fishing at Cape Breton Island is not of the commercial kind. If you're an angler, take your fishing equipment. You'll have good use for it!

While many look upon Manitoba as prairie country, the province is ribbed with lakes and mountains. The atmospheric clarity of Riding Mountain National park makes possible the colorations of the Twilight Bow, seen at sunrise and sunset over Clear lake. Also in the park are more than a thousand square miles of scenery left over from the glacial age.

That Canada is vast we don't need to tell you, but size is not synonymous with monotony. In the dominion there are as many different and interesting things to see as there are square miles.

ONE RESULT OF EROSION UP NORTH

Canada to Get a Neat Profit from Tourists

WASHINGTON.—Canada expects from 15,000,000 to 20,000,000 American tourists this year, and hopes to obtain approximately $300,000,000 in United States exchange, Consul George Feller has reported from Winnipeg.

Because relatively few Canadians are expected to travel abroad, a net credit balance of some $200,000,000 is looked for by the dominion from the tourist trade.

Canadian authorities are emphasizing that the selling of exchange by Canadian stores this year will be under police regulation.

Two More Latin American Lands Slash Red Tape

Argentina and Colombia have fallen in line with Brazil in smoothing the way for tourists. Other Latin American republics are said to be considering the step.

The traveler no longer has to bother with vaccination certificates, health certificates, police certificates, or other troublesome details to obtain a tourist visa to visit the Argentine. He need only sign his name on a simple visa application form.

Colombia has gone its neighbors one better and waived all visa requirements entirely for bona fide American tourists whose stay in that republic does not exceed eight days. Until recently a visitor to Colombia had to have in his possession a birth certificate, a marriage certificate, a health certificate, and a letter of recommendation from some civil authority, setting forth that he did not have a criminal record.

These steps are expected to give impetus to the trend of travel southward. Last year Americans spent more than $8,000,000 in travel to the 10 South American countries.

Season Is About to Open on the Lakes and St. Lawrence

With most of the long cruises—such as those to the Mediterranean and the North cape—out of the travel picture for this season, Chicagoans have turned their attention to the shorter ones, and to those much closer home.

Among these are the steamship excursions thru the Great Lakes, down the St. Lawrence, and up the Saguenay.

The Georgian Bay Line will go into action next Saturday with a week-end cruise to Escanaba in Green bay. Its two ships, the North American and South American, will cruise this summer to Georgian bay, the 30,000 islands, Mackinac Island, Detroit, Buffalo, Niagara Falls, and Cleveland.

On June 22 and 26 the Cleveland and Buffalo Transit company's Seeandbee will sail from Chicago for Mackinac Island. Its seven day journeys are to begin June 29, with Mackinac, Detroit, Buffalo, the Soo, and Green bay as the destinations.

As in former years, the Roosevelt Steamship company's Theodore Roosevelt will run daily from Chicago to St. Joseph and Benton Harbor, Mich.

From Detroit the Detroit and Cleveland Navigation company will have a series of trips to Niagara Falls.

Cruises on the St. Lawrence and the Saguenay, with Quebec, Tadoussac, and Murray bay among the ports of call, are to be run by both the Canada Steamship Lines and the Clarke Steamship company. The former line also will operate ships to the Soo, Port Arthur, Fort William, and Duluth.

Fore and Aft.

Society Editor Makes a Visit to Door County

By India Moffett.

Are you weary and upset and longing to get out of the city and into the country, where you can fill your lungs with air that is like a tonic and your eyes with pictures that will linger on and on? Do you feel the need of new surroundings and a new viewpoint? Then come with me and spend a long week-end on the Door county peninsula in northeastern Wisconsin. It is one of the most unspoiled sections of the country, one of the most unsophisticated, one of the most individual, one of the last to be touched by the long arm of modern civilization that tends to make all sections nearly alike, all people as tho cut from the same pattern.

Rugged Door county has resisted this modern trend; it has gone about its business for generations, paying little heed to and caring little for outside conventions and standards. Tourists come and go, they are welcomed by Door county residents, but they must take life as it is there on that windswept narrow strip of land. If they want the sort of luxury, the sort of gayety that more sophisticated resort sections have, they must go elsewhere, for Door county is a simple place.

• • •

Not that the Door county-ites are unaware of what is happening in the world outside. They have their newspapers, their magazines, and their radios, but they also have a deep abiding faith in the victory of goodness and right. So they are calm and undismayed and certain that all will be well with the world.

We start our trip on a gray, cool morning in Chicago. We skim northward; the sun breaks thru the clouds and by noon it is warm, comfortable for a picnic on the shore of Lake Michigan north of Manitowoc. At Sturgeon Bay we cross a bridge and we are on the northern part of the peninsula that lies between Lake Michigan and Green Bay. The cherry trees are in bloom; the orchards look as tho they were ready for a shave, their faces all creamed and lathered. There is a perfume of intoxicating sweetness in the air, but that is from the hawthorns, not the cherry blossoms.

On we go, past Egg Harbor, Fish Creek, Ephraim, Sister Bay, and Ellison Bay, to Gill's Rock, where we await the ferry boat that will take us over to Washington Island. It is the narrow strip of water between the tip end of the Door peninsula and the islands beyond—Washington is the largest of these—that gave the peninsular county its name. Port des Morts the French called it. Long before the French named it that in the early seventeenth century, the Indians had called it the Door of Death, for they knew of its treacherous currents and the fierce winds that drove many a craft to doom on the rockbound shores. Later, when the French had gone and Icelanders, Norwegians, and Danes had settled on the peninsula and its nearby islands, the name was shortened to "The Door."

• • •

We are early for the ferry and it is late, so we have quite a wait. At first we are impatient and then the peace of our surroundings engulfs us and we sit quietly and relax, for the first time in months, it seems. There is nothing to do, absolutely nothing. Even the exertion of turning on the radio to hear the latest news from abroad is too much. We just "set and think," doing far more of the former than the latter. The air is filled with the odor of fish and the pine woods; it is an invigorating smell; we like it.

All too soon the boat is there and we are on our way across the six mile stretch of water. We wonder whether it would be out of order to call the attention of the pilot to the sooty smoke that is being sifted thru our flag, making the white stripes almost black. We are very conscious of our flag just now and very proud of it. We would like to have the flag pole moved so that the Stars and Stripes would wave proudly in front of the smokestack.

Washington Island is about six miles across and has about 26 miles of shore. It is said to have more Indian remains and relics than any other section of Wisconsin, for the rich fishing grounds that surround it made it a favorite Indian abode. Across the island we drive to a hotel, a sort of glorified fishing camp, where we spend the night. The next morning we drive to Jackson harbor at the northeast point of the island, where we hire a boat to take us over to Rock Island. The hotel proprietor and the fisherman who owns the boat ask us anxiously "Are you expected at Rock Island? Are you sure you can land?" No, we answer to both questions. They seem uncertain and look at us as tho perhaps we were a little queer. They warn us that the owner of Rock Island perhaps will not welcome us. "He turns away more than he let ashore," we're told. O, well, we want very much to see C. H. Thordarson's fabulous domain, so we'll go on.

• • •

Mr. Thordarson meets us at his stone dock, such a dock and boathouse as might grace an island on which a millionaires' club was situated. He eyes us with suspicion until we say we were told to call on him by Commander McDonald, and then he permits us ashore. Twenty minutes he will give to showing us around. His cordiality grows, however, as our amazement at what he has accomplished and our enthusiasm for his estate are expressed. The 20 minutes lengthens into 40 and we are invited to come again.

Rock Island, about a mile square, was well known to the Indians and to the early French explorers, but it wasn't until about 100 years ago that it was settled by Americans. For 20 or 30 years it was a thriving community with about a hundred souls, but in the '50s and early '60s, when other parts of Door county began to be settled, the exodus from Rock Island started. One by one they left and finally it was a deserted, forgotten island until about 30 years ago when this wealthy Chicagoan, an Icelander by birth, bought it. What he has done there would make a saga all its own.

"It was the worst place in Wisconsin when I bought it," Mr. Thordarson tells us. "There's nothing like it in the world now," he continues, "everything is built to last a thousand years." And everything looks as though it would. The upper part of the boathouse is a great hall, so huge and so impressive that it looks as though it might be a banquet hall for Vikings. The building is of native stone. In the great hall is a fireplace in which enormous logs two feet in diameter and about six feet long are burned. Unique wooden chandeliers with colored lights are on tables, waiting to be installed far away in the tall ceiling some day. Mr. Thordarson is an electrical wizard, Commander McDonald has told us, and we believe it when we see the complicated lighting fixtures he has built. Chairs and tables enough to accommodate a hundred or more are around the room, but there is an unused look and feeling about the place, although it was built six or seven years ago.

• • •

A stone esplanade, as big as a summer hotel might have, adjoins the boathouse. One solitary table, shaded by a bright umbrella, and two chairs are there. As we walk across to the little pebble house in which Mr. Thordarson lives we see that a portion of the otherwise well-kept lawn is in a sorry state. "That is where forty or fifty deer come every night and dance," our guide tells us. "They do much damage," he goes on, "and it is to try and keep them out of the vegetable garden that I have built that high fence. It does not work, though," he sadly commented.

The pebble house is a curiosity, for no stone bigger than a crabapple has been used in the construction. It is here that Mr. Thordarson and his son keep bachelor quarters. Adjoining their living rooms is what the owner calls his "moon parlor." To you and to me it is a greenhouse in which potted plants are growing, but we can imagine how it must look with the moon shining thru the glass roof. We will time our next visit to Rock Island so that we can stand in the moon parlor and watch the deer dance!

As we walk to a mammoth log house we pass a rock garden in which tiny flowers imported from Iceland are beginning to bloom. Metal plates with bits of Icelandic literature engraved on them are fastened to big rocks. No one seems to live in the log house altho there seem to be accommodations for many. The logs are stupendous things, many of them 40 feet in length. In the living room fluffy white sheepskins from Iceland ornament the backs of the sofas. On a high point is a little three room cottage where Mr. Thordarson's married son and his wife live when they are on the island. Nowhere do we see any of the million dollar library that Mr. Thordarson has collected thru the years. It must be true that all is kept in his Chicago office, as we have been told. As we leave the island we agree with him that "there's nothing like it in the world."

• • •

Trout caught that morning for dinner and then a long hike thru the fields and woods of beautiful Washington Island. In the late afternoon we take the ferry back to Gill's rock. Just as we pull away from the dock we see a fisherman and woman come in. Their string of pike makes us wish we had gone fishing.

Down the west coast of the peninsula we drive, stopping for a moment in Sister bay to call on a Chicagoan, Col. Yaschenko, who has built a Russian log and stone house on the high bluff overlooking the bay. He has two guests, Prince Rostislav and Nicholas Starosselsky, for this long week-end. The colonel is planting gladioli and his guests are playing backgammon, so we linger only long enough to climb to the top of the combination scenic and water tower for the superb view. On the next estate, that of Dr. Frederick Stock, the former Vera Wolfe and her husband, Alfred Wolfe, are spending the holidays.

We choose an old hotel in Ephraim, old but comfortable and clean, and guaranteed to dissuade any one from dieting. After supper we stroll down the hill, passing the old Moravian church and its older parsonage, which now is the white, blue-shuttered house of Mrs. James A. Field of Chicago. The next day we drive thru beautiful, wild Peninsula park, which has nine miles of water front in its almost 4,000 acres. We come out of the park in Fish creek, where many Chicagoans spend the summers. We drive on south to a side road that leads east to the Peninsula Players' garden theater. The season has not opened, but Richard Fisher and his sister, Caroline, and her husband, Rodion Rathbone, and others of the company are there, and we think we would like to see them.

• • •

We are turned aside, however, by a new sign, "J. R. Buchbinder," that tempts us to drive up the road thru the pine forest. We round many bends and, suddenly, there we see a dream house. Built of California redwood, stone quarried about four miles from the house, and great expanses of plate glass, it is the House of Today. Modern, stunning, utilitarian, and fitting into its hillside surroundings so perfectly that it does not seem possible that its foundation was laid just last September. Dr. and Mrs. Buchbinder bought the property on Labor day, the road construction was started the next day, the house begun two weeks later and May 1 this year was moving day.

George Fred Keck, architect, certainly has succeeded in his idea of bringing the outside in, for there is no feeling of contrast as one steps from the flagstone terrace to the flagstone end of the great living room. Fir, stained to match the redwood, is used in the interior. In front of the stone fireplace there is a rug that contributes more to the feeling of the outside being in, for it carries the design of a stately spruce tree that can be seen thru one of the glass walls. The rug was woven in Puerto Rico, but most of the furniture was made right on the peninsula from designs drawn by Mr. Keck.

We climb to a circular sun deck that is like the captain's bridge of a ship for a glimpse of the bay, and then listen to a symphony in the two storied living room, which acoustically is a perfect concert hall. As we leave we almost run into a tree, looking back for a last glimpse of this beautiful and interesting house which has as many gables as the old one in Salem about which Hawthorne wrote. There are no flat roofs apparent on the Buchbinder house; every room has its own slanting roof.

In the harbor at Ephraim we see a little cruiser on which four young Chicagoans are spending the week-end. It belongs to John Church, who keeps the boat at Sturgeon bay. Every week-end he and his wife go north to cruise thru Green bay or Lake Michigan. Over the Memorial day week-end they had the Stephen Harringtons with them.

The week-end is over and we must say "Au revoir"; it is not farewell, for one visit to Door county is not enough.

WHEN A BREEZE FILLS THE SAILS

Sailors, as well as fishermen, swimmers, canoeists, and motorboatsmen, find summer sport on Wisconsin's inland lakes.

Trucks Barred from Wisconsin Main Highways

MADISON, Wis.—No big trucks on Wisconsin's heaviest traveled main highways over holidays and week-ends during the summer vacation season is again the order, issued for the seventh consecutive year, of the Wisconsin motor vehicle department.

To further highway safety and to avoid traffic congestion, George W. Rickeman, department commissioner, has released the order listing highways closed to travel by trucks and truck-trailer combinations. Trucks and combinations of more than 6,000 pounds gross weight will not be permitted on portions of 12 state and federal highways between 1 p. m. and 11 p. m. on any Saturday, and between 9 a. m. and midnight on any Sunday or legal holiday thruout the summer.

Wisconsin was the first state to adopt such vacationtime regulation of highway traffic.

Native Inns Afford Tourists Taste of Japanese Home Life

Altho Japan has many good western style hotels, no American visitor can call his trip complete until he has stayed at least once at one of the native inns, called "ryokan."

His first experience, especially if he is a lone wolf traveler, will be the personal interest of the manager and servants. The "ryokan" have a family atmosphere.

After that the tourist will be able to try out the things he has read about. He will sit on a silk cushion on the floor with his feet doubled up under him. At night he will sleep on the floor in a native bed, or "huton."

Until he has learned to appreciate Japan's native dishes, the American will prefer his own country's cuisine. His hosts are well aware of this and will supplement the menu with various salads, toasts, egg, and meat dishes.

For the untraveled, the inn servants are of more practical use than the Encyclopedia Japonica and a dictionary-phrase book combined. Members of the staff delight in teaching their foreign guests simple words and phrases and showing them about the city.

Bermuda to Have Oleander Pageant

HAMILTON, Bermuda.—Plans are being made for the Pageant of the Bermuda Oleander on June 27.

Because the oleander blossoms are the island's most beautiful and most admired summer flowers, a day has been set aside on which to honor them. Over the coralstone roads will pass a parade of floats and pageantry, which will culminate in a show at the Exhibition grounds. The event will take place at the peak blossoming period.

There are many other species blooming at this season.

THE TRIBUNE TRAVELERS' GUIDE

STEAMERS & PLANES

PublicResponds to 'Travel Now, Pay Later' Plan

Reports from passenger agents in all sections of the country indicate that the new travel on credit plan, started less than three weeks ago, is already a success, Hugh W. Siddall, chairman of both the Transcontinental and the Western Passenger associations, said yesterday.

In the first 12 days more than 1,000 applications for the service were filed in California alone. In New York City 96 per cent of the applications have been approved as satisfactory for credit. Similar reports have been received from Chicago and other cities.

• • •

"The railroads have long contended that travel, even for no other purpose than pleasure, is a legitimate commodity, and not in any sense an extravagance," said Mr. Siddall. "They are publicizing the travel on credit plan as a thrifty convenience. They are pointing out that money spent on travel is an educational investment which pays lifetime dividends.

"An all-expense tour of the Colorado Rockies, for example, may be bought on a repayment basis of approximately $10 a month. An all-expense Caribbean cruise would cost about $14 a month. Alaska and the Canadian Rockies on an all-expense basis would cost the purchaser in the neighborhood of $22 a month. Payments on shorter or less elaborate tours would be proportionately lower.

• • •

"The plan itself is simple. Any one able to handle the cost of a trip or tour on deferred payments is eligible to buy transportation on credit. Straight transportation, all-expense tours, and sleeping and parlor car charges—any service sold at a railway ticket office, except money orders and travelers' checks—may be purchased in this manner.

"No down payment or collateral is required, and the cost may be repaid in from six months to a year. The only restriction is that the cost of the trip or tour must total $50 or more."

149 Miami Hotels Open for Summer

With its position as a winter vacationland secure, Florida is making a bid for summer vacationists. It has launched a movement to develop a year round tourist industry. Encouraged by the rapid pace of travel in the current year, 149 hotels in Miami alone are to remain open for the summer.

TIPS TO TOURISTS

What's your travel problem? Address queries regarding where to go, how to get there, costs and accommodations to the Travelers' Guide, Chicago Tribune, inclosing stamped, self-addressed envelope.

What is the average summer temperature in Duluth and northeastern Minnesota? F. V.

About 62.5 degrees.

I have been told that North Carolina boasts of the world's largest single boxwood plant. Where is it? W. R. B.

Near Salisbury. The bush is 75 feet in circumference and 150 years old.

How long will the San Francisco exposition remain open? R. W.

Until Sept. 29.

We wish to make a tour of a number of the Illinois state parks. How many of them have camping facilities? S. C. M.

Starved Rock, Pere Marquette, Illini, Giant City, Fort Massac, Buffalo Rock, Cave-in-Rock, Apple River Canyon, and Mississippi Palisades.

My husband and I are planning a trip eastward this summer, and one of the places we wish to visit is the birthplace of the Star Spangled Banner—Fort McHenry, near Baltimore. Please tell us something about it. D. K.

The fort, now a national park, has been restored as nearly as possible to its appearance of 1814. Its big guns still point over the waterfront. It is visited by more than 200,000 Americans annually. It has been a shrine ever since the war of 1812. It got its fame when, after burning Washington, D. C., the British fleet sailed up Chesapeake bay and opened a terrific bombardment on the fort. This was early on Sept. 13, 1814. Shot and shell rained on the ramparts thruout the day and night, presenting a vivid picture to Francis Scott Key, who had been detained on a flag of truce ship in the rear of the invading fleet. At dawn of the following day Key looked out and saw the flag still flying over the ramparts. Thereupon he jotted down the stirring words of the song on the back of an envelope. On his return to Baltimore the verses were published, and then sung in music halls thruout the city. It was not long until the anthem had spread all over the country.

We are traveling eastward this summer, and wish to visit the original House of Seven Gables. Just where is it? —B. E. H.

In Salem, Mass.

THE TRIBUNE TRAVELERS' GUIDE

TOURS—CRUISES

Here Is Peace from Turmoil of Civilization

By Philip Kinsley.

In the summer travel season Canada offers a variety of wilderness retreats, tamed and untamed, for the adventurer or the socialite, the trailer inhabitant, or the plain vacationist seeking a rest from the world's turmoil.

A year ago the British king and queen had a bird's-eye view of this vast domain, which they may claim as their home if the British Isles become too hot to hold them. All the way from the Thousand Islands of the St. Lawrence to Vancouver Island on the Pacific there are palaces and places of beauty and quiet awaiting them.

Straight north from Chicago, in the Ontario wilderness between Hudson bay and the north shore of either Lake Superior or Lake Michigan, the traveler will find one of the most alluring of vacation spots on this continent.

• • •

Between Sudbury, just north of Georgian bay, and Port Arthur and Fort William, at the outlet of the Nipigon waters, lies a rocky wilderness covered with dense forest, laced with innumerable lakes and streams, and alive with game. From either side of the car windows, all day long, one passes entrancing lakes and streams. It is too bad to pass them. They invite the canoe and camp. Only an occasional log cabin brings any human intrusion. Trails may be seen wandering thru the pines. There are lovely little islands, uninhabited except by creatures that know nothing of human troubles; beaches by blue waters that invite the whip of the trout rod, the evening fire, the deep, sweet sleep of the tired traveler.

There are many summer camps in this district, with Indian guides anxious to serve the hunter and fisherman. The ancient charm of the wilderness is here. Beyond the railroads dog sleds and canoes are still the chief means of travel.

At Biscotasing, for instance—an Indian name which means a narrow, filled with water lilies, connecting two lakes—the Hudson's Bay company still maintains a trading post. This is the jumping off place for the canoe route to Flying Post, James bay, and Hudson bay, a route used since earliest times.

• • •

One of the finest canoe excursions in the country leads from Biscotasing down the Mississauga river to Blind river, on Lake Huron. This is a 275 mile journey, past the Aubrey falls, higher than Niagara, the Forty Mile rapids, and the Mississauga tunnel, a narrow, turbulent passage thru giant pines, where one may fish for trout, bass, muskies, and pike, and glimpse moose, beaver, and other game.

On the shores of Lake Kabequashesing, which empties into James bay, is the heart of the Chapleau game preserve, with an area of 5,000 square miles. This is a splendid canoeing and fishing ground, with countless lakes stocked with brook trout, lake trout, great northern pike, and walleyes. Moose, bear, and deer multiply rapidly in the protected district. One journey from here is the Montreal river canoe trip, to the river's source at Summit lake, on the continental divide. Another is down the river thru the Indian country, portaging over the worst rapids. There is a hard run from Dog lake to Lake Superior, a 58 mile trip with one hard portage, and speckled and lake trout to reward the fisherman.

• • •

The Nipigon country is famous among sportsmen. Its fishing has has been praised ever since the famous "Journal" of Daniel Harmon, pioneer fur trader of the Northwest company, a century ago. This is said to be the finest fishing district in Ontario, altho all the country looks as tho one could step off anywhere and have a good day's sport. There is the Nipigon river itself, 40 miles long, pure, clear, and cold, with numerous lakes and rapids. There also is Lake Nipigon, 75 miles by 35, dotted with 2,000 islands where moose and caribou live, shadowed in places by cliffs that rise 1,000 feet above the waters.

Near Port Arthur is Thunder cape, a rugged headland bearing a rough resemblance to a prostrate man. This is the "Sleeping Giant," according to Indian legend—an image of the Great Spirit that keeps watch over the treasure of this land.

The great treasure now to be found in any land is peace, and perhaps it is here, or in some other part of the North American wilds, still waiting for man to make it his own.

NESTING IN A CRATER IN THE PACIFIC NORTHWEST

Crater lake occupies the top of an extinct volcano in southern Oregon. Its waters are known for their purplish-blue color. The national park surrounding the lake has a new gateway this summer.

Girl Alpineers.

STE. MARGUERITE, Que.—Canada's only girl mountain climbing club, the Quebec Alpine, started its session by conquering Mount Baldy, 2,400 feet of sheer rock in the Laurentian mountains, northwest of Montreal. Unlike other mountain climbers, the girls dress for the occasion in rubber soled sneakers, cool shorts, and sports blouses. They spent the winter months keeping in shape for mountain climbing by skiing down the sides of the same slopes at a mile a minute clip.

'Lost Colony' to Reopen June 29

MANTEO, N. C.—Paul Green's "The Lost Colony," historic outdoor drama which originally was written and produced as part of a six weeks' celebration of the 350th anniversary of the birth of Virginia Dare, will open its fourth season at the Fort Raleigh amphitheater June 29.

The 1940 cast will contain several new names among the professionals, but, as in the past, the background—if not the backbone—of the production will be furnished by amateurs from three sources: natives of the island which was first settled by Sir Walter Raleigh's ill-fated colony; young men from the CCC camps who take many of the Indian parts; and members of the Carolina Playmakers, little theater group from the University of North Carolina.

Saugatuck Comes to Life in Summer

SAUGATUCK, Mich.—A sleepy village eight months of the year, Saugatuck comes to life when the resort season begins. Four art schools attract students from all over the country.

Saugatuck's municipal art gallery, in the white colonial city hall on the main street, contains examples of the work done by the summer visitors and by the permanent residents. There are several exhibitions each summer.

The artists come to the front in the social life of the village when the Art fête and ball is held. The affair this year will be held Aug. 19 to 24.

Indians Steel Workers.

CAUGHWANAGA, Que. — Members of Quebec's Iroquois Indian tribes, who spend much of their leisure time at the government reservation 20 miles from Montreal, are considered top flight structural steel workers. Many of them earn good salaries on building jobs, and 40 per cent of the men have been engaged in building some of New York's skyscrapers. Members of the tribe take in about $50 a day from the sale to tourists of beads and other souvenirs made by the 5,000 members living on the six mile reservation here.

Treasure Isle Has Treasures of Real Beauty

By Seymour Korman.

By day a place gay and redolent with millions of flowers, by night a vast jewel with myriad flashing points—this is Treasure Island, the man made body of land in San Francisco bay, scene of the new Golden Gate exposition.

It is a $50,000,000 fairyland, dedicated to the history of a romantic region of America and in a larger sense to knowledge and recreation and travel. Several millions of people visited the exposition last year and millions more are expected for a second season.

This fair is not as extensive in area as the one in New York, but its very compactness and the beauty of its setting are distinct advantages. The traveler to California this year will find fiestas and pageants thruout the state, and San Francisco itself is one of the most picturesque cities in America. "The cool gray city of the west," the post George Sterling called it.

• • •

Perhaps the foremost architectural exhibit on Treasure Island is the Tower of the Sun, with its imposing spire, its figures depicting industry, agriculture, art, and science, and its plaques of the winds. It is centrally situated and the fanwise arcades lead to other exhibits and to the Court of Honor.

The Fine Arts building this year has added a display of art from Central and South American countries bordering on the Pacific ocean, and many of the masterpieces from abroad still remain.

• • •

The story of photography is also to be found in this building. Daguerrotypes and the latest color pictures, the earliest erratic motion picture films and the up to date in technicolor and news photographs are all there.

California's own history and that of the western states are found in other exhibits. A statue of Abraham Lincoln stands before the Illinois building. This building has been stocked with new exhibits this year; six dioramic displays are a feature.

These are only a few of the attractions in the formal exhibits. And, as last year, there will be the Gayway.

Here, combining drama and color, is also the "Cavalcade." Pageantry unfolds the story of America from the landing of Columbus to the end of the 19th century. There are 1,500 characters in the cast.

There is much to see in San Francisco: Fishermen's wharf, the Cliff house, the thousand acre Golden Gate park, the curving Embarcadero, Chinatown. And not far away are Muir woods, home of the giant redwoods, and Berkeley, seat of the University of California.

OUT FOR AN AFTERNOON OF SPORT

Week-end regattas provide fun and excitement at a score of lakes in western Michigan. This picture was taken at Spring lake.

Northern Fish, Take Warning: Blitzkrieg Is On!

Southeast of Traverse City is Spider lake, a fairly small body that is what is called a "handy size" for fishing. Bass bugs, noisy "popperoo" fly rod lures, and plugs get them there.

• • •

If you like to fish near the shore of Lake Michigan, try Portage lake, just above the town of Manistee. This is a swell bet for small mouth black bass. Portage covers about 2,500 acres and it's connected with Lake Michigan. Best catches on artificials are made at dusk with fly rod surface lures or with spinner lures on a bait casting rod. The fish run large. Visit the east shore, where the weeds are. Pretty good spot for some bronze backs.

Muskegon and the Muskegon river, Grand Haven, South Haven, the lake region around Kalamazoo, Manistee, and Pere Marquette rivers for trout—these are just a few of the hundreds of delightful fishing areas in lower Michigan.

In the Upper Peninsula the story is much the same. From Lake Gogebic, the trout streams above Watersmeet, and the Porcupine mountains overlooking Lake Superior, eastward thru the Hiawatha forest and Blaney Park to the Soo, there are vacation spots by the score, and everywhere an opportunity to fish.

• • •

If you don't want to leave your desk and say good-by to the office for several weeks this summer, by all means avoid looking at a Minnesota fishing map. That state has so many lakes of all sizes and so many delightful camps that a sportsman will find it hard to go back to work if he gets into that state with his tackle.

As a starter, consider those lakes around Brainerd, Pequot, and Mille Lacs. You can fish a new one a day and change the type of angling constantly, with bass fishing one day, wall-eyes the next, and northern pike the third day. Then you can start the cycle all over again.

Around Aitken you'll find more lakes with a definite appeal. Last year bass weighing up to 6¾ pounds were caught there. Lac Wiben produced five and six pounders.

• • •

Grand Rapids and Marcell [farther north] also demand attention on a Minnesota fishing trip. At Marcell there's one camp that has boats on 42 different lakes. The schedule calls for a swift blitzkrieg. One has to fish at least two lakes every day to make a real impression on that country!

If you want to fly to wilderness lakes or take a leisurely canoe trip thru a superbly beautiful lake country, don't forget the Superior National forest country and the Quetico, above the northern boundary of Minnesota. This is one of America's outstanding playgrounds. If you stay at camp on the border you can fly to bass and pike lakes in 20 minutes or so, catch a string of fish, and be back at the camp for dinner without any hurry.

• • •

Wisconsin also has so many lakes that a fisherman can hardly pick any dozen, or 20, as outstanding.

In the southern part of the state—and therefore close to Chicago—Kegonsa, Waubesa, Koshkonong, Lauderdale, Brown, Lake Geneva, and Delavan get the call for fishing, boating, swimming, and golf. When it comes to air-cooled Door county, the peninsula surrounded by Lake Michigan water [and fish], the tip is: Hit the bass starting the first of next month, and be ready for real action, because some of the best small mouth fishing in the middle west is to be had around the islands and on the reefs out from the peninsula and towns like Egg Harbor, Fish Creek, and Ephraim. [The season in outlying waters opens July 1.]

And you may want to mark down these names in your notebook: The big lake chain near Three Lakes and Eagle river; Twin lakes and Sand lake, near Phelps; Lost Land lake, St. Germaine, and others not far from the little town of Sayner, for bass, pike, and muskie; Lac Vieux Desert, near Land o' Lakes, and the chain of bass and pike lakes west of there; the historic country of the Lac du Flambeau Indian reservation [reached via Woodruff and Minocqua], where there are hundreds of lakes for pike and muskie fishing; the Manitowish waters, noted for their fishing and other vacation sports; scores of small and large lakes around Hazelhurst; Spooner and Hayward, in the northwest part of the state, where there are rivers for pike and bass fishing, and innumerable bass lakes; and that vacation country reached via Bloomer, Barron, and Chetek, in northwest Wisconsin, where a combination of lakes and the Chippewa river really make a fishing "double" that is hard to beat.

• • •

It's unfortunate [but true] that it would take an enthusiastic Waltonian the better part of his life to see and fish a sizable part of Canada's vast resources of lakes and streams. The Lake of the Woods country alone would keep any muskie or bass angler busy for years exploiting its coves, bays, and small "inland" lakes reached by portages. [We discovered a "new" lake up there nine years ago, and it's still producing beautiful strings of small mouthed bass!]

Beyond are little known muskie and trout lakes which now are reached by airplane in a few minutes, altho the traveler would be days getting to them by canoe and portage. Kenora is the base for these airplane trips into the promised land. The French river, with its comfortable camps and swift water fishing, and the famous Nipigon—these and many other areas across the border are calling to anglers everywhere.

• • •

Westward across the prairies is the scenic Black Hills country, with its cool canyons, timbered hills, fighting trout, and historic landmarks.

With such a choice of vacation spots, the outdoorsman has no easy time in trying to decide on just one spot to visit this summer.

America Scene of Summertime Vacation Play

will be doing business as usual, with no passports or other formalities required. Mexico is reassuring its northern neighbors that they will be as welcome as always, and is discounting reports of possible disturbances at the forthcoming elections. The South American republics are smoothing the way for travelers by easing up on passport requirements. Guatemala and the rest of Central America, along with Bermuda and the islands in the Caribbean, are ready to reap their share of the tourist gold. Even the orient, which still has an undeclared war of its own, is peaceful enough to draw the sightseers and globe trotters.

In view of all this, the traveling public is entitled to a complete, authentic guide of this summer's vacation possibilities—of where to go and how to get there. And that's what this section of THE TRIBUNE seeks to provide.

It Cools and Cures.

A cooling tea called "heal-soon" is made from leaves of the Bermuda bedstraw.

Gliders Attract Large Crowds to Michigan Dunes

FRANKFORT, Mich. — Men with silent wings join the gulls over the Lake Michigan dunes here each summer. They are the soaring pilots who have found the wind and atmospheric conditions here suited for motorless flights in their gliders.

Prevailing westerly winds make flights of five or six hours almost a regular thing. New discoveries of thermal conditions point to the possibility of long distance flights inland.

The soaring school at Frankfort provides entertainment for the summer visitors, who flock to the beach and the airport to see the youthful pilots put their craft thru their maneuvers. Each fall the American Open Soaring meet attracts outstanding pilots from all over the United States to compete for prizes and honors.

Last year the meet was seen by many thousands. Several new state distance marks were established.

Nova Scotia Has 370 Lighthouses

The unending chain of lighthouses strung along the shores of Nova Scotia is one of the sights greeting visitors to Canada's most easterly maritime province.

There are 370 of these seacoast guardians—which might seem a large number for a country of only 21,428 square miles. However, when it is realized that the province is a long, narrow peninsula, thrust 300 miles out into the Atlantic and so deeply indented that it has 5,000 miles of coastline, the number seems less excessive.

Years before the innovation of steam on the seas, Nova Scotia was famous for its wooden ships and iron men. The harbors of Yarmouth, Liverpool, Shelburne, Halifax, Lunenburg, and Louisburg were known to merchants and marine men all over the world.

Ever since the early days the lighthouses have played a major rôle in shipping and world trade, and they are still carrying on.

They Go Skiing in Mexico in June

MEXICO CITY.—The eternal snows on the peaks of Popocatepetl and Ixtacihuatl are attracting tourists from sweltering towns in the United States. "Popo park," on the slopes of Popocatepetl, serves as a base for summer skiing, as well as ice skating. Guides are available for experienced climbers who wish to ascend the mountainsides.

For Half a Century.

On every fair Saturday for the last 50 years a group of men in Franklinton, N. C., have played marbles. Oldest of the group is now 84.

THE TRIBUNE TRAVELERS' GUIDE

TOURS—CRUISES

Rural Virginia Is Opening Up to the Tourist

By Will O'Neil.

The scream of a heavy saw squaring down logs and cutting them into rough hewn boards may still be heard in the mountains of western Virginia. The portable machinery of these mills is moving from place to place thru the hills, searching out the last sticks of timber neglected by loggers and sawyers who preceded them.

Thousands of acres in these mountains south of Marion, Va., have been converted into the Jefferson National forest in an effort to restore the beauty of the heavy timber which formerly covered these round top knobs. Small second growth trees and saplings are crowding one another for space and sunlight.

The constant improvement of roads is opening up the area to tourists in what one farmer termed the hill billy country of Virginia. Shining sheaths of dogwood cover some of the mountain sides, and trees with tulip-like blossoms can be seen at almost every turn.

• • •

Trout streams, some small game, rattlesnake hunting grounds, buzzards and hawks drifting on lazy wings, and all the scenery the traveler can ask for are on every hand. But the good roads which are opening the area to the less hardy travelers are digging into the natural environment. You can pick wild flowers of all sorts in the Jefferson forest, but it costs $200 a flower if a forester catches you.

A good road winds south over a mountain from Marion to the little village of Sugar Grove. Along the road is a state fish hatchery, battling constantly to keep the trout streams stocked. The day the hatchery truck went over to put a thousand trout in the Hurricane there were several fishermen waiting on the bank for the fish to be put in the stream.

Sugar Grove is somewhat typical, altho more animated, than most of the little villages in the mountains. The village has a dozen houses, a couple of general stores without extensive stocks, a church, two gasoline stations, and a brand new postoffice. In some of the nearby villages the general stores have blackboards with barter prices marked up. The usual purchase is flour and salt.

• • •

A visit to White Top, nearly 6,000 feet in elevation and one of the highest mountains east of the Mississippi river, was planned for one afternoon. Hot dogs were sought for roasting on the mountain top. There were no hot dogs in Sugar Grove, but some were found in Troutdale, a village farther back in the mountains. Troutdale stores, however, didn't have any bread—the weekly bakery truck was not due thru there until late that afternoon.

To the left as one entered the largest general store of Troutdale was an upended packing box, covered with brown wrapping paper. Thereon rested huge slabs of salt pork, with barely a streak of lean thru a slab nearly four inches thick. Big crates of greens were banked against the front of the store.

• • •

A government forester was posted near the crest of White Top as a fire lookout. From his post one could see far into the mountains of North Carolina and Tennessee. His portable telephone was set up in the front seat of his car—because, he said, the wind often was so strong that an outside telephone would blow away.

"Don't be in a hurry to leave, folks," he said, "you are the first people I've seen all day. This is a mighty lonesome job when nobody comes around for a long spell. Come back."

WHERE HONEYMOONERS AND TOURISTS GO SIGHTSEEING

After all these years Niagara Falls in still one of the major attractions—and newlywed destinations—of the east. This view is from the river bank at the bottom of Niagara gorge.

Railroads Have New Services for Travelers

By Philip Hampson.

Many inducements are being put forth by the railroads this year to make vacation travel easier and better. In addition to their new streamlined trains the roads are offering new services to supplement the low summer fares. One is an arrangement whereby the vacationist may have an automobile at his disposal the minute he arrives at his destination. Another is the instalment payment plan in the sale of tickets to lighten the financial burden of a long trip.

Chicagoans have available the largest fleet of streamliners in the country—fast trains which save time ordinarily used for travel. That time may now be spent in the mountains, by a lake, or in the forest.

Nowadays it's just an overnight trip to the gateway of the Rockies at Denver via the Burlington's stainless steel Zephyrs or the City trains of the North Western-Union Pacific. The Rock Island's Rockets take the traveler to Colorado Springs and other mountain resorts.

• • •

One may leave Chicago in the late afternoon and be at Denver early the following morning. If he chooses he may arrange to have an automobile for his own use to take him to mountain camps or to such places as Brook forest, resembling a bit of Switzerland.

The Santa Fe and the North Western [the latter in conjunction with the Union Pacific and Southern Pacific] have streamlined trains running to the Pacific coast. In addition they have such trains as the Scout and the Challenger with moderate prices both for fares and food en route. Many young people patronize these to save money to spend on their vacations. There are special trains to the San Francisco exposition.

The North Western and the Milwaukee have streamlined service to the north woods of Wisconsin and lower Michigan, and the Burlington's Zephyrs take the vacationist to the Minneapolis gateway to lake and stream. Resorts along the east shore of Lake Michigan may be reached via the Pere Marquette or the Pennsylvania.

• • •

There are the streamlined trains of the North Western-Union Pacific carrying holiday makers to the Pacific seaboard in the northwest. That region is also reached by the Milwaukee, with its long stretch of electric operation thru the mountains, and by the Burlington in conjunction with the Great Northern and Northern Pacific.

Eastward both the Pennsylvania and the New York Central have streamlined trains to New York besides all-coach trains that enable the thrifty to save money for spending at the World's Fair. These all-coach trains travel almost as fast as the fastest. The Baltimore and Ohio has a speedy train for Washington, as does the Pennsylvania.

The Canadian Pacific and the Canadian National are transporting Americans to Canada, and, with the exchange rate favoring the American dollar, the dominion is a splendid place in which to cut vacation costs.

Numerous trains leave Chicago via the Alton, Chicago and Eastern Illinois, the Wabash, and the Illinois Central for St. Louis, where connections are made with thru trains to Mexico City.

Altho one thinks of Miami and the Florida coast as a winter resort, Floridans are pointing out that their seashore is pleasant in summer. And certainly Florida offers to the tourist who can get away only in the warm months a complete change from the scenes to which he is accustomed. He can fill his ambition of seeing something that approximates the South Sea Islands at no great expense, for fares are low in the south.

Rocky Mountain Park Observes 25th Birthday

ROCKY MOUNTAIN NATIONAL PARK, Colo.—Jubilee in the Rockies, June 15 and 16, celebrating the 25th anniversary of the establishment of this area as a national park, will find summer facilities and all hotels in operation.

While the main events of the celebration will take place in the town of Estes Park, the park will provide the recreational background.

Snow for the summer ski jumping carnival on Elkhorn mountain, near the village, will come from high slopes where winter insists on lingering in the lap of summer. Tons of last January's flakes will be hauled to the ski slide to enable jumpers to make 150 foot leaps in warm weather.

There will be an early Sunday morning community worship in the Moraine Park amphitheater, surrounded by the rugged crests of the Rockies. A special motor caravan to Fall River pass will be another event.

Chansons Go On Record.

The charm of the Quebec chansons has recently been recorded for the lovers of American native music. Still almost unknown to the people of the United States, the French Canadian chansons are familiar to visitors to Quebec and are sung at nearly every gathering. They have many variations, according to the district in which they are sung.

Secret Convent at Puebla Is Goal of Many Tourists

PUEBLA, Mexico.—Perhaps the fact that it was unknown and unsuspected for so long makes tourists select the Secret Convent of Santa Monica as one of their excursions out of Mexico City.

Great stone pyramids reveal more of archæological value and interest; cathedrals and churches are more interesting architecturally; Xochimilco's floating gardens offer more scenery. But the austere and drab little series of rooms, hidden deep inside a block of city houses in Puebla, where nuns lived in silent abnegation, practicing the patient art of ecclesiastical embroidery and preparing themselves for death, makes an unforgettable impression on most visitors.

In 1857 the reform laws in Mexico abolished convents. But until 1935 the Convent of Santa Monica remained undiscovered. The nuns never left the rooms of their house, well hidden among other dwellings in the heart of a city block, and friends supplied them with food thru a secret door in one of the houses. The nuns even had a small, unsuspected patio, deep inside, with its fountain and flowers, where they could walk and look up toward the sky.

Surprised by a government agent, the sisters fled by means of a secret exit thru a public church. The dark clad women, wrapped in black veils, were not noticed hurrying thru the streets, for in Mexico mourning costumes are almost identical with these, and the women habitually wear black as they grow older.

Now tourists look at the barren little rooms, the comfortless cots, exactly as they were when the government agent discovered the convent and broke in. Visitors may see the work of the nuns' hands, even their coarse dark garments, where some were left hanging in a dark hall.

Protected by Hibiscus.

Orange growing has been revived in Bermuda, where a young orchardist recently produced a crop. To protect the heavily laden trees from the sea breezes, he fringed his grove with a 10 foot pink hibiscus hedge.

THE TRIBUNE TRAVELERS' GUIDE

STEAMERS—PLANES

Mexico Is Best Seen from an Old Residence

By Edith Weigle.

Mexico is one thing from a hotel window and quite another from the open doors of an old home in a quiet residential section.

It was our privilege recently to visit three charmingly artistic houses, one in Mexico City, another in Cuernavaca, and a third in Taxco. Each is quite different in atmosphere and architecture from the others, each is a gem in itself, and all are owned by a remarkable connoisseur of the arts, Frederick Davis [from Gilman, Ill.], who has lived in Mexico for more than 30 years.

In Mexico City Mr. Davis superintends all the work done in silver by native craftsman for Sanborn's. He is also a designer, and one of his distinctive creation is an exquisite miniature silver box, the top set with a single turquoise matrix. It was he who, years ago, turned the skilled lacquer workers back from the gaudy trays and boxes they were making to the beautiful designs of their ancestors—to the deep, rich colors and lines of the Aztecs.

• • •

And it was he who, as a discriminating patron of Mexican art, was one of the first to appreciate Diego Rivera, Roberto Montenegro, Miguel Covarubias, and others of the new school. In his Mexico City home hang examples of the work of these painters and of many more who have found haven under his rooftree.

In his Cuernavaca house is a collection of oils by painters of the 19th century.

We were invited for breakfast at the Mexico City home. From the street it might have been a mansion on the Boulevard Hausmann or the Champs in Paris, so French was it in architecture. [And this is true of many residences on the Passo de Reforma and the streets that lie near by.]

But once the huge door was opened we found ourselves in an entresol that looked out on a lovely tropical patio. At the right were stairs leading to the second floor, the rooms of which give on this court.

• • •

Breakfast was a charming ceremony in the book-lined library. Mr. Davis made the coffee at table, explaining it was from his own trees.

We wandered from room to room, where are housed an array of treasures: In the dining room some rare old Spode plates and a large one that belonged to Maximilian and Carlotta, together with a number of gorgeous pieces of silver of the colonial period in Mexico; in one bedroom furniture of the 19th century with lighting fixtures that are very French, very airy and delicate; in the salon a magnificent old chair-back settee, and in vitrines and cabinets rare collections of Mexican miniatures, of bead work, of fans, of old church figures and of "holy rattles" [silver rattles formerly used in the churches on Good Friday when the bells were silent]; in the study a huge collection of Aztec antiquities and several priceless pieces of weaving and of lacquer work.

• • •

The Casa Manana in Cuernavaca was once Mr. Davis' home. He sold it to Ambassador Morrow. Next door he restored another delightful house, but again he moved out, this time for the British ambassador. This house is now owned by the Alfred MacArthurs of Chicago.

His present casa in Cuernavaca was a cantina before he saw its possibilities and bought it. It still has a black cat, the sign of the cantina, by the door.

This house is quite informal; it was built around a garden and a swimming pool, tile lined and inviting. Birds twitter in an aviary in the terrace living room. The cosina is a true old Mexican kitchen with its artistic tiled oven, its wooden shelves filled with glass and with a fine collection of old blue and white china.

There are a guesthouse and another house, the latter in process of completion on this property which extends from one block to another and is surrounded by high walls, vine covered and flower bedecked. Mr. Davis planned them both.

• • •

Casa Davis in Taxco is the most informal of the three. It clings to the side of the mountain, looking out over the red roofs and white buildings to the cathedral and the mountains beyond. On the hottest day cool breezes are found here and the only sounds are the tinkle of the fountain in the garden and the songs of the birds.

The furniture, rugs and curtains, the pottery and glass with which this retreat are furnished are all Mexican. The kind little old lady who is the caretaker speaks only Spanish. We were glad we were able to talk a little with her.

Later, in Mexico City, Mr. Davis explained that he bought this casa from her. She was to stay on in the gate house for a short time. That was 10 years ago. And that is Frederick Davis.

Rhododendron Festival to Be Held June 16-22

ASHEVILLE, N. C.—The 13th annual Rhododendron festival, officially opening the summer season in western North Carolina, will be held from June 16 to 22.

With the rhododendron at their height, sponsors of 10 southern states forming the queen's court will participate in a program of pageantry, tours to Craggy Rhododendron gardens and the Great Smoky Mountains National park, visits to the Cherokee Indian village, parades, dances, air show, and the coronation ball.

One of the largest celebrations of the south, the festival is annually attended by thousands, and most resorts in the section offer side attractions. The dude ranches have pack trips and hikes into the Smokies, motor boat races are scheduled at Beaver lake, and hundreds of gardens are opened to the visitors.

Dude Ranches Down South.

WAYNESVILLE, N. C.—North Carolina's mountain dude ranches, with their pack trips into the wilderness area of the Great Smoky Mountains National park and the nearby national forests, have become so popular that every ranch in the state has had to add to its stable for the 1940 season. Some of the pack trips planned for this year will keep the riders in the mountains for a week or longer, while others will take as little as two days.

Self-Guided Tours of Historic Fort Will Start July 1

Fort Laramie National Monument, Wyo., June 8.—Self-guided tours of this old army post will be possible July 1 with the installation of 60 explanatory, hand carved wooden signs.

Sites of army buildings, long ago razed, will be marked, as well as the remaining structures and ruins, abandoned by the army in 1890. The signs tell a complete story of the fort and recall historic episodes of nearly a century ago.

Fort Laramie is on United States highway 26, west of Torrington.

THE VOICE OF THE TRAVELER

Letters regarding travel conditions and experiences are welcomed. Address: Travel Editor, Chicago Tribune.

THE TRAIL TO GLORY.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 12.—To the Travel Editor: In answer to E. W.'s request, in today's TRIBUNE, for information on a tour from Chicago to the Great Smoky Mountains National park, I suggest the following roads and places of interest:

Road 41 out of Chicago to junction with 47; left on 47 into Turkey Run. Fine old forest trees, picturesque ravines, and fantastic rock formations.

Down again on 41 to Vincennes. Roger Clark memorial. Then 150-50 to Shoals. Fine hill scenery in this region. At Shoals take 50 to junction with 250, a short cut to Mitchell; then 60 into Spring Mill State park, one of the most interesting and most beautiful of Indiana's parks. Pioneer village nestles in beautiful wooded valley; old stone mill operates by water wheel; magnificent stand of virgin timber in eastern part; Donaldson's cave in deep ravine; meandering streams and lovely lake.

From park continue east on 60 to Salem, and there take 56 to Madison and Clifty Falls State park. Clifty Falls has deep canyons, splendid forests, and a grand panorama of the winding Ohio river from the hotel on top of the bluff. Continue east on 56 to bridge which crosses river to Milton, Ky. At Milton take 37 to Frankfort; 60 out of Frankfort to Lexington; then south out of Lexington on 25 to Corbin. At Corbin change to 25W. Shortly after entering Tennessee there is a beautiful drive thru the Cumberland Palisades. Say on 25W to a point about 8 miles south of Caryville, Tenn. Be on the lookout for Norris Dam road, to the left. Fine views of the Cumberland mountains as you approach the dam.

From Norris dam to Knoxville. Many tourists make the mistake of taking 35 out of Knoxville to Gatlinburg. This is the fastest road, but the scenery cannot compare with the following route, which I suggest: 33 out of Knoxville to Maryville; then 73 into Great Smoky Mountain park; 73 winds for about 25 miles beside a beautiful mountain stream [Little river], and also runs thru Little river canyon, a drive which should not be missed. Road 73 makes junction with 71, the road to Gatlinburg, logical place for accommodations, and focal point for all trips in and around the park.

Main auto road in park is 71, which turns left a few miles out of Gatlinburg, and rises for about 16 miles to the ridge—also known as Newfound gap. This is the Tennessee-North Carolina state line. At this point a road, to the right, leads to Clingman's dome. It is a thrilling seven mile drive along the edge of mountains, affording ever shifting panoramas of valleys and peaks. It is safe and smooth. At the dead end, on Forney ridge, a foot trail leads to the top of Clingman's dome. A tower which rises above the dense forest at the very top of the dome makes it possible to view hundreds of square miles of mountain peaks—a truly inspiring sight.

Back to Newfound gap. Tennessee road 71 becomes North Carolina road 107, which dips down into North Carolina and levels out near the Cherokee Indian reservation. The trip down to the reservation and back again to the ridge gives a splendid view of the east side of the Smoky range.

To see the park in all its glory, one must hike. The views from the auto road are merely a hint of what is in store for those who take to the foot trails. Above all, try to take the Alum cave—LeConte trail. It starts at Grassy patch on road 71. This hike—from Grassy patch to Alum cave and back—takes from five to seven hours, depending on the stamina and speed of the hiker. Every foot of the trail is beautiful—rustic bridges over babbling mountain streams; dark, arched passageways cut thru dense masses of mountain laurel and rhododendron, ablaze with blossoms in June; forest giants rising from beds of wild flowers; transitory views of mountain tops from the few open spaces in the dense forest; and, for hours, the never ending song of the stream. Near the four mile point, a sharp rise in the trail brings to view scores of mountain peaks. A sudden bend in the trail reaches the very edge of a promontory, from the dizzy heights of which one sees, below, a vast sea of undulating hills which rise to majestic proportions, forming long, blue ranges that fade away into the far horizon.

Truly a trail which repays the hiker for all the time and energy expended!

COOL MEXICO

LAND OF BEAUTY, ROMANCE, ADVENTURE

The longing to visit Mexico has at sometime made every heart alive to dreams of romance and adventure.

The Temple of a Thousand Columns, the Palace of Cortez, Aztec treasures, the Floating Gardens, Pyramids, Indian Markets, the Bull Fights, Popocatepetl moon-lit patios—all these and a thousand other reasons whisper—"Let's go to Mexico this summer."

Travel costs in Mexico are astonishingly inexpensive. For complete information and free booklet—"Sunshine Over the Border" ask your travel agent, or mail this coupon.

Tall Tales Told by Natives of Virgin Islands

By Anson Brown.

ST. THOMAS, VIRGIN ISLANDS. There's a lady ghost down here haunting the Hotel 1829, but I haven't seen her. There are also supposed to be cockroaches ferocious enough to devour iron cannon. I haven't met up with them yet, either. Next, I imagine, they'll be telling me that Sail Rock goes cruising after dark, carrying a spirit crew of lusty pirates and buccaneers.

One hears all sorts of stories, but no wonder. These same dark natives blame all their hurricanes on the United States. They say that our Panama canal lets all the wind in from the Pacific. And when they tell you these things they'll get as mad as a hornet if you don't keep a straight face.

• • •

In 1829 a large hotel was built on the wart-like hill looking out over the harbor. Man and wife owned it jointly until the wife went insane and was taken home to Denmark. She's back now, just as batty as ever, dressed in mist from the Milky Way with the aurora borealis in her hair and icicles for fingers. Those that have seen her say she's seven feet tall; that she glides up the stairway like cigaret smoke following a draft.

[Anson Brown Photo.]

Hotel 1829, where the "ghost" walks.

She's never been known to harm any one, but she's frightened several of the guests from time to time.

The islanders refer to her as the White Lady. She has no distinct features; she's more like a phosphorous cloud, from what I've been told. Worst of all, she has employed the annoying tactic of coming into a guest's room about midnight and seating herself in the rocking chair. Motionless, she would stare at the occupant in the bed until he awakened. By the time his hair had turned white and he got up enough courage to light the kerosene lamp she would waft thru the curtained door and down the hallway out of sight.

• • •

The hotel has been closed for two years, but I did meet a former guest, an artist, who swears he was visited on numerous occasions.

"One night," he said, "three of us were visited in different rooms. She just came in the room and sat. Enough to drive a guy nuts. The proprietor begged us not to tell the others, but I guess that may be why the hotel went out of business."

He also told me he had painted a large picture, with all the guests in caricature, including the White Lady hovering in one corner.

"And do you know, within three months the painting of her had faded away completely while the rest of the picture remained the same!"

"What did the Little Fox say?" I asked, but he didn't catch on.

After the artist told me his tall tale, I managed to get in to the Hotel 1829 one dark night about 11 o'clock. There was dust over everything, a dense stillness, and a few bats. I waited two hours, until my nerves were cracking. Still no White Lady. I unlocked the front door from the inside. It creaked as I opened it. There was a bloodcurdling screech from the porch and I walked out in time to see the Negro guard vanishing in the darkness. Next morning I heard that the White Lady was rampant again. This time she was able to unlock doors!

• • •

And what about the cockroaches? Well, during the pirate days the freebooters, under Danish protection, were allowed complete run of the Virgin Islands and took every advantage of it. Their rich cargoes of plunder would be sold to the local merchants at less than half their value. Naturally, corruption pushed its way to the front.

One day a large shipment of cannon arrived from Denmark, to be placed around Fort Christian. One of the local officials, seeing his opportunity, sold a goodly part of the shipment to a visiting buccaneer for a velvet pouch filled with clinking gold doubloons.

Some years later another official arrived from Denmark and, realizing that all the ordered cannon had not been erected, he reported the fact to his government. The thieving one soon received a letter demanding that he account for the missing guns. In desperation he wrote: "Because of the ferocity of the cockroaches in the Virgin Islands many of our cannon have been completely eaten away."

• • •

The amazed government referred the letter to its leading bug scientist, who scratched his head and suggested that some of the ravenous cockroaches be shipped to Denmark for inspection.

But the St. Thomas official was again cagey. He pondered a few days as to how he should reply to this latest demand, and then wrote: "Certainly his majesty would not want me to ship in wooden boats an insect that makes quick work of iron cannon!" The subject was dropped.

Bring your sense of humor with you to the Virgin Islands. You'll have a better time if you do.

THEY CALL IT WORK IN MICHIGAN

An art class in action at Saugatuck, Mich., which attracts students by the hundreds each summer. In the background is the Kalamazoo river on its way to Lake Michigan.

Shoppers Find Low Prices in Panama Cities

Because of recent legislation which virtually makes free ports of cities in Panama, "luxury items" of foreign merchandise may be bought there this summer at lower prices than prevail in the United States. Silks, oriental curios, ivory and jade, and thousands of other articles are offered by the East Indian and Chinese merchants of the "cross roads of the world." Perfumes are sold at about one-third of what they cost in this country.

Shopping for bargains is easy in Panama City and Colon. The stores in both cities are situated on the main streets. Staples and novelties from all over the world include Irish, Spanish, and Italian linen, laces, and leather goods.

Self-Inflation.

The toadfish, a species that can double its size by inflating itself like a balloon, is common along the North Carolina coast.

New Regions in South America Open to Travel

Several South American republics have been engaged in building highway systems which are opening to tourists some of the most fascinating regions in that continent. Programs are being carried out by the north and west coast countries, where road building has been held back by the difficulties and by the unbelievable expense involved because of the nature of the terrain.

Chief among the obstacles presented to engineers are the shifting sands of the coastal desert, extending 1,500 miles along the coast of Peru and northern Chile, and the wall of mountains, three and four miles high, stretching the length of the continent, shutting the west coast from the east, and often completely separating regions in the same country.

Peru has completed a three year road building program—with many new highways now open. Lima, the capital, is in the center of this network.

One system of highways in Peru extends north and south thru the mountains and connects highland towns formerly isolated from one another. By this system Lima is joined with Huancayo, which has a colorful Indian market; Ayacucho, in a rich mining region surrounded with Indian settlements; Cuzco, in the heart of the Land of the Incas; Lake Titicaca, world's highest navigable lake, and Bolivia, the skytop republic.

A second network opens to the visitor an entirely new travel field on the other side of the mountains—the montana of Peru, source of the rivers that form the Amazon. It is a region of forests and agricultural districts, of wild jungles and aboriginal settlements suggestive of Bali. One of these roads leads from Lima over the mountains and down into the Chanchamayo valley past Tarma in the "vegetable garden" of eastern Peru, on thru jungles crowding the road with flower-hung trees and shrubs, and to San Ramon and La Merced, surrounded with estates growing coffee, sugar cane, oranges, and alligator pears.

English Village in 2 Provinces

Many vacationists traveling eastward from the Candian Rockies visit Prince Albert National park, known for its white birch trees and scenic grandeur.

When entering Saskatchewan, the province containing the park, visits may be made to Old Battleford and Lloydminster. Lloydminster, English village settled by a colony from the border country of the British Isles, is situated on the exact boundary line between Saskatchewan and Alberta. Visitors buying souvenirs find that by stepping across the street they have the products of two provinces.

En route to the park is Old Battleford, the one time capital of the old Northwest territory. The place is one of the division points of the Northwest Mounties.

Mexico a Land for Recreation, Travel, Study

By June Provines.

Mexico, which not so long ago was regarded as a land of revolutions, and of sanctuary for absconding bankers, a land where bandits in Pancho Villa hats might leap upon the unwary traveler from behind the giant maguey plants, has reëstablished itself in the ken of Americans across the border.

It is now recognized as a picturesque and delightful country, not only for travel, but also for recreation such as ocean bathing and deep sea fishing. Furthermore, it offers fascinating fields to the scholar and the student in its ethnological and sociological patterns and in its ancient cultures.

• • •

The vacation spot that has both deep sea fishing and superb ocean bathing is Acapulco, on the southwest coast, where the white coral beaches offer swimming to suit every taste.

It is the fashion at Acapulco to go to Caleta in the morning to bathe in the sheltered cove, and to Hornos in the afternoon. There the breakers roll in on the white coral sand, and palm trees form a backdrop against the mountains. When one suggested that it might therefore be nice to do it just the other way, and have lovely Hornos all to one's self in the morning and Caleta in the afternoon, the suggestion was shocking to gregarious minded Mexican friends.

"But you couldn't watch the surf board riding at Hornos then," they finally answered. Which was a good point.

• • •

The water is clean and warm and blue at Acapulco, and the salt content is high. So the water is extraordinarily buoyant, and the ocean bottom is as smooth as a sanded floor. The deep sea fishing season is November thru February—at least, that is when sailfish are to be found—but in other seasons the sportsmen get dolphin and sharks and other catches. Most famous of the guides is Pancho, a big bronzed man who has an uncanny knowledge of where to take his boat for a successful expedition.

Acapulco itself is a sleepy little Latin town, with a number of entrancing shops. One buys coral necklaces, woven belts, huaraches, and painted trays made by the natives; one stops in at the Seven Seas bar to chat with friends and to drink a Cuba libre [coca-cola with rum and lime], or a tequila cocktail, and in the evening one strolls about the plaza and listens to the band, or dances under the stars at the Hotel El Mirador.

• • •

If one plans to go to Mexico to see and understand the country and get an intelligent idea of what it has to offer, the seminar, held from July 3 to 25 by the committee on cultural relations with Latin America, provides an excellent opportunity. Besides the trips, there are lectures by leading Americans and Mexicans.

Thus, from July 3 to 7, seminar visitors will stay at the Hotel Marik in Cuernavaca, a beautiful spot with tropical gardens and a swimming pool; take field trips to the Toltec pyramid, to the coöperative sugar refinery at Zacatepec, to the colonial village of Taxco, and to the Aztec village of Tepoztlan, where a fiesta will be given by the school children. There will be lectures by Hubert Herring of New York, director of the seminar; Diego Rivera, famed artist; Federico Bach, economist and statistician, and other experts.

• • •

From July 8 to 12 visitors are to be lodged at the Virrey de Mendoza in Morelia, a fine old Spanish colonial hotel that originally was the 16th century home of a Spanish viceroy. This is the heart of the Tarascan Indian country, and the trip to Morelia and on to Patzcuaro is thru mountain country of splendor. Morelia itself is one of the loveliest cities in Mexico.

The seminar has its headquarters in Mexico City from July 13 to 25. Members interested in special topics are put in touch with authorities on those subjects, and there are more interesting trips and lectures.

GATHERING PLACE OF SUMMER TRAVELERS

One of the palm-shaded beaches at Santa Catalina Island, off Los Angeles, with the Casino ballroom in the background.

Isle Royale Is Newest Park in Wilderness

The tourist spotlight is focused on Michigan this year because of the newly created Isle Royale National park. Lying 60 miles off the Michigan mainland in Lake Superior, the isle is the newest addition to the national park system and is one of the few wilderness areas in continental United States.

Michigan is close to four of the five Great Lakes. Nearly four-fifths of its boundary is formed by the waters of Lakes Michigan, Superior, Huron, and Erie. It has 1,600 miles of shoreline—the longest of any state in the Union. The attractions of the lakes themselves are sufficient to make the region one of the world's foremost pleasure grounds.

• • •

Along with the rest of the nation, Michigan shared in the phenomenal expansion of the tourist movement during the decade of the '30s. Retail expenditures of recreational travelers jumped from approximately 180 million dollars in 1935 to 220 million dollars in 1939. Early inquiries indicate another increase in 1940.

The state is divided into the upper and lower peninsulas by the Straits of Mackinac, across which there is frequent ferry service. The northwest part of the upper peninsula is rugged with hills and mountains and the surface on the whole is more irregular than that of the lower. It is wild and picturesque and has a special appeal to those who seek a retreat from the din of large centers of population. The Ottawa National forest, embracing an area of 1,744,000 acres, lies in the western section. Inside the forest there are lookout towers, a forest tree nursery, camp and picnic areas, and 420 miles of roads and truck trails.

• • •

Isle Royale was once the home of aboriginal Indians who mined and smelted copper there. Archeologists and geologists are interested in its wealth of material. The absence of many mainland forms of life and the insular character of its flora and wild life have long been of interest to biologists. Of rocky, rugged topography, the isle contains more than 30 lakes. There are a small number of residences, occupied in summer, and the homes of a few commercial fishermen. These will be allowed to remain under permit issued by the national park service.

Fertile lands, great industrial cities, and resorts of distinction characterize the lower peninsula. There is every type of scenic splendor in the maple and pine woods. The 5,000 inland lakes, so situated as to place one or more within easy driving distance of any point, afford fishing, sailing, and other sports, and there are many miles of level sand beaches. These are all connected by one of the finest highway systems in the country.

Postoffice Makes Money.

The Bermula postoffice department is one of the few in the world to show a consistent profit. The 1939 profit was more than $60,000.

SEEKING A DAY'S SUPPLY OF FOOD

Surf fishing is one of the major sports for visitors in San Francisco. Here the anglers are getting competition from the seagulls.

So Easy to TRAVEL ON CREDIT
NO MONEY DOWN
PAY LATER

● Use the convenient, confidential Travel Credit Plan for a real vacation trip or tour—and for those business and emergency trips which are so frequently financially inconvenient.

Go to your railroad ticket office or travel agency and make application to buy your trip or tour on credit. No down payment—no collateral—no delay. Repay in small monthly installments. The service charge is nominal.

Credit is extended for any trip or tour costing $50 or more. You may include sleeping and parlor car charges—anything sold at a railroad ticket office except money orders and travelers checks. In the case of all-expense tours, the specified hotels, meals, etc. are covered by the Travel Credit Plan.

THE TRIBUNE TRAVELERS' GUIDE

INDEPENDENT TRAVEL

Deer, Antelope Still Playing in the Black Hills

By George Tagge.

Gold still tinges the Black Hills of South Dakota. Travelers are likely to see primitive placer mining around Custer, where Gen. George A. Custer's party discovered the metal little more than half a century ago. And the town has wide open gambling.

At Hill City, a short distance north of Custer, the writer watched "Gold Bug" Nelson panning pay dirt. [Bearded and shy, he is one of the old timers who continue to seek pay dirt on an individual basis.] By patient panning he washed away the earth until a few minute specks of gold were revealed.

Such survivors of the "last frontier" may make only $3 a day most days, but there are $15 days, too, and they won't give up.

For visitors of a practical turn of mind, there is the highly industrialized mining done at Lead, where deep shafts send millions of dollars worth of gold bearing ore to the surface each year.

• • •

No long search is necessary to find the wild life of the region. That line from the song of the range, "Where the deer and the antelope play," suddenly takes on meaning when you come upon these animals in the great game sanctuary south of Custer.

Eager to please, the driver of the touring bus left the road for the plains to get closer to some antelope. Curious by nature, they awaited the vehicle's approach for several minutes before skittering away on lightning hooves.

This brief side tour almost collided with a herd of about 65 buffalo over the crest of a hill. These lumbering beasts appeared to travel slowly as they galloped away. This opinion was shown to be wrong when the bus driver attempted to overtake them.

• • •

To one accustomed to seeing an occasional pheasant in the Chicago area it was startling to see the birds by the half dozen along the railroad right-of-way going into Huron, S. D. This is out of the Black Hills region and is termed the "pheasant hunting paradise."

Nearly all of the sights seen in that part of the country were without charge. An exception was Wind cave, in the national park of the same name. There the admission fee is said to cover the cost of guide service thru the subterranean passages.

"I won't vouch for this one," said the guide. "This cave had no visible opening—that much is a fact. A white man riding past the tiny vent to the outside world had his hat blown off. He couldn't find it. Another day when he was riding by his hat blew out of the opening. That's how the cave was discovered."

• • •

Sylvan lake mirrors the granite crags pushing skyward, and has a new state-owned but privately operated hotel. The decoration harmoniously combines Indian motifs and ultramodern styling—a logical step, in view of the geometric outlines used in each. Young Indian girls from the Haskell institute are the waitresses.

Close by are the Needles, lofty spires left by the erosion of millions of years, and Harney peak, tallest in the Black Hills. It is a short drive over highways built entirely for scenic purposes to Mount Coolidge, named after the President who had his "summer White House" in the region in 1927.

From the observation tower atop 6,000 foot Mount Coolidge the visitor seems to have the world at his feet. There are mountains, lakes, and canyons, and, 65 miles to the east, the glowing, sandy color of the weird Badlands.

So-called "pigtail" bridges over canyons, built by the CCC in recent years, are a driver's thrill on the way to the Rushmore National memorial.

• • •

Blasted and machine-drilled out of the face of the mountain in the last 13 years and yet far from completion, the Mount Rushmore sculpture is the largest undertaking of its kind ever undertaken. Thus far the cost has been about $750,000.

From winding roads, the gigantic faces of Washington, Lincoln, and Jefferson can be seen first from one vantage point, then unexpectedly, thru gaps in the pines, from other spots. Theodore Roosevelt's visage is cloaked by scaffolding. Inevitably the traveler lands at the power house which sends the workers up to the head of Washington in a bucket swaying on cables over the gulch.

Gutzon Borglum, the scuptor, has the habit of mixing with spectators and asking them—anonymously, of course—what they think about it all.

Dedicated as a shrine to democracy, the monument is one of the major thrills of any kind of tour of the Black Hills. The carvings cover more than an acre and a half, and the viewing stand is a quarter of a mile away.

DUDES ON A MOUNTAIN SWITCHBACK

There is a western saying that the outside of a horse is good for the inside of a man. The popularity of dude ranches in the foothills of the Rockies testifies to the recreational value placed in horseback riding.

Dunes Scooters Ready for Riders

MEARS, Mich.—Three "dunes scooters," especially built automobiles to run over the yielding sands of Michigan's dunes, are ready for visitors this summer for the trip over Silver Lake dune. At Sleeping Bear dune, in Leelanau county, luxury "dunemobiles" make a similar trip.

Festivals Holding the Spotlight in West Michigan

Fishing and festivals hold the spotlight in the west Michigan tourist entertainment program for June.

Among the observances is the Swedish Midsummer festival at Whitehall. Descendants of the Swedish lumberjacks who helped log off the Muskegon and White river country celebrate in old country style, with costumed dancers on the streets, pageantry, and parades.

The Pancake festival at Glenn commemorates a snowstorm a few years ago, when marooned motorists were forced to live on pancakes for several days.

The entertainment program includes:

June 20 to 22—St. Joseph, Tri-Country Tennis Center Championship tournament for boys, girls, and juniors.

June 21 to 23—Glenn, Pancake festival.

June 21 and 22—Whitehall, Swedish Midsummer festival.

June 24—Elk Rapids, bass roundup.

June 28 and 29—Hastings, Bluegill festival.

June 29—Fountain, Bass festival.

June 30—Interlochen, opening concert at National Music camp, followed by Sunday and midweek concerts during the summer.

World's Largest.

In Wallace, N. C., which claims to be the largest strawberry market in the world, a festival is held each year in honor of the berry.

Site Takes a Hike.

Kill Devil hill, the dune on the North Carolina banks from which the Wright brothers made the first airplane flight, has moved about 50 yards since the event.

How to Escape from Worries of Present Day

By Hal Foust.

As an escape from the worries of European news, stock market reports, and the trend in American politics, an experienced traveler would advise a visit to any of the following:

Grand Canyon—A geological wonder dwarfing the importance of man and his affairs. A sheer walled crack in the earth carved by the Colorado river, now a mile below the rim. Pastel colors change with the movement of the sun, or with the passing of a cloud. [The canyon is 1,826 miles from Chicago.]

Santa Fe—In the evening, a smell of pinon smoke from adobe houses perfumes rare mountain air. On the plaza is the 1610 Place of Governors. New Mexico this year is celebrating the 400th anniversary of Coronado's conquest. [1,465 miles from Chicago.]

• • •

San Francisco Exposition—On a man made island in the bay behind the Golden Gate, architects and landscapers have created this Treasure Island of exhibits, now in its second year. The graceful bridges, the fleet at anchor, the hills of San Francisco and its suburbs—if you don't like them, you don't even like beautiful sunsets. [2,276 miles from Chicago.]

Black Hills—Ten million dollars' worth of mountain roads wind thru forested peaks frequented by Calamity Jane, Deadwood Dick, and Wild Bill Hickok during the gold rush of the '70s. [952 miles from Chicago.]

Yellowstone National park—3,472 square miles of nature in peculiar moods—boiling geysers, tinted canyons, wooded mountains, and wild animals, including bears that aren't as afraid of a man as they should be [one jumped into our car last year]. [1,535 miles from Chicago.]

• • •

Glacier National park—1,534 square miles, including 60 glaciers and 200 lakes. These lakes reflect the rugged mountains that shelter their surfaces from wind ripples. [1,628 miles from Chicago.]

Arrowhead country—This section of Minnesota, with its dense woods and cool lakes, is a convenient retreat from city life. [583 miles to Grand Rapids, Minn., from the loop.]

Great Smoky Mountains National park—Ample rainfall provides a lush vegetation on 410,000 acres that include 16 peaks more than 6,000 feet high. Virgin forests and 600 miles of trout streams. Among the many wild flowers, rhododendrums and mountain laurel predominate in June. [628 miles from Chicago].

• • •

Williamsburg, Va.—A restoration of the city that was the social and political center of Virginia for 80 years before the capital was moved to Richmond in 1779. A pamphlet relates that 67 colonial buildings have been restored and 91 rebuilt, while 459 modern buildings have been razed to give visitors an impression of the best in American culture before the revolutionary war. [860 miles from Chicago.]

New York World's Fair—Now in its second year, and still much bigger than Chicago's pride of '33 and '34, notwithstanding foreign withdrawals. [848 miles from Chicago.]

[The Chicago Motor club is authority for the mileages mentioned herein.]

Striped Catfish.

A species of striped catfish, never larger than four inches long, is found only in the Tar and Neuse rivers in North Carolina.

FLY UNITED
THE MAIN LINE AIRWAY TO THE nation's vacation lands

Mainliner vacations on Chicago's own airline give you extra vacation days.

Colorado, Yellowstone, Yosemite, California and the San Francisco Fair, Boulder Dam, the Dude Ranch country, the fabulous Pacific Northwest, Alaska—all are only hours away by United's luxurious Mainliners.

And it's just a few hours to New York World's Fair, lovely New England, historic Philadelphia and Washington.

United's 1940 fares are economical—and include all costs aloft. Round-trip rates are reduced. United's optional routings and circle tours let you go one way, return another, see and do twice as much. For example, your United ticket to San Francisco lets you visit Los Angeles at no extra cost.

Spend all of your 1940 vacation where you want to be—not traveling!

YELLOWSTONE Fly direct overnight to West Yellowstone airport near Old Faithful Inn. All-expense tours from one day up to as long as you wish to stay.

CALIFORNIA Just an overnight Mainliner sleeper, or a scenic daylight flight. Economical all-expense tours to the San Francisco Fair. Visit Los Angeles at no extra cost and return by Boulder Dam.

PACIFIC NORTHWEST Rainier Park, Mt. Hood, Puget Sound are just a Mainliner sleeper or daylight flight away, via United to Portland, Seattle, Vancouver, B. C.

NEW YORK WORLD'S FAIR Less than 4 hrs. non-stop to the World's Fair, just 10 minutes from La Guardia Field where your Mainliner lands. Plan a sidetrip to New England. Or return via Philadelphia and Washington.

Have your travel agent plan your trip, or call the United Air Lines office. Send the coupon for United's new 24-page illustrated Mainliner vacation booklet.

Society Raises Funds to Help French Relief

By Cousin Eve.

The American Friends of France are having a more-than-ever interesting meeting Tuesday afternoon at 1315 North Lake street, Lake Forest, Mrs. Kersey C. Reed's country house. Miss Dorothy Russell will speak on relief conditions among the civilians in eastern France. She is a member of Miss Anne Morgan's committee for civilian relief and is just back from the last terrific push of the Germans thru the Ardennes. Tea will be served first, then Miss Russell will speak.

Mrs. Henry Field is chairman of American Friends of France, Mrs. J. Ogden Armour is honorary chairman, Mrs. Charles S. Dewey is treasurer and Mrs. Reed a hardworking committee member. The work of this group is entirely voluntary. The Alliance Française lends them the room for meetings, Mrs. Dewey keeps her own books, and Mrs. Fields types her own correspondence. The money given by friends to this society goes straight to uprooted civilians in France, and not to overhead. American Friends of France are doing a big business in tri-color pins. They are very smart pins indeed and two-thirds of the cost goes abroad to alleviate human misery.

Other French news of the moment is the retirement of René Weiller, consul general of France. The Weillers maintained a handsome apartment on Lake Shore drive, entertained often and well, and will be much regretted as they return to their war torn country. Mr. Weiller's Chicago friends sent a plea last year to the French premier that he might be left here longer, otherwise they would have gone last June. The new consul general is M. Huart. He comes here from Holland and is, on dit, a man in his early forties, who has traveled much in the French foreign service.

With upheaval in all these smaller European countries, places have to be found for younger career men who were in Poland, Finland, Denmark, Norway, etc. Hence the retirement of M. Weiller and Comte de Fontnouvelle in New York, both popular with Americans.

Mrs. Freeman Hinckley at home finally from Sea Island with the Misses McClurg, her daughters, had an exciting letter last week from France by Clipper. It was written by her sister, Mrs. John Lithiby, who lives at Le Touquet with her children, while her husband, Maj. Lithiby, is military attaché of the British embassy in Paris. It was a letter telling of the family's escape from Le Touquet after the head of the family had called from Paris by phone and told them to leave at once. It was a harrowing story of how the children, with a few necessities, were packed into the car, leaving important things behind in their haste, and raced away for Le Havre. The roads began to be crowded with Belgian refugees, and they couldn't get along at all, and so put into a small town for the night. It was dark when the family found a repair shop finally, and the owner let them sleep on her good floor. The Lithibys had snatched some bread and cheese and so were not starving, and after traveling that day far into the night, they reached England in safety.

Mrs. Lilhiby's picture of the evacuation, the old Belgian crones, their grandchildren, their cats, dogs, birds, their poor tired old horses, their unbelievable misery, would melt a heart of stone.

It was a long stretch of time since Michael Bartlett had been in Chicago until he came last week to sing in "Blossom Time" over W-G-N. He was staying in town with Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Meeker and rounded out his visit with a week-end in Winnetka. Mrs. Frank Fuller's luncheon at the Arts club gathered up at short notice some of the musical set to meet Michael—Mr. and Mrs. Jason Whitney, Mr. and Mrs. Felix Borowski, and Arthur Meeker Jr., with others. I met Michael and his attractive mother last week at a large Sunday luncheon in New Jersey. It was the annual party that Mrs. F. V. Skiff gives at her Short Hills estate for the Palm Beach crowd. It's a nice giro of a Sunday, by tunnel and elevated highway, over acres of streets and houses until one hits the very lovely country, hilly, as its name implies.

Mrs. Skiff's house is a large old-fashioned one on the crest of a hill and dominating a broad valley. The hills are truly all short, and frosted with white dogwood, while the house lies embedded in pink azaleas, magnolias, pink dogwood, and rhododendrons, many colored. It was a feast of exotic flowers. On the glassed-in veranda was a large sign in red letters, "No war talk today, please." An excellent idea! The buffet was spread there with all sorts of wonderful fresh food and drink, and little tables were scattered for the groups. Among the guests known to Chicago were Mrs. Paul Healy, Mr. and Mrs. Le Ray Berdeau, Mrs. John H. Mitchell, Mrs. W. Alexander Yager, guest of Mrs. Skiff, and John Heath, well known pianist who has spent the last 25 years at Monte Carlo.

Two of the guests invited Mr. Bartlett and me to play bridge later on, intending to take us to town or know the reason why. One was the widow of an Austrian field marshal, the other was a cousin of Neville Chamberlain. The Austrian, whose name was Olga, is well known in New York society and told us an interesting story of her earlier life. In her father's house in Vienna one spring there was a long painting job to be done, and a homely young man was employed to do it. One day at the lunch hour he was found in the library hungrily looking over the book shelves and Olga invited him to help himself. Thereafter he spent his lunch hour pouring over books in the library, some of which he took home at night. The young house painter was Adolf Hitler. After the Austrian putsch, all pensions were voided and Olga found herself deprived of hers. So she wrote to Hitler reminding him of the old days in the library, and before very long had a letter from him saying that he had not forgotten and was grateful. Thus Olga was able to play bridge, but Michael and I got some of the pension away from the charming lady, instead of vice versa.

Coming back that night by elevated causeways we passed trans-Atlantic piers on the lower west side of New York. There lay the gallant Normandie sleeping at her berth, dull and tired, not gayly be-flagged and bursting with music as I had always known her. And there, too, was her bed-fellow, the Queen Elizabeth. Gray as a mouse, snuggled into the dark shadows of the pier.

It was all very depressing. We had passed at high speed the road to Far Hills, New Jersey, where Bud and Marjorie Dewey have settled themselves for the duration. The junior Charles S. Deweys have the most modern of modern houses in Lake Forest; now they have the oldest stone house in these parts, with apple trees and bridal wreath, and a nice barn for the children's pony. The pony was boxed up in a crate and traveled on most cozily.

Mrs. Richard F. Crane was hostess to the Opera box committee on Friday when it met for its last session before summer. The Crane house, a gray stone Elizabethan one on Lake Shore drive, lends itself wonderfully to entertainments large or small. A log fire blazes in the huge fireplace in the hall, and June flowers lighten the old carved boiseries of a remote English period which must have heard strange rumors in their time. Even in Elizabeth's England there was talk of invasions. Mrs. Crane received her guests, Mrs. John Alden Carpenter made some quite startling announcements, including gifts to the Chicago Opera fund and the sale of boxes. The boxes are more than half sold for next season.

Tea was served to the guests as they sat in small groups and after that came a song recital by Michael Bartlett. He has a beautiful voice, is a charming and handsome man, and will sing again in October over W-G-N in its series of light operas. Among the members of the committee at the tea were Mrs. Charles Swift, Mrs. Charles H. Hamill, Mrs. Freeman Hinckley, Mrs. Charles Deering, Mrs. Charles Davis, Miss Elizabeth McCormick, Mrs. Howard Fenton, Mme. Edith Mason, Mme. Marion Claire, Mrs. A. H. Patterson, Mrs. Jason Whitney, Mrs. George Buckingham, and Mrs. Walter R. Kirk.

The summer exodus has begun earlier than usual this year, in spite of many social luminaries staying home in the comfort of their own ménages. Mr. and Mrs. John Alden Carpenter left Wednesday for Beverly, where they have a house for four months.

Mrs. John Crerar departed for Southampton, N. Y., on Monday to be gone until October. She bought, last year, a small house facing the ocean. Her letterheads bear the picturesque title, "Driftwood, Gin Lane." In quite the opposite direction, Mr. and Mrs. William Mansfield Scudder have left for Montana and are occupying a house somewhere in the mountainous regions. The entire family is already bursting with health in these stimulating wilds, and will remain there most of the summer. Mrs. George Braun has motored out to join her in-laws with young James Braun.

Meanwhile, at home, Mrs. Charles W. Dempster has taken on the chairmanship of British war charities in connection with the English Speaking union. Members of this organization have received questionnaires as to the form of service they prefer, whether surgical dressings, contributions of money, or willingness to adopt British children for the duration of the war.

The Fourth Presbyterian church is opening its work rooms next Tuesday all day for British relief workers. Seems the British Isles and France are running over with refugees, the most tragic side of the war, the innocent bystanders! Tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock in the Blackstone ballroom, the gray ladies of the Red Cross get their diplomas. It is a picture full of color, with an address by James B. Forgan and a résumé by Mrs. Frederic Upham of the highlights of the recent Red Cross convention in Washington. Mrs. Walter R. Kirk will also address the assembly on work of the gray ladies at Passavant hospital, of which she is president.

Speaking of presidents, Mrs. C. Barnett Goodspeed threw a bomb this week when her forthcoming retirement from the presidency of the Arts club was announced. Mrs. Goodspeed, who figures in this, her home town, as a chic, much admired and valiant figure, is "Bobsey" to her affectionates. For eight years she has headed the Arts club. She planned its removal from the North Wrigley building to its present handsome quarters in the South Wrigley on the noble Chicago river, and personally painted gray the upper regions of the club in a burst of enthusiasm for roccoco effects.

The Arts club had two presidents before Mrs. Goodspeed. Mrs. Robert McGann was its first chairman when the club was a gay mixture of society and the arts. Mrs. Rue Winterbotham Carpenter took over from Mrs. McGann and developed its scope with the assistance of Arthur Heun, in a broader sense. When the club moved into North Michigan avenue it had over 800 members and was highly fashionable. Mrs. Goodspeed has carried on for eight long depression years and followed a program of modernism in art, music, and sculpture wherever possible. Mrs. Jacob Baur has been chairman of the club's executive finance committee since its beginning.

Mrs. W. B. Hale will hold the office until the annual meeting early in November. As to the next president, who knows; but maybe it will be a man! The club closes this week for the season until Oct. 1. An exhibition of paintings by club members now fills a long gallery and two smaller ones. The loveliest portrait is that of a Spanish beauty by Cecil Clark Davis, a wonderful contribution. Violet Wenner has presented a painting of James Hamilton Lewis, which is quite a different idea of the late senator than the one by Louis Betts I saw in New York.

TO BE WED IN SEPTEMBER

Miss Betty Feinberg, whose engagement to George Epstein of Kenosha, Wis., is announced by her parents, Judge and Mrs. Michael Feinberg of 3800 Lake Shore drive. The wedding will take place in September.

WED JUNE 1

Mrs. Charles F. Scholl, the former Rosemary Howard, whose marriage to the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Scholl of London, England, took place on June 1 in St. Francis Xavier church. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael J. Howard of 2810 North Richmond street. Mr. Scholl and his bride will live in Chicago.

Legion Auxiliary to Entertain Orphans from Soldiers' Home

Scores of orphan children from the Illinois Soldiers and Sailors' home at Normal, Ill., will have their first glimpse of family life this week when members of the Cook county council of the American Legion auxiliary take the youngsters into their homes as guests for four days.

Mrs. Myron Omlie.

From Friday, when some 150 boys and girls will arrive by bus, thru the following Monday a gay program of picnics, theater parties, and big league ball games will keep the young visitors in a whirl. Mrs. Agnes Eckmann, child welfare chairman of the council, has arranged the long week-end, for which the auxiliary plays hostess annually.

The annual past presidents' party luncheon of the auxiliary's Cook county council will be held at 12:45 o'clock tomorrow at the Hotel La Salle. The nine district directors will bring annual cash contributions toward the maintenance of the veterans' craft exchange, thru which the auxiliary helps disabled veterans and their dependents to achieve financial independence. The council annually gives about $1,000 for this work. Mrs. Myron Omlie, chairman of the parley, will preside at the luncheon.

Fine Exhibit Pays Honor to Three Artists

By Eleanor Jewett.

One of the most charming gestures to have been made by any Chicago gallery is that which the Findlay galleries, 424 South Michigan avenue, are making in July. We have in Chicago a group of women, the widows of noted artists. They are older women and in the rush of contemporary events, in the clamor of the young artist to be heard, their voices come very rarely to our ears.

They do not speak for themselves when they do speak, but for their husbands. Three of these women are Mrs. Alfred Juergens, Mrs. Frederic Victor Poole, and Mrs. Charles Abel Corwin. When we give their names, at once memory touches a chord and we see unroll before us the brilliant tapestry of pictures achieved by these names while the men who bore them lived.

Alfred Juergens was a great flower and landscape painter; the Art institute gave him a memorial exhibit several years ago. His painting has been likened to Monet, this chiefly because he shared with the noted Frenchman a passion for water lilies. Mr. Juergens was, however, a thoroly American artist. His canvases are full of personality and power; he leaned on no one to achieve his triumphs. During his life he received many distinctions, many prizes; his paintings were bought by museums and private collectors. There are among them pictures which will rank with the best that American artists have painted. Alfred Juergens was a great man.

Frederic Victor Poole was of smaller stature, perhaps, in the art world, but he was one of Chicago's most gifted painters and instructors. His forte was water color, and as a water color painter, in the late Robert B. Harshe's opinion, he ranked close to the top. For many years Mr. Poole taught at the school of the Art institute. He was a wise and just man of discriminating taste. His water colors are fresh, virile, impetuous. He had the new approach so much sought these last 20 years, but he never sacrificed quality to novelty.

Charles Abel Corwin will be best remembered for the beautiful murals he painted for the Field Museum of Natural History. He is the quietest figure of the three; the one about whom the least is known. He was a delightful man, pleasant, pleasing, friendly, and, as a painter, capable. Some of his pictures had great charm; some, interest because of their subject. A one man show of his easel pictures was held at the Newcomb-Macklin galleries two or three years ago and it made a most attractive impression. Probably Mr. Corwin's great work was done for the Field museum, but he painted a number of colorful and decorative and able pictures besides.

These are the three painters who are to be remembered with an exhibit of their work at the Findlay galleries during July. The exhibit will run the entire month and will be well worth seeing. The paintings will be small but choice. They are the type of picture which is eminently livable; the kind one wants to carry home. The prices are moderate, and if Chicago's art loving public could match the Findlay galleries in the graciousness of its gesture by buying a Juergens, a Poole, or a Corwin it would emphasize the living quality of art and honor a little the women who are still making their husbands' work and name their first interest.

Meanwhile, to June 15, the Findlay galleries are showing a brilliant group of marines by Frank Vining Smith, canvases of ships with crowded sail on blue seas, a gorgeous fleet. An exhibit of water colors by two young American painters from our eastern seaboard, Helen Gapen Oehler and Kenneth How, are also on view. Both these young people were suggested by George Elmer Browne, famous American artist, who finds their work good. We particularly liked the water colors of Kenneth How; they are stunning.

The Chicago galleries, 215 North Michigan avenue, are making their friendly gesture to another group of artists this month. An exhibit of water colors at the Palette and Chisel club was considered so outstanding by Chester M. MacChesney, the new president of the Chicago Galleries association, that to give it a showing in the loop it was decided to invite the entire exhibit to the Chicago galleries. The show opened last Thursday with a reception and tea. It will run thru June and is one of the MUST shows of the month. There are pictures of great merit among those hanging.

To round out the exhibit the Chicago galleries are showing wood block prints by Gustave Bauman and color etchings by Leon Pesceret. We suggest in passing that this exhibit is one of the treasure-trove kind and just the place in which to find that elusive wedding or graduation present for the person who likes something "different" and unique.

Harry L. Engle, director of the Chicago galleries, writes about the Palette and Chisel water color show: "The inviting of an outside organization to exhibit in the galleries is not a regular thing, but is extended to some worthy group such as the Association of Chicago Painters and Sculptors and the Chicago Society of Miniature Painters, who under present conditions have difficulty in finding space to show their work." Chivalry always strikes a spark and these gestures on the part of two of our local galleries are chivalrous; a spark may be struck which will light other organizations to follow their lead; we need kindness and grace in our daily living today more perhaps than ever before. To be ruthless is easy; to be kind needs wisdom.

The exhibition of oils, water colors, and sculpture by members of the Ridge Art association is current at the Club Woman's bureau, Mandel Brothers, to June 16. It is a vivacious show with many colorful and decorative pictures. Among the most likable are "Zinnias," by Claude Buck; "Lazy Boxes," by Mildred Heatherington; "Same Old Ferry," by Abel McAllister; "Iridescent Vase," by I. W. Meredith; "Lifting Fog," by Tunis Ponsen; "Simplicity," by Hazel Pronger; "Japanese Lanterns," by Leslie Binner; "Portrait of Frances," by Nan Rice, and "Bitter Sweet," by Alice Brening.

Four outstanding Barrington artists, Kathleen Buehr Granger, Leonore Jerrems, Ruth Mead, and Alice M. Wilder, are showing oils and water colors in an exhibit at the Laura Davidson Sears Academy of Fine Arts, Elgin Academy, Elgin, to June 15.

Paintings by Rose W. Gidwitz are on view to June 30 at the Tudor gallery, Chicago Woman's club, 72 East 11th street.

The South Side Art association has a delightful exhibit of paintings by members at the Sherry hotel, 53d street and the lake. It is an unjuried show, but none the worse for that. Among the attractive pictures are "Flowers," by Carolyn McCracken, whose sudden death this spring lost one of our most faithful painters to Chicago's art world; "Hydrangea," by Helen Crouch Brown; "Pots of Flowers," by Louise Wilson; "Zinnias," by Florence Ezzell Stevenson; "Sylvan Lake," by Ina Glazbrook; "Autumn Fantasy," by William Eppens; "Landscape," by Florence White Williams, and "White Daisies," by Frances A. Hawkinson.

"COAST GUARD HOUSE, BIDDEFORD, MAINE"

Mabel Wakem has a delightful showing of landscapes at Gallery house, 17 East Elm street. Mrs. Wakem is a member of the Arts club and a lifelong resident of Chicago. She wields a sensitive brush and has a flair for color. Her work is charming.

ENGAGED

Miss Betty Jane Watson, whose engagement to Paul Belton of Binghampton, N. Y., has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Watson of Hyde Park. Mr. Belton is the son of Mrs. E. J. Gibbons of Chicago.

Helen Margolyne to Wed Herman Clebanoff June 16

The marriage of Miss Helen Margolyne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Margolin of 1301 Pratt boulevard, to Herman Clebanoff, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Clebanoff of 2044 North Albany avenue, will take place on June 16 at the Edgewater Beach hotel. Miss Margolyne is a member of the Chicago City Opera company and her fiancé is concertmaster of the Illinois Symphony orchestra.

France Prays for Arrival of War Equipment

By May Birkhead.

How much eyes over here, in spite of the terrible days thru which this country is passing, are turned

PARIS. across the Atlantic! There is practically no talk of the United States sending an army, after all that has been said on this subject for years, but the hope that machines will arrive in great quantities, and quickly, is one of the many fervent prayers that are mounting daily.

In 1937 the present premier of France saw clearly that the next war—which he feared might not be far off—would be above all an affair of powerful machines and highly trained experts to direct them. As early as 1935, he proposed that the chamber of deputies should vote a law to create superior technical divisions, for in that year Germany, taking a hint from a French colonel, de Gaulle, who had first advocated motorized divisions in 1933, put into work her new celebrated Panzer divisions.

• • •

It is only justice to note that Paul Reynaud, for some years, has been urging his countrymen to recognize that the next war—now the present one—would not be merely a defensive affair, behind strongly fortified positions such as the Maginot line, but that it would soon come, with the use of airplanes and heavy tanks, to a war of movement.

"An aggressor, if he chooses the place and the time, can, at the beginning of a war, gain an enormous advantage for himself if his adversary does not confront him, at once, with a powerful and mobile force," Reynaud said several years ago.

"In war, it is not merely necessary to ward off blows, it is also vital to strike blows. The victory of tomorrow will perhaps be that of the most modern equipment, handled in the best way, rather than the victory of the heaviest numbers engaged."

• • •

These ideas, M. Reynaud embodied in a short book, Le Problème Militaire Français, published in 1937.

"America," he says, "which does not accept the prospect of having to intervene again on the battlefields of Europe, but whose arbitrament has an immense weight on opinion thruout the world, has publicly denounced dictatorships as responsible for the menace of war which weighs on the planet."

Woman's Club Will Observe 30th Birthday

By Betty Browning.

In January, 1910, the late Medill McCormick, former publisher of THE TRIBUNE, and subsequently United States senator from Illinois, spoke on "Civic Righteousness" before 75 representative women at Marshall Field and company's tearoom.

The young man, then on the threshold of his political career, so inspired his audience that 10 women were appointed to formulate a plan for future action on Chicago's civic front.

Several meetings were held before the Woman's City club formally was organized on June 4 at a conference at the Chicago public library. Mrs. Mary H. Wilmarth was elected president, and Miss Jane Addams, Mrs. Charles Henrotin, Mrs. Arthur Aldis, Mrs. W. F. Dummer, and Mrs. Hannah G. Solomon were made vice presidents.

Utilizing the public schools as social centers after school hours was decided upon as a project to be furthered. A membership of 1,000 was set as a goal to be reached by the autumn.

• • •

Next Wednesday evening the Woman's City club will recall these and other events of its career in an informal program celebrating its 30th anniversary. Charter members are to be especial guests, and reminiscences of the club's many and ardent campaigns for civic progress will be in order.

Mrs. Laura Hughes Lunde, long prominently identified with educational and legislative activities, will be in charge of the celebration at the club quarters in the Fine Arts building.

Mrs. Laura Hughes Lunde.

Clubs and causes have come and gone, but thru three decades the Woman's City club has maintained the standards which the first members set for themselves. Exclusively an organization for study and action on community problems, it inevitably has attracted outstandingly public spirited women to its membership.

Miss Sophonisba P. Breckinridge, Mrs. Joseph T. Bowen, Miss Mary McDowell, Miss Harriet Vittum, Dr. Rachelle S. Yarros, Mrs. Benjamin F. Langworthy, and Mrs. Murry Nelson are a few of the women who have led the club in civic pioneering.

• • •

Under the régime of Mrs. J. Sharpless Fox, the present president, the club has taken steps to coöperate more closely with the Illinois Congress of Parents and Teachers and other organizations which share many of its own objectives.

Dues have been substantially reduced, and a number of women who have made distinguished records in other organizations have been drawn into its membership, thereby increasing possibilities for intergroup action.

The next step will be to bring the central organization and its ward branches into a closer relationship. At present there are in all about 700 members. A surprisingly large proportion have been members for all the 30 years, among them Mrs. Edward L. Murfey, the club's first secretary and now its secretary again.

• • •

Tomorrow afternoon the Chicago chapter of Hadassah, women's Zionist organization of America, will celebrate the 75th birthday of Mrs. Hattie Callner, one of its most distinguished members and a business executive in a field usually closed to women.

Mrs. Callner and her grandchildren will appear in person in the prologue of a play dramatizing Mrs. Callner's life as she might tell it to her grandchildren. Besides rearing a family, Mrs. Callner has built up and managed a contracting concern, and for 20 years has been active in Hadassah. The last two years she has been hostess at luncheon to more than 2,000 women who have participated in the Chicago chapter's annual drive for funds.

[Allan Photo.]

Mrs. Ignace E. Weiss, a member of Hadassah, has written the play for the birthday party, and other members will take part in it under Kurt Wohlgemuth's direction. A musical setting will be provided by the Hadassah choral group.

As a birthday gift to Mrs. Callner, Hadassah will plant a grove of 1,500 trees in Palestine in her name. Mrs. M. M. Korshak will make the speech of presentation tomorrow, and there will be a birthday cake.

The Chicago Woman's club, one of Chicago's most venerable and civic minded institutions, is to receive recognition for its part in the founding of the General Federation of Women's Clubs. Mrs. John L. Whitehurst, the federation's first vice president, who is chairman of the organization's current golden jubilee celebration, has assured Mrs. Burnett D. Warner, the club's president, that the Chicago Woman's club will be included in all historical sketches and pageants planned henceforth.

It was Dr. Leila G. Bedell, president of the Chicago Woman's club in the 1880's, who suggested that an organization such as the general federation be formed fully two years before the actual founding of that organization took place.

Recently appointed chairmen who will direct the club's activities in the next two years are Miss Sadie Smith, bulletin; Mrs. Richard H. Bunch, committee on committees; Mrs. R. Maynard Reed, finance; Miss Margaret M. Shepard, hospitality; Mrs. Howard Ames, house; Mrs. William C. Eaton, membership; Mrs. Arthur H. Swett, program; Miss Jane A. Magan, publicity; Mrs. Samuel C. Price, revisions; Mrs. Charles E. Shearman, civics; Miss Samuella Crosby, education; Mrs. Albion L. Headburg, fine arts; Mrs. Henry Barrett Chamberlin, legislation; Miss Mary H. O'Brien, literature and study; Mrs. Wilbur E. Fribley, public affairs; Dr. Adelaide D. Hoeffel, public health; Mrs. Ozora S. Davis, public welfare; Mrs. Fred W. Waterman, social activities, and Mrs. Wilbur F. Blackford, summer activities.

Announce Engagements of Daughters on Anniversary

Two announcements of romantic interest were made by Mr. and Mrs. Adolf Wiegmann of Milwaukee on their 27th wedding anniversary. They were of the engagement of their daughter, Miss Charlotte to H. Cletus Attermeier, son of Mrs. Martha Attermeier of Cudahy, Wis., and of their daughter, Miss Henrietta, to Francis Jay Allen of Decatur, Ala., son of Mrs. Andrew Allen of Glencoe. No dates have been set for the weddings.

Hortense Vandy Bride of Dr. William F. Denneman

The marriage of Miss Hortense Amaden Vandy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Vandy of Park Ridge, to Dr. William Franklin Denneman took place on May 22 at St. Paul of the Cross church. A reception followed at the South Park fieldhouse. Dr. Denneman was graduated from the University of Illinois. After a wedding trip in the north he and his bride will live in Park Ridge.

State Congress of Parents, Teachers to Meet This Week

Choice of the hostess city for the 1941 convention of the Illinois Congress of Parents and Teachers will be among the matters to be considered at a meeting of the congress' board of managers Wednesday and Thursday at the Stevens hotel. Belleville and Peoria are cities to be considered, together with Chicago, which gives a standing invitation for the convention. Delegates will report on the recent convention of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers at Omaha, Neb.

Mrs. F. Russell Lyon.

A special school of instruction for district directors will be held Tuesday in conjunction with the board meeting. Mrs. F. Russell Lyon of Chicago, new state president, will conduct the school, with Mrs. Bruce Smyth of Blue Island and Mrs. Melvin C. Lockard of Cobden. The Illinois congress has 31 districts whose directors coördinate the activities of the individual parent-teacher associations. On Wednesday there will be a school of instruction for all state chairmen.

Agnes Cox Will Be Wed in La Salle on Saturday

The marriage of Miss Agnes Katharine Cox, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Edward Frank Cox of La Salle, Ill., to John Thorndell Stentz, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Stentz of Gary, Ind., will take place at 4 o'clock on Saturday in the First Congregational church in La Salle. A reception will follow in the Red room of the Kaskaskia hotel. Miss Cox was graduated from the Oberlin conservatory and has attended the American conservatory.

Phi Mu Gamma Sponsoring Two Day Festival

For the second year Phi Mu Gamma allied arts fraternity will sponsor a two day festival next week-end at the Nippersink Country club, near Genoa City and Lake Geneva, Wis. Members of the organization's six units in and about Chicago are reserving Saturday and Sunday for the combination of music, dancing, art exhibits, and outdoor sports that made the festival a success last year.

Several varieties of dancing will be provided for the entertainment of the week-enders: Modern dances by Gretchen Burbach, president of the Chicago dance council, and Genevieve Simpson; modern dance poetry by Katharine Imig, ballet dances by Mary Vandas and her pupils, and community folk dancing led by Elizabeth Waterman, instructor in rhythms at Northwestern university. These artists are members of the fraternity. There also will be general dancing outdoors on Saturday evening.

• • •

A recital in Negro dialect by Lydia Hartman, holder of the Northwestern university chapter's national council Fiske scholar award; scenes from grand opera, readings of her own poetry by Josephine Wetzler, songs by madrigal singers, and a recital by a verse speaking choir, are to be among other features of the week-end.

Peterpaul Ott, the sculptor, will exhibit some of his work, and Prof. Arthur Todd of Northwestern university will show his paintings.

The winner of a $200 award which has been made possible thru proceeds of last year's festival also will be announced. The award will provide the winner with a summer at the MacDowell artists' colony at Peterborough, N. H.

Because the festival this year is scheduled just a week before the fraternity's biennial convention is to open at Minneapolis, Minn., there will be no fund raising in connection with it. Mrs. Hazel Du Cles Mueller of Evanston, national president, is chairman of the week-end, with Mrs. J. V. Fort, Mrs. R. F. Trusdell, and Miss Theodosia Paynter assisting her. Reservations must be made by tomorrow.

• • •

The six day convention, to begin June 23, will carry out its theme, "The Reflection of Political-Social Change in the Arts," with exhibitions, lectures, recitals, concerts, and tours to centers of artistic interest. Glen Mitchell and Mr. Ott will be among the artists exhibiting, and Frank Mannheimer, pianist and concert master of the Minneapolis Symphony, and the fraternity's own young artists, will be included on the program.

Results of the international allied arts contest, which Miss Paynter has conducted for the fraternity in the last two years, will be announced.

Recognizing and encouraging artistic talent is an important part of Phi Mu Gamma's program. The 42 year old organization annually on May 15 makes some 35 awards to artists thru its Minnie Maddern Fiske Memorial Foundation, maintained in the name of its late distinguished honorary member. A loan fund assists young artists to complete their training, and they are helped to gain an audience for their work.

Collegiate chapters of Phi Mu Gamma are limited to women members, but men are included in the community units, which also are named for Mrs. Fiske. There are nearly 4,000 members in all.

• • •

Tri-Delts arriving in Chicago next week-end en route to the 20th convention of this college women's fraternity on Mackinac Island, Mich., will find a warm welcome awaiting them at the Palmer House, where local members will be hostesses.

Some 500 members of Delta Delta Delta are to attend the six day convention, which opens June 17. Dr. Fred H. Turner, dean of men at the University of Illinois, and Mrs. Ruth O. McCarn, counselor to women at Northwestern university, will be among the speakers. Mrs. McCarn also will be the chief participant in a personnel conference which will precede the opening of the convention.

The returning delegates will be entertained at a breakfast Sunday, June 23, at the Palmer House, and afterward will visit the Field museum, where Paul Daling, lay lecturer, will address them on "The Parade of the Races." Delegates to the convention from the Chicago area are Miss Grace N. Lowell, Mrs. H. D. Prang, Mrs. W. M. Murray, Mrs. H. M. Redfield, Mrs. L. Deane Hall, and Miss Helen L. Booz.

• • •

Since a number of prospective Barat college students will attend the party to be given by the alumnæ association of the Sacred Heart of Chicago and Lake Forest at 3:30 o'clock tomorrow at the Woman's Athletic club, it is being called a "prevue tea." Colored motion pictures of life at the Lake Forest college will be shown. This year's graduates and older alumnæ also will attend the tea, which Mrs. Henry Di Cosola of Oak Park, alumnæ president, is arranging.

Mrs. Henry E. Di Cosola.

The Chicago Club for Crippled Children will hold its final meeting of the season at 2 o'clock tomorrow at the Palmer House. Tea and mahjong will be in order.

Tuesday Dave Rubinoff, the violinist, will play under the club's auspices at the Spalding School for Crippled Children.

The club's board of directors will give its annual luncheon Friday at the Edgewater Beach hotel, and on Saturday afternoon all members' children are being invited to the annual children's honor roll party at the Palmer House. Mrs. Louis C. Witt heads this organization, which operates a brace shop at the Michael Reese hospital, and aids hundreds of handicapped and underprivileged children.

The American Ladies' Aid society will celebrate its 27th anniversary with an earning fund luncheon Tuesday at the Palmer House. Mrs. B. I. Leibovitz is the organizer of this society, which helps needy families. Thru its Israel Leibovitz loan fund, money is lent to needy families without interest. Mrs. Herman Meyerson and Mrs. Allen J. Freedman are in charge of the luncheon. Mrs. George Cohen heads the society.

The 600 Illinois alumnæ of Ward-Belmont, at Nashville, Tenn., will hold their annual reunion luncheon Wednesday at the Drake hotel. Dr. Joseph E. Burk, president of the institution for the last year and former dean of faculty, will be the principal speaker. Mrs. Frederick A. Schaaf of Chicago heads the Illinois alumnæ.

Mrs. Frederick A. Schaaf.

Alpha Theta chapter, the 12th Chicago chapter of Beta Chi national sorority, will be formally installed at a dinner meeting at 7 o'clock Wednesday at Kentucky Serves a Meal, 660 North Rush street. Miss Virginia Shriver, national treasurer, and Miss Lillian Gorman, national secretary, will officiate at the installation. Miss Regina Dunne, Miss Marion Stahl, and Mrs. Marge Congdon are in charge of the meeting.

New officers will be installed at the final luncheon of the Juniors of the Jewish Consumptive Relief Society of Chicago at 12:30 o'clock Tuesday at the Standard club. Mrs. Jules Y. Levinson is president; Mrs. Louis J. Halpern, first vice president; Mrs. Sidney Goldberg, recording secretary, and Mrs. Arthur Goldberg, financial secretary. Bridge and ma jong will be played and door prizes will be awarded.

Hatikvah, junior auxiliary of the Jewish Consumptive Relief Society of Denver, will install officers at its final meeting of the season at 3 o'clock today at the Webster hotel. Betty Rotberg will sing, and Laura Golden will give dramatic readings. Miss Bea Duboe will be a delegate to the society's convention later this month in Denver, and will deliver the balance of Hatkivah's pledge of $2,500 to the support of the organization's work.

Music Clubs to Honor Memory of Mrs. Thomas

Hitherto unpublished information concerning the late Mrs. Theodore Thomas has been brought to light in connection with the White breakfast which the Illinois Federation of Music Clubs is giving in tribute to her memory next Friday in the ballroom of the Woman's Athletic club.

Mrs. Frank P. Whitmore. [College Studio Photo.]

The facts were obtained thru a chain of events beginning with the publication of a letter from Mrs. Frank P. Whitmore, Chicago district president of the federation, in The Voice of the People in THE TRIBUNE. That was in December, 1938. The letter referred to Mrs. Thomas as the founder of the National Federation of Music Clubs and as a pioneer in fostering American music.

The Rev. John Henry Hopkins, rector emeritus of the Church of the Redeemer in Hyde Park, wrote Mrs. Whitmore to thank her for her letter. He is Mrs. Thomas' first cousin.

• • •

When Mrs. Whitmore discovered soon afterward that the National Federation of Music Clubs had no authoritative sketch of its founder's career, she asked the Rev. Mr. Hopkins to supply one. He, in turn, referred her to Mrs. Thomas' only surviving brother and sister, Charles Norman Fay of Cambridge, Mass., and Mrs. Charles Wilmerding of New York, both either in their late eighties or in their nineties.

Mr. Fay wrote the sketch himself and sent it to Mrs. Whitmore. It is of particular interest to Chicagoans because Mr. Fay, who then lived in Chicago, was a leading spirit in organizing the association which brought Theodore Thomas' orchestra permanently to Chicago. Mr. Fay was one of the orchestra's most generous backers and lost heavily in helping it thru the first difficult years.

Rose Fay was living in Chicago with her brother and sisters when she met Theodore Thomas, who then gave "Summer Night Concerts" with his orchestra in Chicago every summer. He became a family friend, and a year after the death of his wife, he and Rose Fay were married.

• • •

Until her marriage, at the age of 38, Mrs. Thomas had managed her brother's home in Bellevue place, had led an agreeable social life and had done some interior decorating, chiefly mural painting. Her family was musical and she played the piano.

Upon her marriage Mrs. Thomas enthusiastically furthered her husband's efforts to establish Chicago's first symphony orchestra on a sound footing. When Mr. Thomas organized a music festival for the 1893 Columbian exposition at Chicago, Mrs. Thomas invited the music clubs of the country to participate.

Forty-two clubs responded. The Amateur Musical Club of Chicago, now the Musicians Club of Women, of which Mrs. Thomas was president, was hostess at the meeting.

From this preliminary gathering resulted the movement which led to the founding of the National Federation of Music Clubs in Chicago in 1897. Mrs. Thomas was made honorary president. These facts on the founding of the music federation have been confirmed by Mrs. George Oberne of Chicago, a long time national board member.

• • •

Born and brought up in the east, Mrs. Thomas on both sides was descended from New Englanders. Her father was an Episcopal clergyman, one grandfather was the first bishop of Vermont, and the other, a judge in whose home at Cambridge, Mass., the song, "Fair Harvard," was written.

After her husband's death in 1905 Mrs. Thomas returned east to live. Much of the time she spent in Cambridge, where she rented a small house from her lifelong friend, Edith Dana, Longfellow's daughter, and at Felsengarten.

Mrs. Thomas wrote a biography of her husband and a charming book about Felsengarten. During the world war she worked faithfully at the Soldiers' and Sailors' club in Boston and continued to visit this club for enlisted men several times each week the remainder of her life. When she died, in 1929, she was given a military funeral.

Lake Geneva's Congress Club Retains Charm

By Rose Cour.

LAKE GENEVA, WIS.

An amazing but altogether charming bit of the nineteenth century carried over to 1940 is the Congress club at Lake Geneva. Located on the west shore of Williams Bay, protected by bewildering, forest lined winding roads, the casual visitor driving around the lake never sees the club. If properly approached by boat, however, the dignified white columned old clubhouse with its 10 attendant white cottages built on a vast semicircle of park facing the lake presents a picture of what was ne plus ultra in summer camps in the '80's.

In keeping with the best traditions of the lake, at least one of the cottages is still the summer home of the descendants of the original owner, who was Harvey T. Weeks, president of the club, one of its founders and co-discoverer with its secretary, Charles N. Post, of this ideal location at Lake Geneva for the summer quarters of the club in 1881. Mrs. William C. Jackson, daughter of the late Mr. Weeks, is the present owner of the cottage and her daughter, Mrs. Joan Lang, and grandchildren still spend their summers there.

• • •

The Congress club, a musical and social club, was organized in Chicago in 1875 by a congenial group of men and women residing on Congress street and the adjoining streets of Ashland, Marshfield and Paulina, a choice residential district at that time. Among the founders and early members of the club besides Mr. Weeks and Mr. Post were P. J. Healy and George W. Lyon, Frank L. Eastman, Joseph G. Hill, J. N. Love, Fred S. James, William H. Harper, Henry C. Gray, I. N. Camp, James W. McDonough, George Griswold, James B. Dutch, Florine S. Young, Scott Jordan, George S. Bullock, George H. Taylor, grandfather of Herbert Taylor, present head of the Lake Geneva Yacht club's junior navy, and George G. Parker, the Congress club's first treasurer. Incidentally Mrs. Parker of Evanston is, so far as can be ascertained, the only living member of the original club. The Parkers and the Healys later built larger and more elaborate summer homes on the lake.

Those who now call the club their summer abode include, in addition to the Jackson family, Charles B. Acheson, president of the club; Charles E. Peace, secretary and treasurer; Frank Van Inwagen of Hinsdale; Mrs. William Beggs, John W. Porter, H. G. Townsend, Frank Schwinn, A. N. MacMaster, and Mrs. John L. Little with her daughter, Mrs. Maxwell Evans, and family.

• • •

What is purported to be an axiom of the French revolution, "One man's liberty ends where another man's liberty begins," might be said to be the code of the club as a striking characteristic of the members is their communal spirit and nice regard for one another's rights.

Each member owns his cottage and a mythical tenth of the clubhouse and the ten acres of beautiful woodland and lake shore that compose the club grounds. The ten cottages are exactly alike so far as the exteriors are concerned, of substantial frame construction in a conservative, dignified American type of architecture with broad verandas. One of the inviolable rules of the club is that all cottages must be painted white and that no alterations other than necessary repairs shall be made in the exteriors. While the interiors may be remodeled, streamlined and chrome plated to fit next year's model of what a summer home should be, if the owner so much as contemplates changing the design of his screen doors, the club goes into a huddle to determine whether it can be done without disrupting the harmony of the scene.

Modern furnishings prevail for the most part, altho a unique feature of the club is that it is, so far as an exhaustive research reveals, the last stand of the delightful old fashioned porch hammock and rocking chair. The cherishing of these two sacred adjuncts of a vanishing American summer life is also symbolic of life at the Congress club, which has been called an oasis of restful tranquility in a jittery world.

• • •

Another strict ruling of the club is one at which city apartment dwellers might marvel. Children, grandchildren, and great-grandchildren are welcomed not only with open arms, but with waterwings, sandboxes, swings, and croquet sets, while dogs and cats are absolutely prohibited from the club's precincts. The reason for the latter taboo is that wild life, of the winged and four footed variety only, let it be known, is encouraged. To be sure, occasionally visitors are rather amazed at being hissed around to the side entrance of the Peace cottage because a mother robin and her young brood are in residence over the front door while some members of the club say they have a constant argument with squirrels over the possession of their own attics, and a few even wonder if wild life hasn't been encouraged to the point where it isn't wild enough any more. Recently one of the week-ending cottagers discovered a raccoon raising a fine family in the clubhouse kitchen.

• • •

Last year a cottage was suspected of being haunted because in the middle of the night a rocking chair on the veranda suddenly would start rocking violently. The group of timid women in the house, casting fearful glances from the front windows, saw that the chair was apparently unoccupied. A courageous ghost raiser, however, upon closer investigation found a big raccoon on the cushion, working strenuously to make the chair go and seemingly enjoying the motion. Coming suddenly upon the raccoon, with his lightish face and black ringed eyes, was about as hair raising an experience as seeing a real ghost, the ghost raiser admitted.

• • •

Originally none of the cottages had kitchens or dining rooms as all meals were prepared and served in the clubhouse. The dining hall was at the north end of the building which is over 100 feet long, and in the center was the ballroom where on numerous occasions in the early days, the Lyon & Healy military band, famous in the '80s, played for the Congress "hops." An the south end of the clubhouse there are suites of rooms to house the extra guests of members.

In recent years, since each cottage has taken on its own kitchen, the clubhouse has not been the gay place it was formerly. The young group at the club use the ballroom as a recreation hall for ping-pong and other games and occasionally members, especially Mr. and Mrs. Peace, import an orchestra for dancing parties.

When Chicago Was Young

By Herma Clark

Chicago, June 8, 1940.

Dear "When Chicago Was Young" Friends: This is not to be a letter to "Dear Julia," but an epistle from Me to You. Laid on the shelf for a few days with a belated case of influenza, your columnist has decided to write you what she sees and hears from a room on the fifth floor of the Presbyterian hospital. Having just finished Kenneth Horan's "Night Bell," there is a temptation to imagine one's self a Mrs. Morgan and to watch for romantic events such as that heroine took part in. None such develop, but there is enough interest without novel plots. The boy who brings the newspapers has sadness in his blue eyes as he tells you that he has three brothers in Norway from whom he hasn't heard since that country fell into the hands of Germany. The cleaning women, Polish and Czecho-Slovakian, know nothing of relatives in their old home.

Yet they all do their day's work, well and uncomplainingly, God bless them! One feels almost ashamed to be enjoying so much hospital attention when all over Europe maimed bodies are lying uncared for, and the fate of civilization hangs in the balance.

The nurses are talking of base hospitals and hospital units and one realizes that they intend to be ready if they are needed.

From my window I can see in the distance Ashland boulevard, once the home of fashionable Chicagoans, many of them from the south. A delightful social life centered here, with gay evening parties for the neighborhood, when "square dances" prevailed, and afternoon "receptions" to which all Chicago came.

The Infanta Eulalia of Spain was the guest of Mayor Carter H. Harrison Sr. in his fine home at the corner of Ashland boulevard and Jackson street during the Columbian Exposition of 1893.

Those days of elegance are gone, but a little to the west of Ashland boulevard has risen a great medical center. It is thrilling to look at an aerial photograph of this neighborhood and realize that it is the greatest lifesaving center in the world. Hospital beds in this district are estimated to number 4,438.

Presbyterian hospital is not the oldest hospital in Chicago—Cook county and Mercy antedate it—but it is known far and wide thruout the United States, not only for its connection with Rush Medical college, oldest medical institution in Illinois, but also because of its superintendent, Asa S. Bacon, for 33 years treasurer of the American Hospital association. On June 1 Mr. Bacon celebrated the 40th anniversary of his connection with Presbyterian hospital at a dinner given during the reunion of the Presbyterian Hospital Interns alumni. The occasion also honored Herman Hensel, his assistant for 28 years, and William Gray, who as pharmacist has occupied his important post for 35 years.

Asa S. Bacon.

Michigan-born Asa Bacon received his preparation for a hospital management position in the school of hard knocks, for he has been a lumberjack and clerk in a general store in a lumber town. Picked by Dr. D. K. Pearsons, millionaire philanthropist, then president of the Presbyterian hospital board, he came to his post in 1900, knowing nothing about hospital work but having mastered courses in bookkeeping and accounting while clerking in a country store.

If the great hospital he manages has a superb spirit—efficiency mingled with sympathy and good will—much of the credit, say his associates, must go to Asa Bacon.

The woman's board of the hospital is outstanding in its social service work, which attracts young women as helpers, so that a number represent fourth generation members. Among these young women are members of the families of Graham, Drake, Daniel A. Jones, Byron L. Smith, Stuart, Maltman, Hamill, and McCormick.

If you are a patient in the hospital, you will be likely to find on Tuesdays lovely looking Mrs. Burke Williamson [Peggy Clow] wheeling a heavy cart loaded with books thru the corridors, continuing the work of the Hamill family for the institution.

Other well known Chicago names still represented on the woman's board are: Ross, Shorey, Douglass, McWilliams, Dunham, Nichols, Coy and Reed.

* *

As one lies comfortably in a hospital room, hearing the sound of feet in the corridor outside, the rhythm falls into syllables, so that a verse is born of these . . . echoes of the feet which bring good tidings.

"How Beautiful Are The Feet!"

They pass my door all day, those blessed feet.
They seem to fly their ordered course so fleet;
Doctors and nurses, cleaning-women, all
The hundred workers in a hospital.
Each face serene and cheerful, "All is well"
They answer, if you ask what they can tell
Of life outside your room. They will not share
With you the heavy burdens they must bear.
Smiling, a woman hangs a curtain white.
"Your homeland?" "It was Poland," and the light
Fades from her face a moment as she turns.
"My mother . . . she is there." Another yearns
For sisters still in Prague. But "You are fine Today." Her eyes look bravely into mine.
The boy who brings the papers seriously
Hands me my change. "I am Norwegian, me.
I have three brothers back in Norway, yet.
Yes, Ma'am. The TRIBUNE is two cents, you bet."

* *

The blessed feet pass by my door all day,
And as they pass I lift my heart and pray:
"Dear God, bless all who serve their fellow men
And bring the world to ordered peace again."

Your friend, HERMA CLARK.

Shell White Furniture for Child's Room

By Claire Winslow.

Most women enjoy furnishing a child's room as much as they did playing with dolls when they were their little daughter's age. The new furniture for youngsters is practically irresistible, and materials for curtains and crib spreads, floor and wall coverings have been especially designed with the nursery in mind, so there is a delightful variety from which to choose.

Of course, there's nothing more practical for the floor than linoleum, since it is so sturdy and so easy to keep clean. In summer it needs no extra covering, but in winter oval rugs or the interesting, tough linenloom rugs may be spread over it for warmth. For little boys' rooms there are fibre and sisal rugs that are as good looking and inexpensive as they are durable. [Incidentally, their big brothers like these floor coverings, too.]

• • •

As you know, you can have attractive little figures that amuse children inset right into the linoleum floor. There are scottie dogs and ships and flowers and many other cut-out designs from which to choose.

Then, too, there are specially made linoleum picture rugs with illustrated maps, etc., for the older children. They provide hours of entertainment besides protecting the nursery floor.

For walls there are washable papers that are a joy. Choose from a lot of cute patterns made to delight the very young. Or select a plain colored wallpaper [washable, of course] and arrange your own decorations from the pretty little cut-outs that are available in packets and that are made with adhesive backs. Try them, too, on window frames, doors, nursery chests or on screens.

• • •

If your child's room has painted walls be sure the final coat is enamel, so it will be easy to keep clean. Wall linoleum makes sanitary, attractive nurseries, too, and lasts for years.

Plan to have a large blackboard as part of one wall in your little son's or daughter's room. And if he or she likes to cut out pictures you can attach cork squares to the wall as a bulletin board.

It's hard to equal the loveliness of glazed chintz for nursery windows and all children like to study the animals and fairy tale figures that make the patterns. Get enough, too, for a crib or bed-spread. Other materials that are practical and that can be colorful and gay for both curtains and spreads for youngsters' rooms are: gingham, printed sateen, denim, sail cloth, bed ticking, wide wale piqué, cretonne, chambray, and seersucker.

Looking Back Over 1939-40 Theater Fare

By Cecil Smith.

For the next four weeks the light hearted, nostalgic comedy, "Life with Father," will be without competition on the downtown legitimate stage. Not until Al Jolson brings his new musical comedy, perhaps called "Hold On to Your Hats," and perhaps just called "Yippee," to the Grand Opera house on July 7 will the even tenor of our ways be interrupted by a theater première.

This is a natural time, then, to sit back and digest the theatrical fare of the last year—to recall to memory the passing parade of shows since the beginning of June in 1939. Last week I laid before you the statistics of the season. Today and next Sunday I propose to try to turn these statistics into more tangible recollections.

A year ago on June 1 John Barrymore was confined to his bed. Three weeks earlier, on May 8, his odd vehicle entitled "My Dear Children" had swept into town to the fanfare of loud complaints from the women of Omaha, and even louder reverberations of Elaine Barrie's withdrawal from the Barrymore hearth. Here in Chicago the comedy, nominally by Catherine Turney and Jerry Horwin, but actually shaped afresh each night by Mr. Barrymore to suit his transient mood, had already turned into a smashing success, attracting all sorts of theatergoers, from those who wanted to see the return of a great actor to the stage to those who believed overzealous gossip to the effect that the star could always be depended upon to be dismally in his cups.

• • •

Mr. Barrymore's illness was short lived, and on June 4 he returned to the Selwyn stage to perform there eight times a week until Jan. 6, 1940, with only one other interruption, caused (altho I seldom could convince anybody that the true facts were really true) by a deeply abscessed tooth. During the run two members of the cast departed—Dorothy McGuire, replaced by Patricia Waters, and Lloyd Gough, supplanted inadequately by Kenneth Treseder. When the play closed it still was doing business, and might have continued for many weeks longer.

In June and July J. Charles Gilbert was experimenting with hi

NewComedy Is Satire on Dixie Politics

By Burns Mantle.

NEW YORK (Special).—The latest musical comedy excitement has been created by the production of a piece called "Louisiana Purchase," which has to do with the late Huey Long's southern empire, but only suggestively. At least, Irving Berlin, who wrote the lyrics and the music, and B. G. De Sylva, who suggested the story to Morrie Ryskind, who wrote it, would have you believe that nothing they have either said or done, or permitted their actors to say or do on the stage, has any real relation to the activities of the Louisiana politicos who worked with Huey.

"Louisiana Purchase" is founded on nothing more concrete than those deals and rumors of deals the boys have read about in the papers. And even these, they tell you in rhyme, have been liberally fictionized. Consider, for instance, the chief item of graft upon which their story is based:

The government, thru the WPA, had ordered a delivery of lumber to be used in public works to a certain Louisiana community. An organization of Louisiana politicians known as the Louisiana Purchase Co., Inc., diverted the delivery to a location controled by the state university. The lumber was then sold to the university for $25,000. Later it was moved to another location and resold to the university. The idea was to sell it at least once a month. But the third time the sale was put thru it was decided in Washington that there should be some sort of investigation.

• • •

As a result Senator Oliver P. Loganberry of New Hampshire (played by Victor Moore) is sent into the deep south to inquire into the matter. The senator's first contact is with Jim Taylor (William Gaxton), who represents the Louisiana Purchase Co. Mr. Taylor, accepting Senator Loganberry for the New England hick he appears to be, decides that he must, in familiar farce fashion, "get something on" him, and thus nullify any report he may make to the government.

Mr. Taylor thereupon tempts Senator Loganberry with Vera Zorina, the dancer. No good. Miss Zorina, beholden to the senator for a pass to get her mother out of Europe, announces that she is his fiancée, and therefore privileged to make love to him.

Mr. Taylor then smuggles Irene

Looking Back Over Chicago's 1939-40 Theatrical Season

Several Fine Productions Graced Stages

Civic theater repertory group. "Petticoat Fever," the first offering, had been given in May. Three other plays followed, of which "The Thirteenth Chair" and "Seventh Heaven" were so out of date that nobody got very much worked up over their content. The presence of Margo and Francis Lederer in the cast of "Seventh Heaven" brought the only real business of the repertory season, however. "Accent on Youth," presented with weak personnel, did not prosper as much as the intrinsic merits of a good comedy would warrant. The season failed because of outmoded répertoire and too limited a selection of players.

Early in June a vivacious and fresh revue of the intimate order called "One for the Money" came to town. Adorned with superbly tasteful settings and costumes by Raoul Pène du Bois, and chock full of the spicy and sophisticated humor of Nancy Hamilton, its author and one of its principal comic performers, "One for the Money" won a warm reception. The fickle box office of June was not good for it, however, and after six weeks in which the Harris theater was hardly ever sold out the gay revue had to close. Chicago has not seen another musical so original, so sparkling, and so free from clichés since that time.

With the closing of the Civic theater project and "One for the Money," and with the demise of the Federal theater [whose last two productions were two of its best, "As You Like It" and "Street Scene"] on June 30, the loop had no tenant except "My Dear Children" for two and a half months.

• • •

In October, however, the fall season began swiftly. Ethel Waters, in "Mamba's Daughters," was the first entrant. When I attended the première I thought the play very exciting, perhaps because it was the first one of the fall. A return visit convinced me that I had fallen for a pretty obvious contrivance of old time melodramatic hokum, and taught me to be less thirsty for entertainment at the end of the summer's drouth.

On the heels of "Mamba's Daughters" came Ruth Chatterton's return to the stage. Her play, a comedy first called "You Can't Eat Goldfish," but more palatably renamed "Tonight We Dance" before it reached us, had neither a good beginning nor a very conclusive end, tho it had a modicum of wit in between. But it served to remind us that Miss Chatterton is one of the most capable and one of the most economical of all our actresses, and it brought Barry Thomson forward as a first-rate leading man.

"The White Steed," a play by Paul Vincent Carroll somewhat inferior in thematic integrity to "Shadow and Substance," tho superficially more amusing, was presented here by a cast of which its sponsors were ashamed. Whitford Kane and Ralph Cullinan turned in salty performances, but their colleagues constituted the deplorable sort of cast most eloquently described as a "second company."

• • •

Maurice Evans' uncut performance of "Hamlet" still remains one of the unforgettable events of the season. Here was the whole of the great tragedy, with all its motivation and characterization intact, and with a drive and cumulative intensity no shortened version is ever likely to equal. Pictorially the production was richly satisfying, without encumbering the stage with as much baggage as Laurence Olivier later chose to bring along in "Romeo and Juliet."

• • •

Katharine Cornell's appearance in S. N. Behrman's "No Time for Comedy" was a festival occasion, with sellout business for three weeks. The play, incisive and forward looking, was the best drawing room comedy of the year. Miss Cornell's performance, ripened and also made smoother since her early weeks in New York, was vigorous and thoughtful if not sparkling, and Margalo Gillmore made a supremely effective foil for her. Francis Lederer was not half as good as Laurence Olivier had been in New York, and never fully understood the mood of his rôle.

• • •

No great shakes as a work of art, a revival of Benn Levy's "Springtime for Henry" enabled us to see Edward Everett Horton's mastery of the double take, and provided mild, offhand amusement despite a supporting cast of stock company caliber. Far surpassing it in humor was Victor Moore's inimitable portrait, in the musical comedy "Leave It to Me," of a Kansas simpleton who accidentally became ambassador to Moscow. The piece glittered and glowed with beautiful decors, and profited from an excellent flow of topical wit. It was, however, presented in a house much too big to set off Mr. Moore's intimate style, tho Sophie Tucker was able to set the rafters ringing.

After the short lived interruption of an unbelievable cut rate extravaganza called "A Night At the Moulin Rouge," replete with roses and sea gulls, a genuinely distinguished production arrived in the form of a notable revival of Sutton Vane's "Outward Bound." With Laurette Taylor, Florence Reed, and Morgan Farley among the passengers on the eerie ship of death, "Outward Bound" provided Chicago with an ensemble performance surpassed only by "The Little Foxes."

• • •

The Christmas season was ushered in by two light entertainments. George White's "Scandals" was so bromidic and ordinary that I still cannot see why, even with the aid of convention visitors, it was able to flourish for five exceptionally prosperous weeks.

"The Man Who Came to Dinner," on the other hand, turned out to be the supreme gag show of the year, and deserved the 23 weeks it was awarded at the Harris theater. Extracting the last gram of vitriol, Clifton Webb made of Sheridan Whiteside a pungent character, and his fellow players connived effectively in producing a mood of high hilarity. The performance went downhill somewhat during its long run, but even toward the end it was still extremely funny.

Next Sunday's column will be devoted to a hop, skip, and jump thru the second half of the season from New Year's day to the beginning of the present month.

Life with Father" has won another prize. This time it is the Roi Cooper Megrue prize, awarded by the New York Dramatists' guild for the best comedy of the season. This recognition is significant, for the Dramatists' guild consists entirely of playwrights, whose judgment in the selection of a play is naturally unusually strict. Robert Sherwood, author of "Abe Lincoln in Illinois," nominated "Life with Father" for the award, and Lillian Hellman, author of "The Little Foxes," seconded the nomination. The vote was unanimous.

The Peninsula Players, at Wildwood, Fish Creek, Wis., are planning a summer season of eight plays of exceptional interest and freshness. Beginning July 4, weekly productions will be given each Thursday, Friday, and Saturday evening. The home of the Peninsula players is in beautiful wooded Door county, where the curving shore of Green bay and a countryside as charming as that of New England provide a choice natural setting. Richard Wylie Fisher is director. The following plays, many new to the middle west, are promised:

July 4, 5, 6—Noel Coward's "Hay Fever," with Gertrude Needham.

July 11, 12, 13—"Mandragola," a celebrated Renaissance drama by Machiavelli, with Jacqueline Wells.

July 18, 19, 20—George Bernard Shaw's "The Doctor's Dilemma," with Helen Bragdon.

July 25, 26, 27—"Undine, or the Spirit of the Waters," a modernization of the romantic fantasy by La Motte Fouqué, with Margo Fisher.

Aug. 1, 2, 3—"The Italian Straw Hat," by Labiche.

Aug. 8, 9, 10—A dramatization of Emily Brontë's "Wuthering Heights," with Caroline Fisher.

Aug. 15, 16, 17—Sophocles' "Oedipus the King," preceded by an "Interlude" in the manner of classical comedy.

Aug. 22, 23, 24—An original musical revue.

Next Saturday and Sunday the Douglas Smith Players will revive Frederick Lonsdale's famous comedy, "The Last of Mrs. Cheyney," at its little theater, 844 Rush street. Andrew Streng is directing the production.

Sam Wanamaker will direct the new group at the Woodstock Summer theater in the old Opera house at Woodstock, Ill., this summer. The season will open July 5 with "Kiss the Boys Goodbye." Arny Freeman, formerly associated with the Group theater in New York, will be associate director of the company.

The Lake Zurich playhouse has not announced its specific plans. The season will open June 28 and continue on Friday, Saturday, and Sunday evenings thru Sept. 1.

No farther away than Oak Park, the Pastime players will present four plays this summer in the Lowell Little theater at Forest and Lake streets. The group includes players from the Goodman theater, the Mummers, the Lake Zurich playhouse, the San Antonio, Tex., playhouse, and several colleges and universities. The following plays will be offered: June 27 and 28, "Hay Fever"; July 18 and 19, "Another Language"; Aug. 8 and 9, "What a Life"; Aug. 29 and 30, "Hotel Universe."

Noel Coward's "Private Lives" continues as the attraction at the Guild theater in Evanston, with performances weekly Thursday thru Sunday.

Because of virtually sold out houses during its run, "The Lady Is Right," originally scheduled to close after tonight's performance, will extend its run to three more evenings. It will be given again next Sunday June 16, and the following Saturday and Sunday, June 22 and 23. This bright, satirical musical comedy, written and produced by members of the Chicago Repertory group, holds forth at Forester's theater, 1016 North Dearborn street.

This department was wrong in asserting that the presentation of St. John Ervine's "Boyd's Shop" at the Ann Arbor drama festival was to be its first in America, as claimed by the festival association. As a matter of fact it was given in Chicago in the spring of 1939 by the Loyola Community theater. Our informant, Mr. George Lynch, adds that this was the true United States première, a fact we will neither guarantee nor deny.

Two eminent Negro writers, Arna Bontemps and Langston Hughes, have prepared a pageant tracing the history of the Negro stage, for presentation during the American Negro exposition to be held at the Coliseum from July 4 to Sept. 2. It will be known as the "Cavalcade of the Negro Theater." Beginning with a Creole celebration in New Orleans, it will illustrate the colored performer's part in minstrel shows, musical comedies, early jazz pieces, and the contemporary theater. Seventy-five actors, singers, and musicians will participate.

New Comedy Is Satire on Dixie Politics

Bordoni into the senator's hotel room. No good. The senator sends for a magistrate and marries Bordoni.

So at the end of the evening the status quo, in both politics and sex, is about where it was at the beginning. Meantime there has been a good deal of fun released by the Messrs. Gaxton and Moore, a good deal of expert and impressively graceful dancing by Mlle. Zorina, and a good many Irving Berlin songs sung by Carol Bruce and other lovely young ladies.

Morrie Ryskind, who had a hand in the writing of "Of Thee I Sing," which still holds its position as the No. 1 political satire of our theater, has not done too well with the book of "Louisiana Purchase." But it is a good book, as books go.

Mr. Berlin has studded it with rather clever Berlin lyrics, including several of those rhymed confidences with the audience in which he delights, and a set of characteristic Berlin musical numbers. George Balanchine, who is the Lady Zorina's husband, has staged the ballets, Carl Randall the wilder dances, and Edgar MacGregor the story, which should give some idea of the entertainment's quality.

The Mary Anderson who died in England last week at the age of 81 was no more than a lovely legend, so far as theater followers of today are concerned. And yet, because she did all those things that all stagestruck girls hope to do, her name will linger long in the memory of theater minded folk.

To those who have so much as skimmed the history of the American theater Mary Anderson is thought of as a southern beauty, a Louisville, Ky., glamor girl who played Juliet at 16 and set the town abuzzing with her triumph. As a matter of record she was born in Sacramento, Cal., not long after the gold rush days—in 1859.

She was, however, taken to Louisville as a child and it was there that she made her debut. Also she did play Juliet at 16, with a local stock company, at a benefit performance for a stranded actor, and her first success was sufficient to interest a great many people in her career. Yet when she and her stepfather, a stage enthusiast who had fired her ambitions, took the playhouse for a week and offered Miss Anderson as both Juliet and the heroine of a drama called "Evadne" they were a dollar short of their expenses at the end of the engagement.

Again, when she accepted the invitation of Ben De Bar of St. Louis to play a week with his stock company, she caused so little excitement and collected so little as her share of the receipts that when they got back to Louisville the Andersons discovered that they owed $600.

That experience, however, was the end of her bad luck. De Bar, moved to a showman's pity because of the St. Louis experience, gave her another chance with a stock company he ran in New Orleans. That week she added Meg Merrilies to her repertory and was an overnight sensation. Two years later she was playing Juliet in New York and was the toast of the town. She went to London and was given a greater success there than in her native land. For years one success followed another, and "our Mary" became an American boast.

Even after ill health forced her retirement in 1889, when she was 30, her fortune held. She returned to London, married the wealthy Antonio De Navarro, and lived for fifty years happily and comfortably. Her only professional appearances in her later years were those she made in London during the first world war in the cause of war charities.

• • •

A theater death that came closer to us last week was that of Walter Connolly in Hollywood. Connolly was both a screen and stage favorite, but, of course, the stage had him first and for the better part of his active career. He was a blustering, jolly person and a good actor, one of those good actors who never quite achieve but richly deserve the rewards of stardom, tho I believe he was starred briefly a few years ago in a comedy by Fred Jackson called "The Bishop Misbehaves."

Curiously, was in this same play that he made his two last Broadway appearances—in 1935 as its star and this last winter in a radio version in the Star Theater series, when I introduced him to his radio audience. He was hoping then to come back to the speaking stage, but the Hollywood call was insistent and he felt he had better wait until he found a proper play.

Walter Connolly will be greatly missed, and waves of sympathy should help sustain Nedda Harrigan, who was his devoted wife.

• • •

Roi Cooper Megrue, who was a successful writer of comedies thirty years ago, stipulated in his last will and testament that $500 should be given annually to the authors of that play which dismissed playgoers from a theater a little happier than they were when they assembled. His fellow playwrights of the Dramatists' guild were named to select the play and award the prize. Their last choice was that of Arthur Kober's "Having Wonderful Time" in 1937. This year they have chosen the Howard Lindsay-Russell Crouse "Life With Father" as the winner. Which practically makes "father" the champion comedy of the year, with the Thurber-Nugent "The Male Animal" a lively runner-up.

A CLEVER IMPERSONATOR

A spirit of good humor, superimposed upon superb technical ability and well controlled use of the imagination, make Dean Murphy's impersonations the hit of the current Chez Paree show.

Notes of Music and Musicians

Three performances are scheduled by the American Opera company in the Woman's Club theater this week. This afternoon it will offer Verdi's "La Traviata," with the following participants: Eleanora Bedrit [Violetta], Alma Bedrit [Flora], Arlene Magan [Annina], Joseph Folmer [Alfredo], and Martin Boughan [Germont the elder]. In the evening Donizetti's "Lucia di Lammermoor" will be sung by Nancy Reeder [Lucy], Bernice Goodwin [Alice], Arthur Wilkenson [Edgar], Vincent Lawrence [Henry], Leon La Rue [Norman], Frank Finn [Arthur], and Wilms Herbert [Raymond]. Verdi's "Rigoletto" will be given on Tuesday night. Giovanni Berrafato will conduct them all.

Announcements continue to come in from and about the Chicago Opera company. Risë Stevens, the successful young American mezzo-soprano, has been engaged to sing the rôle of Octavian in "Der Rosenkavalier," a rôle which served her in her debut at the Metropolitan Opera house two seasons ago. Whether she will sing other parts here has not yet been made known.

Announcements from unofficial sources have been published that Rose Pauly and Margit Bokor, sopranos, will also be with the company. Miss Pauly, famous for her interpretations in the Strauss operas, will be seen in the title rôle of that composer's "Salome" and as the princess in "Der Rosenkavalier." The latter performance will be her first of the part in this country. Her only previous appearance in Chicago was made last fall with the Chicago Symphony.

Miss Bokor, a Hungarian, will make her American debut early this fall with the San Francisco Opera. There she will sing in "Der Rosenkavalier" [Sophie], "La Bohême," "Don Giovanni," and "A Masked Ball." What she will sing with the Chicago company is as yet undecided.

The opera auditions will begin on Tuesday afternoon on the stage of the Civic Opera house. However, applications will be accepted up to and including next Saturday.

A series of opera broadcasts will be started tonight on WAAF. In the next 14 weeks on every Sunday recorded operas will be played from 6:30 to 8:30, with Giovanni Cardelli of the opera company serving as commentator. At the final broadcast an identification contest will be held in which the prizes will be tickets to opera performances next fall. Fuller details will be released later.

Next Saturday is the deadline for those subscribers to the History and Enjoyment of Music series in the Auditorium theater who wish to occupy their same seats next season. After July 1 all seats will be placed on public sale. The series offers Fritz Kreisler, violinist, Oct. 20; Philadelphia orchestra, Eugene Ormandy, conductor, and Artur Rubinstein, piano soloist, Oct. 29; Paul Robeson, baritone, Nov. 24; Kirsten Flagstad, soprano, Dec. 8; Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo, Jan. 3; Sergei Rachmaninoff, pianist, Jan. 19; Argentinita and her ensemble of Spanish dancers and musicians, Feb. 9; Lina Pagliughi, coloratura soprano, and John Amadio, flutist, Feb. 23. Mail orders can be sent to the Auditorium theater.

For its 10th and last adult music appreciation concert of the year the American Concert orchestra will offer music by contemporary composers on Friday night at the Illinois Music Concert hall, 632 North Dearborn street, at 8:15. Ralph Cissne will conduct and discuss the following works and their composers: Suite, from "The Betrothal," by Eric DeLamarter, "Lament," by Irwin Fisher; Waltz, from the ballet "The Play of Words," by David Van Vactor; Symphony No. 1, "Le Printemps," by Milhaud; Romance in C major for String Orchestra, by Sibelius; Suite for Orchestra, by Stravinsky, and "Saturday Night," a Barn Dance, by Robert Sanders. Four of the represented composers have been or are functioning in Chicago.

The much heralded Victor Puppet Opera will make its Chicago debut in the Woman's Club theater for a week from Tuesday night, June 18. The troupe will present Gounod's "Faust" under the sponsorship of the Illinois Opera guild. Puppets act out the opera while recordings of the music are synchronized with the stage action.

Richman Scores New Triumphs in Chez Revue

Chez Paree's challenge to the summer doldrums, which are supposed to hit urban spots along about this time, is a revue that for well balanced entertainment ranks with the best in the Chez's long line of superb shows.

Cold facts as well as warm applause prove incontrovertably that Harry Richman is the best money puller the Chez has on its list of regulars. The Richman merits may be subject to critical debate, but the Richman popularity at the Chez is a loudly evident matter of obvious fact. Harry's material—as well as his zest for the job—seems newer and more vigorous this trip. He has abandoned the lifeless patter about immobile WPA workers and such weary bits of humor, and returns wholeheartedly to his forte—singing showmanship.

Dean Murphy, satirist, who has won acclaim in Chicago many times, makes a successful bid for more in his first appearance at Chez Paree. His amazingly mobile face, which can be a mask of George Arliss as readily as it can of Joe E. Brown; his perfectly controled vocal versatility; and his adroitly selected material, which he keeps constantly up to date, make him a lush and welcome oasis in a parched desert of impersonators.

Cobina Wright Jr. is a beautiful addition to the Chez bill, even tho her talent lacks the vigorous showmanship that makes her co-stars so successful. Singing in a rather fragile but pleasant voice, she frequently makes use of amusing lyrics quite out of the usual groove. For example, "Mutiny in the Nursery" is a clever medley of childhood favorites in a very modern version.

Lucienne and Ashour have one of those acts that can, with considerable exactitude, be called unique. Their Apache dance is executed with sometimes almost unbelievable vigor, yet it turns into an hilarious comedy number with subtle suddenness. Carole and Sherod, two tall and handsome young women, open the show with variations on several tap themes, and fill a difficult spot well.

Carl Ravazza.

"The Golden Voice of the West Coast" is now the western voice of the Gold Coast, for Carl Ravazza, young maestro whose musical star has been riding high in the California skies for several years, is playing and singing at the Colony club. His band is a pacemaker in the "sweet" field, producing music that is rich in texture and brilliant in design, yet it is versatile enough to provide solid, rhythmic tunes for the more energetic of the dance minded. That versatility extends also to the entertainment department. Neil Bondshue, pianist; Paul Durand, song mimic, and The Four of Us, a quartet including Ravazza, provide an intimate type of show.

An unaccustomed and luxurious sense of quiet and peace has descended upon the Blackhawk restaurant. The cats and 'gators have gone, the kings of swing have departed, and a Barron of the Blues reigns supreme.

Blue Barron makes an auspicious Chicago debut in his Blackhawk appearance, playing an excellent brand of music that will disappoint only the most slavish devotees of jive. His dinner music isn't designed, as Raymond Scott put it, for a pack of hungry cannibals. It is astutely constructed for the pleasure of diners and dancers alike. In the band are a number of talented lads who take over most of the floor show duties. Allan Holmes has 10 freak instruments with which he produces music not at all freakish. Ronnie Snyder, guitarist, looks a little odd doing it, but produces a pleasing result with his throat whistling. Charlie Fischer, personality singer, and Russ Carlisle, romantic balladeer, handle the vocals. Snyder, Fischer, and Carlisle also form the trio—the Three Blue Notes.

Openings of the week are headlined by the unveiling of the Edgewater Beach hotel's scenic beach walk. Will Osborne's and José Manzanares' orchestra will play. Harry's New Yorker will have a farewell party for Ralph [Cookie] Cook Wednesday, with a new show Thursday.

Vaudeville

Carmen Miranda. [De Mirjian Photo.]

"Conga Mania" is the suggestive title of the stage show at the Chicago theater this week. It offers as its star performer the sprightly, sinuous Carmen Miranda, who came here a couple of months ago in "The Streets of Paris." She will be accompanied by her own special group of musicians, Carlos Molina and his large Rhumba-Conga orchestra will supply suitable dance music, and individual acts will feature Will and Gladys Ahearn, Bobby Ramos, and the Pepito and Carmen Conga group. Instruction in how to do La Conga will be given on the stage to audience members at each show. The current film is "My Son, My Son," with Madeleine Carroll and Brian Aherne.

At the Oriental theater Sophie Tucker presents an American type of "heat wave" in a manner that has made her practically legendary. She will be assisted by Ted Shapiro. Other performers are Henny Youngman, Trixie, and the Four Franks. Laurence Olivier and Vivien Leigh are co-starred in the motion picture, "21 Days Together."

Louis Armstrong and his orchestra have brought a Harlem revue, numbering some 38 performers, to the stage of the State-Lake theater. In it are Midge Williams, Sonny Woods, Candy and Pepper, Stump and Stumpy, Big Time Crip, Luis Russel, and Cozy Cole. On the screen are Lew Ayres and Lionel Barrymore in "Dr. Kildare's Strange Case."

Steindel Makes 1940 Grant Park Debut This Evening

Izler Solomon to Conduct on Thursday Night

By Edward Barry.

Early tho the date is, the outdoor concert season is in full swing. This year, for the first time, the regular July-August Grant park series is being preceded by a June cycle in which professional musicians share the spotlight with high school bands and orchestras. Each evening and Sunday afternoon the lake front band shell opposite 11th street is the scene of a concert whose first hour is played by a professional organization and whose second hour is provided by one of the city's school groups.

The Chicago Federation of Musicians is delving into its own treasury to pay the professional musicians used at the June concerts. During July and August, as in other years, the Chicago Park district will assume the bulk of the financial burden, and the federation will continue to provide supplementary sums for special soloists.

• • •

By presenting this June series the federation hopes to lay the foundations for a longer regular summer concert season in future years. It hopes also, by affording young nonprofessional musicians an opportunity for public performance, to demonstrate its interest in—nay, its affection for—high school bands and orchestras. In the past, because of its policy of refusing to allow nonprofessional groups to appear at affairs where professional musicians might otherwise conceivably be engaged, the federation has been the object of what it deems unfair criticism. The present series will, it is expected, prove that the federation desires to encourage rather than discourage high school bands and orchestras, while at the same time it remains firm in its belief that such organizations should not compete with men and women whose actual livelihood depends upon music.

• • •

Izler Solomon.

The week beginning today will bring to the lake front 16 organizations—eight professional and eight nonprofessional. Of special interest are the 1940 Grant park debuts of Walter H. Steindel and Izler Solomon. The former, whose work as a choral and orchestral director has been unfailingly sensitive and musicianly, conducts an orchestra of his own choosing tonight in a light program of typical summer concert music. The latter, who regularly directs both the Illinois Symphony orchestra and the Woman's Symphony orchestra, leads the second named organization Thursday night thru a program whose music is drawn from the works of such diverse composers as Brahms, Tschaikowsky, McDonald, Sanders, and Strauss.

• • •

Seats for all concerts are free and unreserved. Detailed programs follow. Note the 6 o'clock starting time Wednesday night.

Recordings of Classics Draw Wide Praise

By Cecil Smith.

In spite of war and calamity, the year 1940 deserves at least a single bright page in the book of history, for it will be remembered as the year in which the American public was enabled for the first time to possess excellent phonograph recordings of great musical classics without placing too great a strain on its purse strings.

In accordance with a plan also adopted in many other cities, the Chicago Committee for Music Appreciation has for six weeks been distributing thousands of record sets of great and enduring musical masterpieces. The price of these sets is so startlingly low that many cynical observers, when the plan was first announced, suspected that the whole business must be some sort of devious racket. Even this conservative department, not wishing to be gullible and not knowing as much as it should have about the project, embarked upon an "investigation" before relaying the proposition to its readers.

• • •

The whole plan, as everybody fully realizes now, is even more than on the level. The records are praised in all quarters as excellent purchases, worth more than the little price charged for them. First rate orchestras and conductors of national standing provided the music, with interpretations of undeniable quality and playing of high grade.

Moreover, the profits on each set, after production, advertising and distribution costs have been met, are turned over to Chicago musical institutions. The Chicago Symphony orchestra, the Chicago Opera company, the Ravinia festival, and the Woman's Symphony orchestra all receive a portion of the net proceeds. This may not sound like much on the face of things. But I happen to know, tho I have been asked not to reveal, the precise sums accruing to the Chicago Symphony orchestra and the Ravinia festival from the first week's sale alone, and I can assure you faithfully that the amounts are nothing to be sneezed at. Thus each purchaser of records not only adds to his own musical pleasure, but has the additional satisfaction of contributing to four of Chicago's foremost musical institutions.

• • •

The 12 sets to be distributed by the end of the 12 week period now in progress cover a diversified range of musical styles. Only Beethoven and Tschaikowsky are represented twice, the former with the fifth and the eighth symphonies, and the latter with the "Nutcracker" suite and the fourth symphony. Chronologically the list of composers reaches from Bach to Debussy.

A new set of records is released each Friday at the four distribution headquarters of the Music Appreciation committee. All the back items released in previous weeks may be obtained by those who did not secure them at the time of their release, and the entire library of 12 sets will remain on sale for a limited period after the 12th week.

May 4—Schubert's "Unfinished" symphony.

May 11—Beethoven's Fifth symphony.

May 18—Tschaikowsky's "Nutcracker" suite.

May 24—Mozart's Symphony in G Minor.

May 31—Debussy's "The Afternoon of a Faun," "Clouds," and "Festivals."

June 7—Wagner's Preludes to "Die Meistersinger" and "Parsifal."

• • •

June 14—Bach's "Brandenburg" Concertos Nos. 2 and 3.

June 21—Haydn's Symphony No. 99, in E-flat major.

June 28—Tschaikowsky's Fourth symphony.

July 5—Beethoven's Eighth symphony.

July 12—Brahms' Second symphony.

The principal downtown headquarters of the Chicago Music Appreciation committee is located at 65 East Lake street. Records may also be obtained at 14 North Franklin street, in Mandel hall corridor on the University of Chicago campus, and at the Student union on the Evanston campus of Northwestern university.

Current Music News

Guy Maier.

Friday will bring the first of the many conservatory commencement programs which break out at this time of the year. At that time the Sherwood Music school will hold its 45th annual concert and commencement exercises in Orchestra hall. An honorary doctor's degree will be conferred on Guy Maier, the American pianist and teacher, who will also address the gathering. The Sherwood Symphony orchestra will play the program, conducted by P. Marinus Paulsen and assisted by the following student soloists: Miriam Hall, Margaret Jirasek, Evelyn Wildman, Robert Kline, Francis Stevenson, Beverly Watts, James King, and Wade Parks.

Monday night's concert by the Illinois Symphony orchestra in the Studebaker theater will feature a guest conductor and two soloists: Leo Kopp; Saul Dorfman, pianist, and Raymund Koch, baritone.

Mr. Kopp, a composer as well as a conductor, is a native of Budapest. His musical career began under the tutelage of Leo Weiner, Paul Graener, and Vincent d'Indy. Five years' experience as a concert and opera conductor in Germany led to his engagement in 1930 by the late Egon Pollak as an assistant with the Chicago Civic Opera company. Today, as an American citizen, he is still conducting for the resident opera organization, now called the Chicago Opera company. The city of St. Paul has also come to know him thru annual appearances there as conductor of a summer concert series by the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra.

Both the soloists have been heard frequently and on some occasions with the Chicago Symphony. Mr. Dorfman, a Chicagoan, is a former pupil of Artur Schnabel. Mr. Koch has distinguished himself with more than 140 performances in Mendelssohn's "Elijah."

The program will open with Beethoven's Overture to "Fidelio," and continue with the same composer's Piano Concerto No. 3, in C minor, using the services of Mr. Dorfman. After the intermission will come the Suite from Franz Schreker's pantomime, "The Birthday of the Infanta" [first Chicago performance], and the program will conclude with Earl Robinson's "Ballad for Americans," in which the orchestra, Mr. Koch, and a small chorus will collaborate.

On Tuesday night while the American Opera company is giving "Rigoletto" the La Berge Opera class will give the same work in Kimball hall. This performance will have Emilia Aull as Gilda, Sada Kirschner as Maddalena, Robert Rayfield as the Duke, Alvin Kulieke as Rigoletto, Lee Whitezel as Sparafucile, and Charles B. Fries as Monterone. Other parts will be sung by Robert Thatcher, William Blair, Albert Serewicz, Janice Mack, Sylvia Brockhoff, and Helen Wagoner.

A program of Neapolitan songs and operatic arias will be sung in Kimball hall this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock by students of Maurice Scaffi.

Genevieve Rae Miess, soprano, and Joseph Conry, pianist, will give a joint recital in Perrin hall of the Auditorium building on Saturday night at 8 o'clock.

Anthems by Sibelius and Neidlinger will be included in the Central church's service in Orchestra hall today. Martha Ortlep, soprano, will sing "With Verdure Clad" from Haydn's "The Creation." Music by Guilmant, Stravinski, and Mendelssohn will be played by the organist, Archer Lambuth.

Board to Push Its Educational Work in South

By the Rev. John Evans.

Exhaustion of the funds of the General Education board, founded by John D. Rockefeller in 1902, was intimated last week by the president, Dr. Raymond B. Fosdick, in his annual report. Almost $4,000,000 was appropriated in 1939 to education, bringing expenditures for the last 37 years to a total of $265,070,212.

Next year the board will cease supporting research in the secondary school thru the junior college level, and terminate its program in child growth and development. Support to southern education will be continued, and when the funds earmarked for that are used up there is a balance as Dec. 31, 1939, only slightly in excess of $8,000,000.

The areas of interest to which the board is now devoting its attention, in programs embracing both white and Negro institutions and agencies, wholly concern the south and may be briefly summarized as:

1. The fuller development of the south's economic and social resources:

2. The development of selected educational centers by particular attention to personnel improvements, library services, and institutional collaboration to meet regional needs;

3. Coördinating elementary and secondary education at present privately controled with state departments of education.

"Perhaps the most important action taken in 1939," reads the report, "in the field of Negro education was the final appropriation of $550,000 to provide for the support of state agents for Negro rural schools and their assistants in southern state departments of education over the period ending June 30, 1946."

Almost half the report for 1939 is devoted to the board's furtherance of education in the south. Albert R. Mann, director of this activity, points out that the limited resources of the south severely hamper improvement, but that whatsoever educational, economic and social advance is to be made can only come from an extension of the south's own resources.

"Education and Economic Well Being in American Democracy," by John K. Norton of Columbia university is the latest publication of the Educational Policies commission of Washington, D. C. Its thesis is that the problem of unemployment demands an immediate and long range educational attack.

The author argues that if more of the country's youth is trained in school for semiskilled and highly skilled occupations that productivity will be increased and the national income will rise.

Specifically, he recommends an increase in legal minimum education requirements, better planned vocational guidance, a more accurate comprehension of industry's needs, more scholarships for gifted but needy students, and more consumer training in high schools and junior colleges.

"It is a fallacy to believe that there is only a fixed amount of technical and professional work to be done in this country," says Dr. Norton. "Each year we have tended to employ larger and larger numbers of highly trained workers, and there is still a shortage of goods and services which can be produced only by trained workers."

Dr. Norton insists that education is intimately associated with economic well being because the skilled worker has a greater productivity and hence a greater buying power. He supports this by showing that those states which spent most on education have cashed in subsequently to an amazing extent.

Haubiel Is Judge

Chicago is playing host this week to Charles Haubiel, American composer. He is serving as judge for the piano playing tournament being held at the Stevens hotel under the auspices of the Chicago chapter of the National Guild of Piano Teachers. Altho an Ohioan by birth, Mr. Haubiel has long been active in and around New York City as a teacher of piano, composition, and theory, and as a missionary for American music. He organized the Composers' Press for the publication of American works, and served as New York chairman for American music for the National Federated Music Clubs. His own works include orchestral pieces, choral compositions, chamber music, and movie music. His "Rittrati" was given its first performance by the Chicago Symphony orchestra during the season of 1935-'36.

Long Live Romance

The immortal gaiety of Viennese Waltzes by JOHANN STRAUSS on VICTOR RED SEAL RECORDS

Music in a summer mood—lighthearted, brilliant and in the richly melodic tradition of the famous "Waltz King." Given a superb symphonic setting by the Boston "Pops" Orchestra, conducted by Arthur Fiedler, these charming waltzes receive a refreshing interpretation that is thoroughly delightful. Here are the selections, each magnificently recorded by RCA Victor, each an irresistible invitation to dance. Loves of the Poet Waltz, New Vienna Waltz, Cagliostro Waltz and Lagoon Waltz.

By Mae Tinee.

Good Morning!

Barring several changes this screen adaptation of Howard Spring's engrossing novel follows the book quite closely.

The only alteration you will object to seriously is the insipid finale which replaces the book's tragic close. . . . I don't think you will mind allowing the son a one and only beau geste—at the conclusion of an ill spent life, or grudge the father some belated pride in the youth he has so greatly loved. Thus does the movie provide cushioning for the original.

• • •

The story is that of a fine man's love for a boy who carelessly tramples it in the mud of his unsavory existence.

Three characterizations stand out, strongly etched, from the group of excellent cast portrayals. They are those of:

The Father—An author who twines his hopes and aspirations and devotion about the beautiful piece of rotten hearted veneer that is

The Son—Suave, charming, sinister, in the way that leaves people who love such characters defenseless, because the evil is cloaked in so much sweetness, so much apparent sincerity, such devilish ingeniousness. Oliver's lovable attributes fool his father for years. But never, even as a little boy, is he able to deceive—

The Mother—A chill, righteous, unimaginative little woman, never for a moment capable of entering into the real life of her husband—to fire him or to soothe him. . . . Incompetent to manage the slippery child she understands so well—and who is protected from her efforts toward discipline by his love-blinded father. . . .

• • •

Brian Aherne gives an intensely intuitive and appealing picture of William Essex. It is a characterization both passionate and repressed and always keenly intelligent. . . .

Louis Hayward chills your blood as the son. . . . He fascinates, repels, and intimidates you. Perhaps you'll love him a bit now and then. Me, he gave the willies from the moment my eyes lit on his two timing small boy face to my last look at that face in death throes. [Grand piece of work.]

Josephine Hutchinson as Mrs. Essex is a strange woman, but so was the woman in the book strange.

Outstanding support is provided by Henry Hull and Laraine Day. . . . Madeleine Carroll makes Livia a much finer character than the girl of the book—but I didn't find her work particularly convincing.

• • •

The action starts in a London tenement when William Essex is a struggling young author, depicts interestingly the circumstances which make him a baker and the husband of a baker's daughter; shows movingly the changes fatherhood brings to his life and viewpoint; becomes strongly stage and world war conscious. . . .

The complicated plot is brilliantly worked out, I thought.

See you tomorrow.

"You give oath?"

"Upon my honor, O Babu-jee!"

The two men looked at one another as Greek is supposed to look at Greek.

"Speaking about women, as you did before," the Babu remarked presently, "there is a small house at the end of Hydar Khan's gully, and in this house lives a dancing girl. A most delightful girl, tho she eats gold as a goat licks salt. Large is the price she demands for her red kisses."

"Loving you as I do, I would gladly help you in the matter of these same kisses."

"How much would you help me, loving me as you do?"

"Five thousand rupees."

"Ten thousand."

"Am I a dog or an Armenian that I should bargain with the man I love? Five thousand three hundred, O Babu-jee."

"Nine thousand seven hundred."

"Five thousand six hundred and seventeen."

Finally Agree on Price of Freedom

For a long time they argued about the price, evidently thoroly enjoying the process, and compromised in the end on seven thousand two hundred and fifty.

They shook hands on it, and the gaoler inquired:

"You will pay me now?"

"No, no!" violently, forgetting all subtle metaphors. "My father's only son is not a fool. I do not trust you."

"Nor do I trust you." A pause. "First the money. Then the key."

"First the key. Then the money."

"No—by Shiva!"

"Yes—by Allah!"

"No—by Shiva and by Shiva!"

"Yes—by half a dozen Allahs—tho there is but One—praised be He!"

They had reached an impasse. Angrily they stared at each other. Then the Babu had an idea.

It appeared that, directly below the little window which let in rare sun rays, was a tiny, neglected garden patch completely overgrown with weeds and rank shrubs, and with no other window opening on it. The Babu suggested that at midnight, when he returned, the money should be counted before his eyes and rolled into a tight package; and while thru the bars he handed over his bunch of keys, including the one to the cell, to Aziz Rashid, at exactly the same fraction of a second Tom Ferguson—"for," added the Bengali, "all sahebs know how to throw balls," and, besides, he had more faith in the American than in the Afghan—should toss the money thru the window, out into the garden. There, later on, the Babu would retrieve it.

Aziz Rashid was agreeable.

"A most excellent plan," he replied. "And—one more question—how do we get out of the building itself?"

"This key," explained the other, holding up a large brass one attached to the ring, "opens a door at the end of the corridor. From there you will find a flight of stairs leading straight down to a side entrance."

"Guarded by another Babu who—ah—might be inclined to be reasonable?"

"No. Guarded by a soldier . . ." He frowned, and Tom inquired:

"Anything wrong?"

Aziz Rashid told him, and the American became worried.

"How then are we going to get out of here?" he asked the Babu.

The latter shrugged his fat shoulders.

"My task," was his answer, "is over when I hand you the keys. As to the rest—who am I to know?"

"But," exclaimed the Afghan, "I do know"; he laughed, said to Tom: "Hold me speak of Dinty Moran?"

"What has he to do with it?"

"I woiked for him a coupla months. Strong-arm guy in his mob—see . . .? And so . . ."

"Your methods," interrupted Tom, "are inclined to be crude but effective . . ."

The Babu left, while the two cellmates sat on their bunks, debating the pros and cons of the situation, working out their plan in as much detail as they could, and waiting impatiently for midnight, watching the seconds and minutes tick-tock by in a slow, maddening procession.

After a while they were silent. It was quite dark. From the streets below, drifting dimly thru the thick prison walls, came the eddying night noises of Calcutta—indistinct voices, the shiver and rustle of garments brushing against garments, a woman's high, tinkly laughter, a faint clashing of jewelry and crackle of steel, the bray of a conch-shell in a distant temple, the slur and patter of naked feet hurrying here and there on incredible and mysterious errands.

Tom listened.

The sounds—he thought—the glorious sounds, so sweetly, strangely discordant. The chiaroscuro they expressed of ancient passions and new desires. The beauty in them and the savagery, to be picked up like nuggets, not to be mined for in a musician's bitter hours of torment and distress when, try as one might, no melody would come, no theme.

"Calcutta Symphony"—it would make him famous, because it would be the real thing, rich, big, powerful—as rich and big and powerful as the life, down there below. . . .

And so, sitting there on his bunk, he drank in the clashing sounds, playing with notes and cadences and counterpoints, feeling them deep in his artist's consciousness, clear and high, tone on semi-tone, far up the scale.

He hummed, whistled; then gave a start when he heard the Afghan's sibilant warning:

"Here he comes!"

There was on the corridor outside a sharp click and a blinding flood of light as the Babu turned on the electric switch.

"The money!" he demanded eagerly. "The money! Count it before my eyes!"

Aziz Rashid approached the barred door.

"Watch close!" he whispered to Tom. "That's how I done that hick in the eye—near Kalamazoo."

He produced the roll of bills. He moistened his thumb; counted rapidly:

"One hundred—two hundred—three hundred . . ."

There were only two one-hundred rupee notes. Tom knew it. And yet he was almost—and the Bengali completely—deceived as, obeying the master touch of the strong, agile fingers, the two notes, enfolding the thick mass of smaller ones, seemed to multiply at an amazing rate.

"Seven thousand two hundred and fifty rupees," announced the Afghan finally, rolling them into a tight little ball. "Am I right, O Babu-jee?"

The latter's eyes glistened.

"Right!" he echoed, greedily sucking in his breath, and already dreaming of the handsome profits he would earn when he lent out the sum at seventeen per cent interest a month, taking as security the cow and the unborn calf. He turned to the American. "Take the money, saheb!" He pointed at the window. "Throw it!"

Great Stories

Each Sunday The Chicago Tribune brings to you this special Fiction Section. Presented in it are Great Stories, Romances, Mysteries, and the like that are the finest works of the best of imaginative minds. Creations of present-day writers are offered along with those of the earlier masters. These all are vivid, thrilling, and gripping tales and well worth reading. Look for the Fiction Section. Read it! Save it!

"Not so quick!" exclaimed Aziz Rashid. "The keys! You are forgetting the keys!"

The two Asiatics stared at one another; watched one another like two schoolboys who are making a trade, rusty clasp-knife against a bunch of marbles, both suspicious, each afraid to let go his treasure:

"You gimme first!"

"No—it's up to you!"

"That so?"

"Sure!"

"The heck it is . . ."

Keys and Money Are Exchanged

At last, at precisely the same second, the bunch of keys exchanged ownership, while the roll of money flew straight and true thru the window bars. A minute later the two prisoners were out on the corridor. They bound and gagged the Babu; and the Afghan looked down at the prone man—smiling wolfishly—spat into his brawny right hand.

"Now for the beating"—he announced gleefully—"lest the saheb-log guess the truth!"

And, tho the Babu tried to moan thru his gag: "A very little beating—please, please—remember your promise—a very, very little, O king!" Aziz Raschid's fists and, too, his feet were in brutal action before Tom succeeded in dragging him from his helpless victim.

They found the farther door. They opened it and went down the flight of stairs.

Not silently.

On the contrary—according to the plan which they had worked out—when, at the foot of the stairs, they saw the soldier on guard, who had his back to them and was smoking a surreptitious cigaret. Tom loudly rattled the bunch of keys, while Aziz Rashid broke into a cheerful gutter ballad:

"Peyala pea, to myn ne pea.
Phir kisee ke kya . . ."

The soldier paid no attention. It was the Babu gaoler—he was sure of it . . .

Then a fist struck him behind the ear. He gave a choked cry, half turned, had no time to grasp his rifle and shoot, as another fist found its mark between his eyes.

He dropped unconscious. And, not long later, Tom and Aziz were out on the street . . .

Side by side, they raced thru the purple, swathing night. They turned right, left; right again, left again; doubling on their tracks. Plunging into a greasy, cluttered labyrinth. Passing dim, secretive, furtive bazaars where—provided one had the countersign of the Great Asiatic lodge—one might buy things difficult to purchase across the counter at Selfridge's or Wanamaker's.

Such things, for instance, as a dagger and the brawny fist that wields it. Or a hooded king cobra to let loose in your neighbor's garden—for wah!—his widow will be the rich, rich woman, and only yesterday she looked at you with melting, black eyes.

Not here the white man's Calcutta, all respectability and finnan haddie and American cocktails and Cinzano vermouth and plus-fours and the Gospel according to St. Luke and "My word, old chap, I made a hole in one this morning over at the Howrah golf links."

"Colootallah," Aziz Rashid said, "that's where ye wanta go, ain't it?"

"Yes, Musa Bek's house." Tom remembered the name of the street, called ludicrously the Street of the One Eyed Jew. "Think you'll be able to find it?"

"Sure."

Narrower grew the alleys—darker, with only here and there a flickering, insincere oil lamp above some carved postern gate. Yet there was still, everywhere, a gliding, shuffling, indistinct crowd; and always, unceasing, from the houses, the sidewalks, the very gutters, rose a confused but loud cacophony in bursts of unequal strength—with unexpected pauses and noisy, hectic repetitions—short intervals of gray, leaden silence—then again shrill voices leaping up into tumultuous shouts . . . and, presently, from the distance, at first faintly, but steadily growing in volume, another sound, grim, challenging, portentous—the alarm—the gaol's huge, electric gong booming out its insistent message:

"Prisoners have escaped!"

Banng—banng—banng . . .

"Prisoners have escaped! Search everywhere, O ye servants of the raj!"

Banng—banng . . .

"To the left—quick!" cried Aziz Rashid, leading the way into a shadowy tangle of alleys, the fetid heart of the Madrassi quarter.

Here, in spite of the late hour, the Madrassis, who never stop chattering and bickering, were still up and about. From open air kitchens the sound of frying came and the reek of sizzling fat, with the men squatting on their haunches, chewing beetle, spitting, laughing, the women swapping gossip, children of all degrees of nudity playing about the filthy alleys.

Tom and Aziz Rashid cut thru the crowds as a knife cuts thru cheese. The Madrassis saw them; they heard the urgent, clanking gong:

"Prisoners have escaped! Search everywhere, O ye servants of the raj!"

They put two and two together. The Afghan and the saheb. In such a hurry. Out of breath. Doubtless the prisoners of whom the gong gave warning.

But what of it?

Let the raj look after his own!

They did not care; even whispered helpful words as the two passed:

"To the right! The road is better!"

"Beware, O creatures of God! At the next corner is a policeman of the sahebs!"

"Avoid the Bazaar of the Mutton-Butchers! The lights there are too bright!"

Aziz Rashid waved a hand; gave thanks:

"Salaams, O princely ones!"

Fugitives Exchange Mutual Thanks

On they went, tired and weary, until finally they came to the Colootallah and the Street of the One Eyed Jew. There American and Afghan bade good-by to each other, exchanging mutual thanks and expressions of high esteem.

"See yer in N'Yawk one of these days, brother," said Aziz Rashid. "Where d'yer hang out?"

"No fixed address. But care of the Lambs will reach me. The theatrical club on Forty-Fourth."

"Aw—actor, are yer? Hoofer?"

"Fiddler. And where can I get hold of you?"

"Drop a line to Ringling Brothers, the circus people. They can always locate me." A warm handshake. "Be seein' yer . . ."

And Aziz Rashid went rapidly on his unregenerate way, while the other entered the little house where Lois welcomed him happily.

What, he wanted to know, had happened during his short, enforced absence? What news about the lilac jade, if any?

"Plenty," replied Lois . . .

She told him everything that Musa Bek had found out. According to the last reports from the north—she added—Knox Bradford and Mehmet Khan Ertogrul were already on their way from Gilgit beyond the Indian border, trying to cross the Pamirs into Chinese Turkestan before winter filled the passes with snow and ice. But Mustaffa Abderrahman, their kaufila-bashee or caravan master, had been communicated with; would do his best to slow up the advance, so as to give Lois and Tom a chance to catch up.

Tom was excited.

"You mean we're really going?"

"Yes. We start in the morning."

"But—how . . .?"

"Musa Bek has a plan."

"Tell me!"

"I'll do better than that," she laughed. "I'll show you."

And she left the room.

The SAILOR'S WIFE

By OLGA L. ROSMANITH

(Copyright: 1940: By News Syndicate, Inc.)

FOREWORD This is the story of a woman who was faced with a difficult problem, and who finally found the answer after coming close to failure.

MOLLIE MORETON had known the loneliness of the navy wife for five years now, but she was still unaccustomed to it. Her healthy cheerfulness in Don's absence was an heroic achievement. Every time he went to sea she missed him as keenly as on the first time he sailed away from her.

She was not the clinging type unable to amuse herself without the help of a man, but she had the capacity for great love and she was very much in love. She could laugh while Don was away, but she could not be happy. On the sight of him and the nearness of him, his dear companionship, her happiness still depended.

She was feeling bitterly lonely the day George Glover looked her up because "he happened to be passing thru San Diego." It was years since she had seen him and she had forgotten his existence. But she couldn't help feeling glad he had called to see her, linked as he was with the old life, mutual friends back east and a host of nostalgic memories of childhood.

She had invited him to stay to lunch and he accepted. The visit extended to tea in the garden under the avocado tree in the mellow gold of late afternoon. George had called because his mother told him to. She wanted news of Mollie. Last time he had seen her she had been the pert brat next door with scratched bare legs, freckles and a gold bar across her teeth. Now she was a lusciously pretty and graciously entertaining young woman.

George drank tea he didn't want, stayed on till cocktail time and then invited her out to dinner. Mollie refused him automatically, pleading a bridge engagement. George said with genuine regret: "Too bad. I should have let you know I was coming. But look, the weather is magnif. What about the races at Santa Anita tomorrow?"

Mollie laughed. George's habit of cutting long words in two took her right back to ancient quarrels settled by hitting him over the head with a school bag and robbed him at once of any adult emotional significance. He was again as timeworn as an old shoe, as unexciting as a brother. But she shook her head. "No George, but thank you for the kind temptation."

"But why not, Mollie? Scared of me? Think I'm out rifling other birds' nests or something?"

"Such nonsense!" Then on a sudden impulse: "After all, why not? It's only you. I'll come. There couldn't possibly be any harm in that."

"So I've no glamor, lady." George looked rueful with one eyebrow oddly raised. "Gifted girl psychologist discovers new reason for going out with boy. Well, any reason is better than no reason. Wear something that will please the horses since you are so nonallergic to me. I'll call for you in the morning."

Mollie went up to her bedroom when George had gone, leaned out over the windowsill and gazed into the blue mistiness of the Pacific. No sign of battleships coming in like grey wolves of the sea. She had forgotten George already. She was remembering her first parting from Don as vividly as if it were yesterday.

She had known the manner of man Lieut. Don Moreton was before she married him. He told her. He admitted he might be wrong and his ideas crazy, but he couldn't change himself. Nor did he want to try.

"That's me, Mollie. Selfish and unreasonable without a doubt. But too pigheaded to change. Take me or leave me."

Naturally she took him. He had described very graphically the emptiness ahead, the loneliness his realism would impose on her. But she could not resist the fascination of him. She could see him now. The thin brown cheeks with the long clefts in them—the white flash of his smile—the blue sheen on his raven black hair—the debonair uniform accenting his slight muscular build, his easy grace—the blazing blue of his seaman's eyes. Then there was his warm voice, his endless energy and curiosity, his brimming enthusiasm about life, his unstinting adoration of her, his joy in pleasing her. Why, a week with Don was worth a lifetime with any one else. Every time his ship came in they had another honeymoon.

The first had lasted ten days. During that time he had hardly left her side. He could not bear her out of his sight. He kept telling her how precious they were, these fleeting hours of love in their very own home. He also elaborated on his theory of the behavior which was the only possible guarantee of happiness for a navy wife.

No men friends! He had stipulated that before he would even put the engagement ring on her finger. He reminded her between dances on the night before sailing. "It isn't going to be easy, I know. You're so fond of dancing and you're so used to male attention. But I do insist on it——"

Mollie Grieved by Impending Separation

Mollie had looked at him across the carnations and crystal on the supper table, heart too grieved by impending separation to be interested in the possibility of consoling herself with men friends. "You're a bit ridiculous sometimes, Don. I mean you insist too much."

"Do I? You wait! Those long, weary months. That ache for the touch of lips—the sound of that dear voice. It's hell, Mollie. I'm not afraid of other men. I'm only afraid of your own youth—"

"But Don, really—"

He didn't even listen. "I swore once I'd never marry—unless I left the sea. I didn't want to go thru the same thing as some of the others—tossing and turning in my bunk wondering who was kissing my wife while I was a thousand miles from land—"

Mollie could not help being indignant. "Don, that's carrying it too far. That's not friendship. That's falling in love. And if I did I wouldn't do it. Kiss another man, I mean——"

Don pushed the flowers aside and leaned toward her. "Mollie, you don't get my point. You love me, thank God. You're as straight as they come. It's human nature I don't trust. It's dynamite and you're not responsible for that. Come on. It's our last night till Lord knows when. I want to kiss you. Let's get out of this——"

Balmy California night. Huge copper moon low in ink black sky. Don drove the roadster on the cliffs and parked on a headland looking out to sea. He took her in his arms and kissed her, long hard kisses fierce with heartbreak. The intimate murmur of his voice was in her ears now. "Dear God, I didn't know it would be as bad as this. It's terrible to have to go."

They had sat silent, leaning together, hands linked while the moon rose high, turned silver and split a path of shimmering light across love's enemy, the sea.

"It's this way," Don had said out of his aching thoughts, "you'd maybe go out with a fellow you liked and I trusted—just for company. And maybe you'd drive to a place like this on a night like this. And no maybe whatever, he'd get crazy about you because you wear white and you're small and warm and sweet-smelling. And your red curls look like purple hyacinths in the moonlight. And your face looks like a little silver cameo. Next thing he'd want to kiss you. I wouldn't blame him one bit. But you being human and missing me and tormented with loneliness might want to kiss him back."

"I said if I did, I wouldn't——"

"But you should if you wanted to. What's the difference? There's the point, Mollie. I don't want you to want to. It's the impossible I guess, but all the same I must have it. I'm a sailor and I want my wife to be all mine, even her thoughts——"

"All right, Don. You can sleep nights. No men friends. I promise—"

"Good. You needn't get too lonesome. There are other girls—"

"I know. And dogs. I'm going to get one. A wedding present. He's been promised—"

Don had laughed till he was weak with it. "A dog to take my place. Yo ho, for the life of a sailor—"

He had left at 8 next morning. Smiled into her eyes. Squeezed the breath out of her. "Poor Mollie, see what you've done for yourself. But remember, I don't want you to want to—"

She recalled the hot dazzle of that day. Sunshine had always hitherto lifted her spirits, but the cheering power had gone out of it. The day had been a hot blue vacuum followed by countless others—

Long partings never grow less poignant. Brief weeks of love never growing less sweet. Five years of it. There was never talk of men friends now. Time together was too precious to discuss what she did while he was away. Besides, no married lovers were ever so sure of each other. The danger, if there ever had been any, was over.

China clinked as Mandy rolled the tea wagon indoors beneath the window. Mollie looked down and saw the striped lawn chair George Glover had been sitting in. Tomorrow with George would be a step back to childhood. He had not even the novelty value of a new male friend. Mollie laughed aloud as she turned back into the bedroom. She could just as easily get intoxicated on a plate of nursery rice pudding as feel a desire to kiss George. Don couldn't possibly mind her enjoying a day at the races because she wouldn't dream of making George into a man friend. She opened her closet and looked over her dresses. Decided that the crisp white linen with the blue jacket and blue sailor would be just the thing to please the horses.

George told her all the news on the road to Santa Anita. Sister Marjorie had got film struck and insisted on going to Hollywood. Mother, of course, had gone with her. Marjorie had had the usual luck, which was none whatever. But Mrs. Glover's pungent wit, her salty manner of speech, her bubbling good humor and engaging personality had put her into pictures. She had a nice home in Beverly Hills with a garden where she spent her spare time babying and tormenting plants just as she'd always done back home. She was very happy there. She was sure that if George would come and work in Los Angeles she would have everything in the world she wanted. So he was on the way there now. "An architect can work anywhere. I like the climate. I'd enjoy designing some real Spanish houses."

Feels Elated in Drive with George

The sky was a bed of forget-me-nots unflecked with the tiniest cloud. The San Bernardino mountains soared into it, blue and yellow and green and violet in the morning sun, tall eucalyptus trees barred the road with blue shadows across the gold. George drove like a demon. Mollie felt elated with the smooth speed of the car and the brilliant freshness of the morning. It was a treat to be out with a man for a change, even if it were only George.

"But why," she asked him, "did you come out of your way to San Diego?"

His pleasant face tightened. "O, yes, of course. It does seem odd. I came to ask a girl to marry me."

"And she said no. O, George, I'm sorry."

"You needn't be. I hadn't seen her for a couple of years. She's changed since I got that way. Grown cleverer—harder. I'll be over it in two shakes of a lamb's tail. You know a girl can be just a mailing habit."

"Or a man too, I suppose."

"Not to her. She sends a telegram every six letters she gets."

George laughed convincingly, so Mollie joined him. "Your laugh hasn't changed," he said, "it's still the merriest sound I ever heard. You never knew, did you, Mother used to go out in the garden to listen to it? Wished she had a record of it to cheer her up on wet days."

Mollie remembered Mrs. Glover with a resurgence of childhood love. It was going to be fun to see her in pictures. It seemed a good idea to drive on to Beverly Hills to visit her when the races were over.

"She'll be thrilled," persuaded George. You can stay over night and I'll take you back tomorrow. Do come. She was curious to know what kind of young woman you'd grown into. She won't believe me when I say you've grown so darned pretty. Let her see for herself, Mollie."

"All right. I can get a plane back first thing in the morning."

"I won't argue now. We can settle that when the time comes."

George drove her back to San Diego. He was in no hurry to settle down and he was enchanted with the heat and the blueness and the wide golden spaces of California. He made a gala day of it. He loitered by the sea. He prowled thru vineyards. Stopped and stared at orange groves. Marveled at the military ranks of the date palms. He hated to pass a roadside stand where they could drink orange juice and buy boxes of dates and baskets of walnuts. He asked innumerable friendly strangers innumerable questions.

"You haven't grown up—much," said Mollie. "That round eyed all-devouring curiosity."

"Do you mind? Is it boring you?" He had said he didn't care about the girl who had refused him, but Mollie sensed his hurt feelings. He was unsure of himself. Much too ready to be on the defensive. She said quickly: "No, I love it. I feel I'm just beginning to appreciate the state I have the luck to live in."

"But it's making you late."

"No matter. No one waiting at home. I have all the time in the world——"

But Don was waiting there two days too soon, a way they sometimes have in the navy. He was standing on the steps of the porch waiting for her as the car drew up at the curb. Mollie's heart plunged with surprise and delight. "Why George, look! There's Don. Come in, do. You'll have to meet him——"

George followed her up the path. Don did not come down the steps to meet them. Stood there under the porch lantern with his hands in his pockets, swaying on his heels. As she reached him, Mollie saw that his mouth was grim and his eyes blazing. It checked her rush to him. "Don darling," she whispered, "don't look like that. It's George Glover. You've heard of the Glovers. Friends I had back home before mother died. I stayed with Mrs. Glover last night in Beverly Hills. I was so glad to see her again—" Now George was standing beside her. "This is George, dear. George, this is Don——"

Her pleading voice expressed what she did not put into words. Pass it over this once, Don—do, do be nice to him. Don gave the embarrassed George a withering stare, turned without a word and went into the house. Mollie started after him, changed her mind and returned to George. "Listen, George, this looks completely mad. But it's on account of a funny little pact we made years ago. I didn't even think Don still remembered it. It's too long to explain now. But it's no use arguing with him tonight. I'll go in and talk to him and make him understand and next time you're here and he's here you can meet. He'll be laughing about it then and apologizing to you. He's darling, really. Don't think too badly about him. I wouldn't have had this happen to you for the world. You do understand, don't you?"

"Yes, I think so. You're sure you don't want me to go in and do some explaining for you?"

"No, O, no." She laughed a little—nervously. Put her hand up to her tight throat. "That would make it worse, I'm afraid. I mean, I can manage it best because I know what it's all about. Better go, George, please."

"Just as you wish, Mollie. I'm sorry. I'm to blame for keeping you so late. It's after midnight. See here—I'll stay over at the same place in case you need help. You can call me there in the morning—"

"O, there won't be any need. But thanks. Run along now, George, do. I must go in and talk to him——"

Finds Her Husband Packing to Leave

She found Don upstairs packing. "O, Don," she cried, almost breathless with the shock of it, "you can't do that. Just because I spent a night with an old lady who used to be kind to me, you can't go away and leave me—"

He straightened up from the task of cramming a dressing case on the bed. "Why not? You can break your promise. Anything can happen."

"But Don, I didn't. George isn't a man friend——"

"Indeed. Then how is he classified?"

"Why, he's—he's just some one I used to play with when we were children——"

"I see. So you spend two whole days running around with him alone. He doesn't exactly bore you, does he?"

"Of course not. But I didn't kiss him, nor did I want to." Mollie's temper took fire. "Don't stand there glaring at me as if you'd caught me embracing a man. It's true, what I say. Do you believe me, or don't you?"

"O, I believe you. That isn't the point——"

Mollie became hysterical with her wild disappointment. Here was Don and their longed-for reunion two days sooner than expected and he was wasting time scolding her instead of taking her into his arms.

"O, you and your point!" she shouted. "Just going out with George proves how silly it all is. Why, I wouldn't want to kiss him if I lived to be a hundred and saw him every day of it."

Don's thick black brows looked stormy. "Does that mean you throw your agreement overboard? I can't count on you acquiring the normal habits of the weaker-minded navy wives?"

Some demon of obstinacy entered Mollie at these intolerable words. "That's exactly what it does mean."

Don picked up his favorite blue shirt and rammed it into the bulging case. Mollie checked a feminine impulse to rescue it. "All right, Mrs. Moreton. I was going away for the night. But now I'm going to stay away. That is, until—and if—you choose to admit you're wrong and beg me to come back."

"But I'm not wrong," said Mollie desperately.

Don fastened the case and lifted it down. "Maybe you're not. But those are my terms. We went over them before. Just to spare me that naval insomnia. I've got all I need, I think. Good night, Mollie; I'll be going now."

She put out her hand as he passed her. "But Don—"

He paused, expectant. "Changed your mind?"

She longed to admit anything rather than see him go, but the injustice was too great to swallow. "No. You're treating me badly and you know it. It is you who should—O, you know you should——"

"Say I'm wrong? But I don't think I am. Good-by, Mollie; it was swell while it lasted." He touched her cheek with his finger. "Thank you for loving me as long as you did."

"Go-od-by—Don——"

She could not believe she was really hearing his footsteps go down the stairs. There was still time to call him back. She ran to the stair rail and leaned over, but the words would not come. You're so unjust, she thought fiercely, you're so unjust. The front door opened and shut again. He was gone.

She went to bed finally, but she could not sleep. She sat up, arms linked round her knees, and watched the moon set, a broken disc of tarnished silver. That's how all things get spoiled, she thought, sooner or later. She decided not to tell George. The situation was too humiliating. Later she craved for some one to tell her she was in the right. She called George on the telephone as early as she dared to in the morning.

George was awake and slightly worried. "If you hadn't called I would have come round to see what was afoot——"

His sympathy and approval were balm to Mollie's wounded spirit. She told him the gist of the appalling argument. George scoffed at the idea that a girl in love with her husband was unsafe with a man friend. He said—"a man can only get another man's wife when she's spiritually off the rails already." This was a little high-flown for George. He added anxiously—"you gather what I mean, I hope."

"Yes. That's it exactly. But how to convince Don? What should I do now? You should understand men better than I do."

There was a short baffled silence on the wire. Mollie rattled the instrument. George said: "Look, Mollie, I can't think till I've had some coffee. It's a difficult sit. I'll do some heavy browsing over an egg or two and drive round and see you later."

Mollie hung up. "Want to kiss him," she said scornfully to the cheerful sunlit room. "It would make a cat die laughing. He has less whatever-it-is-that-gets-you in his whole body than Don has in his little finger."

All the same it was comforting to see him. He drove round madly in the car while they talked things over, till Mollie begged him to park somewhere so that she could concentrate her mind. George refused gently, but definitely to accept the safe harbor of the garden. "I don't want the admiral to return and give me another of those looks. Not that I'm scared, mind you, but it did give me indigestion."

George's attitude put the affair on a less tragic footing. He was convinced she had the right idea, and if she stuck to it on principle, Don would be back and eating out of her hand in no time. Certainly before the ship sailed. "He had arrived home early," George reasoned, "hoping to give you a surprise. Instead of that you kept him waiting. You can understand how he'd feel after all those months at sea. It's nothing more than a fit of pique. You stick to your guns, my child."

Ship Sails with No News from Don

He took her out to lunch. Told her to cheer up now and forget about it. Time would take care of the problem. Did not notice—apparently—how stunning she looked in her hunter's green linen. Raved about the hotly spiced Mexican food and thought of some new panegyrics on the charms of California. She was in a sane and hopeful frame of mind when he took her home before leaving for Los Angeles. Mollie watched the departing car whisk round the corner on two wheels. All George's emotional violence went into his driving. Otherwise, she considered, he's as disturbing as an oyster bed, and that's flattering him.

The afternoon waned and misery returned with the night. No news from Don. Nor the next day. Nor the next. A week passed. The last day came. Mollie waited up all night. The ship sailed and Don with it without breaking the ghastly silence. Mollie was dazed and incredulous. She woke up from fitful snatches of sleep with the same dreadful feeling of loss she would have had if Don had died.

She had adapted herself to an intermittently solitary existence. Naturally resourceful, she had developed many gregarious interests and was well equipped now to remain healthfully cheerful and occupied as a lonesome navy wife. She was on the party lists of many friends. She belonged to bridge, tennis, swimming, and golf clubs. She worked on a junior community chest committee. She was a leading member of an amateur light opera society. She had taken her music so seriously and was beginning to sing so well.

Now she saw the sham of her wonderful full life. It had been built on the foundation of her belief in Don's love for her. Now that she really needed diversion, she was unable to take an interest in anything. Even her music failed her. She had to give up her part in the Christmas production because she could not remember a word of it. Should she or should she not give in, was the constant and only burden of her thoughts. She was in the right. If she weakened and admitted she was wrong insincerely in order to get Don back, the integrity that should be in marriage would be gone.

Surely he would see this himself, thinking things over in the lonely night watch on the sea. She lived now for the time when his ship would be in port again. What happened then would be decisive. If he did not come back it would mean he was never coming—unless she begged him to. She felt hot all over just thinking about it. Certainly she would never do that.

She kept indoors while the fleet was in. She did not want to advertise the crack in her marriage to the gossip mongers of San Diego. Nor did she want to be out this time if he came. But the ships sailed again and Mollie's world was as empty of Don as if he had ceased to exist. It's not possible, she kept saying to herself aloud, as she roamed round the house and garden. It's simply not possible.

She saw the last of the beautiful deadly grey ships vanish into the blueness of the horizon from her bedroom window. Now she realized how much she had been counting on Don walking in one morning by the agony of her disappointment and the depth of her despair. O, he couldn't do such a thing, she thought wildly as she watched the ships go out. It isn't true. It isn't true.

George had made friends in San Diego and he came down for a weekend just after the departure of the fleet. He called Mollie on the phone. "Any watchdogs on the prowl?" inquired his pleasant lazy voice. "I'd like to see you, but I don't want to lose the seat of my pants—"

Mollie was proud. George was the only one who knew the situation, and that because he could not help knowing it. She could talk to him and unburden herself a little. "O, George, you can't think how glad I am to hear your voice. Please come right round. I don't want to discuss anything on the telephone—"

George was surprised that Don had been into port and gone again without climbing off his high horse. Mollie told him everything there was to tell while they sat under the avocado tree in the garden. Except how terribly she ached for Don, how absence and obstinacy only increased her love for him. "It can't go on," she finished. "I suppose I shall have to submit and let him have his way. But it goes against my deepest instincts. I hate the thought of it."

"Of course you do, and you're right." George produced his pipe. Mollie watched him pack it with neatly manicured square finger tips. George had big square solid hands, not at all like Don's thin brown sinewy ones with their long nervous fingers. "The thing is, Mollie, there's something here that's very difficult to get. Mind if I'm frank with you?"

Her heart leaped with a little fear. "No. That's what I want you to be."

"He isn't behaving like any man I ever heard of. If he's genuine, I mean. But like a good many, if this is just an alibi."

Mollie felt her face go icy cold as her cheeks went white. "I've thought about that too, George. All these weeks without news. Well, of course I couldn't help thinking about it."

"Poor kid." His sympathy was very heartening. "Let's not worry about what you ought to do. What do you want to do?"

Mollie jumped up from her chair. She was too restless to sit for long. She stood over George. "I don't know. That's the worryingist thing of all. I simply don't know—"

"You're entirely in the right, I think." He put his pipe in his mouth and set a light to it.

"Yes, I know." Mollie was a little cheered. She sniffed the pungent tobacco aroma.

"Tell you what," George got up, drew her arm thru his, and walked her over the lawn, across the road and toward the sea. "Let's go about a bit for a day or two and try to figure it out. Guess a few more evenings together won't alter the status quo of the affair——"

"I shoudn't think he'd take the least interest in it," said Mollie with her first show of bitterness. "Besides, I can't endure not knowing. I mean if it's all over for good, I must get a job or something. I won't go on living here and taking my naval allowance. I hope I'm not that kind of woman."

"I should say you're not." George squeezed her arm a little. "Now what about amusing ourselves? Dancing, for instance? Or do you mind the tabbies talking?"

"I don't mind anything. Why should I? He doesn't."

"Right you are. I have to be in L. A. Friday morning to see a man about building a Mexican hacienda in Westwood village. That gives us four days—"

He brought up the subject of the job on Wednesday night. They had been dancing at a supper club, and now they were sitting in the car upon the cliffs sniffing the salt breezes from the ocean. "You don't have to worry about your future, Mollie. I'd like to take care of that. That is if you could get that way about me." He put his big firm hand over hers on the seat beside him. "You see, I'm in love with you."

Flame of First Love Rekindled

Mollie did not move her hand from the curiously comforting touch, nor did she answer immediately. They had talked over and around her problem for hours at a time without getting anywhere. And now in one sentence George had answered the most important point of all. Whatever happened, it would always be Don she loved. The very suggestion of another man wanting her had kindled that love into its first pristine flame.

"No, George," she said gently, "that isn't the solution. Besides, it wouldn't be fair to you. I've come to know you very well these last few days—and appreciate you. You deserve only the best——"

"I was afraid of that." He closed his fingers round her hand and lifted it to his lips. Mollie felt a little thrill quiver in her arm. She looked at his face in the quicksilver of the moonlight. A strongly modeled face, not exactly handsome, but extremely attractive in its forthright honesty and stamp of race. A heart free girl could love him very much. His eyes were shadowed but she felt them watching her. "At least kiss me good-by," he pleaded. "Something to remember. Once can't hurt anybody."

Poor George, thought Mollie. Her heart began to beat very fast. An overwhelming longing came over her. Some emotion compounded of loneliness, longing for Don, George's warm nearness, a man's desire for her, the white spicy magic of the night. She drew near him without answering and lifted up her face. George put his arms round her. She forgot everything for the passionate duration of the kiss. And remembered everything immediately afterward, including the very words Don had said up here on the headland in the night not 20 yards from this identical place. She disengaged herself and withdrew into the corner of the seat. It's unbelievable, she thought, but true. It happened.

"Not angry with me?" George inquired anxiously.

"Never. You've been the dearest, kindest friend. I'll be grateful always. And now I want you to do for me one last thing. Don was right. I can't sleep till I tell him so. Please drive me to the Western Union to send a radio to his ship at sea."

Mollie saw that his mouth was grim and his eyes blazing.

THE LILAC JADE

What Has Gone Before

Lois Winters, a dancer at the Bombay Club in New York, has a specialty number of a dance she learned as a child in Chinese Turkestan. She and Tom Ferguson, violinist at the club and son of a rich automobile manufacturer, are in love. She will not marry Tom until he has made good on his own. Bradford, who was Lois' father's partner, has been trailing her for some time in search of the lilac jade that her father gave her when he was dying, saying it meant untold riches. Bradford, accompanied by Mehmet, an Asiatic, trails her to the Bombay Club and after several failures succeeds in stealing her lilac jade and fleeing to Calcutta. Tom and Lois sign up with a traveling show going to India, hoping they can recover the jade. Ben Einstein owns the show, but his wife, Yvonne Fleury, supplies the capital and resents the youth and romance of Tom and Lois. When they arrive in Calcutta, Lois takes Tom on a sightseeing trip and runs into Musa Bek and his wife, old family servants of the Winterses. Lois tells them of the stolen jade, and they agree to help trace it. At the opening night of the show Yvonne becomes jealous of the applause Lois gets and fires both Lois and Tom. They are stranded without fare back to the United States, but Lois won't let Tom accept help from his father. The hotel keeper overcharges them, and Tom has a row with him, ending up in jail.

INSTALMENT VII.

ZIZ RASHID smiled reminiscently.

"Tumblin'," he went on, "that's wot I done. Sword-swallowin'. Three-card monte. Wrestlin' all comers. They billed me," he announced with pride, "as the Terrible Toik. And—take it from me—I knows a doity trick or two at the gruntin' game. And I done snake-charmin' for a while . . ."

"Anything else?" laughed Tom.

"Plenty, brother. Palm-readin'. And, of course, hoochee-kooch . . ."

Tom doubted his ears.

"Hoochee-what?" he asked.

"Kooch!"—imperturbably. "Say—yer oughta have saw me with a close shave! Claudette Colbert—that's me! And I made a lot o' jack. And so I thought I'd give the old country the once-over. Landed here yesterday."

"And already in the hoosegow?"

"Tough, ain't it? Y'see—I inhaled a couple shots o' hooch. And a harness-bull gets sassy with me. And I socks him on the conk."

"Shake!" Tom stretched out a hand. "Same here."

"One difference. You got dough—and I haven't."

"I thought you . . ."

"Them lousy coppers who pinched me went thru my pockets." He was silent. Then, suddenly, in a whisper, he went on: "How much jack have yer got?"

"A little over three hundred rupees."

"Lemme see!"

"What for?"—suspiciously.

"I ain't goin' to steal it. But I got a idea. Lemme see . . ."

Tom produced his roll. On the other's suggestion he stood with his broad back to the door so that the Babu, should he happen to pass, would not be able to see what was going on in the cell. Aziz Rashid spread the money on his bunk; found two one hundred rupee bills, the rest in notes of small denominations.

"Can be done," he decided.

"What?"

The Afghan explained at length; added:

"Hoid of Big Dinty Moran, haven't you?"

"Sorry. Not a member of my club. Who may he be?"

Agile Fingers Arrange Money

"Wot? Never hoid of Big Dinty Moran?" Aziz was astonished. "Can yer beat it? Anyway, Dinty done it outa Sing Sing—which, believe you me, is one tough baby to crack. Then why not outa this old dump?"

"You're the doctor. But—have we enough?"

"Not on the face of it."

"Then . . .?"

"Don't forget the rear!"

"Eh . . .?"

"Watch me!" Agilely the slim, brown fingers handled the money, twisting, folding, arranging. "That's another thing Big Dinty loined me. And that's how I bought that swell Chevrolet from a hick near Kalamazoo. It's a pipe, bo . . ."

Shortly afterward the Babu gaolor could be heard shuffling down the corridor.

"Hey there!" Tom called out to him.

The other stopped.

"Saheb?"

"Can you let me have paper and ink? I want to write a letter."

"Regret to report that writing letters is contrary to regulation No. . . ."

"You're another. Babu! The superintendent told me I can write all the letters I want."

The man was nowise abashed.

"Forgive me, Saheb. But I am a poor man. My mother is excruciating ailing with fever."

"How many mothers have you?"

"Saheb?"

"You told me the old lady was dead."

"She recovered"—unblushingly—"blessed be the gods—after I, the sorrowing son, had given up all hope. At all events," in businesslike accents, "a small amount of money can lend wings to the message you wish to write. Ah"—throwing a kiss into the air with the tips of two grimy fingers—"perhaps a message to the beloved one, the delighter of dreams, the gladdener of hearts, the enchanter of . . .?"

"Shut up!" commanded Tom. "You make me sick. How much to send the letter—by special messenger—at once?"

"Three rupees, protector of the pitiful. Which includes pen and ink and paper—and secrecy."

"All right."

And so, an hour later, in Musa Bek's house, Lois puzzled over the content of a letter signed "Tom."

Not that she puzzled over the main part. It was clear to her; would be clear to anybody who is in love and young—or, for that matter, to anybody who is in love and not young at all.

For it said:

"I adore you, dear. There was never love as deep as mine. Tho day changes into night and night into morning, tho spring changes into summer and summer into autumn, tho all the world changes, my love for you can never, never change. You see—I love you madly. I love your hair. I love your lips."

More in the same vein. All very sentimental.

But then—why not be sentimental? Sentiment, after all, is the truth, the inmost core of life. Sentiment, and nothing else, is love—love which evades the moral, or immoral, coils of definition, tho philosophers have tried to analyze it, parsons have tried to condemn it, scientists have tried to argue it out of existence. Only poets and people in love—and the latter can be bankers or beggars, engineers or marines or hod-carriers—know the answer, since they are the folk who have God in their souls.

Anyway, Lois understood perfectly. It was all very clear to her.

But, near the end of the letter, was a passage which at first was the opposite of clear:

"I am thinking of you, darling. Please think of me—tonight—around midnight—and keep a place in your heart for me. Your heart, dear, which is my refuge, and which will hide me from my enemies. And, to change the subject, remember that Houdini chap who was on the same bill with you in the Club Bombay in New York? Please send me his address if you have it. I want to drop him a line, tell him that I'm on to some of his tricks."

So Tom, not altogether trusting the Babu's promise of secrecy, had written. And Lois wondered.

Lois Reads Between Lines

Nobody using the name of Houdini, the famous former magician and handcuff king, had ever worked at the Club Bombay. Not, at least, during her engagement. Then what did Tom mean? And why had he underlined, so faintly, the words "midnight" and "refuge"?

She reread the passage—and, all at once, she knew; ran into the next room.

"Musa Bek!" she cried. "Habeebah!"

She told them what she had read between the lines; and Musa Bek made admiring comment:

"Ah—this Tom saheb of yours—what a youth he is! By the honor of my name—a wolf in running! An eagle in pouncing! A snake in twisting! Clever as a fox . . ."

"But is there not a Tartar saying," suggested Lois, as doubt began to shadow her first enthusiasm, "that even the cleverest fox goes at last to the shop of the furrier?"

"Not the fox who has friends. And am I not his friend? Have not I, in my turn, friends of my own? We will hide him, if need be, for seventeen times seventeen years. He will be like a grain of rice in a field of rice."

"But—don't forget—Tom and I must hurry into the north." For the old Tartar had given her all the various scraps of information that had reached him by telegraph and whispered gossip; had, in fact, been about to leave his house that morning and go to her hotel when Lois had entered, asking for asylum. "By this time," she went on, "Bradford and Mehmet have crossed the border. And how can we follow?"

"The money will be found, child. Whatever I have is yours."

"I know it, old friend. Nor is it the money which is worrying me. But—don't you see?—if Tom succeeds the alarm will be spread. The police will watch every train. That judge seemed so vindictive . . ."

"Bless him by no means the Lord Allah!" came Habeebah's heartfelt wish.

There was silence.

Then, suddenly, Musa Bek exclaimed:

"Wah—a plan, the father and mother of a shrewd plan, is forming in this tough old brain of mine!"

"O . . .?"

"Listen!" He spoke at length, winding up proudly: "Am I not clever? Almost as clever as Tom saheb . . .?"

If plans were being discussed in the little house in the Colootallah, plans were rife, too, near the Kalighat, on the top floor of the ancient gaol that dated back to the prehistoric days—you can ask any socially inclined Calcutta mem-saheb—before Ballygunge became the fashionable suburb and parts, at least of Chowringhee the local Mayfair.

The gaol intrigue—carried on in gliding, spitting Bengali between the Babu and Aziz Rashid who, occasionally, interpreted for Tom Ferguson's benefit—was mostly couched in metaphor, this being the orient.

"How much to you love me, O Babu-jee?" asked the Afghan.

The other, who was bringing his prisoners' supper, dipped a thumb into the salt dish, withdrew it, held it up.

"Behold," he replied sententiously, "a dry finger cannot pick up salt."

"Wot that bozo's drivin' at," translated Aziz Rashid, turning to Tom, "is that he won't spill a single bean till I grease his mitt. Like them Chinese laundrymen back in America, 'No tickee, no washee'—see? Slip us a buck, brother."

Promise Ample Reward for Escape

A rupee was forthcoming, pushed thru the bars, tucked into the gaoler's ample waist shawl.

"Now how much do you love me, O Babu-jee?" demanded the Afghan.

"Precisely a rupee's worth more than a moment earlier," came the wary reply. He added, automatically: "I am a poor man."

"How poor?"

"Very poor." Agate colored eyes winked rapidly at steel gray eyes. "How much less poor can you make me?"

"Enough less poor, O Babu-jee, that you would not envy the shah of Persia nor the amir of the Afghans in splendor of great emeralds and glory of yellow Chinese brocade."

"Yet a wise man has observed that to speak of honey does not make the mouth sweet."

"Meanin'," Aziz Rashid told Tom, "that he's from Pike county, Missouri. Gotta be shown." He addressed the gaoler: "There is, in the Machua bazaar, a perfume merchant's widow with narrow feet like twin lilies and black looks like female cobras whom I feel inclined to visit."

"When?"

"Tonight. Around midnight. For the woman—rightly—adores me. The saheb, too, has a pressing engagement with the woman of his choice."

"Indeed?"

"Indeed!"

"And yet—be pleased to consider—can rice be got by pounding husks? Can a man open a door, belike a cell's stout door, without a key?"

"There is one key which opens all doors."

"Indeed?"

"Indeed!"

"And it is . . .?"

"A key of gold, O Babu-jee."

"I have no such key."

"But the saheb has," the Afghan suggested artlessly.

The other's reply was as artless:

"A big key?"

"Big enough to buy a Babu the pick and pride of the world's grand treasures. Would you like to own it?"

"Decidedly! Am I not a poor man? There is, on the other hand, the fear that a Babu—such as myself—might get into trouble with the Ber-ritish authorities."

"Why?"

"For permitting two prisoners to escape."

"And it would be wicked of you to permit it! Are you not a faithful servant of the Raj? And the Raj will most splendidly reward you."

"Reward me . . .?"

"Will, furthermore, confer upon you a shining medal for valor, when it appears how bravely you fought against two desperate ruffians who attacked you, overpowered you, bound you, beat you up . . ."

"No, no, no"—excitedly—"not beat me up!"

"We must throw sand in the sahib-log's eyes. Must beat you up—a little."

"A very, very little!"

"The least little bit!"

Latest Negligees and Gown Items Are Decorative and Feminine

Right: Bridal duet consisting of satin gown with knife-plaited lace bodice and a hooded "madonna" negligee of chiffon, trimmed with lace.

Right: Molyneux streamline in tropical printed chiffon. Gown drapes body lines. Matching coat has long sleeves and may be worn over shoulder.

Above: Flattering trousseau duet, the satin gown with softly shirred bodice top contrasted with luxurious satin ribbon pulled thru lace, and the matching negligee of sheer has same lace trim and ribbon accents.

By REA SEEGER

EVERY YEAR we saunter around the town rounding up all the pertinent information regarding trousseau items for a successful wardrobe, and every year the loot grows more intriguing, more irresistible, and divides the excitement quite evenly between the bridal finds and the decorative summer negligees and nightgowns not destined for a honeymoon.

Chiffons, slinky thin crêpes that are surprisingly cool, airy cottons, and pastels mixed up with vivid shades, and this time all kinds of chalk and sugar whites, make a superb collection. Bridal models are delectable, what with unprecedented showings of fine lace, ribbons, tucks, and hand work. Tailored gowns are obtainable, but you have to ask for them. Satin gowns teamed with harmonizing sheer negligees come in angelic white and luscious pastels, with moon blue and shell pink leading the parade.

Summer nightgowns, whether bought for a trousseau or for practical purposes, are lovely affairs. The delicate crinkled chiffons with unusually beautiful lace yokes and trim are not only new but different. White gowns with tiny embroidered daisies, with shiny satin bows, with bands of appenzell embroidery, with val lace, all are cut with wide, flared, but knowingly fitted skirts and high-cut bodices.

A big summer excitement are the dotted silk gowns. Cool white backgrounds, with dots ranging in size from the wee mustard seed to the Pierrot discs, are available in reverse ideas, too.

Sketched are the highlights of one spring and summer showing.

Right: Gypsy dotted charm in cool silken material makes a flattering nightgown. Small tucked pocket and tie-around sash accent deep V lines of bodice. For extra pennies comes the tricorner scarf of silk to tie over curls.

Right: Winking rhinestones embellish dramatic house coat of dull crepe that clings to body lines. Over the arm, three high-fashion nightgowns in soft crinkled chiffon with lace and satin.

Above: Sailor suit idea for summer charm, in thin crepe, with huge skirt zippered up front. Braid is nautical trimming.

Right: Flat plaits important in dinner gown-negligee-house coat model with sophisticated lines. Double circular ruff at neckline is detachable and made of organdy that tubs like a hanky.

By Clotilde.

Since your leisure hours are increased during the summer time, you'll have more opportunity to sew. Naturally, it shouldn't be confining needlework, but the "pick-up" type you can do while talking with the family or chance callers, either under the shade of the old apple tree or in the coolness of your own veranda. These four patterns offer delightful sewing along these lines. They fashion aprons you can make for yourself and your friends, and especially for the brides in your circle.

No. 2856 is a house apron on dress lines, with V neckline faced with contrasting collar, which matches the cuffs on the sleeves. There's a slenderizing panel down the center front, and two huge pockets. Easy to make, economical, too, it does itself honor in bold prints.

No. 2589, the comfortable coverall with no collar, broad shoulder straps, nipped-in waistline, and a pocket for good measure. Simple bias binding is all the trimming needed, and the remnant counters will help you get bargains in inexpensive cottons.

No. 3156 takes a ruffled "wings" for the bodice. They flutter over the upper arms. The neckline is square and untrimmed, and there's a saucy sash in the back of the slim waistline. The skirt is shirred into the waist, and the pockets are plump, "candy sack" ones. Rickrack braid is this apron's only trimming.

No. 2810, for your maid or yourself, a tea apron with plaiting for trim. Its brief little bodice extends only a little way above the waist. Delightful in organdy, swiss or some other crisp and sheer material.

Style No. 2856 is designed for sizes 14 and 16, and 36, 38, 40, and 42 inch bust measurements. Size 36 requires 3½ yards of 35 inch material, with ¼ yard of contrasting.

Style No. 2589 is designed for sizes small, medium and large. The medium size requires 1¾ yards of 35 inch material.

Style No. 3156 is designed for sizes 10, 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20. Size 16 requires 3¼ yards of 39 inch material, with 7½ yards of rickrack braid.

Style No. 2810 is designed for sizes small, medium and large. Medium size requires ⅝ yard of 39 inch material, with 3 yards of plaiting.

Each pattern costs 10 cents.

Campus Modes by a Co-ed

DESIGNED BY CAROLYN RAMEY
T-8675
SIZES 12-20

Dear Judy:

How's the job? Your last letter was so full of enthusiasm about it that you have me thinking it must be the world's greatest career, and I hope you're still as fond of that position. I've had you on my mind for the last couple of weeks, wondering what you have been doing about looking the part of a career girl, successful, smart, capable and sophisticated.

I know I can trust you to do your best for the wardrobe angle, but I'm sending along a new design for you, my way of offering the best wishes ever. This little bit of clothes glamor ought to keep the boss and the office on their toes. Maybe you didn't know that the way you look leaving the boss' office is as important as making the best impression possible when entering it. That's why I've designed this frock with exits in mind, concentrating on exciting back fullness, new, different, and sure to make a hit.

If you're still the same girl I knew in college, you're having a "date" every night. That means that often the frock you wear to work must double as a social ornament, too. This dress is just right. You wear brown so well, why don't you make this frock in that new light, dusty brown sprinkled with white dots? It's a smart summer color, and you won't look like every Sal, Betty and Jane. If you haven't a huge hat, get one for this model.

Style No. T-8675 comes in sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20. Size 16 requires 3½ yards of 39 inch material, with ⅝ yard of contrasting.

I'm cheering for you, Judy, and I am pleased to hear that you like keeping to your budget as much as I like helping you to do so. That makes for success. Write soon.

CAROLYN.

'Reservation' Wedding Card in Bad Taste

Who receives the guests at a home reception? For answers to this and many other questions about wedding customs, read Helen Bartlett's informative booklet, "The Wedding Reception or Breakfast." On sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 S. Dearborn street and Tribune Tower. Price, 2 cents; by postpaid mail, 3 cents.

By Helen Bartlett.

We have raised our voice about this question before. Perhaps the voice was not heard, or just not heeded. In any case, the offending practice goes on, growing alarmingly. We think it objectionable, so we raise our voice again. Our criticism is against the brides who inclose, with their engraved wedding invitations, a card to be filled in by the guests as to the number of places to be reserved, the card to be returned to the bride's family. Sometimes they go as far as to inclose also a stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing this card.

• • •

Let us state simply and plainly, and without equivocation, that there isn't such a thing as a return card or reservation card for any formal correspondence, including weddings. You will not find examples of it in any reliable book of etiquet, nor will a well informed stationer recommend it. An engraved invitation is, and should be, extremely formal. Inclosing a reservation card is about the most flagrant abuse of the rules of formal correspondence we ever have seen. It calls to mind a company banquet at $2 a plate, AND WE DON'T LIKE IT in connection with weddings.

Try as we will, it seems virtually impossible to dissuade these brides that return cards are not in good taste. We receive telephone calls about it, and in most cases the brides wait to telephone and make inquiry until after they have placed the order and the engraving has been delivered. We sometimes wonder why they bother to call when they are so loathe to change their minds or consider the advice they themselves seek. Usually they put up quite an argument in the hope that they can get us to agree with them and thus put the stamp of approval on the practice.

• • •

They can't seem to understand how they ever will know exactly how many to expect and plan for. The answer to that is, of course, to have R. S. V. P. engraved on the lower left corner of the reception invitation. That or "The favor of a response is requested." That obliges the guests to respond to the invitation, altho people should be expected to be courteous and intelligent enough to respond to a wedding reception invitation without being told to do so.

There is a definite and prescribed way of responding to an invitation to a wedding reception or a home wedding, a formal response worded in the third person, written in long hand on plain white note stationery. That is the best taste on the advice of all etiquet authorities and reliable stationers. Why go out of your way to be wrong, and even spend extra money for additional engraving, when it is unnecessary?

Mrs. Lenore Smith, Chicago — To keep scissors out of the reach of small children and always handy, I nail two corks to a wall. Corks hold scissors nicely, and out of harm's reach.

Anna Long, Milwaukee, Wis.—I have often wondered why they won't manufacture all our lovely artificial flowers with some waterproof lacquer, to make them dustproof and washable?

* *

Lily Thomas, Chicago—Seems to me as if some ingenius inventor should have manufactured a liquid for bath spray which would leave a film on tub; said liquid to be used before bathing to make tub less slippery and skiddy.

* *

Vera Ray, Chicago—To clean iodine spots from white linen or cotton, I pour on strong household ammonia, roll up tight, and leave overnight. Then I rinse out in morning and put out in the sun to bleach. I can remove lipstick stains from some sort of materials by soaking cloth in strong vinegar. If stain is on colored linen, I dilute vinegar with half water.

* *

Kenneth May, Springfield, Ill.—Now that summer is coming on, WHY won't they put on market air conditioned dining room tables designed with an electric fan built into base, with plate to deflect drafts and a grating around it to protect feet? It would be a comfort!

* *

Mrs. Amos Wray, Chicago—When my children get the fever to blow soap bubbles, which they do every so often, I add a little glycerin to the warm soapy water, and it makes the bubbles twice as big.

* *

Mrs. Marian Steele, Chicago—To preserve colored newspaper maps and pictures which I want especially to keep, I apply a coat of amber sealing wax. I dissolve this wax in denatured alcohol until it has the thickness of molasses. Then I spread over picture and press cheese cloth against the tacky surface for a couple of minutes. It gives the picture the appearance of an oil painting, and it is all ready for framing.

Miss Karen James, St. Louis, Mo.—I save old velvet garments and tear them into pieces. These I keep for use as polishing cloths on any highly polished surface around the house. They leave no lint.

* *

Letty Armstrong, Chicago—Wouldn't it be a help if manufacturers would instal amplifiers on all telephones, so you could set them to "ring loud or soft" as you wished?

* *

Maise Stone, Chicago—I understand there is a law in North Dakota making it unlawful to swear into a telephone. Why don't they pass such laws in all states?

* *

Mrs. John Peters, Chicago—I never have any trouble removing spilled paint from glass. I just remove by rubbing with a coin.

Sunday, June 9.

Today underlines mistakes, if any, of the recent past. Be willing to face facts and make wise adjustments—but give present decisions time to jell before acting. Week ahead is one of many problems, with much wisdom being called for.

What Might Have Been.

It is not possible to live a year without making decisions that will affect your entire future—perhaps I should have said, not a year, but a week. One cannot drift; even deciding not to decide is a decision. Everything that followed would have been different if one had done otherwise. Every step we took could have been in at least three other directions: left, right, or backward.

Your Year Ahead.

Your year ahead, if born on this date, must be one of quiet, persistent preparation for coming expansion. Lay plans, push quietly, get foundations ready. Danger: Sept. 13-24; Jan. 22-Feb. 4; June 8-17, 1941.

On the House

By Louise Bargelt

To fit your window and supply your room with an abundance of filtered, fresh air is the purpose of a new and reasonably priced ventilator. This unit, in addition to filtering dust and pollen, keeps out insects, subdues outside noises, and circulates the room air as you wish it. Blower fans are constructed to function with minimum cost, and the unit is of value, not only in summer, but all the year thru.

If a floor finish, which will not turn white when water is dropped on it, interests you there is such a one available. It is what you might call a penerating finish, since it sinks into the wood fibers. Made of oils and new synthetic resins, it affords a hard finish, and enhances and high lights the natural wood grain. You can use it on your paneling or woodwork or even on your furniture. Apply it with a brush or mop, and rest assured that when it comes time to refinish your wood again, this finish will not have to be removed.

If you want to insure yourself and your family from turning on the shower faucet and getting doused by water that is too cold or too hot, a new diverter valve is available which permits you to test the temperature of your shower water safely. This valve adjusts and tests the temperature of the water first from a lower spout. Once it is the desired temperature, you raise the knob on spout and water goes into shower head for your shower.

Large Crocheted Sailor

By Ellen Bruce.

The ideal and inexpensive way to crochet a large sailor is the crêpe paper method. It is created with a single strand of paper and single crochet, so that even the most inexperienced worker may successfully make a hat for every outfit. The price is negligible and, when completed, additional fun is gained from the quick and simple method of waterproofing the hat, which makes it impervious to the elements.

For instructions in crocheting the new sailor hat, No. X-465, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

Late Doctor's Discovery For Stomach Pains

Thousands are paying tribute to the memory of a famous doctor whose discovery has brought them relief from acid stomach pains. He discovered that coating the stomach lining with bismuth would protect the sensitive parts against the irritating action of foods and digestive secretions. Udga Tablets contain bismuth and other valuable ingredients in a balanced formula. They have been praised by thousands. Try a 25c box of Udga for relief of stomach pains, indigestion, gas pains, heartburn, burning sensation, bloat and other conditions caused by excess acid. Udga Tablets are safe to use and must help or your money refunded. At good drug stores everywhere.

You Can Bleach Your Skin to a Lighter, Prettier Hue with Mercolized Wax Cream

FASHION indicates the return to favor of fairer, softer skin. Ever in stride with the latest mode, Mercolized Wax Cream lends its subtle bleaching and beautifying action to help you win a fashionable, lighter, lovelier complexion. Mercolized Wax Cream hastens the natural shedding of the dull, surface skin and uncovers the fairer, softer, smoother underskin. The action takes place so gradually that the actual flaking process is not visible. But soon you become aware of the improved appearance of your complexion. Start bleaching your skin tonight using Mercolized Wax Cream according to directions.

REMOVE FACIAL HAIR with PHELACTINE DEPILATORY—Phelactine not only takes off the surface hair, but actually extracts the portion embedded under the skin, leaving no fuzz or stubble. It can be applied quickly and easily in a few seconds. Not a cream or powder. Has no obnoxious odor. You will like Phelactine.

TRY SAXOLITE ASTRINGENT, the DELIGHTFUL SKIN FRESHENER. It is a quick acting, refreshing aid for daily care of the skin. Saxolite reduces excess oil on the surface skin; and its contracting action temporarily tightens the skin tissue. Simply dissolve Saxolite in one-half pint witch hazel and pat this lotion briskly on the skin several times daily.

Cotton Attire an American Achievement

By Bettina Bedwell.

Along with the blessings of peace and democracy, which this land of ours is enjoying more copiously than any spot on earth at this time, there is the blessing of cotton, that is our own personal and particular hot weather boon. In making cotton fabrics, America is supreme champion with all contenders about 50 years in the rear. In creating models from such materials our own designers are no less world champions, and it has been my privilege lately to see what wonders can be done with this traditionally homespun material to make glamorized and practical styles. I am properly impressed and completely flabbergasted by the stupendous displays all in cotton.

I see an American goddess, rising crisp and impeccable from the soapsuds, to challenge the whole world for first place in daintiness and beauty. There isn't any part of the whole world of women's dress that hasn't been taken over by cotton this summer. Shoes, hats, gloves, handbags, and even sports jewels are composed, at least partly, of cotton.

• • •

Incredibly delicate and foamy evening dresses, frivolous clothes for afternoon, strictly tailored suits, blouses and jackets come in cotton that is as washable as a handkerchief. As for sports clothes, there isn't a single kind of garment that doesn't come in this material. With cotton gabardine and even cotton tweed on tap for the designers, they make fisherman suits, skating costumes [ice or roller], swim suits, tennis, golf, riding, and the whole kit and caboodle of dress for strenuous fun out of the American champion material, cotton.

Printed and patterned cottons tend toward lusty peasant colors this summer, taking inspiration from South America, the East Indies, and Europe; but dazzling stripes, dots, and checks are just as much used, and so are plain color cottons. Almost any material made in silk, or even wool, is likewise made of cotton. The whole array, marked strictly washable, is enchanting and ought to do wonders for the laundry business and the soap industry.

• • •

In designing for summer, the designers have made desert and Sun Valley clothes, beach and country duds, yachting and city sports models, in the interests of a whole nation of women. There are about a thousand versions of the full skirt and shirtwaist dress, the apron, and the ballerina play suit, slack suits, sports coats, and full skirted swim suits plus trunks.

It might be the lazy streak in me, but I have always thought of cotton dresses as the most luxurious kind of clothes, due to the immense amount of upkeep required, and a personal maid, it seemed to me, should be sold over the counter with such clothes. But this season I've been obliged to eat such thoughts when houses have shown me their cotton town models that you couldn't tell from silk except between the thumb and forefinger. Dark blue, pin striped, cotton tweeds in smart two-piece dresses that have separate foamy jabots that are the sole item requiring daily washing, are as practical and a lot more sanitary than silks. Cotton gabardine suits with lingerie blouses are another item requiring a minimum of upkeep effort. And there's seersucker, miles and miles of clothes made of it, a material that mocks the urgent press iron, and makes life in cotton a pleasure.

• • •

Probably the most beautiful of the season's crop of cotton evening dresses are those that are made of sheer and lacy stuff. You can wear a black eyelet embroidered organdy evening dress in this class if you can't afford a more fragile white or pastel shade. Such a model is one made of black eyelet embroidered organdy, high at the neck and with sleeves, but at the back the waist is rounded in a bolero effect leaving the flesh exposed, and the whole blouse is over flesh colored crêpe, so it looks virtually nude. The full skirt is over black organdy. A sash of flesh pink ties in a big bow at the front.

Thru the Looking Glass

A stretching machine which enables the user to do simple exercises that stretch every muscle of the body is the latest enthusiasm of the health and beauty seekers. The photograph at right shows the starting position, with knees firmly on the stationary pads. Left, the full stretch, with hands on the cross bars, that is felt from finger tips to toes.

All the people who love gadgets, and all those who believe in the value of stretching exercises, will be excited about a new gymnastic apparatus that makes it easy to have a thoro stretching workout—from your fingertips to your toes—in 10 minutes a day.

Stretching is just about the best exercise, according to the experts. Properly done, it helps the thin to build up, and the fat to build down. And there's nothing quite like it for keeping fit.

The apparatus is not one of those terrifying things that just makes you weary to look at. It consists of nothing more than a long, chromium-plated bar crossed by sliding handle bars, with stationary rubber pads on which to kneel while you stretch. It isn't heavy, and takes up little room in a corner or a clothes closet while not in use.

In operation it is extremely simple. Results are wonderful. Kneeling on the pads and pushing the cross bars, which give a certain excellent amount of resistance, you can exercise every muscle of the body. For localized exercise you can concentrate on the arms, the abdomen, or the hips. Turning the long bar to one side at a slight angle, stretching sidewards, you'll feel a muscular pull such as you never experienced before! And what it does for those hip and waist bulges!

The stretching machine is well constructed, and what we particularly like about it is that it's foolproof. You can't possibly hurt yourself. Of course, moderation is necessary, as it is in all forms of exercise. Ten minutes a day are absolutely all you'll need!

Clotilde Children's Patterns

Hat 2812
3178
SIZES 2-8

Somehow mothers of girls are more clothes conscious than mothers of boys. They say it's more fun to dress a girl. We don't understand why that should be so, unless the pattern today could be a persuasive factor supporting the argument on the feminine side! Every proud mother of a little girl will like this ensemble. It consists of a printed cotton [or silk] dress with a companion piqué coat and bonnet.

The diminutive dress has a Peter Pan collar to contrast. Bias binding trims the scalloped bodice front, and lace, ruffling, or plaiting adorns the pert triangular pockets. The sleeves are short and puffed, and there are crisp little plaits in the full skirt. A sash extends only from the bodice panel, and is rather wide.

The coat has modified princess lines, with long sleeves, Peter Pan collar, the same saucy pockets, and plaits at either side of the buttoned front. The bonnet to match has a flare-up brim and an accented crown.

Style No. 3178 is designed for sizes 2, 4, 6, and 8. Size 4 requires 1⅞ yards of 39 inch material, with ¼ yard of contrasting and 3 yards of binding for dress; 1⅛ yards for coat.

Hat pattern No. 2812 comes in sizes 2, 4, 6, 8, and 10; headsizes 19, 20, 20½, 21, and 21½. Size 8 requires ¾ yard of 39 inch material.

Each pattern costs 10 cents.

Pineapple and Biscuit Dough in New Tea Dainty

Here is a new tea dainty: Pat rich biscuit dough until it is ½ inch thick. Cut into finger lengths and wrap around spears of pineapple, wiped dry or thoroly drained. Lightly spread with melted butter and prick the tops. Bake seven minutes, until well browned, in a moderate oven. Stack up hot and rush to the tea table. The sticks may be made ready for baking, stored in the refrigerator for an hour or so, and then baked as needed.

The Potted Plant

By Eleanor Jewett.

I wonder how a plant must feel
When from a sheltered pot
The gardener plants it out of doors
In some wide garden plot.

I wonder if a secret thrill
Runs all along its roots,
And quivers in its little leaves
And buds and flowers and fruits.

I wonder if a glad surprise
Does not possess it quite:
The sun and wind for friends by day,
The stars and dew by night!

June Is Month of the Fresh Cherry Pies

By Mary Meade.

[Copyright: 1940: By The Chicago Tribune.]

June is fresh cherry pie month, and the time for making cherry jam and preserves. Since the season is very short, we'll be smart to make all the cherry pies, cobblers and other cherry desserts our families can eat, and to make good use of the preserving kettle within the next few weeks.

The ideal cherry pie filling is slightly "runny." I would rather have a piece of cherry pie with cherries and juice running out all over the plate than one with a filling stiff enough to stand alone. But a very runny pie is a little hard to serve, so it's a good plan to add a little flour, cornstarch or tapioca to a fresh cherry pie to keep the filling somewhat under control.

The amount of sugar to be used in a fresh cherry pie will depend upon the tartness of the fruit. Sometimes it takes a little more than a cup and a half to make the pie sweet enough; sometimes less than that amount will do. A cup and a half is average, and that's the amount I'm going to suggest in this recipe.

FRESH CHERRY PIE.

1 quart fresh sour cherries, pitted
1½ cups sugar
2 tablespoons cornstarch
¼ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons butter
Pastry for double or lattice top crust

Mix sugar, cornstarch and salt, and add to cherries. Let stand while making pastry for the crust. Fill pastry lined pie pan with mixture of fruit and dot with butter. Top with lattice strips of pastry, or a well pricked upper crust, and press the edges of the pie casing together firmly so that the juice will not leak out during baking. Bake at 450 degrees for 15 minutes. Reduce heat to 350 degrees and continue baking half an hour longer.

Use three tablespoons of flour or tapioca in place of cornstarch as a thickener for the filling.

The same mixture of cherries, sugar [leave out the cornstarch], salt and butter may be used to make one of the most delicious cherry cobblers you ever ate. Spread the fruit, topped with the butter bits, in a greased baking dish and drop this batter over it.

BATTER FOR CHERRY COBBLER.
[Four servings.]

1 cup sifted flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
3 tablespoons sugar
1 egg
3 tablespoons melted butter
7 tablespoons milk [½ cup minus 1 tablespoon]

Sift dry ingredients together several times. Beat egg and add melted butter and milk. Pour liquids into dry ingredients and stir vigorously only until all flour is dampened. Drop batter on top of prepared cherries in casserole and bake at 425 degrees until cobbler has risen and browned, about 15 minutes. Spoon the cherries over the cobbler on dessert plates, and serve with cream or whipped cream.

CHERRY AND RASPBERRY JAM.

2 cups pitted cherries
2 cups raspberries
3 cups sugar
Juice of 1 lemon or 1 orange

Mash the fruit in a preserving kettle [cherries may be chopped or ground, if desired]. Heat to the boiling point and add sugar. Boil rapidly to preserve color and flavor, until jam begins to thicken, stirring frequently. Pour jam into hot, clean jars and seal at once. Fifteen minutes of cooking should be sufficient in most cases. Long cooking darkens the jam and spoils the flavor.

CHERRY JELLY.
[7 8-ounce glasses.]

3 pounds cherries
6½ cups sugar
1 cup liquid pectin
¼ teaspoon almond extract [optional]

Wash and stem ripe cherries, but do not pit. Crush and add ½ cup water. Bring to a boil, and simmer for 10 minutes. Drain thru a jelly bag. There should be three cups of juice. Combine sugar and juice and stir over low heat until sugar is dissolved. Bring to a boil and add fruit pectin, stirring constantly. Boil vigorously for 30 seconds, no longer. Remove from heat, skim, and add almond extract if it is used. Pour into hot, clean glasses. Seal with melted paraffin.

French Summertime Coat Frock Buttoned at Side

By Bettina Bedwell.

DESIGNED IN PARIS
by Bettina Bedwell
5351
SIZES 14-42

They're buttoning coat dresses on the side these days in French circles. It's the Parisian designers' way of doing the same old thing in a different way, and I think it's delightful. When the thermometer soars you'll be crisp and cool in this model that has been kept down to essentials. The original is the height of smartness in pale pink pique, with the buttons rather large and in navy.

You don't have to be particularly slim to wear this type of dress. In fact, paneling such as this frock possesses is a friend in need to the plump silhouette. Young figures will grow in sophistication with these lines, too. You can wear almost any type of hat, from casual, wrap around turban to huge cartwheel, with this costume. Incidentally, while the original is of piqué, almost any summer fabric except sheers will make up successfully. Our suggestion is, however, to avoid prints. Save them for something less severely tailored.

Style No. 5351 is designed for sizes 14 and 16, and 36, 38, 40, and 42 inch bust measurements. Size 36 requires 4¼ yards of 39 inch material.

Two Weddings Highlight Week at Pasadena

By Ruth Billheimer.

PASADENA, CAL.

Two of the most important weddings of early June on the west coast center about two of Chicago's old families and have focused the attention of society up and down the coast.

Wednesday at 5 o'clock in the Little Neighborhood Church of Pasadena, Miss Georgia Sargent Clifford and Kenneth Hempstead Hess spoke their vows. Four o'clock rites in Christ Episcopal church, San Diego, united Miss Mildred Frances Kennett and Ensign James Siggens Cooley on Monday.

Georgia, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert George Clifford [Virginia Montgomery of Evanston], came down the aisle in a gown of 1860, made of white French faille.

• • •

At the altar she joined the bridegroom, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Miner Hess of Chicago and Wayne, Ill., were here for the rites. Her father gave her in marriage and Dr. Theodore Gerald Soares, former Chicago clergyman, officiated.

Miss Anna Parsons Clifford was her sister's maid of honor and Mrs. Winfield T. Durbin II. of Chicago, sister of the bridegroom, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Virginia Clifford, a sister, and Miss Judith Ridgway, each of the four gowned alike in robin's egg blue sheer crêpe, period style, and wearing a miranda turban.

Three young cousins of the bride, Winifred Hadden and Judith Illsley of Pasadena, and Elizabeth Bennett of Minneapolis, Minn., were junior bridesmaids, wearing little organdy frocks of the same blue, with hats to match. They carried white baskets brimming with white flowers.

Mr. Hess was assisted by John Hansel of Pennsylvania as best man; Richard D. Allen of St. Charles, Ill.; William R. Freeman of Chicago, his cousin; W. Woodbridge Dickenson Jr., and Chancellor Jenks Carter of Pasadena, as ushers.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford entertained the two families afterward with the bridal supper at their home in North San Rafael avenue. The young couple will arrive in Illinois July 1st to make their home in the guest cottage of White Gate Farm, Wayne, belonging to Mr. and Mrs. William Stanton Monroe of Chicago.

• • •

Ensign Cooley and his bride, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Luther Kennett, will go to Galveston, Tex., to live. He is to report shortly for duty aboard the U. S. S. McLanahan.

Miss Franke Fitch, in daffodil yellow, was maid of honor. Miss Mildred Harris and Mrs. Joseph E. Giovanazzi in French blue, and Mrs. Samuel Franklin Engs [Joan Ranson] and Mrs. J. O. Livengood [Zelda Schumann Heink] in shell pink, were bridesmaids. Luther Martin Kennett Jr. was best man.

A small reception was held in the Ocean Terrace room of Hotel Del Coronado.

Don't Be Fat!

Says Lovely Irene Rich

Now, without following a strict diet list, or taking exercises or drugs, it is possible to safely lose excess weight.

In every section of the country today, women have marveled at the wonders of a safe, easy reducing method—which requires no strict diet lists; no strenuous exercises; no drugs. Increases energy as weight goes down. It's the identical method Dr. Damrau of New York used in tests among a group of intelligent and cooperative people who followed directions implicitly, and was responsible for an average loss in weight of 7 pounds per month.

Unbelievably Easy To Follow

All you do is mix ¾ glass of Welch Grape Juice with ¼ glass of water and drink before meals and at bedtime. Then eat sensibly—which means you avoid overeating; thus reducing caloric intake considerably. Then this happens: First, this delicious drink satisfies your craving for rich, sweet foods. You have less desire to overeat fattening foods—but you never suffer a hungry moment. Second, the natural dextrose in Welch's is quickly consumed, and by this process not only aids nature in consuming excess fat but also increases your energy.

That is why weight is lost naturally; why you not only look better but actually feel better; have more energy. And this proved method is just as beneficial and effective for overweight men, as it is for overweight women.

Do This One Important Thing

There is only one thing to watch—eat sensibly, which means you avoid overeating, and be sure to use only genuine Welch Grape Juice, selected by Dr. Damrau in his convincing test. Welch's is always full strength. It contains full measure of natural dextrose which is so important. And because Welch's is always full strength, it is delicious when diluted—very economical to use. Start this proved reducing method today and watch your energy go up as your weight goes down.

Irene Rich, past 40, still has her lovely slenderness of 16. She recommends the easy Welch way to reduce.

AMAZING TOMATO JUICE THRILLS THE NATION

If you think all tomato juice is alike, try Welch's new vitamin-rich tomato juice for the thrill of your life. A noted chemist tested five brands and found Welch's Tomato Juice superior—larger Vitamin C content; as much Vitamin A as milk—and rich in Vitamin B. Welch's is so rich and thick, you can add ¼ water, or ice, and still have a most delicious tomato juice. So it's economical to serve. Get Welch's Tomato Juice from your dealer today. It's pure, pasteurized, laboratory controlled and tested and approved by Good Housekeeping Bureau. Double your money back if you don't say it's the finest tomato juice you ever tasted.

Bad Mealtime Habits Need Investigation

By Gladys Huntington Bevans.

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Spinach.

At one time, if they could have gotten the thing into words, I'm sure the little boys and girls of these United States would have declared that spinach was the root of all evil.

Battles were fought and tears were shed over spinach.

The innocent green leaves loomed, in the eyes of mothers, as the possessors of all virtues. How many thousands of little children must have shuddered at the very word!

Happily, this glorification of one vegetable has passed. Spinach, instead of being in the limelight, is now taking its place in the chorus with carrots and peas and string beans. Incidentally, do you know the quick waterless way of cooking spinach? And also, when it's not "going over" so well with the youngest, did you ever mix it in with their mealy, buttery, baked potato?

• • •

But to go back. The fact that the name "spinach" is no longer flashing in neon lights at every table doesn't mean that there are no more mealtime blues. No indeed. In fact, mealtime troubles are still among the most widespread blues there are.

Part of this state of affairs is undoubtedly due to the greater and greater importance that is attached to children's food, to their having everything that will give them all they need of minerals and calories and vitamins.

Mothers get all keyed up over it. If Betsy has a spell of being "off" carrots or baked apple or cereal, the heavens are going to fall. The matter is pushed until an issue is made of it. Betsy locks her lips. Then Betsy can't leave the table until she's eaten all the carrots. Betsy can't have her little bunny-shaped cookies and apple sauce [her favorite] until the carrots are consumed to the last morsel. Also, Betsy must feed them to herself, altho Betsy is becoming tired and restless. Soon the carrots become a principle, and everybody gets upset.

Now this sort of thing accounts for some of the mealtime troubles that disturb a family. There's an obvious tieup there, as you can see if you stand off and look.

• • •

But there's another sort of thing that accounts for mealtime difficulties or difficulties with other day by day physical routines, such as going to bed or toilet training.

Here we have to dig under the surface of a child's life in his family, have to look for deeper causes of what we may label naughtiness. If we do so, we are almost sure to find something missing in the lives of those little boys and girls. And if we're keen, we'll see that they unconsciously make up for this need by behavior such as creating excitement at the table, or by being demanding at bedtime.

What are these vital needs of little children?

They are many. Active creative play, a real form of expression, is one. Having the many questions that arise in their inquiring minds answered satisfactorily is another. Also, having warm, responsible, companionable parents. Being understood, in both character and disposition. Being treated like a reasonable human being is still another.

• • •

These are not high-falutin' ideas of what our youngest need. They are very real cravings. When children haven't them satisfied, the balance of their lives is thrown off.

Then, with life out of balance, these little children discover, sometimes quite by accident, that eating and sleeping and elimination proceedings can be made to supply excitement and interest. The attention of their parents is gained in this way. And eating or sleeping or toileting becomes an end in itself, rather than a means to an end for mother [and sometimes father, or aunt, or nurse] and the small children, too.

Which is a mistake. Of course, health is important, terrifically important. The buoyant feeling that comes with a sense of physical well being is a delight in itself.

But life is more than physical. We want good health so that we can live fully and freely. We want it for our children so that they can live, and love, and work and play to the fullest.

• • •

This realization of the balance necessary in children's lives should come to us with their earliest years. Important as it is, we still must not throw all our thought and energy into their physical care. We must supply them with everything else they need to round them out, so that they may become rich, full personalities, a source of happiness to themselves and every one else.

So run over the list I have made of a little child's needs. Are all these fulfilled in your child's life? If not see to it that they are. You probably will find that all those troubles we've been talking about will vanish into thin air. Supply those needs, and the small child usually eats well, sleeps well, and learns more easily to wash and dress himself, and acquire desirable elimination habits.

• • •

It's only common sense, after all. Haven't you noticed it with yourself? If you're interested in life, loved and loving, busy and can get out for air and sociability, your physical state and functions improve, and at the same time take on their rightful proportions in the scheme of your daily existence. It is that way with the children, too.

Contract According to Culbertson

By Ely Culbertson.

[Copyright: 1940: By Ely Culbertson.]

There are many methods of learning bridge, or of improving one's game after the rudiments have been mastered. One of the best methods, perhaps, is to plant oneself firmly behind a tolerant expert in an expert game; to listen intently to every bid he makes and to keep one's eyes glued to the cards he plays. Unfortunately, however, a true expert cannot be found in every community, and even when he is found, there is the element of his tolerance to be considered. Kibitzers are not always as welcome as flowers in May, and it may involve quite a search to find an expert patient enough to answer all the "whys" that normally must be flung at him.

Perhaps the safer plan is to engage a good teacher or to buy a good bridge book. But, if personal or financial considerations rule these out, a vast amount of knowledge and entertainment can be gained by dealing out the cards solitaire fashion, then bidding and playing all four hands. The drawback here is that actually competitive conditions can scarcely be simulated. A far more realistic method is to grapple with laid down hands. Arthur N. Cowperthwait, in The Bridge World Magazine, presents a valuable series of articles called, "Plan Your Play," in which the reader sees only his own cards and those in dummy. The following is Mr. Cowperthwait's form of presentation:

"You, the reader, are South, and just as in real play, no other hand but dummy appears. Read a paragraph at a time and try to answer the questions before going on.

South, dealer. No score.

"East and West vulnerable.

"The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 club	Pass	1 spade	Pass
3 clubs	Pass	4 clubs	Pass
4 no trump	Pass	5 no trump	Pass
6 clubs	Pass	Pass	Pass

NORTH

SOUTH
♠Q 10
♥A 9
♦K 8 3
♣A K J 10 7 3

"West leads the diamond jack, which is won by dummy, and East plays the six. Everything looks rosy if the club queen can be caught as it will be simple to ruff one diamond in dummy and concede a spade if necessary. How do you plan your play?

"You first lead a small trump from dummy with no intention of finessing, visualizing a sure drop if both follow, and a marked finesse if West should show out. But unfortunately, East shows out, discarding the diamond four which would seem to mean he is trying to show his partner enough strength to prevent your setting up the suit. Now that the trump trick must be lost, what chances for your bid do you see?

"It would be simple enough to 'strip out' all the red cards and then give West the lead on the third round of clubs, but dummy would have no trumps left by the time you ruff one diamond and lead clubs three times. So there can be no endplay of the ruff and sluff type. If West happens to have held only three diamonds, this scheme would force him to lead either a heart which might result in trapping one honor in East's hand and the other in West's, or a spade which could be ducked in dummy in the hope West had the king. The drop of the heart queen-jack doubleton is too much to hope for with eight hearts out, and it's also probable that West had more than three diamonds. With a long suit, the possibility of the 'squeeze' play should not be overlooked. How do you proceed to keep all chances alive?

"After the first trump is won in your hand you lay down the diamond king, discarding the spade deuce, and then ruff your last diamond, West following with the diamond deuce and nine and East with the diamond five and seven. Now back to your hand with the other top trump, East discarding the heart deuce, and then another trump which is taken by West's queen, East discarding the heart three. West now leads the diamond 10 which kills a couple of hopes. What do you discard from dummy?

"Another small spade, of course, so as to keep the heart chance alive. East follows with the diamond queen and you ruff. What next?

"You must lead the heart nine to dummy's king. To lead the ace first would result in your having to ruff dummy's third heart [or lead spades from dummy], thus destroying the threat of the heart 10 in the squeeze which will be your last chance if the heart queen and jack do not drop. The heart seven and five are the only hearts you see on this trick so the drop is 'out.' Do you see how to play for the squeeze and just where the vital cards must be if it is to succeed?

"The spade king and both the heart queen and jack must be in West's hand, and you must come back to your hand via the heart four to your ace, on which East plays the heart six and West the heart jack which looks promising so far. Now you lead a trump on which West discards the spade six, dummy the spade seven, and East the heart eight. And next your last trump, and when West discards the spade jack what do you play from dummy?

"The heart 10. If West has the heart queen he is down to one spade which you hope is the king, and if East has the heart queen he couldn't be forced to give it up. East plays the spade four. Next you lead the spade 10 and when West's king appears your troubles are over, and the small slam is home."

It is not necessary, or advisable, to confine one's practicing to complete hands of 13 cards. For certain types of plays, notably safety plays, the most self-educational plan, by far, is to experiment with a single suit, giving various card combinations to yourself, as declarer, and placing opposite them other combinations in dummy. For example:

NORTH
WEST EAST
SOUTH
K J 7 4 2

Many a slam contract has been mutilated beyond repair by declarer's handling of such a trump suit as shown. Let's suppose that every other suit is solid, and your small slam contract depends squarely on your losing no more than one no trump trick. Granted, with a little luck you would lose none, but that is not the question and, in rubber bridge, is of no consequence. The vital point is that you must be quite willing, even pleased, to risk losing one trick if that risk automatically knocks out the risk of losing to both the missing queen and 10. The garden variety play of leading the deuce to the ace, with the intention of leading back to the king, or finessing to the jack, will spread a great deal of gloom if West happens to hold Q-10-8-5. True, it is very unusual to get this 4-0 break, but it does happen! The common sense method is to guard against the worst possible break. With this combination, you should lay down the king. If West follows suit and East shows out, the next lead is toward the A-9-6 and one of West's honors is neatly smothered. If it was West who showed out, nothing has been lost. The deuce is now led to the ace, and the nine or six returned toward the J-7-4. East's 10 spot is neatly stymied, and his queen is the only trick the enemy takes.

An article by Mr. Culbertson appears in the feature section of The Tribune each weekday.

South's contract is three no trump. Can it be defeated by any defense? If so, how?

Answer: There is only one defense that will permit East-West to defeat the contract. That is for West to lead the ace and king of spades and East to discard the ace and king of diamonds on these tricks. West then continues with the spade jack, establishing the suit for himself. Subsequently, West's diamond jack stops South's long suit and also becomes an entry for West to run the set-up spades.

If East does not get rid of his ace and king of diamonds [or if West does not give him the opportunity to do so by leading the two top spades] declarer can easily take nine tricks by consistently keeping West off lead. This is done by leading diamonds from dummy. If East ducks, South's queen holds and diamond returns knock out East's stoppers. If East on diamond leads from dummy puts up the ace and king, he can make no return to attack the contract. Without the diamond unblock by East, South can easily make three diamond tricks, three clubs, two hearts and one spade.

A FRIEND IN NEED

If you are in need, perhaps I can help you. If you have household articles or clothing you no longer use, please let me place them with needy families. Address correspondence to Sally Joy Brown, The Chicago Tribune, Chicago. Activities of this department are sponsored by the Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.

By Sally Joy Brown.

Life in the ramshackle, crumbling ruins of buildings which are the only homes available to the thousands of desperately poor in the city, never is a pretty picture. Overcrowding, lack of ventilation, and lack of plumbing facilities are a few of the reasons for the misery extant in such quarters. Such conditions are a menace to health at all times, but they seem particularly aggravated during the heat of summer.

• • •

Requests for help in making such homes as comfortable as possible under the circumstances now are coming in from the poor all over the city. Some families are trying to move from expensive furnished rooms into small apartments, which are less costly and afford better ventilation, and need items of furniture of all kinds. Others are trying to make their present quarters more suitable.

Miss C. has asked aid for a family living in one of the poorest and most congested sections of the city. It consists of a mother and father and three children, all living in one basement room, which is almost entirely unfurnished. They have beds, but need chairs, a table, and a dresser. At present they have no place to keep food or milk for the children. During the summer it will be impossible to keep supplies fresh, unless some reader can provide an icebox.

• • •

The X. family also is very much in need of an icebox. The father has deserted, leaving his wife to care for their small child. She had to apply for relief, and since her rent allowance is very meagre, can afford only living quarters in one of the most severely deteriorated sections of the city. They have a small apartment, but it is dark and poorly furnished, and there is no storage space for either food or milk for the child. They can ill afford loss of food thru spoilage, and we hope that some reader has a discarded icebox to give. The worker will arrange transportation.

• • •

The N. family lives in a basement in a section south and west of the loop. The father recently was released from the hospital and still is unable to work. There are five small children, including a baby a few months old. The dampness in the basement has been hard on all the family, but particularly so on the baby. The doctor has ordered that the infant be outdoors as much as possible. It is difficult for them to manage on their present income and the purchase of a buggy would be an impossibility. Can some reader provide one?

Mrs. K. and her small daughter are on relief. They occupy a one room apartment on the north side of the city. Their living quarters are extremely small, but they have the use of a back porch. The youngster is delicate and sickly, and her mother is anxious to get a swing or hammock so that her daughter can rest outdoors as much as possible during the summer. The mother will be glad to call for either item if some reader has it to donate.

Home Owners' Queries

Chicago—[To the Home Building Editor]—What causes a bad case of "paint alligatoring" or checking? We are having that trouble. What can we do? James B.

Answer: It may be that the last coat was applied before undercoat was entirely dry. Or too much oil was mixed with paint. Or poor oil. There isn't much to be done except to call in a good painter, have him burn off the checked coat and repaint.

Elgin, Ill.—[To the Home Building Editor]—Is a wall plug every five or six feet in a room too close? If they are not installed every six feet where are the best places for them? Are double outlets better than single ones? Mrs. T. Brown.

Answer: A wall plug every five or six feet is recommended practice. Some experts suggest placing outlets near the corners of your rooms, in case you have large pieces of furniture in the room. Double outlets are better than single ones.

New England Clubwomen to Battle Hay Fever

A concentrated effort to rid New England of hay fever is being made by the Massachusetts State Federation of Women's Clubs. The women have adopted the slogan, "Pull, cut, spray, and plow," and are attempting to prevent the growth of ragweed, one of the chief causes of hay fever.

Needlepoint Easy to Learn

By Jean MacDonald.

Needlepoint ranks with knitting, crochet work and embroidery as one of the most fascinating handicrafts. It is easy to do, works up with great rapidity, and any one may attempt to do it without fear or trepidation. The pattern offered today is an interesting design which may be used for a pillow, a footstool, rug, or bell cord. The pattern includes detailed description of the design, an actual size chart of the canvas, a color guide, and specific instructions in working the needlepoint. It is clear and simply explained, so that one who never has tried needlepoint should be able to buy the canvas and material and start to work without any lessons from an instructor.

For instructions in making the needlepoint footstool, No. X-449, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

Mr. Cabeen will answer questions about stamps, except concerning values. Do not ask where stamps may be sold, as the Stamps and Coins advertising section adjoining contains offers to buy, and sell. Inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope for reply.

With the first day sale of the 10 cent Ethelbert Nevin stamp at Pittsburgh, Pa., tomorrow, the postoffice department breaks the continuous procession of Famous Americans stamps for the summer. Five groups of stamps have been issued honoring authors, poets, educators, scientists, and composers, and two groups honoring artists and inventors remain to be issued in the fall.

The artists' group will be introduced on Sept. 5, when 1 cent and 2 cent stamps honoring Gilbert Charles Stuart and James A. MacNeill Whistler, respectively, are placed on sale. On Sept. 16, the 3 cent and 5 cent values honoring Augustus Saint-Gaudens and Daniel Charles French will be placed on sale and the group will be completed on Sept. 30 with the Frederic Remington 10 cent stamp.

The inventors will come in for their share of publicity during October. The 1 cent value for Eli Whitney and the 2 cent value for Samuel F. B. Morse will be sold on Oct. 7, the 3 cent for Cyrus H. McCormick and the 5 cent for Elias Howe, on the 14th, and the completion of the group and of the entire Famous Americans series will be attained on Oct. 28, when the 10 cent value honoring Alexander Graham Bell is offered for first day sale.

The dates and places of first day sale for each of the remaining stamps of the Famous Americans series will be announced in the Stamp Collector from time to time so that the notices appear about two weeks before the events. Full instructions for obtaining first day covers will be included with each notice.

The 19th example of the Famous Americans series of commemorative stamps was the 5 cent blue value of the Scientists' group which was placed on first day sale April 17 at Washington, D. C., to honor Dr. Walter Reed.

Dr. Walter Reed.

The design measures 85-100 by 98-100 inch and is uniform with other values of the group. The plates are curved to fit the rotary presses, and contain 280 stamp subjects arranged in four panes of 70 each. Plates numbered 22555, 22556 and 22557 were made for this value in January and the first two mentioned plates were put to press on Feb. 27 to print the 20 million stamps ordered. The plates are of the type known as electric eye, convertible, and produce sheets of stamps which can be perforated on any of the perforators equipped with photo-electric cell controls.

The portrait of Dr. Reed which shows on this stamp was taken from a photograph of a painting by N. M. Miller, now in the possession of the Walter Reed hospital in Washington. William A. Roach designed the stamp, Leo C. Kauffman engraved the portrait, James T. Vail the frame, and William B. Wells the lettering.

Walter Reed was born at Belrol, Gloucester county, Virginia, on Sept. 13, 1851. He was educated at the University of Virginia and at Bellevue Medical school, where he received his degree in 1870. After interning at King's County hospital he entered the United States army medical corps in 1874, and became professor of bacteriology in 1893 in the new army medical school. In 1898 when yellow fever was exacting a heavy toll among the soldiers enlisted for the Cuban campaign, Dr. Reed was appointed with a committee to investigate the disease and make recommendations for its control.

His report proved that the current theory regarding the fever was in error and that it actually was transmitted by mosquitoes as had earlier been advanced by Dr. Carlos Finlay, and further that it was transmitted by a single species of that insect. The results of the experiments which followed this report have led to the eradication of the yellow fever mosquito thruout the civilized world and to the control of the malady.

The figures for first day sales of stamps and the total numbers of covers postmarked of all values of the scientist's group of the Famous Americans series of stamps are as follows: 1 cent, Audubon, April 8, St. Francisville, La., 144,123 covers, 551,760 stamps with a value of $5,517.60; 2 cent, Long, April 8, Jefferson, Ga., 158,128 covers, 363,862 stamps, value $7,277.24; 3 cent, Burbank, April 17, Santa Rosa, Cal., 147,033 covers, 253,497 stamps, value $7,604.91; 5 cent, Reed, April 17, Washington, D. C., 154,467 covers, 147,539 stamps, value $7,376.95, and 10 cent, Addams, April 26, Chicago, 132,375 covers, 294,000 stamps, value $29,400.

What appears to be an error in the figures for the 5 cent value is explained by the fact that some collectors bought stamps at the philatelic agency for use on their first day covers. The stamp sales given are those made at the Washington postoffice.

Alvin F. Harlow has been known for many years to readers who delight in stories of earlier American days thru his Old Towpaths, Old Postbags, Old Waybills, Old Bowery Days, and the like, and now he brings to stamp collectors and to stamp collecting the same enthusiasm in a book entitled Paper Chase—The Amenities of Stamp Collecting. In this well illustrated book of 350 pages the story of stamp collecting is set down in an interesting fashion—more interesting perhaps than it could have been made by any collector—for collectors with few exceptions are not writers and cannot tell their story without becoming too technical for lay reading.

There are tales of early collectors and dealers and sketches of a few who lived by their wits some 60 years ago. The author tells of great finds of stamps, of methods of collecting and of types of collections and of other things too numerous to mention. Paper Chase will be of value in every collector's library and will be enjoyed by noncollectors as well. It is published by Henry Holt & Co., New York, at $2.75.

Philately thruout the world mourns the death of Charles J. Phillips, outstanding stamp dealer. During a long life he had become personally acquainted with more collectors perhaps than any other dealer in the world. He started as a dealer during his youth, became owner of Stanley Gibbons & Co., in 1890. He carried on that great establishment until 1922 when he sold the company and transferred his activities to America. He died at his home in New York June 2.

The meeting place of the Polonus Philatelic society has been changed to the Polish Musicians hall, 1727 West Chicago avenue.

WILLIAM SHINNICK

AUGUST 27 of 1858 was chill and drizzly, but the huge throng of 15,000 voters gathered in Freeport, Ill., took little notice of the weather. They had come together to hear the second of the most important series of debates ever held in America, and hear it they would.

On the packed platform a tall man, an awkward man, whose clothes seemed to fit him ill, arose. On loosely jointed legs he moved toward his audience, paused. Abraham Lincoln began to speak.

"Fellow citizens, ladies and gentlemen——"

There was an interruption. It came from Deacon William Bross, one of the owners of the Chicago Press and Tribune, as The Chicago Tribune was then known. The dialog that ensued is given below as reported in a newspaper unfriendly to Lincoln and to the Press and Tribune as well.

DEACON BROSS—Hold on, Lincoln, you can't speak yet. Hitt ain't here, and there is no use of your speaking unless the Press and Tribune has a report.

LINCOLN—Ain't Hitt here? Where is he?

A VOICE—Perhaps he is in the crowd.

BROSS—If Hitt is in this crowd he will please come forward. Is Hitt in the crowd? If he is, tell him Mr. Bross of the Chicago Press and Tribune wants him to come up here on the stand and make a verbatim report for the only paper in the northwest that has enterprise enough to publish speeches in full.

There was a moment of delay, of tense silence. Then from the far reaches of the massed audience there was a thin cry:

"Here I am, Mr. Lincoln, but I can't get thru to the stand."

It came from Hitt—Robert R. Hitt, the phonographic (shorthand) reporter so eagerly sought down front. He had been engaged by Joseph Medill, later the principal owner of The Tribune, and his associates to take down word for word the tremendous speeches of Lincoln and Stephen A. Douglas on slavery and its territorial expansion.

Hitt, who was to become an assistant secretary of state and also to serve 12 terms in congress, was then a slim youngster of 24 years. It is on record that he was lifted above the heads of the men who made up the crowd and was passed by their strong hands to his post of duty. Only when he was there, ready to work, did Abraham Lincoln consent to go on with his devastating speech.

This was but one of a multitude of instances that demonstrated to contemporaries and to impartial historians the close and abiding friendship between Lincoln, the modest but astute country lawyer, and The Chicago Tribune. (Only from 1858 until Oct. 25, 1860, was the name Press and Tribune used, and for convenience the shorter form will be employed henceforth in these articles.)

The relationship of the future President to Joseph Medill was particularly close. Their opinions had almost met on the slavery question long before they were personally acquainted. As a young man Medill became an unswerving abolitionist. Lincoln did not come to an extreme position so early, and there is evidence that Medill was an influence in strengthening his views.

Medill had come to Chicago in 1855 at the age of 32 to purchase an interest in The Tribune. Soon afterward he met Lincoln. One observer has reported that the Springfield lawyer, when he came to Chicago on professional business, spent many of his leisure hours at the Tribune office. He would climb the stairs, drape his feet on Medill's desk, and discuss politics and principles; and . . . "it was in these conferences that Mr. Medill would impress upon Lincoln the duty of taking the most advanced position 1907 Lieut. Col. George W. Goethals takes charge of construction of the Panama canal.

NARRATOR: Ladies and gentlemen, last year one of our fine Americans—Miss Kate Smith—introduced a great new song, a simple, inspired piece of music that I'm sure will have a lasting place among our national hymns. I mean, of course, Irving Berlin's "God Bless America." And I wish I could tell you all the things that used to go thru my mind as I heard her sing it on her program. Thoughts of this great country of ours—a mighty nation among the nations of the world. Millions of people—great busy cities—vast peaceful stretches of smiling farmland! Mountain and valley and great fertile plain—and all of it carved out of barren wilderness in less than 200 years!

And I thought of all these things again when I heard the "Ballad for Americans" broadcast here last Sunday. It carries the kind of message we Americans need. Especially now, in these troubled times, when the drums of war beat again and the world is filled with hate and destruction. Will Hays put it very effectively in a recent statement when he said:

"Today, when the orderly processes of society are collapsing under the detonation of bombing planes and long range guns, America more than ever represents a great ideal. America today holds in trust for mankind the political, cultural, and spiritual heritage of the human race."

That's a grand thought, isn't it? America—the youngest of all the great nations—with a responsibility like that! And I thought to myself—why not? Europe may have its traditions of ancestry and culture, but no country has a richer tradition of resourcefulness and courage, of loyalty and unswerving devotion than the history of our own pioneers teaches us.

As I said that to myself, I started thinking back—back to some of the glorious achievements of which we're all so proud—only a few years ago—1927, the 21st of May.

• • •

Far out over the lonely waters of the Atlantic, a tiny plane humming steadily toward the east. At the controls, a solitary boyish figure—symbol of American courage and determination! ONLY A HANDFUL had seen him off. But in Paris, at Le Bourget field, 100,000 anxious faces look up into the sky! Suddenly, out of the night, a little speck . . . a silver dot! It nears, it grows, it turns toward the field—and a great joyous shout goes up!

"HE COMES! HE COMES!" "IL EST ARRIVE!" "VIVE LE LINDBERGH!" "VIVE LE LINDBERGH!" "LINDBERGH!" Yesterday, unheralded and unknown—tonight, his name will ring around the world!

The courage of Lindbergh . . . multiply that courage by a million times and you have the story of America!

Think back a little further—just a few short years. A great misfortune had come upon a section of our land. Ground that had once been rich and moist and green with growing things, now lay parched and barren beneath a pall of thick brown dust—dust that choked the earth with dryness and with heat. It is the second year of the great dust storms, and a simple farmer and his wife stand grimly in the doorway of their little home.

FARMER: "Reckon we'll have to be movin' on, Ma."

WIFE: "Where to, John? The farm is all we've got. Our families've always lived here—long as we can remember. What'll we do? Where'll we go?"

FARMER: "Don't know exactly. But there must be land some place where a man can grow things. Wherever it is, I reckon we'll find it."

• • •

NARRATOR: "Wherever it is, we'll find it." The courage of a simple farmer. Multiply that courage by a million times, and you have the story of America—a nation that would not be defeated in peace OR war. My memory takes me back a little farther—1914! Again we hear the beat of martial drums! Europe is torn and ravaged by war! The conflict spreads from land to sea! In desperation a ruthless new naval weapon is brought into action!

SAILOR: "U-boat! Submarine on the port side!"

OFFICER: "Passengers on deck! Stand by the lifeboats! All hands take your stations!"

WOMAN: "They wouldn't dare! We're Americans! They wouldn't dare to——(LOUD EXPLOSION).

NEWSBOYS: "Extry! Extry! Lusitania sunk!" "Americans on torpedoed ship!" "Extry!"

NARRATOR: The Lusitania sunk! American lives lost! Repeated warnings from the White House are ignored . . . April 6, 1917! And America is in it—to make the world safe for democracy . . . ! Soldiers of war—soldiers of peace! Backward the pages of history turn. Back thru the years—but now a different note in the throbbing roll of drums. Americans mobilize on another frontier—gather an army—a peacetime army, to complete a work that will amaze the world! The scene is Panama. The year is 1907. The French lost millions of dollars and thousands of lives in their brave but futile attempt to build the Panama canal. Now they have departed. The United States has taken over, and preliminary work has started. Lieut. Col. George W. Goethals has arrived to supervise the undertaking.

OFFICER: "This is a big job, Col. Goethals. Some people think we won't have any better luck than the French."

GOETHALS: "I think we will."

OFFICER: "But what would you say if some one told you we are making a mistake in even trying to build a canal in Panama?"

GOETHALS: "I wouldn't say anything. I'd just build the canal."

NARRATOR: Many years of endless labor—heartbreaking struggle against disease and insects and tropic heat. American courage against jungle terrors. Then, it is 1914! The work is done! The first ship is passing thru the Panama canal!

And while the whole country celebrates and shouts the praises of Col. Goethals, a lone figure in civilian clothes stands silently on the bank of the canal, staring into the waters—

GUARD: "You'll have to clear out, Mister. No one's allowed up here near the locks."

MAN: "I'm sorry."

GUARD: "Say, why aren't you up at the camp celebrating with the rest?"

MAN: "I'd rather be down here."

GUARD: "You seem pretty interested in this here canal."

MAN: "Well, I am—a little. My name is Goethals."

NARRATOR: THAT'S why we're proud. That's part of the American tradition. Courage and vision to fight the everyday battles. Look at the record. Turn back the pages! Back thru the years! Years filled with progress—with creative achievement! The year is 1903!

RUBE: "Now, Ma, maybe them Wright boys are crazy, like ye say. But I warn't dreamin'—an' I warn't drinkin'! I'm tellin' ye the dang thing FLEW!"

NARRATOR: 1893——!

MAN: "Mr. Edison, this machine of yours will bring happiness to millions! Some day these moving pictures may revolutionize the theater!"

PAT O'BRIEN

The narrator of "Pageant of America." O'Brien's current role for Warner Bros. is one depicting the life of Knute Rockne of Notre Dame.

NARRATOR: 1883—A country growing; a country prospering. . . . In New York the city is bursting its bonds—stretching its arms two miles across the East river! A modern miracle. THE BROOKLYN BRIDGE!

No—there wasn't anything Americans couldn't do. Building feverishly, growing, expanding! But wars always come to interrupt a nation's work. In 1898 from Cuba—Havana harbor—the echo of a historic explosion!

"Remember the Maine!" And again the drums! War with Spain! Great names are made. Young Teddy Roosevelt at San Juan hill! Commodore Dewey at Manila bay! Cuba is liberated!

Americans have rallied to the aid of a helpless neighbor! Now see how they rally to help their own! Backward to the year 1889! Johnstown, Pa.! 1889!

VOICES: "Never saw a rain like this!" "The river's rising!" "It'll weaken the dam!" "What'll happen if the dam goes?" "It's going!"

MAN: "The dam! The dam is going out!"

VOICES: "Run for your lives!" "The dam is out!" "We'll all be drowned!" "My baby! My baby!" "Run for your lives!" "Run! Run!"

NARRATOR: In Pittsburgh, the next day—the mayor addresses a massmeeting!

MAYOR: "Ladies and gentlemen, I've been to Johnstown! I've seen with my own eyes—death and destruction, suffering and horror. Those people need food and clothing and medicine! It's up to us!"

MAN: "We can't get within five miles of the town, sir! The railroad tracks are washed out!"

MAYOR: "We'll carry in supplies on our BACKS, if we have to!"

2D MAN: "But the bridge is gone!"

MAYOR: "We'll build another! We'll get thru somehow!"

VOICE: "We'll need money!"

MAN: "I'll give $25!"

WIFE: "John, we can't afford it."

MAN: "We've got to afford it. These people need it."

VOICES: "Three thousand!" "Put me down for five thousand!" "Ten thousand!" "I'll send a carload of flour." "They'll need milk and clothing . . ."

NARRATOR: And Pittsburgh was only an example of what took place in a hundred cities. The generosity of a people overflowing! Food, money, clothing, medicine! THAT was America united in the face of tragedy! —But—there were other moments—moments when America was divided—moments of crisis. Backward the pages turn—to the turbulent, bitter days of the 1850's! From the south!

SOUTHERN: "Gentlemen, we cannot live without slavery!"

NARRATOR: From the north!

NORTHERN: "Gentlemen, we cannot live WITH slavery!"

NARRATOR: In Illinois, a poor and shabby lawyer—a tall, gaunt, and very gentle soul—has been nominated for congress!

LINCOLN: "A house divided against itself cannot stand. . . . I do not expect the Union to be dissolved. I do not expect the house to fall. But I do expect it will cease to be divided. It will become all one thing, or all the other."

NARRATOR: The bitterness grows! Friction increases! Dec. 20, 1860!

SOUTHERN: "The sovereign state of South Carolina herewith announces its secession from the Union!"

"Georgia!" "Alabama!" "Mississippi!" "Louisiana!" "Florida!"

NARRATOR: On both sides tempers flaring! Nerves strained! April 12, 1861! Fort Sumter, at Charleston, S. C.!

They have fired on Fort Sumter!!

• • •

Brother is fighting against brother—yes, even father against son! It's come at last! Civil war!

And in the White House now—that shabby, gentle country lawyer—the man from Illinois! He travels to Gettysburg to dedicate a battleground. Words the world will never forget!

LINCOLN: "That we here highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain; that this nation, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom; and that government of the people, by the people, for the people, shall not perish from the earth."

NARRATOR: Bull Run! Gettysburg! Shiloh! The Wilderness!

LINCOLN; "With malice toward none—with charity for all."

NARRATOR: Antietam! Vicksburg! Chickamauga! Manassas! Harper's Ferry! Fredericksburg! Richmond! Appomattox! April 9, 1865! The war is over!

LINCOLN: "No one need expect me to take any part in hanging or killing those men we have fought. The war is over. We must extinguish our resentments if we expect harmony and union."

NARRATOR: And that very night, April 14—at Ford's theater in Washington—a pistol shot! The gentle, kindly voice is stilled in death—but in a nation's heart honest Abe Lincoln is enshrined forever!

Now turn the pages back again! Backward, still backward—past horror and hatred. Back to the early 1800's. A virile young nation is spreading its wings! A great new nation is taking form . . . 1803! The Louisiana Purchase! The Great Northwest! Michigan! Illinois! Texas! California! The nation has spread from coast to to coast. Then suddenly, in 1848—news that thrills the world! At John Sutter's place, near Sacramento, Cal.!

MEN: "Gold! Gold!! Gold!!! GOLD!"

NARRATOR: And now by the thousands they flock to the west. By ship, by wagon, even on foot. New cities and new industries—until one crying want is felt by all. A railroad that will join them to the east. Impossible, they said, but the work went forward! Men of Ireland, Russians, Poles, Swedes, Italians, Germans—men of all nations working side by side, shoulder to shoulder! An almost superhuman task! Two gleaming lines of steel! One from the east, one from the west! Creeping toward each other thru an unfriendly wilderness. Seven long years! Thru cold, and hunger, and Indian attack! to 1869! the 10th of May! The two lines meet! They touch! And President Sidney Dillon of the Union Pacific prepares to drive the final spike.

WOMAN: "Will you look now—that spike is made of gold!"

MAN: "Sure, and why not? 'Tis a golden day for us all. There! The railroad's finished!"

WOMAN: "Aye, so 'tis finished. The work is done. No east or west. We all are one."

• • •

NARRATOR: From Atlantic to Pacific, one nation, one people—bound together by common ideals—courage, perseverance, Yankee ingenuity—giving the fruits of their work to the world. The Atlantic cable—the telegraph—the McCormick reaper! Progress, creation, invention that changed the very face of the globe. Years of growth—but before that we remember those years, starting in 1812, when the infant nation was being tested. The immortal words of Capt. Lawrence—"Don't give up the ship!" Perry, at Lake Erie! "We have met the enemy and they are ours!" Years that saw a people welding into lasting union! And back beyond that, our country's birth! The Declaration of Independence!

JEFFERSON: "We hold these truths to be self-evident; that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain inalienable rights; that among these are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness."

NARRATOR: The revolution—cradle of American liberty! The fiery words of Patrick Henry!

HENRY: "I care not what course others may pursue, but as for me, give me liberty or give me death!"

NARRATOR: Brave Nathan Hale!

HALE: "I only regret that I have but one life to lose for my country."

NARRATOR: Washington, Jefferson, Hamilton, Monroe! Names burned deep into the pages of our history!

Yes, ours is a noble heritage—a glorious tradition of courage and valor and devotion to ideals . . . its seeds planted deep in our American life! Let us guard it well! To quote from the recent speech of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh—"Let us guard America today as our forefathers guarded it in the past. They won this country from Europe with a handful of revolutionary soldiers. We certainly can hold it now with a population of 130 million people. If we cannot, we are unworthy to have it!"

Looking at Hollywood with ED SULLIVAN

Movie Dance Stars' Day Waning

Hollywood.

IF YOU can judge by the scant box office receipts of "Broadway Melody of 1940," the movie fans have turned thumbs down on dancing in general as a cinematic art, and tap dancing in particular. In "Broadway Melody of 1940" Messrs. Fred Astaire and George Murphy, aided and abetted by Eleanor Powell, did more tap dancing than you ever have seen in a moving picture, and the fans simply didn't go to look at them. If the movie patrons aren't interested in Astaire and Powell, then tap dancing as a movie complement is deader than a doornail, because they don't come any better.

Once upon a time, and that not so far distant, Fred Astaire jammed theaters with Ginger Rogers. Once upon a time, too, Eleanor Powell was the new wonder girl of the screen. Apparently those days are gone forever. Just how many millions of dollars streamed thru the box office grilles for the Astaire-Rogers partnership is a matter of speculation, but the total amount must have amounted close to ten million dollars. Their pictures busted records at New York, Chicago, Kansas City, and Chillicothe, O., and busted records in Europe. Theater owners eagerly advertised "Flying Down to Rio," "Follow the Fleet," "Top Hat," "Dancing Lady," "The Gay Divorcée," "Roberta," "Swing Time," "Carefree," and "Shall We Dance?" But, starting with "The Life of Vernon and Irene Castle," the movie fans indicated that enough was enough, and since then the dancing stars have been on the way out.

The box office collapse of Astaire can be traced to several causes. Most eloquent is the fact that he made "Flying Down to Rio" in 1933. The fact that he lasted eight years is its own explanation and his own best tribute, because when he came to the movies it was predicted freely that he would be washed up after five pictures. Hollywood felt that tap dancing was not a staple product; Astaire proved that it was for eight years.

HAL LE ROY

The chief weakness of dancing, as Hollywood viewed it, was the difficulty of using dances to progress a story. Dances could be inserted as specialties, but it was difficult to employ them to further a plot. Astaire and Ginger Rogers overcame this because he was such a brilliant dance constructionist. He tailored dances to fit into story sequences, and, largely because of his powers of improvisation, he got more mileage out of his dancing shoes than any other dancer ever has accomplished on the screen.

Canny Ginger Rogers realized first that dancing was on the way out in the movies. Her break-away from Astaire and her decision to play comedy and straight dramatic rôles was a wise preparation for the days when tap dancing and ballroom dancing would be considered oldtimey. In that respect Ginger was much better off than Fred, because while she was never his dancing equal, she was better fitted for other rôles than he was. Her rôle in "Stage Door" and her comedy portrayal in "Bachelor Mother" proved that.

Ginger's preparation was well timed. As she anticipated, dancing became passé with movie audiences. Zorina won temporary fame as a toe dancer, but you can doubt that toe dancing will have any extensive tenure on movie life.

Whether or not dancing per se ever will recapture popular imagination as Astaire and Rogers captured it is open to doubt. Certainly the heel-and-toe renaissance cannot be accomplished for years, if then. The movies, progressing in cycles, have veered sharply from dancing, and when a subject dies in the movies it is a long, long time before a pulmotor can be applied effectively.

This is the end of the dancing era. Astaire and Ginger Rogers got more out of it than Hollywood ever anticipated. Eleanor Powell had a brief moment of world-wide fame, but her inability to act even a little doomed her to early extinction. Bill Robinson enjoyed momentary success in the Shirley Temple flickers. Paul Draper, Hal Le Roy, Georgie Tapps, and Betty Grable had fleeting success.

Astaire, by contrast, was hugely successful. He probably made $1,000,000 before the public changed its fancy, and a million dollars ain't hay.

VOICE OF THE MOVIE FAN

Letters published in this department should be written on one side of the paper. If you wish a personal reply please inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Dear Miss Tinée: I am very interested in your column, and I read it every Sunday. Altho I am only 13 years old, I am interested in movie stars, especially Ann Sheridan. I am the only child, and I sometimes get very lonely. I wish that some one might write to me thru you. I hope you will publish this letter, because I would like very much for some one to correspond with. My address is below, so I hope to hear from some one soon. Until then I remain, sincerely,

SHIRLEY B.
5208 Eddy street, Chicago.

ANN SHERIDAN

Editor's note: Wouldn't it be WONDERFUL if maybe Miss Sheridan should see this letter and write to a lonely little girl! Come and see us in our corner again—soon—my dear!

Dear Miss Tinée: I have a complaint to make about the raw deal Bob Taylor is getting. I have been a Taylor fan for a long time, and I have seen every one of his pictures, including those made before he became a star. In 1938 Bob was No. 4 on the big ten list, and in 1939 he was No. 11. Why? Surely his marriage didn't hinder him any, and his acting hasn't gone sour. I think that the fault for his loss in popularity belongs to his studio. The best picture Bob ever made (in my opinion) was "Magnificent Obsession," and that was quite some time ago. After that his pictures were pretty bad and thru no fault of his own he was tagged "Pretty Boy," "Glamor Boy," etc. Well, his studio decided to prove that Taylor had hair on his chest and gave him rôles which proved the point. These pictures proved that Taylor was a man but didn't give him a chance to really act. You probably think I'm talking thru my hat, but I know that a couple of recent pictures will put Bob Taylor up where he belongs. Come on, M-G-M, give a swell fellow a break.

Gee, I feel better since I had my say. In closing I want to wish you and your column lots of luck. Yours truly, B. P.

Editor's note: Whew! I bet that was a relief. Thanks—and the same to you!

Dear Miss Tinée: I have never written to you before, but, as the old saying goes, "there is always a first time."

I have read quite a few of your reviews, and, being very frank, I would say that some I enjoyed and others I didn't. But taken as a whole you have a very excellent taste for good movies, one of which was "Only Angels Have Wings." I am wondering if it could be possible to give me a little information about Thomas Mitchell, who was featured in that movie.

Hoping that you will be able to decipher this penmanship, I remain, very truly yours,

TED GRISH.

Editor's note: Welcome! Don't let your first time be your last! Mr. Mitchell was born in Elizabeth, N. J., July 11, 1895. Married and has a daughter. Started career as a newspaper reporter. Has appeared in, written, and directed many plays. Your writing is both legible and unusual. I "deciphered" it with pleasure.

Dear Miss Tinée: Recently I saw the movie "On Your Toes" and enjoyed it very much. Eddie Albert, who played the leading male rôle in this picture, impressed me very much. I think he's just simply grand. I wonder if you would be kind enough to print a picture of him. Also, where could I write to obtain a photo of Mr. Albert? Thank you.

Z. PARDUS.

EDDIE ALBERT

Editor's note: Glad to oblige with a nice picture of Eddie. You can obtain a photo of him by writing Warners-First National studio, Burbank, Cal. The usual cost for photographs is 25 cents.

THOUSANDS RAVE ABOUT NEW TEEL LIQUID WAY TO BEAUTIFY TEETH

Proper dental care can make a lot of difference in the beauty and "clean feel" of your teeth. See for yourself!

There's Beauty in Every Drop

Discovery of Revolutionary New Dentifrice Cleansing Agent Hailed Marvel of Modern Science

Utterly Without Abrasives. Can't Scratch Tooth Enamel

ALREADY, millions have quit tooth pastes, powders for this amazing new liquid dentifrice—Teel. So utterly different in what it is. The way it cleans; thus beautifies teeth.

The four-year development of the scientists of the famous Procter & Gamble Research Laboratories, Teel came as a revolutionary new idea. Not a powder. Not a paste. Teel is utterly free from pumice, grit. No abrasives of any kind. No acid. No bleach. Teel is entirely new.

A Revolutionary New Idea

Teel is the result of a remarkable discovery. A patented, new super-cleansing, foam-charged agent. Not soap—yet multiplies over 30 times in the mouth! In all but certain exceptional cases, dingy, film-dulled teeth brushed daily the Teel way appear whiter, brighter, more beautiful.

Wholly non-abrasive, Teel is not only safe for enamel, but marvelously smooth for gum massage. Many claim for it extra advantages of a mouthwash—teeth "feel" so amazingly clean; mouth gloriously refreshed.

To Help Avoid Bad Breath

Teel's super-charged tiny bubbles sweep, surge, foam over enamel—between teeth. To help brush get out decaying food particles, cause of much bad breath. Thus, Teel helps avoid this offense. Your breath sweeter. Safer.

Then, too, the Teel way is so economical. Only a few drops required. Thickened, will not roll off brush. No mess. No waste. Often a month's brushings in the 10¢ size.

Get Teel Today from drug, department or 10¢ stores. Brush your teeth morning and night. Visit your dentist regularly for check-up. With this proper care, see how much more beautiful your teeth look.

War Demonstrates Need of Rapid, Heavy Guns

By WAYNE THOMIS

THE LONGER the war lasts the more important become aircraft armament problems. As predicted more than a year ago, the light machine gun that has been standard equipment on most of the world's fighting planes for 20 years has been found inadequate in the light of today's speeds and the need for relatively long-range engagements between airplanes. The trend, as we said then, is toward the automatic cannon, because this weapon fires an explosive shell that with one hit can do more damage than two or three hundred machine gun bullets.

Our own army air corps experts recently announced that the .30-caliber machine gun is virtually useless in battles involving aircraft. At the moment they cling to .50-caliber machine guns and a few 37-millimeter automatic cannon that have been installed on three of the latest types of pursuit planes. In Europe the British and French believe in multiple armament—British pursuits have eight of the light machine guns as standard, and the French use six light machine guns and a 20-millimeter cannon on their pursuits.

But the English already are realizing the inadequacy of their weapons, and light cannon have been installed on both the standard single-seater fighter types—Spitfires and Hurricanes. A recent report from London says that the airplanes so equipped have both been used in combat and both were victorious over German raiders. There were no further details, but the impression was given that the cannon had made the fighters considerably more formidable than they previously were.

• • •

The newest German fighters, both the Focke-Wulf pusher and the Messerschmitt 110, are equipped with 20 or 23 millimeter cannon, as well as several machine guns of the .312 caliber universal for German infantry rifles and light automatic guns.

Let us look at the balance sheet for and against machine guns as weapons for aircraft. Experience over 25 years has shown the following points to favor the light machine gun:

1. Light weight.
2. No great bulk.
3. High speed of fire.
4. Easily installed and operated.
5. Technically reliable.

The disadvantages are:

1. The effect of solid projectiles is not sufficiently destructive on large metal airplanes whose vital parts are less than one-fifth of the total surface.
2. The trajectory of the projectiles is not flat enough to insure accuracy at distances above 60 yards.

The experts say that the disadvantages can be overcome by using a shell carrying an explosive charge and a sensitive fuse, and by increasing the muzzle velocity sufficiently to flatten the trajectory over a range of from 500 to 1,000 yards.

There are, of course, a number of types of small cannon that more or less fit these requirements. A typical gun is the Oerlikon, manufactured by the Oerlikon Machine Tool Works, Zurich-Oerlikon, Switzerland. Another is the American Armament corporation gun manufactured in the United States. There are several Swedish cannon of this type, two German types, and an Italian gun. The French use a modified Oerlikon that is made by the Hispano-Suiza motor company specifically for use in the geared V-12 Hispano-Suiza aircraft motor.

.312 caliber, 200 feet.

.50 caliber, 250 feet.

20 to 25 millimeter or .788 to .985 caliber, 500 feet.

37 millimeter or 1.45 inch caliber, 1,800 to 2,750 feet (depending on barrel length).

The American .30-caliber rifle has a muzzle velocity of 2,700 feet per second. This is approximately the muzzle velocity of the 20 to 25 millimeter cannon, altho the cannon has considerably more muzzle energy, which means that the drop in velocity of the cannon's projectile is not so rapid as that of the machine gun. The 37-millimeter cannon has velocities ranging from about 2,700 to nearly 4,000 feet per second. Naturally the larger-calibered automatic cannon has a much flatter trajectory and consequently can be fired at much greater range with equal accuracy.

Consider the difficulties of hitting a target with a machine gun that has a muzzle velocity of 2,700 feet per second in a combat between two 300-mile-an-hour airplanes. At a distance of 3,000 feet the time of the flight of the bullet from gun to target, because of the bullet's diminishing speed, amounts to about 2 seconds. In the meantime the target has traveled nearly 800 feet. The slightest error in estimating the speed allowance therefore results in missing the target. At 200 feet the time element is .07 second, which accounts for the effectiveness of fire at that close range.

Entirely aside from speed of a shell or bullet, the accuracy of aiming is small for the following reasons: High speeds of modern airplanes; the airplane gun platform is not steady, because it is subject to constant movement due to air currents; the accuracy of an automatic weapon is far less than that of a gun firing single shots. The reason for the latter point is that the vibrations of the machine gun are still affecting its barrel from a previous round when each new shot is fired. This is particularly true in weapons firing from 800 to 1,200 rounds a minute.

The automatic cannon fire at much slower rates and consequently are more accurate. The 20-millimeter cannon fire at speeds up to 300 rounds a minute. The 37-millimeter guns are still slower. The short-barreled gun fires at 120 rounds a minute and the long-barreled rifle at 85 a minute. Both of these cannon are usually equipped with magazines holding from 30 to 60 shells. They are expected to be fired in short bursts of from five to ten shots at a time. It has been found impossible for pilots to hold the guns on the target for periods longer than time for these bursts.

Preference of our own air corps for the heavier 37-millimeter gun rises from the following points: The shell is sufficiently heavy to disable virtually any plane it strikes, whether or not the shot is in a so-called vital spot, i. e., the pilot, engine, or fuel tanks; and, second, the 37-millimeter shell is the smallest explosive shell for which a "bore-safe" fuse is available.

The 20-millimeter cannon have fuses that sometimes allow the shells to explode in the barrel of the gun by the jolt from the firing charge. With the 37-millimeter shell such accidents are impossible, because the fuse is so arranged that it is not "alive" until after the projectile has left the gun muzzle. The gyroscopic effect upon the shell in passing thru the gun's rifling screws the fuse to its live position.

As an informal guess, this department estimates that the need for large-caliber guns will have a profound effect upon the size of pursuit craft as the war continues. Instead of building small machines the belligerents will tend to construct progressively larger ships to accommodate the cannon and heavy machine guns. While there probably will always be single-engined fighters, the trend, we believe, is toward multi-engined combat ships.

WHO ARE THEY?

DIP A PAINT BRUSH INTO COLOR—and let yourself go!

Jane—you didn't tell me you were an interior decorator!
Silly, I'm not. Anybody can do what I'm doing with such lovely colors to choose from!
WAX O NAMEL

You'll be Proud of a Finish like this . . . Smooth as Velvet . . . Lustrous as Satin!

HAVEN'T YOU OFTEN wanted to cheer up a somber room—without spending a lot of money?

It's easy to make this dream come true. You can do it with these gorgeous new colors—some bright and vivid—some soft and subtle—that were created by a famous interior decorator.

DIP A PAINT BRUSH into these colors and you have the best cosmetic in the world for rooms and fittings that are beginning to show their age.

And this is the year to do it—because these colors are yours in a history-making new kind of enamel!

IT'S CALLED WAX-O-NAMEL—and it's made by the makers of Johnson's Wax. It combines enamel with real wax. Every brush stroke dries with a rich wax polish.

There's none of the harsh glare that ordinary enamels give—just a lovely, mellow lustre.

AND REMEMBER, the fresh colorful new beauty that Johnson's Wax-O-Namel gives is wax-protected. This new kind of enamel wears longer because wax makes the finish hard to scratch or mar. And wax also makes it easier to dust and clean.

Check the listing below and select the dealer you want to buy from. Get some tomorrow.

YOU'LL DISCOVER it's fun to color-decorate with Johnson's Wax-O-Namel.

Color-Decorate Your Home This New Way
. . . with This New Kind of Enamel . . .

JOHNSON'S WAX·O·NAMEL

. . . it contains wax . . . dries with a smooth, satiny wax finish

Unsurpassed for one-coat coverage. Leaves no brush marks.

A Lovelier, Smooth Finish. Slide your fingers over a Wax-O-Nameled surface and you'll find it smooth as a china plate. That's because this colorful new kind of enamel contains wax. And wax also gives the finish a mellow rich polished look.

Longer Wearing—By Test. Tests show that Wax-O-Namel stays new-looking far longer than ordinary enamels. It resists marring to a remarkable degree—doesn't scratch easily because of the extra protection wax gives to any surface.

Easier to Dust and Clean. Dust doesn't cling to a Wax-O-Nameled surface because it is so smooth. Fingerprints and dirt wipe off quickly. And even after repeated washing a Wax-O-Nameled finish doesn't lose its lovely distinctive satiny lustre.

"Since I put him on PARD, my Spaniel's been in Excellent Health!"

Says Miss Jeanne Jacques of Detroit

A certified statement from Miss Jeanne Jacques, Detroit, Michigan

"Six months ago my Cocker Spaniel, Poochie, suffered from a severe skin ailment. We tried just everything, but his condition failed to improve. Then, a neighbor suggested that we try Pard—and I certainly am glad we did! Within a month Poochie's skin healed completely and ever since then Poochie won't touch anything but Pard. And thanks to Pard, his health has been excellent!"

The facts of this case history were sworn to before me on April 20th, 1940—Walter C. Rath, Notary Public.

In all, Pard has weaned 290 dogs at Swift's Research Kennels. While on Pard, none ever experienced any of the common ailments caused by hit-or-miss feeding!

In the dog world—excessive shedding, listlessness, dietary skin irritation, and nervousness are widespread complaints. Leading veterinarians say that these and many other common ailments are, in the main, due to faulty feeding.

But here's reassuring news from Pard's Generation Feeding Study. 5 successive generations of registered dogs have been raised exclusively on Pard without a single diet-caused complaint. All matured in sturdy, vigorous health—conformed well to the standards of their breeds.

Such a record points to the benefits your own dog can derive from a Pard diet. Start him on nutritionally balanced Pard now—he'll love it!

Playful . . . peppy . . . that's the way Pard-fed dogs at Swift's Research Kennels are and have always been! Pard'll keep your dog in tip-top condition, too!

Lincoln and the Tribune

on any paramount issue of the time."

A stirring time it was. The west, which meant then most of the Mississippi valley, was rapidly being settled by emigrants from the east and south. New territories were being formed and soon would be states. Southerners were taking their slaves into the new lands. The bitter problem was: Should the territories recognize the servitude of the colored man as an institution?

Out of the turmoil was born the Republican party. Joseph Medill had done important pioneering work for it. As early as 1852, as an Ohio editor, he had urged a new party in which Free Soilers, Whigs, and northern anti-slave Democrats could coalesce. He had suggested the name Republican.

In March, 1854, he called a meeting of friends and acquaintances whom he knew he could depend upon, men who had been members of one or another of the three old parties. About 20 of them responded, meeting with him one evening in his editorial offices in Cleveland.

At this session, which was more or less secret, Mr. Medill proposed that a new political party be formed, to be called the Republican party. A brisk discussion followed, centered mostly upon the proposed name. It was around midnight when a vote finally was taken. Two-thirds of those present backed Mr. Medill's plan, which was reduced to form in some such fashion as this:

Name of the new party: Republican.

Platform: No more slave states; no more slave territory; resistance to pro-slavery aggression; slavery is sectional, liberty is national.

The platform was composed in part by Mr. Medill, and the meeting itself has been recognized as the beginning of the Republican party. At Jackson, Mich., in July of 1854 a convention of anti-slave advocates actually formed the Republican party.

Its tenets were spread slowly. It was scarcely known in Illinois when Joseph Medill arrived in the raw young metropolis of Chicago and, with Dr. Charles H. Ray as partner, bought the bankrupt Tribune and went about setting it on its feet (a matter of less than a month).

JOSEPH MEDILL

No real Republican organization work was done until 1856. Abraham Lincoln was little more than a local phenomenon, a lawyer who had served a single term in congress without attracting much attention; an engaging personality who was better known for his feats of strength and story-telling abilities than for statesmanship. The fire within him was still covered.

• • •

In February of 1856 the Republicans of Illinois held a convention in Decatur, and Dr. Ray of The Tribune, a delegate, and Lincoln drew up the resolutions there adopted. In general they were a protest against extension of slavery and were of a nonsectional and conservative nature.

This convention called for a state-wide gathering of all anti-slave-extension forces to be held on May 29 in Bloomington. It was at this gathering that a welding of a compact Republican organization was accomplished. Joseph Medill was present in the dual character of reporter and delegate, and, like the rest of the 270 in attendance, was spellbound when Lincoln made a speech, a magnificent forensic effort that was never published in full and has gone into historical tradition as the famous "lost speech."

Never before had Medill heard Lincoln's oratory. He was so enthralled, so deeply caught in the vast emotional sweep of the tall lawyer's presentation of the anti-slavery case, that he forgot to take notes. All the other reporters were similarly affected. Only when Lincoln was thru did the publisher-reporter remember that he was to send his paper a story. Long years afterward Medill was to tell of the occasion:

"There stood Lincoln in the forefront hurling thunderbolts at the foes of freedom, while the great convention roared its indorsement. I never witnessed such a scene before or since." And further: "My belief is that after Mr. Lincoln had cooled down he was rather pleased that his speech had not been reported, as it was too radical on the slavery question for the digestion of central and southern Illinois at that time, and he preferred to let it stand as a remembrance in the minds of his audience. But . . . the effect of it was such on his hearers that he bounded to the leadership of the new Republican party in Illinois and no man after that ever thought of disputing that position with him."

Stephen A. Douglas

A contemporary artist's conception of Abraham Lincoln's law office at Springfield.

Altho the Republicans that year failed to carry Illinois for Fremont, the presidential nominee, they elected a Republican state ticket headed by Gov. William Bissell. Now confident in their strength, they looked forward to the senatorial contest of 1858.

Stephen A. Douglas was the incumbent Democrat, an able politician and debater. He was an advocate of "squatter sovereignty," under which it was proposed that the settlers of each new territory be allowed to determine whether they would or would not tolerate slavery. Almost as a matter of course Lincoln was given the Republican nomination by a convention on June 16, 1858.

At that convention he made a speech which included the following: "A house divided against itself cannot stand. I believe that this government cannot endure permanently half slave and half free. I do not expect the Union to be dissolved —I do not expect this house to fall—but I do expect it will cease to be divided."

The Tribune printed the speech in full and called it "statesmanlike" and "masterly." Almost immediately it began a titanic effort to elect Lincoln. It announced that, to show its "confidence in the superiority of Mr. Lincoln," it would print the speeches he made alongside those of Douglas.

THE ARTIST Eda Nemoede Casterton, the artist who painted the portrait of Abraham Lincoln which is reproduced in its original colors on page one of this section, is known both in this country and abroad. She began her career in art at the Minneapolis School of Art under the tutelage of Robert Koehler. Later she studied in Chicago under Virginia Reynolds, Ralph Clarkson, and Lawton Parker, and in Paris under Henry S. Hubbell. From the French capital she returned to Chicago to round out her studies under Leopold Seiffert and John W. Norton. The miniature "Miss Goss" brought Mrs. Casterton an invitation to membership in the British Royal Society of Miniature Painters and a bronze medal from the Sesquicentennial exposition at Philadelphia. The photograph of Lincoln, taken in Chicago in 1859 by S. M. Fassett, was widely popular during the campaign of 1860. The original is in the collection of F. H. Meserve of New York City.

On July 22 an editorial demanded: "Shall we have the noble and true Lincoln as the associate of the gallant and faithful Trumbull in the United States senate, or shall it be Douglas with his 'don't care whether slavery is voted up or voted down'?"

Lincoln, despite the growth of Republican sentiment, needed the kind of help Medill and his associates could give. Douglas had the prestige of office, a wide acquaintance, and a pretty fair political machine. His followers were active; he could command crowds wherever he went. Many voters in central and southern Illinois held pro-slavery views; everywhere Lincoln, the comparatively unknown, would have to get his case before the people.

The Tribune worked to that end. Its editors saw the advantage of a series of joint debates; if these could be forced, Douglas' crowds would be Lincoln's crowds, too, and the merits of the man and the cause could be fully exploited. Douglas was cold to the idea. The Tribune compelled him to consent.

On July 28 there was an editorial that in scathing terms declared the senator's reply to Lincoln's challenge to debate was "cowardly and contemptible." It asserted "the little dodger shirks," that he was "pettifogging," that he was afraid of "Long Abe." With bitter humor it pointed out that it was easier for Douglas to go about the country with his "cannon, toadies, and puffers" than it was to work against a "full-grown man." The candidates should meet in the "usual western style." Douglas, The Tribune said, had "conspired to Africanize the American continent."

Under such barrages of criticism the unwilling Douglas forces weakened and the series of seven debates was arranged. That was one of the outstanding contributions of The Tribune to Lincoln and Republicanism.

"In 1856," said Medill, "I made as strong a fight for Fremont as was in my power; worked for Abraham Lincoln against Douglas for senator in 1858; printed verbatim the great debates in which those two were engaged, and in 1859 began pushing Mr. Lincoln for the presidency."

DR. C. H. RAY

• • •

On Aug. 12, 1858, The Tribune reached beyond its regular subscription list for Lincoln votes; it offered at a reasonable cost pamphlet copies of Lincoln speeches. On Aug. 18 it printed a news item in part as follows:

"The first grand encounter between the champions of Slavery and Freedom—Douglas and Lincoln, takes place at Ottawa on Saturday afternoon, Aug. 21. . . . A special train will leave the Rock Island depot at 8 a. m. . . . Passengers will be carried the round trip for half fare. . . . How big a crowd is going from this city? The Lincoln boys should be on hand."

On Aug. 21 the "full phonographic verbatim report" was promised, and the advice added: "Let all who can be present hear the champions, and all who can not should read and judge for themselves." On Aug. 24 The Tribune announced that an extra edition of 2,000 copies of the first debate report had been sold in a few hours and a third edition printed and disposed of the same day (23d).

On Aug. 25 and 26 attention was called to the debate at Freeport on the 27th. The rail fare would be $4.35 instead of the customary $7.20, round trip. Attendance was urged.

Joseph Medill rode into Freeport with Lincoln by train. On the way they talked seriously, and Lincoln submitted to his friend a series of questions he proposed to propound to Douglas. Medill studied them.

"Mr. Lincoln," he said, "I do not like the second question."

"What's the objection to it?" Lincoln demanded.

"It opens the door," replied Medill, "thru which Senator Douglas will be enabled to escape from a tight place in which he finds himself on the slavery question, since he succeeded in getting the Missouri compromise repealed [which excluded slavery from the territories north of 36° 30'], and that included, of course, Kansas and Nebraska."

Lincoln, however, was obdurate, and that afternoon he posed the question to Douglas. It was:

"Can the people of a United States territory, in any lawful way, against the wish of any citizen of the United States, exclude slavery from its limits prior to the formation of a state constitution?"

Douglas replied: "In my opinion the people of a territory can, by lawful means, exclude slavery from their limits prior to the formation of a state constitution. It matters not what way the Supreme court may hereafter decide whether slavery may or may not go into a territory under the constitution; the people have the lawful means to introduce it or exclude it as they please, for the reason that slavery cannot exist . . . anywhere unless it is supported by local police regulations."

He went on to say that only the local legislature could establish police rules, and that representatives would effectually keep slavery out if the people were unfriendly to it.

To an audience of free men, nonslaveholders, the reply seemed reasonable. Douglas was applauded. It did not, however, sit well with southern Democrats, who preferred the theory that slavery could exist by right in any territory until statehood was achieved.

More than two years later, when Lincoln was President elect, Joseph Medill visited him in Springfield. Lincoln took Medill aside and asked in a low tone whether he remembered their argument over the question. Medill remembered very well.

"Now," asked Lincoln, "don't you think I was right in putting that question?"

"Yes, Mr. Lincoln, you were, and we were both right. Douglas' reply undoubtedly hurt him for the presidency [Douglas was nominee of a Democratic party wing in 1860], but it reëlected him to the senate at that time, as I feared it would."

Lincoln said with a smile, "Now I have won the place that he was playing for."

Even with the question, the campaign was a close one. Douglas was reported to have raised $50,000 in New York and to have expended $80,000 of his own. Lincoln spent only $1,000 of his own. But The Tribune and Medill and others helped mightily in organization work during the senatorial race. Medill was a member of the state central committee, which persuaded leaders like Chase of Ohio and Colfax of Indiana to come in and stump for Lincoln; The Tribune printed and distrib

Beauty and the Bath

CONTESTS proposed to glorify the American girl have just about exhausted every department of pulchritude, it seems to us, except one.

There's still another idea for a beauty contest, which we pass on willingly to you promoters in search of an idea. Call it the "lettuce-crisp girl" or "Miss Meticulous," or spread it over an even dozen and call it "the 12 daintiest" or "the 12 most exquisite." Call it anything you choose, but let it incorporate the idea implied in the foregoing titles.

Perhaps, in the mad desire to be thought chic and smart, women put more energy and thought into dress than into this far more potent charmer, "exquisite cleanliness." Perhaps, under the persuasive influence of cream and beauty lotion selling, soap, as a cosmetic unrivaled, is overlooked. In any event we'll just repeat what we heard at a recent lecture regarding this glorification of women.

"I claim," challenged the man speaker, "that a girl or woman who manages to bestir an apple blossom or white lilac memory in the masculine mind needn't care a rap whether her dress is a this year's number or a last year's one, as far as response is concerned.

"And that memory registration is accomplished purely and surely by exactly what the lilac and apple blossoms suggest, the rain-washed scent on a spring morning and the clean, clear beauty of the blossom!"

• • •

In less poetic terms that means an exquisitely clean person with an ever-so-delicate scent a-trailing.

It is one beauty appeal that can be practiced with the least cost to any individual. Yes, there are women who'll conscientiously and religiously perform the face-creaming rites daily; whose tinted nails bespeak a hand pride, and whose hair bears the imprint of chic professional grooming. Yet their heavy Turkish bath towels hang unused day after day on the bathroom bars. It's true, believe it or not, you others who couldn't put on a morning frock without first having your tub or shower!

Make your bath a real cleansing rite. Add one of the delightful bath products that soften, scent, or bubble it.

This is the year, this is the summer to put on your best clean-crisp act. Be a fanatic on the subject. Be fanatic about hair and scalp cleanliness especially.

Have a bath plan. The best plan known for this lettuce crispness of which we speak is the warm, sudsy bath at night, pressing into active service good suds and a good bath brush, letting no quarter escape the cleansing rite. Watch that upper part of the back between the shoulder blades, where, know it or not, blackheads and pimples easily develop unless the area is well scrubbed.

Don't just hop into the tub and out again. Make it a real cleansing rite. Add to your bath water one of the delightful bath products to soften, scent, or bubble your bath. Or depend upon your good soap, which is an effective cleanser. In the morning, rise a couple of minutes earlier so that you may know the brightening, perspiration and odor removing effect of a shower. Let the shower be warm if you can't take it cold, but try to graduate the shower water so that it is coldish.

Be fanatic about hair and scalp cleanliness especially.

Lincoln and The Tribune

The paper's coverage of the debates was on a scale unprecedented in the west, and possibly in America, up to that time. Horace White, who was later for a few years to be The Tribune's editor, was in charge of the reporting. He wrote the leads, and Hitt's copy passed thru him. His work still has high historical value.

White wrote in after years how he traveled "thousands of miles" with Lincoln. Of the series of debates he said: "I think this was the most important intellectual wrestle that has ever taken place in this country, and that it will bear comparison with any which history mentions. Its consequences we all know. It gave Mr. Lincoln such prominence in the public eye that his nomination for the presidency became possible and almost inevitable."

Thruout The Tribune carried on a fire of editorial comment and urging that kept Lincoln in the most favorable light. It declared that Lincoln had more logic and "Douglas was greatly overrated as a debater." It said the senator was "consistent only in his efforts to extend and perpetuate slavery" and to hold on to his office.

Excerpts from other editorials, bearing on the 1858 senatorial fight, follow:

"From first to last he [Lincoln] has preserved his well earned reputation for fairness, for honor and gentlemanly courtesy, and more than maintained his standing as a sagacious, farseeing, and profound statesman." "Give us a man of the people—plain Old Abe Lincoln, who commenced life as a plow-boy and wood chopper. . . . Give us an Illinois man for Illinois—a nonslaveholder for nonslaveholders—a laborer for the laborers — an honest, fearless, upright man for all."

Election day came. In the northern agricultural regions it was wet and cold. Much of the Lincoln voting strength couldn't get to the polls. There was another unfavorable factor. State legislative districts were not fairly apportioned; some estimators held that it would take 1,000 votes in the north to offset 750 in southern Illinois (this meant for the election of legislators, who would choose the senator). And the Douglas strength was in the south.

LYMAN TRUMBULL

The results were close. The Republican state ticket won by 3,800 votes, but Douglas won a majority of the legislators and was formally chosen for a new term when the assembly convened in January.

In this stroke of adversity The Tribune stood by Lincoln. On Nov. 10, after the results became known, an editorial declared Lincoln had "richly earned, tho he has not achieved, success—he has done in the cause of truth and justice what will always entitle him to the gratitude of his party and to the admiration of all who respect the high moral qualities and sound intellectual gifts that he has. . . . Mr. Lincoln, at Springfield, at peace with himself because he has been true to his convictions, enjoying the confidence and unfeigned respect of his peers, is more to be envied than Mr. Douglas in the senate. Long live Honest Old Abe!"

Lincoln, on his part, understood what the unqualified support of the most influential journal of the northwest meant to him. He later acknowledged that without this support he would have been overwhelmed by Douglas. We can only speculate on what a severe beating might have meant to his future; on whether it might have made his nomination for President impossible and changed the whole course of American history.

In June, 1859, Lincoln sent The Tribune a letter, inclosing a draft for a year's subscription. He wrote:

"I suppose I shall take the Press and Tribune so long as it and I both live, unless I become unable to pay for it. In its devotion to our cause always, and to me personally last year, I owe it a debt of gratitude which I fear I shall never be able to pay."

The original of that letter may be seen and read in the lobby of Tribune Tower.

(The Tribune's campaign to make Lincoln President, and its support of him and the Union thru the tragic, trying days of the Civil war, will be dealt with in succeeding articles.)

Springfield, June 15. 1859

Press & Tribune Co.

Gentlemen

Herewith is a little draft to pay for your Daily another year from to-day– I suppose I shall take the Press & Tribune so long as it, and I both live, unless I become unable to pay for it– In its devotion to our cause always, and to me personally last year, I owe it a debt of gratitude, which I fear I shall never be able to pay.

Yours very truly

A. Lincoln

LOOK RADIANT THIS SUMMER—

With this Glorifying Shampoo that reveals up to

33% MORE LUSTRE IN YOUR HAIR

BE carefree this summer—knowing you can have your hair looking lovely despite sticky heat and dust—for this beauty-freshening Special Drene Shampoo sweeps away that limp, perspiring summer-dulled look . . . And actually reveals up to 33% more lustre and brilliance in your hair—whether it is blonde, brunette, titian or gray. Leaves your hair with an enchantingly different feel—smoother and silkier! And easy to dress after washing.

Up to 33% More Lustre Proved

At Procter & Gamble's experimental beauty shop, women had half their hair shampooed with Special Drene, the other half with a fine soap. Their hair was then dressed, both sides equally flood lighted and compared under a sensitive Lustre-Meter. Results plainly showed that Special Drene-washed hair reveals up to 33% more lustre and brilliance than soap-washed hair.

You see, Special Drene uses a newly discovered cleansing ingredient that does not combine with the minerals in water as soaps do to form "bathtub ring"—the cloudy film that makes hair look dull and drab. So no lemon or vinegar rinse is needed. Moreover, Special Drene gives far more lather than soap even in cool, hard water. Removes all dirt, grease and loose dandruff quickly and safely.

No wonder many hairstylists recommend Special Drene. And so many thousands of women use it—it's America's largest selling shampoo. Ask for it at your beauty shop. Or get Special Drene in the blue and yellow package at all beauty counte.s. Don't be without this wonderful aid to radiant hair this summer.

Biting Hand That Fed New York

Stench of Restaurant Racket Not All in Bombs Used by the Gangs

By CRAIG THOMPSON and ALLEN RAYMOND

(Copyright: 1940: By Craig Thompson and Allen Raymond.)

THE TOP MAN in the New York restaurant racket, just under Dutch Schultz, was Julie Martin. His real name was Julius Megilowsky. He was a graduate taxi driver who had found he could get more money for half the work by collecting from the speakeasy proprietors the sums they paid Schultz for beer.

This Julie Martin was an ambitious gangster, and daring enough to rob his gunman boss, Schultz, of enough money to open a restaurant. He had a trio of waiters, Paul Coulcher, Aladar Retek, and Charles Baum. Coulcher was an old Russian revolutionary who had been exiled in the years following 1905 and had been active in the Waiters' union. So Coulcher, Retek, and Baum began to make trouble in local 16 of the Waiters' union and finally an election was called at which they stood for the union offices, Baum as president, Coulcher as secretary and treasurer, and Retek as business agent.

Martin's slate lost, whereupon he strong-armed the election board into holding another vote. This time he won.

• • •

Julie decided he needed more than just the Waiters' union because its members did not work in cafeterias, and there were a lot of these to be victimized; therefore he and Sam Krantz went to see Irving Epstein, Max Pincus, Abe Borson, and a tough little Irishman named John Williams, who were the officers of local 302 of the Cafeteria Workers' union. Martin asked Epstein how he thought he'd look without any ears. Epstein, who had a face like a billiken anyway, decided that it could not be improved by subtraction. He said so.

"Well, you don't have to do anything except what we tell you to do," Martin comforted him, and went away.

The four officers of the Cafeteria Workers' union were quite disturbed about this visit and went to see a lawyer. The lawyer was David Goldstein, whose brother Jonah was a magistrate. That made them feel better.

After figuring that maybe Goldstein had influence enough to protect them, and that maybe Martin's threats were only a joke, they pulled a strike on a cafeteria in upper Broadway. Martin knew the minute the strike was on. He collected $2,000 from the cafeteria owners to stop it. He told Pincus and Borson to stop the picket line.

Hearing that they had refused, Martin walked up to a restaurant table where they were having some coffee while the picket line tramped up and down in the front and pointed a gun at Pincus. He also threw a card upon the table bearing the name "James J. Hines."

Irving Epstein Abraham Cohen
Cafeteria union officials.

"You can go to the police; you can go to the district attorney; you can do anything you want to do," he said, "but it won't do any good. Jimmy Hines will protect us."

Pincus, who was almost paralyzed by the sight of the gun, went out and told the pickets to go home. So then the four of them, Pincus, Borson, Epstein, and Williams, talked it over and went once more to see the union's lawyer, Goldstein. They told him that the racketeers were trying to take over the union and he, curiously enough, told them that while they could go to see the district attorney if they wanted to, he didn't think it would do much good. Unable to decide what to do, the four officers all went to Buffalo, New York, to see Edward Flore, the president of the International union of which both local 302 and local 16 were parts. Pincus told Flore that he had a mind to quit his union office.

"You wouldn't quit under fire, would you?" asked the high-minded Mr. Flore.

"It ain't you they're firing at, it's me," replied Pincus.

Then all four of them came back to New York and thereafter took orders from Julie Martin—Schultz's foreman.

• • •

There was a croupier named Philip Grossel. This croupier was a snappy dresser with a face like the man in the collar advertisments. He was just the man for Martin to use when he set up the Metropolitan Restaurant and Cafeteria Owners' association in a swanky layout in 1860 Broadway, with a board room and paneled walls and a modern bar where the victims of his shakedown could get a free drink in return.

(International photo.)
Police haul in a New York restaurant striker.

Martin made Grossel the front man there, with a lawyer named Abraham Cohen to help him, and another lawyer named Hyman Vogelstein to help Cohen.

All was set—and the restaurant racket began to swing into the big money. The Metropolitan Restaurant and Cafeteria Owners' association went out and lined up members. The list of victims read like a page in the classified telephone directory and the prices they paid to avoid stink bombs and strikes were high and fancy. The racketeers took Lindy's, famous as a place where big shot racketeers, sporting and theatrical people hung out. Lindy's not only paid $6,050 but Leo Lindeman, the owner, put Coulcher on his pay roll for $150 a month to do nothing. The Brass Rail paid $5,000. William Lowenstein, who ran the Stewart-Willow chain of cafeterias, paid $36,250. Steuben's tavern paid $17,000. The Foltis-Fischer chain was good for $9,975; the Tip Toe Inn for $10,500. There were many other contributors, but all New York knew these.

The racket singled out Jack Dempsey's place, opposite Madison Square Garden, for a victim, and the union pulled a strike to force the ex-heavyweight champion of the world into line. This was grand advertising. For Jack, who was used to signing contracts for his fights with the photographers' flash bulbs popping all around, called in the photographers when he signed the contract for membership in the Metropolitan Restaurant and Cafeteria Owners' association, too. The racketeers were so proud of that picture that they didn't insist on Jack paying the $4,500 shakedown they had marked him for. All the men in the trade thereafter could see how powerful the association was, which made it easier to collect the other shakedowns. After seven weeks, the association didn't even insist on Jack paying his $5 a week dues.

The way the racket was worked was simple. Coulcher, or Epstein and Williams, would call on an employer and present a union contract with impossible terms. They usually asked for 100 per cent increases in pay for all the help, and a lot of expensive changes in working conditions. Then Louis Beitcher, the collector, soon followed up and proposed to the deeply disturbed restaurant owner that he could settle the union difficulty for whatever figure the racketeers had agreed the prospect should pay. If the restaurateur said no, he got a picket line. If he still said no, a thug named Mully Kramer would come along a day or two later either at noon time or in the evening, when the place had its biggest crowd, and standing in the doorway would toss in a stench bomb. The fumes of the stuff would drive all the diners out, and if the owner still didn't capitulate the dose was repeated in a few days. It didn't take long to drive all his customers away forever, and most of the prospects signed quickly.

Jack and Mrs. Dempsey dine out, away from the restaurant that put Jack in the path of the racket extortionists.

Some of the restaurant owners went to the district attorney's office while the aged and enfeebled Thomas C. T. Crain still had that office, and insisted on action. The entire racket setup was indicted, and David Goldstein appeared as the defense counsel for the union members of local 302. The case was postponed from one time to another until William C. Dodge, Hines' own hand-picked district attorney, was elected to the office, after which it was ineffectually tried by the prosecutor's office, and an acquittal resulted. The racket went profitably on with the same people doing the same things for which they had been indicted.

Charles Baum Aladar Retek
Waiters into union officials.

When Martin hired Beitcher, early in 1933, he outlined his plans. He told Beitcher that one by one he was going to take in all the unions in the restaurant and cafeteria industry in the city, and then he would take in a warehousemen's and trucking union, and so be in control of the city's food industry.

Unfortunately for Martin, however, he got into a quarrel with Schultz and was murdered before his plans could be brought to fruition. The murder of its leader was just an incident in the onward march of Schultz's restaurant racket, for Krantz took over and kept on with the shakedown operations.

It was not to be broken until 1937 when Thomas E. Dewey, as prosecutor, convicted its leaders on his route toward convicting Jimmy Hines. It was at the trial of the restaurant racketeers that the story of the racket was first told the public by fear-filled witnesses whom Dewey persuaded or forced to testify. One of the most fearful of these witnesses was little Max Engler, who, as the keeper of the Arlington hotel, where Louis (Lepke) Buchalter kept his headquarters, also was host to Krantz. Engler had been called as a witness against Lepke in the fur racket trials and had failed to identify him.

His fear was still riding him when he took the stand against the restaurant racketeers. Those on trial were Cohen, Vogelstein, Coulcher, Retek, Baum, Epstein, Williams, and Grossel, Beitcher having pleaded guilty and Krantz and Kramer being fugitives. After giving his testimony, in which he identified most of those on trial as having visited Krantz or telephoned him, he told how Krantz came down one day and said, "Let's go for a ride." Engler went, his heart in his mouth. Krantz drove him, he related, over to the office of the employers' association and took him up to see Cohen and Grossel, its officers. "Make Engler a director," Krantz instructed them, and thereafter Engler was a director.

Then Cohen, the lawyer aid of the racket, conducting his own case, cross-examined Engler.

He shook his finger under Engler's nose and shouted, "And didn't you give your testimony because Mr. Schilback (Milton Schilback, one of Dewey's assistants) told you you would be indicted if you didn't?"

The long suffering Engler broke loose. He had been holding back his emotions too long to hold them any longer.

• • •

"Cohen," he shouted, "you were the first person to tell me I was going to be indicted. You told me that and you told me you had inside information, and that all the board of directors were going to be indicted, and I went down to Mr. Schilback and I said you said you had inside information that I'm going to be indicted, and I said I'm come down here and I said, 'Mr. Schilback, I'll tell you everything I know and I'll lay the cards on the table,' and before I went down there you, Cohen, were the only person who ever said to me I'm going to be indicted. I was in that thing in fear of my life, and I had a hard time those years, and I suffered those years, and I was in fear of my life, Mr. Cohen, and you know it. I feared bodily injury and you know it. Don't you try to railroad me, Mr. Cohen. You know it costs me my life almost being with you all the time at night."

Nobody made any effort to stop this tirade from the witness stand. Cohen may have had an idea of stopping it but he was so dumfounded that he stood with his mouth open, his lips and jaws moving as if in speech, but with no words emerging.

The lawyer, and all other defendants in that racket trial but one, were convicted, and the restaurant racket as New York had known it was broken.

Lovely Brides Thrilled by this Great New Improvement in Beauty Soaps!

Camay now Milder than other Leading Beauty Soaps—Gives More Abundant Lather in Quick Time!

EVERYWHERE women are talking about this wonderful new Camay... finding in new Camay the beauty soap to help them in their search for greater loveliness!

And no wonder—for new Camay is superior to other leading beauty soaps in three important ways. We proved this by actual tests against six of the best-selling beauty soaps we could find... proved that new Camay was milder than any of them... gave more abundant lather in a short time... had a thrilling, new fragrance that almost 2 out of 3 women preferred!

If, like many beautiful women, you have a skin that seems sensitive, try this wonderful new Camay. See for yourself how much its extra mildness... its more gentle cleansing... can help in your search for a lovelier skin!

Mrs. Ernest Bockhorst, Louisville, Kentucky

"This new Camay is wonderful," says Mrs. Bockhorst. "It's so amazingly mild—the mildest beauty soap I've ever used. It actually seems to soothe as it cleanses. Women like myself, who take extra care of their skin, must be really grateful to you for giving them such a mild soap."

This Lamb is Sure to Go

Okra and pearl barley are a change from potatoes and peas as an accompaniment for broiled lamb chops.

Veal Roast Is Another Favorite

By MARY MEADE

LAMB CHOPS are one of our choicest meats. Cut thick and broiled until brown and puffy outside and pinkly tender within, they are as appetizing as a juicy steak. Parsley potatoes and buttered peas accompany them to the dinner table more often than not. There is likely to be a little monotony in this triumvirate, so instead of peas and potatoes let's accompany lamb chops next time with okra and fluffed barley.

Cook the chops under moderate broiler heat for best results, and allow about six minutes to the side for one-inch chops. You'll have to wait slightly longer for thicker ones.

To cook okra, wash it well and trim the stem ends, leaving the pods intact so that the juices won't come out. Cook in boiling salted water until tender. Drain, season with melted butter, salt, and pepper, and add a dash of lemon juice or vinegar if you like. You may add canned tomatoes to the cooked okra if you wish, heating the two vegetables together for serving. This is a time-honored and delicious combination.

Slice roast veal round thinly whether you serve it hot or cold. And try cold veal in a salad or two.

Drop pearl barley into boiling salted water and cook until tender. Drain and serve it as you'd serve rice, with seasonings and butter. It's good with gravy, too, you might remember when cooking it to accompany roast meats such as lamb, beef, or veal.

The veal roast in the picture is the round, a cut which can be purchased in any size which suits your family's appetites. Roast it uncovered on a rack, at 300 degrees. When your meat thermometer reads 170 degrees the roast is done. If you haven't a thermometer, ask some one to get you one for your birthday, and allow 25 to 30 minutes to the pound for the meat.

I like to lay strips of bacon over a veal roast while it is cooking, for it is a lean meat. The retail meat dealer will lard a veal roast for you if you ask him to do so.

Serve veal hot or cold, but slice it thinly. Or cube it, when cold, to go into a salad. Try this combination some time: Equal parts diced veal, pineapple, celery, and bananas, mixed with mayonnaise seasoned with salt and mustard. Serve the salad on lettuce and garnish it with ripe olives. I think you'll like it!

Gems of American Eloquence

● American eloquence has played an important part in the history of our country. From a long list of famous speeches The Tribune is selecting gems of American eloquence which are being presented in this, the Graphic Section, every Sunday. The content of these speeches is important both historically and politically. Persons learning to speak in public will find in them helpful lessons. Speakers and writers can learn a great deal from studying their style. This is the fifty-third of the series.

DR. DAVID RAMSAY was a distinguished patriot, an eminent physician, and a historical writer of renown. In addition he was widely known as an orator. In the war of independence he was seized by the British and held prisoner in St. Augustine, Fla., for 11 months. After the conflict he returned to his home at Charleston, S. C., later to serve with distinction as a member of congress. He died May 8, 1815, from a bullet wound inflicted by an insane man. The following paragraphs are from Dr. Ramsay's celebrated oration on the subject of the cession of Louisiana territory to the United States:

"Within the limits of the ceded territory we know of more than twenty independent tribes of Indians. As long as powerful nations of Europe had access to these untutored savages the peace of our frontier settlements was exposed to a variety of contingencies. In the two last wars in which this country was involved with France and England the blood of our inhabitants shed by savage hands flowed in a thousand streams. In every period of American history the nations of Europe, regardless of morality and religion, have always availed themselves of the aborigines in destroying each other and also the colonies of rival nations.

"In gaining the affections of the savages the French were preeminent. Figure for yourself what would have been the situation of our frontier settlements on the western waters in case of a war with France, while her emissaries had the numerous tribes of Indians in Louisiana firmly attached to her interests, and ready when called upon to make war upon our dispersed and defenseless inhabitants.

DR. RAMSAY

"These Indians are now all our own—included in our limits, and so far dependent on us that no other nation can interfere with them. The cession of Louisiana has wrested the scalping knife and tomahawk from their hands and laid the foundations of perpetual peace by giving us every desirable opportunity for introducing among them the blessings of civil and social life. They are now thrown on our humanity and generosity.

"Mysterious Providence! We, the people of the United States, who less than thirty years ago were the subjects of the British king, are now the independent proprietors of this soil; and that portion of it which we originally possessed is more than doubled by a recent cession of territory in which are numerous tribes of Indians, whose ancestors owned this whole country from time immemorial, before any one of ours had set his foot on American ground. Trusting in the virtue of my countrymen, and warranted by the present and past exertions of our rulers, I am confident that these hapless natives will have no cause to regret, but abundant reason to rejoice in the change which has taken place.

"The voice of every good man should be raised in favor of our red brethren. The common Father of them and of us calls upon us to impart to them the superior blessings which we enjoy. The competition of rival nations, bidding against each other for their friendship, is now no more. We have the whole field to ourselves, and a glorious field it is: in which we may, and I trust will, sow the seeds of knowledge, of virtue, of useful arts, of civilization and religion: and that these will grow up and flourish till they yield a plentiful harvest of human happiness. To transform savage warriors to peaceful farmers—to convert their tomahawks and scalping knives to plowshares and pruning hooks—to turn them from the worship of evil spirits to the worship of the true God—from the absurd rites of pagan idolatry to the mild principles and practical virtues of Christianity—is a godlike work. For the execution of it the extension of our boundaries gives us facilities we never had before and which I trust will be improved for the best purpose."

In these words, uttered more than a century ago by a man little known today, are the reflections of a noble mind and a generous heart. In Dr. Ramsay's day many Americans looked upon Indians as the creatures of the devil, without rights worthy of recognition. But the Charleston physician, as his words disclose, saw in them a race to be assisted into the light of civilization. Measured by present-day standards, this address seems only commonplace, yet a close scrutiny of it reveals that it is clear and concise and presented with an excellent choice of words.

"Want to cut dishwashing work in half? HERE'S A GRAND NEW WAY TO DO IT!"

This Amazing PATENTED NEW SUDS Leaves Glasses and Dishes So GLEAMING BRIGHT that Wiping Is Practically a Waste of Time!

WHY, MIDGE-- I'VE NEVER SEEN SUDS LIKE THIS IN OUR HARD WATER! WE'LL BE THROUGH IN NO TIME!
I'LL SAY WE WILL! THIS NEW DREFT IS POSITIVELY MIRACULOUS! JUST A GOOD RINSE AFTER THEY'RE WASHED --THAT'S ALL!
YOU MEAN--LEAVE THE DISHES NOW-- AND FINISH THEM AFTER WE COME BACK FROM THE SHOW?
NO--THE DISHES DON'T HAVE TO BE WIPED! THEY DRY GORGEOUSLY BRIGHT WITHOUT WIPING THEM!

I CAN'T BELIEVE IT! WHAT MAKES THIS DREFT SO DIFFERENT?
LOOK AT THIS DISHPAN. NOT A TRACE OF A SCUMMY RING! DREFT NEVER FORMS ANY HARD-WATER SCUM TO BE POLISHED OFF THE DISHES!
AFTER THE SHOW
HEAVENS! IT SPARKLES LIKE A JEWEL! THERE'S REALLY NO POINT IN POLISHING IT!
THAT'S RIGHT--AND SO IT TAKES ONLY HALF AS LONG TO DO THE DISHES! AND DREFT IS SO MILD YOU DON'T HAVE TO WORRY ABOUT YOUR HANDS.

Simple Test Proves Dishwashing Advantages No Soap in the World Can Offer!

NO words can do real justice to Dreft's miracles in dishwashing . . . so make this simple test yourself:

Wash one glass in the soap or flakes you now use—and another glass in Dreft. Rinse them both thoroughly and let them dry without wiping.

The soap-washed glass will be coated with a dull, clinging film of hard-water scum. But the glass washed in Dreft will shine with crystal-clear brilliance—even though it hasn't been touched with a towel!

This test will show you why Dreft is different from any soap you ever used! In fact, so different, the Government has patented it! So different, it offers dishwashing advantages no soap can promise:

1. RICH SUDS IN HARDEST WATER . . . 5 times more suds than any soap . . . making dishwashing easier than ever! 2. NO "SCUM" TO BE POLISHED OFF DISHES because Dreft never forms this clinging film—even in hardest water! Dishes dry lustrously clean by themselves . . . and your work is cut in half!

Dishwashing the new, better Dreft way now costs less than ever! Start using this miracle suds tonight! Procter & Gamble

In the New, Bigger Package
25% MORE DREFT AT THE SAME PRICE!

The same wonderful Dreft—but now you get 25% more for your money! And along with Dreft's extra economy, remember this: No soap in the world offers Dreft's hard-water dishwashing advantages!

Science's Part In Swing—Picture Story of How Records Are Made

1 The story of making a phonograph record starts actually in India and the Dutch East Indies, where are gathered the minerals used to make the recording disks. But the real manufacture starts with the recording. Here Maestro Hal Kemp and his vocalist, Janet Blair, demonstrate orchestra's part.

2 Surfacing the disk on which the recording is made. This surface is a thin coating built up on a metal base.

CUTTING TOOL

3 For safety's sake a simultaneous recording is made upon a thick plastic disk which, after the record is completely processed, is ground down smooth and used again.

SAPPHIRE CUTTING POINT

4 As the orchestra plays the two disks revolve at the speed your phonograph will turn the finished record. A sapphire cutting point on the recorder cuts the spiral groove into the thin plastic surface in response to electrical impulses picked up by the microphones. Here an engineer watches the cutting thru a microscope.

5 The cutting completed, the original disk is silver or gold plated and submerged in a copper-plating bath. After about 14 hours a shell of copper 2/100 inch thick is formed, called the master. This disk has ridges where the original has grooves. It compares to the original negative from which photographs may be printed.

6 To preserve the master disk a duplicate, called the matrix, is cast by means of a "mother" mold made off the master.

7 The matrix is chromium plated and soldered to a copper disk. This is put in a machine that centers the turntable hole exactly.

8 Matrices for both sides of the finished record are put in a press, the labels face down on each matrix, and a plastic "biscuit" placed on the form. The engineer here is affixing the top matrix.

9 The biscuit is pressed and the finished record comes out—labels pressed right into the surface. This record is then trimmed and polished and put in the inspection line. After all casts have been made the master and the matrix are filed in a library for possible future use.

When Worming for Tape, Round (ascarid) and Hook Worms

You Cannot Worm Your Dog WRONG

—if you follow the sound, "no-guess," commonsense Pulvex Worming Method.

The Pulvex Worming Method (embodied in every package of Pulvex Combination Treatment Worm Capsules) insures your worming your dog properly for those worms . . . even though you've had no worming experience. It is so sure that many breeders of champion dogs say the Pulvex Worming Method is the method the average dog owner should use. Here's why—

Your dog can have Tape, Round (ascarid), Hook or any combination of those worms at the same time. Your dog should, therefore, always be wormed for all those worms whenever you worm him.

Contrary to common belief, no single-type capsule made can expel all those three worms. Two distinct types of capsules must be used. Each package of Pulvex Capsules contains two types of capsules which, when given a few days apart, will expel Tape, Round (ascarid) or Hook Worms—not just one or two kinds of worms.

Avoid worming your pet wrong for those worms. Worm only with Pulvex Capsules. Packaged two ways: for puppies; for dogs. Either type 50c. At Drug, Pet, Dept. stores.

Mostly About Dogs

By BOB BECKER

A Willing Watchdog Not Always a Good Guard

ONE DOG about which there is much confusion and misunderstanding is the guard or watchdog. The following letter from a reader is an example of that misunderstanding:

"I have just moved to a farm and would like to get a dog. I have two boys, aged 5 and 2. I would like a dog that is a good watchdog which will be good to children. What breed of dog would it be best to buy?"

The writer of this letter evidently has the idea there are only a few breeds which make good watchdogs. As a matter of fact, there are dogs of any number of breeds which in time become devoted to their homes and instinctively take over the responsibility of looking after them. On the other hand, there is a big difference between a dog which naturally develops into a vigilant guard dog and a beautifully trained animal which has been taught to do a scientific job of guard work.

One of the most valuable attributes in nearly all dogs is their loyalty to those they love and to the home which gives them shelter. Some pets are so alert at night and so much on guard during the day that they sound an alarm when there is any strange noise around the home or when a stranger steps into the yard. Wire-haired terriers, Scotties, Welsh terriers, Pekingese, Boston terriers, Airedales, Irish terriers, and many other medium-sized and small breeds are in this class. Without any systematic training they develop valuable guard dog instincts.

The trouble is that many of these small pets are permitted to carry their watchdog tendencies too far, with the result that they consider everybody who comes to a home fair game and they attack when they shouldn't. This fault is due to lack of direction and training on the part of the owner. Deliverymen, meter readers, and salesmen are acquainted with dogs of this type, which are examples of uncurbed, untrained animals. Such dogs do a good job of protecting the home if the owner isn't afraid of alienating all his friends and being taken to court for harboring a vicious dog.

A convict who (after being released from prison) wrote a book on his experiences in crime said that the best protection against burglars and other prowlers is a dog that barks when it hears strange or suspicious noises in and around a home at night. This is not a surprising statement, because it is obvious that no intruder cares much about forcing his way into a home when there is a dog (of any size) barking furiously and running around awakening everybody.

The Welsh Corgi is one of the smallest of the herding dogs and in recent years has been given a boost because of the Corgi pets owned by the British royal family.

The dog which is alert and barks thus is a good watchdog, but he isn't a guard dog in the strictest interpretation of the phrase. Any number of breeds will instinctively turn into watchdogs like this. We once owned a terrier that literally roared his defiance when some one knocked on the kitchen door. He never bothered any one who was admitted by a member of the household. But we noticed that tramps who came to that door and heard this dog always went away—a good illustration of how even a small dog has a way of warning strangers.

Among the breeds which have been used for many years to guard homes, aid the police, and guard live stock are the shepherds, Doberman pinscher, Great Dane, collie, boxer, and schnauzer. Therefore the person who is interested in buying a dog primarily as a guard should consider these breeds and others in the working dog group and then take steps to train the dog or have it trained. It is expecting too much to think that any dog of these breeds can be taken into the home without training and fulfill all the functions of a guard dog.

To see one of these trained guard dogs perform is a liberal education for any dog owner, because the animal is under such perfect control, responds to commands so quickly, and has learned so much about how to disarm and hold a thug that its performance is nothing less than amazing. We have seen dogs with this special training, and when we watched them attack a make-believe car thief we couldn't help thinking of what a difference there is between such educated animals and dogs which have learned to watch a home by instinct. The former knows when and where to attack. The latter all too often is out of control and never has been taught to distinguish between friend and foe!

We know of no magic system of picking a dog that will turn out to be a little watchdog around the home—a pet that is eager to guard the home and sound an alarm when the occasion demands it. Altho scores of breeds can do this sort of job, there are individuals in breeds that do not have any of the watchdog instincts in them.

DOG NOTES

Eight hundred men and women in the United States and Canada are licensed by the American Kennel club to judge in dog shows staged in this country. Most of these are eligible to judge one or several breeds, only 71 being permitted to pass judgment on all of the 108 recognized breeds. Most dog show judges come from the ranks of experienced breeders, but there are exceptions. There are some who have never bred dogs but can place dogs unerringly. It is possible that a new judging system, developed by an English engineer, may considerably alter judging procedure in the future. The engineer, Seth G. Malby, had little knowledge of dogs, but had often been told by his wife (a breeder of Scottish terriers) that judges varied considerably in their placing of dogs. Malby devised a scoring system based upon the standard of the breed, and despite his lack of background in the dog field was able to place dogs consistently to the satisfaction of breeders and other judges.

Television has been introduced into American dog shows, and trained dogs find it puzzling but understandable. At a recent show in New York City television engineers experimented with dogs taking part in the obedience tests. The owners spoke their commands from a remote corner of the building, and the dogs watched and listened before the receiving sets in the center of the arena. Some of the dogs responded immediately; others seemed bewildered.

One of the comparatively new developments in the dog field is the practice of nose printing dogs. Two men in New York City have found that the pores on a dog's nose are as distinctive as a person's finger prints and that no two noses are the same. The men have set up offices and will accept dogs for nose printing, the prints and other means of identification to be kept on file in case the dog is lost or stolen.

Know Your Camera

By ANDREW B. HECHT, Ph. D.

(Managing Editor, Popular Photography Magazine)

Flash Bulbs Helpful in Daylight

Direct sun rays give the two children an interesting backlighting, while one flash bulb illuminated them from the front to record faces and clothing.

One flash bulb transformed this beach picture from a mere silhouette into one showing fully illuminated detail.

AN ENTIRELY new and successful technique of picture taking has been developed during the last year or two. It is "synchro-sunlight" photography, meaning a combination of sunlight and synchronized flashlight.

Flash bulbs have been described as "canned light," and you will frequently find uses for it even outdoors and in daylight. Take, for instance, a dull day. No matter how hard you try, you will not be able to get brilliant highlights in your outdoor portraits, because all you have to work with is diffused daylight from a cloudy sky.

But use a flash synchronizer and a single flash bulb and you will be able to place highlights wherever you please, creating the effect of direct sun rays. This freedom of placing your light where it is needed is often reason enough to use flashlight even in brilliant sunlight. When the background or other local conditions prevent you from placing the model in such a position that you can utilize direct sun rays to good advantage you can always replace them by flash.

While the synchronized flash guns are attached to the camera, you do not have to shoot your flash bulb from the camera position. You can attach an extension cord with bulb socket and reflector to the flash gun and fire the bulb from any position. Naturally you can also use several extensions, firing two or more bulbs in different positions, thereby creating a wide variety of lighting effects.

One of the main uses of synchro-sunlight is to get a well balanced picture of a subject which is partly in brilliant sunlight and partly in the shade. If your subject stands under a tree, on a porch, or in a semidark doorway and you want to photograph details in both the face and the background, you must use daylight plus flash. You could expose long enough for the details of the face, but then the background would be overexposed. Or you could give a shorter exposure for the background, but that would leave the figure in the shade underexposed.

Synchro-sunlight is the solution. You set your shutter so that you will get a correct exposure for the bright background. But when you shoot you also fire a synchronized flash bulb which will lighten up the foreground and record all the detail in it. You must be careful not to overexpose the foreground with your flash. Follow the instructions you get with the flash bulbs. They tell you how to set diaphragm and shutter when you fire the bulbs from given distances.

• • •

If you photograph an interior in daylight and want the scenery beyond the window to show in the final picture, you can follow the same method described. But be careful to avoid reflections of your flash from the window panes.

Some of the most interesting pictorial effects can be achieved by backlighting — by having a light, shining from behind, outline the contours of your subject. In synchro-sunlight photography there are two ways of doing this. You either use sunlight for frontlighting and place a flash bulb behind your subject to give you the backlighting, or you use the sun for backlighting and light up the shaded portions of your subject with a flash bulb on or near the camera. This latter method is the simplest, because in most cases it is not necessary to use the flash on an extension.

There are many other uses for synchro-sunlight. When taking pictures under trees you can overcome the disturbing effect of sun spots with the aid of a flash bulb. If you shoot an interior from outside — for instance, when photographing a building with the entrance door open or when shooting a car with people in it—your flash bulb and its reflector will throw additional light on the darker portions of the scene, making the shot possible. You can photograph even falling rain by backlighting it with flash.

It is not only possible to use filters in combination with synchro-sunlight, but this technique gives excellent effects. All you do is set the shutter to expose the clouds properly and fire simultaneously a synchronized flash bulb.

Synchro-sunlight will open up new possibilities for your picture taking. If you want to be truly independent of the weather and get the most out of your camera you should try it.

With the sun at right the other side of this model would have photographed practically black. A synchronized flash bulb balanced the lighting.

A Miracle of the Springtime

By BOB BECKER

OF ALL the songbirds that come up from the south to nest around our homes and delight us with their songs, no species manages to get on such friendly terms with us and become such a favorite as the American robin or robin redbreast. Starting early in the spring, they usher in each day with cheerful song. When it's time for nesting the robins build their sturdy homes close to us and indicate in many ways that they like us and are sure we like them. On a lawn, in the garden —no matter where these cheerful birds are—they give the impression that they know everybody in the neighborhood and everybody knows them.

When a pair of robins have chosen their nesting place the male immediately drives off all other robins that threaten to invade his nesting area. The nesting site may be on a building or in a small tree or shrub near it. Sometimes the nest may be 15 or 20 feet above the ground. Some birds, however, choose nesting sites not more than six or eight feet above the ground. Last summer we watched a pair of robins build their nest in a tall bush next to a dog kennel and raise their family in it, altho the female bird had to incubate her eggs not more than seven feet above the kennel yard where dogs constantly were kept. This was proof of the robin's absolute confidence in his human and canine friends.

In building their nests robins usually use mud. The foundation is made up of coarse grasses and stems of small plants. The birds commonly use very fine grass with which to line their nests. The female is the hard worker when it's nesting time, because she usually builds the nest alone. The male merely acts as a "straw boss" who does little actual work in the construction of the family home. A little later, however, when the young birds are out of the nest, the male makes up for this early indifference to his obligations. The female robin soon leaves her family, and then the male bird puts in long hours watching over the young ones and feeding them. The fledglings do not learn to feed themselves at once, so it's a common sight to see them follow the male bird around on lawns and in gardens as they clamor for food.

You Can Get Quick Relief From Tired Eyes

Why suffer from burning, smarting eyes? Murine brings quick, amazing relief. Your work is hard on the eyes, so try this easy way that thousands know to ease the irritating discomfort you feel when your eyes are tired and overworked. Just put two drops of Murine in each eye. Right away its cleansing, soothing action begins to help you. Murine contains seven scientifically blended ingredients, far more effective than the one ingredient of boric acid solutions. Murine is alkaline, so pure and gentle it is often used in the tender eyes of babies. Because there's no messy, wasteful eye-cup to bother with, Murine costs little to use, especially in the large economy size. Take care of your eyes—use Murine night and morning, whenever your eyes feel tired. You, too, will praise this modern way to relieve eye fatigue.

Maxwell House Coffee was served to distinguished guests, just as I serve it today. Our family has enjoyed this famous coffee ever since it was first created by Joel Cheek, who was our neighbor."

SAYS Mrs. William Morehead, Jr.

lovely hostess of Nashville, Tenn.

And today THE NEW MAXWELL HOUSE IS RICHER, MELLOWER, MORE DELICIOUS THAN EVER!

BOB: "This is what I call good coffee, Jane! Really rich and mellow . . . the way a man likes it!"
MARTHA: "Yes, indeed—this is the best coffee I've ever tasted, Jane! May I have a second cup, please? . . . And please tell us what kind it is!"

JANE: "Why, it's the New Maxwell House. You know, Maxwell House has been a tradition in our family for three generations . . . and today, it's better than ever!"
MARTHA: "Gracious, it's hard to believe they could improve Maxwell House—but they certainly have!"

AND HERE'S WHY millions are cheering for the New Maxwell House: You see, it has been improved in two important ways. First, the famous Maxwell House blend has been made even better . . . enriched with extra-flavored coffees from the plateaus of Central and South America . . .

THEN, these choice coffees are roasted by the Radiant Roast method, which brings out, as never before, all the full, rich flavor of this marvelous blend.

Maxwell House Coffee comes to you roaster-fresh, its rich goodness sealed in the super-vacuum, Vita-Fresh can. No air can get in—no flavor can get out! There are two grinds—Drip and Regular. Get Maxwell House today—see why it has more friends than ever in its history!

FOOMOUS PEOPLE
WE'RE HAPPY TO INTRODUCE PENROD Z. TUMTHACK
THE RENOWNED ARTIST WHO DRAWS ALL THE CONCLUSIONS THAT PEOPLE JUMP AT.

WELL, SPRINKLE MY SARONG WITH STARDUST-- --AREN'T YOU TH' LITTLE RAY OF SUNSHINE! JACK MUST STILL BE IGNORING YOU!
I'LL THANK YOU TO MIND YOUR OWN BUSINESS--I'M NOT TH' LEAST BIT INTERESTED IN JACK--I HATE HIM!!
OH, YEAH!
I'VE BEEN WATCHING YOU TRY TO MAKE JACK FALL FOR YOU--I'M WARNING YOU--LAY OFF--JACK IS DIXIE'S FIANCE----- AN' ALSO, WHILE I'M IN A WARNING MOOD--
--JACK SAW YOU SOARING NEAR THUNDERHEADS AGAIN YESTERDAY --NOW YOU STAY AWAY FROM THOSE THINGS--THEY'RE MURDEROUS!
YOU'RE JUST SAYING THAT BECAUSE I'M OUT TO SET A NEW ALTITUDE RECORD--AND YOU DON'T WANT ME TO WIN BECAUSE I'M A GIRL!
MEN PILOTS JUST CAN'T TAKE IT IF A WOMAN BEATS THEM-- BUT I'M GONNA SHOW YOU THAT WE'RE JUST AS GOOD FLIERS AS MEN!!
DON'T BE SILLY, JOY--I'VE NOTHIN' AGAINST GIRL PILOTS --BUT YOU'RE TOO INEXPERIENCED AT THIS GAME TO TRY TO OUTSMART TH' ELEMENTS!
WHEW! WHY DID I EVER TAKE TH' JOB OF TEACHING GLIDING TO JOY? SHE JUST WON'T BE CAREFUL!
I WISH SHE'D NEVER FOUND OUT ABOUT UPDRAFTS AROUND YOUNG THUNDERHEADS!
ARE THUNDERHEADS DANGEROUS?
FORMING THUNDERHEADS CAN HELP A PILOT ASCEND RAPIDLY-- --BUT HE MUST KNOW TH' ELEMENTS SO HE CAN RECOGNIZE DANGER!
A FULL GROWN THUNDERHEAD COULD SUCK A GLIDER UP INTO IT AN' TEAR IT TO BITS!!
WHILE JACK AND DOWNWIND ARE AT BREAKFAST ~~~
HEY, YOU! AS SOON AS I PUT A BAROGRAPH IN MY SAILPLANE, WILL YOU GIVE ME A WINCH TOW OFF TH' MOUNTAIN?
SURE, MISS JOY--- JUST SIGNAL WHEN YOU'RE READY!
LATER:
I'LL SHOW THOSE CONCEITED MALES A THING OR TWO---I'M GONNA SET A RECORD THAT'LL MAKE 'EM ALL SICK---
--IF THEY THINK THEY CAN SCARE ME OFF WITH FAIRY TALES ABOUT THUNDERHEADS, THEY'RE CRAZY--- --MM-M-- WHAT AN IDEAL DAY FOR SOARING--PLENTY OF CLOUDS---AND THUNDERHEADS!
WOW! THESE THUNDERHEADS CERTAINLY DO HAVE THE UPDRAFTS-- BUT THEY AREN'T DANGEROUS --THEY AREN'T HURTING MY SHIP!
ZACK MOSLEY
JUNE-9
BUT AT THIS INSTANT, JOY IS NEAR THE BOTTOM OF A FULL GROWN THUNDERHEAD--AND IS BEING SUCKED UP INTO THE JOWLS OF A GNASHING MONSTER OF THE SKIES---

PATRICIA DREAMED of a SWEET JUNE HONEYMOON—BUT!...

PATTY WAS SO NERVOUS AND EXCITED OVER THE WEDDING
STOP PULLING, MARIE. OH—I FEEL SO KEYED UP!
SHE DIDN'T NOTICE THE NERVOUS PERSPIRATION, BUT IT CAUSED NERVOUS B.O.
(NERVOUS BODY ODOR)
AND THE HOT JUNE WEATHER JUST MADE IT WORSE
THE HONEYMOON
WHY DOES HE SIT 'WAY OVER THERE READING! COULD I HAVE HURT HIS FEELINGS?
HOW CAN I HINT ABOUT 'B.O.'? MAYBE I CAN SUGGEST SHE TRY MY SOAP— LIFEBUOY
I'M USING LIFEBUOY NOW FOR MY DAILY BATH— NO CHANCE OF 'B.O.' FOR ME! IT'S SO REFRESHING— MILD, TOO!

Patty's Wise Use of a Soap That's Different

HOT, sticky days—nervous, emotional moments—both cause perspiration. Next step is horrid "B.O." that can lose a job, spoil a friendship or a marriage.

"B.O." is inexcusable. Because it's so easy to prevent! Lifebuoy Health Soap in your daily bath makes you safe from "B.O." Lifebuoy is the different soap—it contains an exclusive hygienic deodorizing ingredient. There's a wonderful pick-up for body and spirits in a Lifebuoy bath, too. Lifebuoy's generous lather is so lively, so tangy, so refreshing. Get Lifebuoy today—you'll love it!

HOW'S MY SWEET WIFE TONIGHT?
SAME AS USUAL, DARLING—
THANKS TO MY DAILY LIFEBUOY BATH

BETTER CHANGE TO LIFEBUOY TODAY!

Lifebuoy in your daily bath prevents "Nervous B.O."

Contains exclusive hygienic deodorizing ingredient

More people use Lifebuoy for their bath than any other soap

My washer almost went on strike!

HEY! WHERE DO YOU THINK YOU'RE GOING?
I'M GETTING OUT OF HERE. I'M SICK OF TURNING OUT DINGY WASHES JUST BECAUSE THE LADY-OF-THE-HOUSE USES AN OLD-FASHIONED SOAP
I'VE GOT GOOD NEWS FOR YOU! I HEARD HER ORDER A BOX OF THE NEW 1940 RINSO
THAT'S GREAT! THE NEW RINSO HAS A SPECIAL "SUDS-BOOSTER". WATCH ME STRUT MY STUFF NOW!
LATER
GOSH! THE NEW RINSO GIVES UP TO 3 TIMES AS MUCH SUDS AS THOSE LAZY OLD-FASHIONED SOAPS I ONCE USED
PSST! DIDN'T I TELL YOU THE NEW RICHER RINSO IS A FAST WORKER?
I'M PROUD TO HANG UP THIS WASH. IT LOOKS AS MUCH AS 10 SHADES WHITER. AND THE COLORS ARE SO BRIGHT!
BOY, RINSO'S CREAMY SUDS SURE LOOSEN DIRT FAST... AND THEN RINSE OUT SO QUICKLY AND THOROUGHLY, IT'S GRAND!
I'M THE NEW "TOP-SPEED" RINSO. I'M THE ONLY SOAP RECOMMENDED BY THE MAKERS OF 33 LEADING WASHERS—YES, 33! I'M GREAT FOR DISHES, EASY ON HANDS, TOO

HE'S AT HOME, JUDY.
MR. BEAR! HOW DOES A FELLA GET OVER THERE?
I'LL SHOW YOU.
I'VE ALWAYS WANTED TO GET OVER ON YOUR SIDE OF THE CANYON.
JUST BE CAREFUL NOT TO SLIP OFF, THAT'S ALL.
IF YOU CAN DO THAT, I'D THINK YOU COULD GET OUT OF THE ZOO.
I COULD, JUDY, BUT HERE'S THE WAY I LOOK AT IT— IF PEOPLE STAY ON THEIR SIDE OF THE DITCH, I'LL STAY ON MINE.
OF COURSE, WHEN I INVITE SOMEBODY IN, THAT'S DIFFERENT.
FAIR ENOUGH.
I HINTED, DIDN'T I-?
HOW DOES IT SEEM TO BE WHERE PEOPLE CAN LOOK AT YOU ALL THE TIME?
WELL WE LIKE PRIVACY BUT NOT TOO MUCH OF IT.
YOU CERTAINLY HAVE A LOT OF FUNNY PEOPLE TO LOOK AT EVERY DAY.
AND THEY'RE ALWAYS SAYING SUCH FOOLISH THINGS. YOU'D BE SURPRISED.
IT MUST BE NICE TO HAVE FOLKS STAND AROUND AND ADMIRE YOU.

YES, YOU HEARD ME — TAKE THEM ALL OFF.
CHESTER GOULD
GIVE THE GUARD ALL YOUR DIAMONDS, MAMMA. WE'RE MOVING YOU TO THE WOMEN'S PRISON TOMORROW — AND ALL YOU'LL NEED OVER THERE IS BLUE DENIM.
IF I COULD ONLY GET MY HANDS ON THAT LITTLE PUNK, JEROME! HE ABANDONED ME — HE DITCHED ME — HE THREW ME OVER!
NOW, THAT'S A FUNNY THING, SISTER! I WAS JUST THINKING, I'D LIKE TO GET MY HANDS ON THAT LITTLE MAN, TOO. COME ON! WHERE'S HIS HIDEOUT?
IF I KNEW — I'D TELL YOU. THEN YOU COULD BRING HIM HERE AND I COULD BREAK HIS NECK IN THE PALM OF MY HAND.
OUT AT THIS TIME, LET US LOOK IN ON THE BIG ROUND-UP AT BAR-N RANCH, MANY MILES AWAY.
AND NOW, LADIES AND GENTLEMEN, LET US BRING YOU MIGHTY MIDGET JOE ATOM — THE TOUGHEST LITTLE COW-HAND IN THE WORLD.
YE GADS! HOW DID I EVER GET INTO THIS?
UP YOU GO, ATOM — AND AT 'EM! YOWEE!
I'VE NEVER BEEN ON A HORSE BEFORE IN MY LIFE — OW!
I SHOULD HAVE GONE TO THE BIG HOUSE. THAT'D BEEN A CINCH!
YI
I DON'T DARE JUMP — I'D BREAK MY NECK. — IF ONLY ONE OF MY GANG WAS HERE TO DRILL THIS PLUG!
LOOK OUT! HE'S BOLTING THE ARENA.
WHAT'S THIS? OH, YOU WANT TO RUN? OKAY! IF THAT'S THE WAY YOU FEEL, I'LL RIDE YOU.
I'LL RIDE YOU AS FAR AWAY FROM THIS PLACE AS YOU CAN GO. WE'LL MAKE A GETAWAY. BUT STICK TO THE HIGHWAY.
AFTER YOU'RE OUT OF WIND, I'LL DITCH BOTH YOU AND THESE FANCY DUDS! THEN I'LL PUT UP AT A TOURIST CAMP! THIS IS MY BIG BREAK.

IT'S MY NEW SUMMER ENSEMBLE— WHAT DOES IT LOOK LIKE?
IT LOOKS LIKE ABOUT THREE WEEKS WAGES TO ME, MAMIE.
IF I HAD TO WAIT UNTIL YOU BOUGHT ME ONE, I'D BE RUNNING AROUND IN A BARREL.
SAY, HONEYBUNCH, WHERE ARE YOU GOING?
HA! DON'T YOU WISHT YOU KNOWED?
I WONDER WHAT SHE'S UP TO. NOT THAT I'M CURIOUS OR SUSPICIOUS, BUT-
HEY! WAIT, UNCLE WILLIE! IS THERE A FIRE OR SOMETHIN'?
HUMMM- THINK I'LL GO SEE THIS MOVIE MYSELF. KEEP QUIET, KAYO, I DON'T WANT MAMIE TO SEE US.
WILL YA GET ME A ICE CREAM CONE IF I DO?
THERE'S MAMIE SETTIN' DOWN-STAIRS, UNCLE WILLIE.

GRAND PRIZE

WINNER EATS WARD'S!

PRETTY ROSE MAY ROBSON'S youthful charm and sparkling health were worth an even $1000 to her! For that was the amount of the Grand Prize in the New York News "Beautiful Child" Contest, which Rose May won.

"Mother says that $1000 should buy all the Ward's Tip-Top Bread I can eat for the rest of my life!" laughs 12½-year-old Rose May. "But I don't know—I eat an awful lot of it! I think Tip-Top is the swellest-tasting bread I ever ate! Mother says, too, that it helps give you the kind of nourishment and energy you need to look your best—the kind everybody needs to be a winner! Guess I'll eat more Tip-Top than ever from now on!"

EMINENT CHILD PSYCHOLOGIST AGREES!

DR. J. S. LIST, well-known authority on child health and psychology, says: "Two things every happy, healthy, normal youngster should have are: plenty of good fun and plenty of good food! Ward's Tip-Top Bread is an excellent food for growing children because it's packed with the sort of quick-energy that helps boys and girls become real winners at school and play. And no other bread is so wheaty and appetizing!"

SO THEY HAVE MY FATHER A PRISONER—AND ALLAN PARKER IS GOING FOR THE SOLDIERS—THERE IS ONLY ONE ROAD THROUGH THE MOUNTAINS AND I BELIEVE MR. PARKER AND I WILL MEET—
HM—LOOKS LIKE A TREE HAS FALLEN ACROSS THE ROAD—I'LL MOVE IT IN A JIFFY—
THIS LITTLE BOTTLE OF ACID WILL BE THE MEANS OF OUR ESCAPE—IT WILL MELT THESE BARS IN A FEW SECONDS—
ONE MOMENT MR. PARKER—I WISH TO SPEAK TO YOU—
FAH LO SUEE—FU MANCHU'S DAUGHTER—
BE CAREFUL OF THAT DYNAMITE—DACOIT—WE SHALL NEED IT FOR ALLAN PARKER'S SUPRISE PARTY—
YOU HAVE MY FATHER PRISONER—BUT NOT FOR LONG—GET BACK IN YOUR CAR—WE SHALL GO FOR A LITTLE RIDE—WHAT ARE YOU UP TO?

THE DRUMS OF FU MANCHU
LOOK, SIR NAYLAND! PART OF THE WALL HAS FALLEN AWAY—AND IT SEEMS TO BE SOME SORT OF A PASSAGE
IT MIGHT LEAD US TO SAFETY, ALLAN
AS THE DRUMS OF FU MANCHU THROB CAUSING THE CEILING OF THE TUNNEL TO GIVE WAY, ALLAN PARKER AND SIR NAYLAND SMITH HAVE GIVEN UP ALL HOPES OF ESCAPE — SUDDENLY
THE TOMB OF GHENGIS KHAN
AND HIS SCEPTRE AT LAST—
NOW THAT MY ENEMIES HAVE GONE TO JOIN THEIR ANCESTORS, WE MUST CLEAR THE PASSAGE TO THE TOMB AND GET THE SCEPTRE— THEN I CAN INDUCE THE NATIVES TO REVOLT
NOT SO FAST FU MANCHU—WE ARE STILL VERY MUCH ALIVE—NO THANKS TO YOU—
NOW THAT WE HAVE THE SCEPTRE WE MUST CAPTURE FU MANCHU BEFORE HE MAKES AN ATTEMPT TO SECURE IT FROM US. HE MUST STILL BE OUTSIDE LOOKING FOR THE TOMB
LATER — AT THEIR HEADQUARTERS IN THE HILLS—
WHEN FU MANCHU'S MEN LEARN THAT WE HOLD HIM PRISONER THEY'LL COME TO HIS RESCUE—AND WE HAVE ONLY A FEW MEN—
I'LL TAKE THE CAR AND DRIVE TO THE POST FOR A SQUAD OF SOLDIERS, SIR NAYLAND

IMAGINES HE CAN SWIM LIKE A FISH.
HUH! SWIM? YOU CAN'T SWIM ANY MORE'N A RABBIT
I CAN TOO SWIM! I SWUM FOUR TIMES UP TO THE DAM AN' BACK.
WHY, IF I WANTED TO I COULD SWIM FROM HERE DOWN THE MISSISSIPPI RIVER.
I'D SWIM RIGHT OUT INTO THE OCEAN AN' YOU BET THE SHARKS WOULD HAVE TO HUMP SOME TO CATCH ME!
AN' IF A BIG STORM CAME UP THAT WOULDN'T BOTHER ME ANY. I'D JUST LIKE IT!
I COULD GIVE THE DESTROYER A GOOD HOT RACE TOO!
I COULD DO A STEVE BRODIE OFF THE STATUE OF LIBERTY
I COULD DO SURF RIDING ON A BOARD
AN' IT'D BE JUST FUN FOR ME TO SWIM UP WHIRLPOOL RAPIDS
IF I GOT A GOOD START I COULD SWIM RIGHT UP NIAGARA FALLS!
AN' I BETCHA A MILLION DOLLARS I COULD SWIM UNDER ANY BATTLESHIP— JUST LIKE THIS!
AW GEE WHIZ, SPUD! LOOK WHAT ADOLPH WENT AN' DONE! HE TIED MY CLO'ES AN' BEAT IT!

I EXPECT TO BE ABLE TO MAKE YOUR FRIENDS SEE THE ADVISABILITY OF EXCHANGING YOU FOR MY FATHER.
YOU'LL NEVER GET AWAY WITH IT, MISS FU MANCHU
QUICK—PARKER WILL BE DRIVING THROUGH HERE SHORTLY—
HA! HE THINKS I'M STILL HIS PRISONER— HE WON'T BE ABLE TO INTERFERE WITH MY PLANS AFTER THIS DYNAMITE GOES OFF UNDER HIS CAR—
HERE HE COMES, MASTER—
FAREWELL, MR. PARKER—

GEE! YOU'RE BRAVE TO TAKE ME HOME!
AW! S'NUTHIN'— ESCORTIN' GALS IS MY SPECIALTY— YEH MAN!
THANKS
SKIP IT!
LATER
GOSH! JOSIE! WHEN I LOOK AT YOU MY TICKER CAN'T TAKE IT.
AW, BUTCH! BETCHA TELL.
—EVEN SADIE SMOOK— BETCHA—
POW!
GAD! A GUY CAN'T EVEN BE A GENTLEMAN— EVEN!
HO! HUM!

LOVEY DOVEY

by FERD JOHNSON

DAVE, DO YOU KNOW HOW TO GET RID OF THE RATS IN MY GARAGE? THEY'RE TOO SMART TO WALTZ INTO TRAPS.
SURE. I'LL PUT A LITTLE RAT POISON IN SOME CANDY. THAT'LL FIX 'EM.
LOVEY DOVEY STAMP
PETTUMS
MOTHER
LOVEY
JUST ONE— HAPPY FAMILY ALL ON ONE STAMP FOR YOUR COLLECTION.
HELLO, PETTUMS.
I'M SO GLAD YOU'RE HOME. I HAVE THE NICEST VALENTINE FOR YOU, SWEET BOY NOW CLOSE YOUR EYES—
—AND SAY PRUNES! ♫
PRUNES ♫ ULP!
SMACK
SURPRISE, LOVEY. IT'S MOTHER!
SLAM
OH— I'M AFRAID I'VE SPOILED EVERYTHING.
OH I'M SURE LOVEY DIDN'T MEAN TO BE RUDE, MOTHER.. SEE. HERES SOME CANDY. I THINK HE HAD AN IDEA YOU WERE COMING AND BROUGHT IT ESPECIALLY FOR YOU.
DO YOU REALL THINK SO?
I'M SURE OF IT, MOTHER

BOP!
WHAT TH—?
HECK! SETTIN' AROUND TALKIN' MUSHY. WHY DONT SHE DIG UP SOME GRUB?
BAH! SO THATS TH' BIG SURPRISE SHE HAD FOR ME, IS IT? — AND HE'S GOING TO TAKE HER FOR A RIDE IN HIS NEW CAR= HA HA— HE JUST THINKS HE IS.
SAY— WHAT DO YOU THINK YOU'RE DOIN, YOU BIG HORNED TOAD.
I'M DOIN' A LITTLE WORK ON TEXAS' CAR— KID— FETCH ME THE AX—BSSSS
THAT AINT TEXAS' CAR YOU POOR SIMP— THAT BELONGS TO THAT GENT THERE
WELL I'LL BE ——
GEE! I'M GLAD TO BE BACK, JESSIE.
SO AM I, TEXAS— AND I'VE BROILED A NICE BIG CHICKEN IN HONOR OF THE OCCASION.
OH WELL, LET 'EM TALK MUSHY— I SHOULD WORRY.
I WAS JUST TAKIN THESE OLD TIRES INTO TOWN TO HAVE 'EM PATCHED UP— BUT SEEIN' AS HOW YOU'RE SO HANDY I'M GONNA LET YOU FIX EACH AND EVERY ONE, YOURSELF, DALTON— AND WHEN YOU GET THROUGH YOU CAN GIVE THE CAR A BATH AND GREASE IT AND SHINE MY SHOES.

MORT GREEN & WIFE
BY GAAR WILLIAMS
H'M WHAT DO YUH KNOW ABOUT THIS - HERE'S THAT PICTURE OF YOU EATIN' BREAKFAST OFF A TRAY IN OUR CABIN, THAT TIME WE TOOK THAT TRIP T' EUROPE.
ALBUM
COME T' THINK OF IT THAT DIDN'T GO SO BAD, LAYIN' IN BED WAITIN' FOR TH' HOT GROCERIES T' BE PUSHED IN TO YUH, DID IT ?
I'LL JUST SLIP OUT EARLY IN THE MORNING - THIS BREAKFAST IDEA MIGHT DEVELOPE INTO AN OCEAN VOYAGE. WHO CAN TELL.
NEXT MORNING EARLY
THIS SEEMED LIKE A GOOD IDEA LAST NIGHT - BUT -!- IT HAD BETTER HAVE QUICK RESULTS
NOW THEN SEE IF THAT DOESN'T MAKE YOU THINK YOU'RE ON A GRAND SHIP SAILING SOMEPLACE !
WUP! THAT TABLE'S NOT BIG ENOUGH!!
BY GEORGE - DON'T THIS REMIND ME OF LIFE ON TH' HIGH SEAS !!
WHOA - THIS THING DON'T SIT AS STEADY AS IT MIGHT
!!
WELL WHOSE IDEA WAS THIS ANYHOW!

ESTATES PROPERTY.

HERE'S THE PLACE
If you are ready to retire and live on 40 acres of land, with a forest of trees over one hundred feet high, with one stream flowing softly and quietly and another more rapid and turbulent and a fishermen's paradise. Where you are only fifteen minutes from a thriving city, yet when on this land feel like you are hundreds of miles from civilization.
Where you can plunge in a swimming pool or catch a mess of fish for breakfast. Where there is an acre of lawn green the year round.
Where there are rockwalls, pools, rustic bridges and flowers and shrubs of all kinds. Where you can be lulled to sleep at night by the putt, putt of a waterwheel and the gentle sighing of the firs and where you can be awakened in the morning by the singing of the birds and the quack, quack of wild ducks asking you to feed them.
Where there is health and happiness, peace and contentment in the very air you breathe and where the weather is never hot and never cold and where a golf course almost adjoins your estate. For full information write. Address G C 381, Tribune.

DAY by DAY on the FARM by BOB BECKER

Good Old Summertime.

June 8, 1940.

WHEN the thermometer went up into the 80s and the sun started showing its power early in the week the men on the Du Page county farm went about their chores whistling of "the good old summertime." The bright sun and summery temperatures provided such a change from the dreary, cool, rainy spring weather that every one on the farm started operating on a summer schedule. Old-fashioned straw hats made their 1940 appearance. One of the men who takes care of the vegetable plots claimed he launched the straw hat season by wearing his old "field" model early in the week.

The high temperatures have had a noticeable effect upon many of the wild flowers and flowering shrubs. The shooting stars which have been holding back their varicolored blossoms were quick to respond to the warm sun. Scores of these plants in the middle woods were in blossom this week. The wild geraniums continue to dominate the color scheme in the woodlots now that the vivid purple phlox display has passed its peak. Along the roadsides the tall yellow goatsbeard flowers are striking splashes of color. This is one of the gayest of all wild flowers. Due to heavy rains it has many flowers and thus is presenting a beautiful display.

Mosquito Peril Removed.

The warm weather following much rain may be rated a help to farm vegetation and crops, but the boys remarked this week that unfortunately it was just as big a boon to the mosquitoes. Two small ponds on which mosquitoes could breed were drained this week in order to reduce the mosquito menace. These water areas were just the type that harbor larvae until they become flying insects. The men dug a shallow canal from these ponds into a second ditch alongside one of the farm roads, thus eliminating the pools.

The goldfish which were placed in one of the large pools on the farm in order to feed on mosquito larvae represent an active unit in the anti-mosquito campaign. We looked at these fish one day this week to see how they were getting along. We found them quite healthy and apparently enjoying their new home.

Garden Plots Thrive.

A visit to the vegetable garden and berry patches on the farm indicated that it won't be long until farm tables will be garnished with fresh vegetables and delicious fruit desserts. Yesterday we visited with the gardeners who were enthusiastic over the progress of their plots. Onions already have been taken from the garden, and rhubarb pie has been on the farm menus for some time. Tender leaf lettuce is almost tall enough to be picked, and in a few days the radishes will be large enough for table use.

The farm worker who has charge of the vineyard and berry patch is especially enthusiastic about the prospects for a good black raspberry crop. He showed us that these bushes have many more blossoms than last year, and unless the weather acts up there should be an abundance of these delicious berries in a few more weeks.

MONEY TO LOAN

We are in the market for Loans on Chicago and suburban real estate. Completed buildings or to be constructed. Also FHA Loans.

HEITMAN TRUST CO.

3d Floor, Otis Bldg.
10 S. La Salle-street, Chicago.
FRANKLIN 2400.

MR. J. came to us with a "Real Buy," but only 10% CASH DOWN—too little for FHA terms.—We therefore bought the home for him WITH OUR MONEY, and after 11 months, he had paid in enough, so we got him a 20 year FHA loan on E Z payments. Mrs. J. said: "We are very happy now, because we have something worth while and the monthly payments are even less than the rent we paid before you helped us."
We grant top loans on homes up to 30 years old, 2 to 4 apartments, large apartment, store and factory buildings. Also place FHA loans up to 90% of value. We advance funds to settle back taxes, liens, to redeem property, and to close estates.
If even our top loan won't do, we will negotiate with the mortgagee or bondholders' committee to cut down overly large debts to present day levels. Low rates.

A SAWBUCK FOR A DIME!

IF YOU ARE EMPLOYED

We will give you $10 cash [a sawbuck] allowance for a dime to apply on the down payment of any car purchased from us today. NO FOOLIN'! WE MEAN IT! We proved it last Sunday to hundreds of persons that visited our gorgeous selection of 144 cars. Bring in your social security card [to verify employment], your title, or a little cash, drive a car away today.

PAY-ON-PAY-DAY

Prices and terms for June 9 only! I know it's hard to believe that you can purchase a car on terms as liberal as I advertise. BUT, please remember, if you're employed, and your credit is O. K., select today, drive away and pay on pay day.

COURT EXTENDS BAN ON SALE OF UTILITY ASSETS

PORTLAND, Ore., June 8 (AP).—A federal court injunction restraining the Chase National bank of New York and the Harris Trust and Savings bank of Chicago from selling collateral of the Portland General Electric company has been extended 90 days.

Representatives of the banks and Ralph King, utility company attorney, agreed to the extension. The banks' attorneys complained, however, that the order tying up the stocks and bonds backing more than $5,000,000 in Portland General Electric notes challenged financial integrity and should be settled as soon as possible.

Packard Gets 4 Million Marine Engine Contract

ORE MOVEMENT ON LAKES NEARS ALL-TIME PEAK

Every Available Vessel Placed in Service.

Cleveland, O., June 8 [Special].—A new all-time lake ore shipping record will be established this month if freighters continue their present loading rate, vessel operators reported today.

All available tonnage has been rushed into the trade, according to the operators, and the boats, aided by favorable weather conditions and prompt dispatch at the docks, are making round trips in near record time. Orders continue to mount and many vessel men expect the rush to continue thruout the navigation season.

A number of freighters that have been taking bituminous coal on return trips up the lakes now are unloading ore at this end of the route and returning to Lake Superior light. This practice enables the ore carriers to get back up the lakes at least a day earlier.

Record Is 10.8 Million Tons.

The present record for loading ore in a single month is approximately 10,800,000 tons, established in 1937. Last month the ore fleet transported 7,244,549 tons of ore to lower lake ports as against 3,601,453 tons in the same month last year. Shipments for the season up to the start of this month aggregated 7,709,218 tons, compared with 3,658,251 tons a year ago.

Bituminous coal shipments in May set a new all-time record of 7,746,181 net tons, eclipsing the former mark of 6,753,574 tons by almost 1,000,000 tons. The heavy movement is expected to taper off in the next few weeks, but shipments in the week ended June 3 totaled 1,632,668 tons as against 894,241 tons in the same week last season. Shipments for this season totaled 11,728,942 tons, compared with 3,151,455 tons in the corresponding period last year.

Fuel Consumption Rises.

With scores of vessels in commission that were idle last year, consumption of fuel coal since the opening of navigation totals 305,546 tons as against only 112,598 tons in the same period a year ago.

Grain shipments from Duluth-Superior since the opening of the season totaled 19,377,852 bushels, compared with 17,661,933 bushels last year, but there is little demand for tonnage to move grain this month. Despite the scarcity of cargoes, however, shippers will be forced to pay 3 cents a bushel from the head of the lakes to Buffalo if they want vessels, according to operators.

RUBBER AND TIRES.

American rubber companies are less securely placed as to raw material supplies than those of any other large domestic industry. Not only are the rubber factories about 12,000 miles away from their main source of crude rubber, but 90 per cent of the world's output is produced by British and Dutch colonies, technically belligerents in the present war.

The crude rubber plantations are concentrated in British Malaya, Ceylon and the Netherlands Indies. Most of the rubber has been shipped to the United States in English and Dutch vessels plying the Pacific trade routes.

If shipping in this area were disturbed by the spread of the war, or if some hostile foreign power seized the British and Dutch possessions, the damage to the domestic rubber industry might be serious.

The necessity of holding large inventories of rubber is one of the industry's major unsettling influences upon earnings. Wide swings in the price of rubber create heavy inventory losses or gains. In the last 15 years the price of crude rubber has varied widely, selling as high as $1.25 a pound and as low as 2⅝ cents.

A serious obstacle to profits in the industry has been its overcapacity for tire manufacturing. During the swift rise of the automobile industry after the last war, tire makers expanded greatly their productive facilities. The industry now has the capacity to manufacture 75 million tire casings a year, but average annual output in the last six years has been 35 per cent under this maximum.

With large inventories and overhead to overcome, rubber companies struggled to maintain volume sales during the depression by price cutting and other competitive practices which narrowed their profit margins. Because of these unfavorable price conditions and inventory fluctuations, earnings in the industry have been erratic.

Average yield on the invested capital of the five leading companies [Firestone, Goodrich, Goodyear, Lee, and United States Rubber] in 1929 was only 6.5 per cent. Return on investment in the last decade was as follows:

Yield or loss on invested capital:

	Pct.		Pct.
1930	—0.1	1935	5.7
1931	—0.8	1936	8.5
1932	—0.1	1937	5.9
1933	3.4	1938	4.9
1934	3.8	1939	7.2

Altho the importance of rubber mechanical goods, footwear and nontire products has increased and they now constitute about 40 per cent of the industry's total sales, earnings will continue to depend largely on tire sales for new cars and for replacements.

YELLOW LINES ON MICHIGAN HILLS HELP MOTORISTS

BY HAL FOUST.

Commissioner Oscar G. Olander of the Michigan state police last week suggested that the thousands of Chicagoans motoring into this summer resort and vacation state be informed of Michigan's lane and pavement markings. Such information, he said, will help the police prevent accidents on the highways that skirt the wooded sand dunes of Lake Michigan's eastern shore and lead into the land of lakes, fishing streams and cool forests.

The Michigan highway department marks by signs and by stripes on the pavements locations where it is unsafe to pass an overtaken vehicle. Illinois routes lack this safety equipment. Illinois highways are posted haphazardly "do not pass on hills or curves" but no attempt is made to identify these locations.

A Handbook Is a Help.

"Yellow lines on hills or curves," reads a handbook on Michigan rules of the road, "identify locations where it is unsafe to overtake and pass another vehicle proceeding in the same direction. They indicate by their position, with respect to the center line on two lane pavements or the lane line on three lane pavements, which direction of traffic is restricted from overtaking and passing. When the yellow line is to the right of the lane or center line, one must not overtake and pass another. If it is located to the left passing is permitted.

For example: the yellow line is to the right on the upgrade of hills and to the left on the downgrade. Passing must not be attempted when going up hill. Passing is usually permitted when going down hill."

Overtaking and Passing.

"No driver shall overtake and pass a vehicle proceeding in the same direction unless the highway is free of oncoming traffic for a sufficient distance ahead to permit overtaking and passing in safety.

"On three-lane highways, it is unlawful except when turning left to drive to the left of the center lane. On four-lane highways, it is unlawful except when turning left to drive to the left of the center line. It is therefore unlawful to overtake and pass when to do so would violate one of these rules."

FAMILIES AWAIT CHANCE TO START SUMMER TOURS

Motor Trips Begin When Schools Close.

BY HAL FOUST.

The closing of suburban schools next Friday and the closing of Chicago schools two weeks later will release tour hungry families for the long motor trips that are America's most popular form of vacation.

The recess in classroom obligations will be followed by a second motorized movement of metropolitan population. Family cars loaded with outdoor living utensils will be headed for summer homes on lake shores and in woods of Wisconsin and Michigan.

The long distance travelers will make Illinois license plates common on highways thruout America. They'll roam the national parks of the Rocky mountains, stop at tourist camps along the Pacific coast, ramble under blue skies and bright stars of the southwest, and tarry among historic environs on the Atlantic coast.

A Patriotic Education.

Today's school child, with a daddy to buy gasoline and a mother who'll make sandwiches and pour lemonade from a cold bottle in the rear seat, learns about America's geography, history, and economics from an automobile window. And parents, too—to keep the respect of their children, if for no other reason—are also learning much about their country.

This distance travel has destroyed sectionalism. In 1862, when a large portion of the population hadn't seen beyond a state boundary, patriotism in many minds meant loyalty to a native state. A 1940 tourist's patriotism is an affection for all America cultivated by personal experiences in a large part of its area.

60,000,000 Roam Highways.

The American Automobile association estimates that 60,000,000 men, women, and children will take highway vacations this year. This distinctive institution in the modern American manner of living becomes conspicuous after the schools are closed and a whole family can pack itself in a sedan. On main routes like U. S. 66, U. S. 30, and U. S. 20 crossing Illinois, a noticeably large portion of the traffic will be bearing license plates of states other than Illinois.

This recreational travel on the highways also has become a no mean factor in the nation's economics. Note in many small towns how the most active businesses are those catering to the transient motorist, the gas stations, and roadside eating houses. In Chicago, there's a rush in sales of cars, luggage, cameras, sport clothes, and equipment.

The American Automobile association estimates that annual expenditures for recreational driving have topped $5,000,000,000. The beginning of the school vacations marks the beginning of the harvest season in this big tourist business.

VOICE OF TRAFFIC

CENTRAL AVENUE BUSES.

Chicago, May 13.—The attitude of the Chicago Surface Lines bus drivers ought to be investigated thoroly and corrected. Their indifference to motorists can be called nothing less than reckless driving.

Generally I find these violators mostly on Central avenue, but Sunday, May 12, I was the intended victim of two of these unreasonable bus drivers. At 12:55 p. m., driving west in the middle of the block on Diversey about two blocks east of Central, bus No. 193 was riding the very center of the westbound lane of traffic. I could have passed on the right or left, but chose to pass on the driver's left. I operated my horn and at the same time came up alongside the rear of this bus. Did he move to the unobstructed right lane? He did not! Instead, he forced me into the eastbound lane of heavy traffic. There were no parked cars along the curb to prevent this bus from moving in that direction to permit my passing.

His action compelled me to take the bus number and note the time. At Central avenue we turned north. We had driven barely two blocks when a Central bus No. 111 appeared directly ahead. Just like the bus No. 193 this driver was hogging the center of the northbound traffic lane. Presently he nudged to the right about 2 feet and stopped to discharge a passenger. Actually he could have pulled to the empty curb. After he started moving I sounded my horn and expected him to move to the unobstructed curbside lane! I started moving up on his left side continuing to sound my horn. He too cut me off and forced me into the southbound traffic lane. This time, however, the bus skinned my car so closely that I was compelled to come to a complete stop in the opposing line of traffic.

Apparently these bus drivers have never been taught courtesy by their superiors; neither have they read section 54 of article 6 of the City of Chicago traffic code which reads as follows:

> No vehicle or street car shall be operated or allowed to remain upon any street in such a manner as to form an unreasonable obstruction to the traffic thereon.

Here then are two examples of what occurs daily on our city streets, because of the mistaken impression of bus drivers who feel that might is right. Just because of the fact that they are behind the wheel of a vehicle almost as big as a freight car does not indicate to me that they are possessed with competent reasoning to share city streets with other drivers who by law enjoy equal street privileges.

These two happenings are not just incidents. They portray a condition which I have witnessed many times on Central avenue. No doubt there are motorists who share this trouble on various other streets carrying bus travel.

Fortunately, in my case, there was no property damage or personal injury other than a spoiled disposition. On the other hand here exists only a small margin between safety and the ever occurring injurious auto accident. If Chicago's streets are the most dangerous in the country, then these bus driving road hogs and their management are much to blame.

I have talked to several off duty bus drivers and surprisingly enough they seem to be a rather normal type of individual—courteous, friendly, well groomed, and reasonable. But once behind the wheel they assume the tyrannical reins of irrational rulers of Chicago streets. However, I still believe they alone are not entirely at fault. They know only as much as they have been taught by those above them, in their own organization. It is my opinion that unless the traction utility takes such steps as are necessary to correct such driving among their own employés, the Chicago police department should caution its squad car personnel to take drastic action against these bus drivers. Surely the enormous size of a vehicle should not give it domination of Chicago's streets. B. E. PHILIPPSEN.

ROTTEN POLITICS; ROTTEN ROADS.

Chicago, June 7.—Where does all the gasoline tax money in Illinois go to?

Please don't tell me it goes for roads.

I have just returned from a 2,500 mile trip from Chicago to Paris, Tex., stopping off at points en route. We passed thru the largest portion of Illinois, Missouri, and Oklahoma, a corner of Kansas, and Texas.

To say that Missouri and Oklahoma have beautiful roads is stating it mildly. Truthfully, I would not invite my relatives and friends from southern states to drive up to Chicago. They would be well pleased with the trip until after they crossed the Chain of Rocks bridge, and then I would have to hang my head in shame because the Illinois highways are such a disgrace.

That U. S. 66 from Chicago to St. Louis is narrow, rough, and bumpy, to say nothing of it being torn up for 5 or 10 miles. And at night, with all the trucks on it, I am surprised we don't have many more accidents than we do have.

I wish some one would tell me why we can't have as good or better roads than the states of Missouri and Oklahoma.

BUFFALO ROCK STATE PARK.

Ottawa, Ill., May 26.—I note you did not mention Buffalo Rock State park in your writeup today. My, this park is a wonderful place, and many come to it from Chicago three and four times each summer.

You know, the late Richard Crane Jr. donated this 43 acres to the state about 11 years ago. And the state, with federal help, has improved this place wonderfully. We have a zoo there, 11 deer, 2 elk, and 4 buffaloes. It is just four miles west of Ottawa on the north side of the Illinois river.

We have modern conveniences there and shelters. People I have met who have traveled the world over told me no other place was as nice as this park.

I trust hereafter you will mention it. Why not soon?

Its value at the time it was donated to the state for park purposes was $40,000. It was thru me that the grounds have been improved and the zoo put there. Mr. James Crow is caretaker.

A BETTER STOPLIGHT.

Chicago, June 6.—I believe there should be an improvement over the currently used stoplights on automobiles.

The present stoplights light only when the brakes are applied. In a good many cases this does not give the driver of the following car sufficient time to apply his brakes. An accident results.

My idea incorporates the use of a flasher in the stoplight circuit which is controled by a switch installed on the accelerator. The instant the foot pressure on the accelerator pedal is relieved, the current flows thru the flasher circuit, which intermittently lights the stoplight. When the brakes are applied, the stoplight remains lit in a steady light until the pressure on the brake pedal is relieved.

The idea is simple and could be installed at a very nominal cost on new models and would require but a few minutes' time to make the installation on present models. WILLIAM J. MARTER.

NEWS AND VIEWS

The 2,000,000th car was turned out last week by the Pontiac division of the General Motors corporation at its Pontiac plant. The car, a Torpedo eight sedan, is to be shipped to the General Motors exhibit at the world's fair in New York. Officials of the company were present as the car came off the assembly line. The first Pontiac was produced in 1926. The first millionth car was completed nine years later in 1935. Pontiac this year has had one of the most successful years in its history. It is estimated that deliveries of the 1940 line totaled 155,678 units on June 1.

Hudson has been enjoying one of the best sales periods in recent years, comments O. H. Baehler, wholesale manager for Butler Motors, Inc., distributors for the Chicago district. During the first five months of this year 2,297 new Hudsons were delivered, or more than double the 1,102 in the like 1939 period. With its sales more than double those of May last year, Hudson moved up to eighth position in Cook county sales in May, 1940. Baehler says that the company got off to a good start in June.

Harry T. Hollingshead, who heads Nash Sales, Inc., Nash distributor for the Chicago region, says that motorists have one of the biggest schedules of June events in touring history. Events that should prove attractive to tourists are being held in each part of the country.

Twenty automobile salesmen in the Chicago region were among the 794 winners in a nation-wide question and answer contest sponsored by the Fisher Body division and five passenger car divisions of the General Motors corporation, William S. McLean of the Fisher organization announces. The salesmen were asked to answer all questions that buyers are asking about the new turret top Fisher bodies.

Edward Smithwick of Detroit, a National Safety Council champion safe driver, declares that among the principal causes of auto accidents is lack of courtesy. Smithwick, who has been driving Dodge trucks for 16 years, comments that "If one keeps his mind on his work and drives with all his intelligence, he can almost invariably prevent traffic hazards from becoming accidents." A simple remedy for bad auto manners, he says, is extra courtesy and thoughtfulness—never putting another driver in a dangerous position.

Dodge Is Ready for Summer
